

Cabinets Discuss Future Programs, Constitution Plans

Long range planning was the theme of the cabinet meeting of the combined "Y's" held last Tuesday evening in the home ec corner. At the meeting, the cabinets discussed schedule plans for the semester after which each cabinet convened separately to discuss revisions in their respective constitutions.

Scheduled for this evening's meeting is a worship service to be held in the College Chapel at 7:45 p.m. as a preparation for the World Day of Prayer to be held this Sunday, February 20. The worship committees are in charge of the service.

Alterations

In order to coordinate the workings of the Y.W. and the Y.M. more closely, the constitution committees headed by William Lippert and Irma Peoples have been working on changes in their constitutions. The main source of difficulty is the varying standard committees in each "Y."

For this reason the Y.W. constitution includes a decrease in their total amount of committees and also of absent members. Many simplifications in wording have also been inserted.

After the discussion by the separate cabinets, the constitutions were referred back to their committees for further revision. In order to change both constitutions, the entire student body must vote to approve of these amendments.

In addition to discussion on future constitutions plans, the combined "Y's" also talked about meeting plans (Continued on Page 3, Col. 2)

Recent Social Science Issue Carries Peace Article by M. S. Greth

Dr. Morris S. Greth, Professor of Sociology, has given Albright one more reason for pride with the publication of his article "Essentials of A Permanent Peace" in the January issue of Social Science Magazine.

In the development of his subject, Dr. Greth stresses the following points:

1. That there is a necessity for world-wide cooperation, which means recognition of ideals and values that include the whole of humanity.
2. That justice, equality, and fraternity are as vital to lasting peace as freedom.
3. That some form of international organization is necessary to settle disputes between nations without bloodshed.
4. That finally, if a just peace is to be maintained, someone must be made responsible for the enforcement of this organization.

Dr. Greth recently received notice of his election to honorary life memberships in both the American Society for the Advancement of Science, and the American Institute for Philosophical Studies.

No 'The Albrightian' Makes Boring Week

In case you've planned to spend a week translating "Marsi Dotes," next week is the time to do it. You won't even have to be worried about missing next Tuesday's THE ALBRIGHTIAN, because there's just won't be any. The reason? The official communique reads: "Increasing transportation difficulties have forced the staff of THE ALBRIGHTIAN to spend the next week learning the fine points of cadence running." Next Tuesday will be an awfully dull day.

Kuck to Address Chemical Society

Tonight at 8:15, Dr. Julius Kuck will address the Reading Chemist Club in the science lecture hall. All members of the Alchemists, as well as any other interested students, are invited to attend.

Dr. Kuck, who is in charge of the Micro Chemical Division of the Research Laboratories of the American Cyanamid Company at Stamford Connecticut, will speak upon the "Recent Aspects of Organic Micro-Chemistry." Having served as secretary of the National Organization of Micro Analytical Chemists, he will cover the field of Analytical Micro-Chemistry, a new field of research. He will also discuss under this topic the subject of "Micro Manipulations" as applied to Synthetic Organic Chemistry, and will describe most of the procedures and equipment used.

At the meeting of the Alchemists last Wednesday, February 9, the tutoring system was discussed. Last semester, the Alchemists started a tutoring system at which time they helped needy chemistry students free of charge. The service will continue with the help of several more members who volunteered. The program was centered among various chemical games. Plans for a field trip in the near future were also discussed.

Plans for Growing Albright Occupy Trustees' Sessions

Pres. Harry V. Masters

In spite of Albright's present existence, the trustees of Albright College went ahead to make plans for the future at their annual meeting last Wednesday and Thursday at the Berkshire Hotel, Fifth and Washington Sts. General sessions and committee meetings dealing with present and future problems occupied the bulk of the two-days' session.

A growing Albright emerged from the meeting as President Harry V. Masters presented to the board a general plan for the physical development of campus. The most immediate effect of this measure will be the erection of the proposed physical education building, although it is doubtful whether it can be started soon because of war priorities.

At present a quiet campaign is being conducted by the Alumni Association to raise $250,000 for the building. Over half of this amount, $125,000, has been raised to date, with $81,000 of this sum in cash.

Presenting the plan of the development of campus at the final general session, Dr. Masters announced that if conditions warrant the erection of the physical education building before the 1945 session, a special meeting of the trustees will be called to approve one of the five proposed plans for development. Next on the list of proposed changes is a new chapel or auditorium.

A nationally known firm of architects is working on the proposed campus plans. The proposal will also include changes in the women's dormitories and setting up of tennis courts and play fields. However, these arrangements are very indefinite.

In his opening report to the board, Dr. Masters stated that at present financial difficulties may arise with the Army's leaving and with the enrollment cut to one-half of its pre-war level. Equally important in the president's report were other future plans including the return of intercollegiate football. Already the Athletic Council has appointed a committee to look into the matter. Another plan in the offing is the changes in the curriculum to meet the demands of the sudden influx of students at the end of the war.

The final business of the meeting including the renaming of Judge Frederick A. Marx as president of the trustee board. Dr. Masters was re-elected president of the college and Charles A. Gordon, Jr. and Lester L. Stabler were also re-elected to their present positions of College Treasurer and Director of Public Relations respectively.

Pats, Mus Pledge 25 Women to Sororities

Twenty-five Albright women received bids to membership in the Pi Alpha Tau and the Phi Beta Mu sororities yesterday. Of this list the Mus pledged twelve and the Pats thirteen. Both sororities will induct their pledges in the spring of this year.

The following persons were bid to the Phi Beta Mu sorority: Alice Albright, Betsy Hummel, Mary Alice Lippert, Jane Miller, Ruth Rehr, Shirley Rekon, Mary Louise Schapell, Mary Beth Schofer, Elaine Schwartz, Marguerite Shalter, Louise Throste, Virginia Woelke.

Thirteen girls were bid by the Pi Alpha Tau sorority. They include: Betty Burnett, Roberta Calamara, Marion Christ, Joy Culter, Jean Ann Gaul, Anna Mae Kemery, Patricia Kramer, Elaine Kyle, Dorothy Scheib, Jeanne Schlegel, Margaret Walton, June Weidner, Mary Jane Werley.

Service Lion Tells of News, Women Found in S. Pacific

1st Lt. JOHN R. BOARDMAN writes, "Just a few lines to offer my sincere thanks to the students, faculty and Alumni of Albright for the many fine things they have done for the alumni in the service during the past year. The remembrances on different occasions throughout the year are an emblem of all the things that Albright stands for. It is a great pleasure to read The Albrightian and learn of the other men and women in the armed forces. Although by now the names and faces of most of the present students are strange they help bring back memories of the many happy hours I spent sleeping in the social room of the Kappa House.

Basketball Scores

"Please give my best wishes to students, faculty and administration. It may interest you to know that most of Albright's basketball scores are printed in the So-Fac Daily News—the mimeographed news-sheet out here.

"I also read Bill Bollinger's letter in a December issue of The Albrightian regarding the women in Washington. He should see them out here—they're either black, yellow or in-between—mostly in between. Thanks again for everything and I wish you all the best.

Dean Walton Reveals Class, Group Ratings

Dean George W. Walton released a report on the standings of the various classes and social groups on the campus last week. Standings of the seventeen groups range from B to B+. The Pi Alpha Tau sorority leads the groups with an average of 2.39, while the senior men and junior women are tied in second place with 2.42. The senior class leads the classes with an average of 2.43, and the junior class is next with 2.51.

The complete list is as follows:

P. A. T.	2.39
Senior Men	2.42
Junior Women	2.42
Senior Women	2.43
Senior Class	2.43
Junior Class	2.51

Spencer Wins Hearts of Capacity Audience With Artistry; Also Proves Congenial Host

By BETSY HUMMEL

With a warmth and depth of personality which equaled that of his great voice, Kenneth Spencer won every Albright heart in his audience last Thursday night when he gave the cultural program of the year in the College Chapel. Mr. Spencer carried his audience with him through sorrow, pain, and longing. He joshed them into a hearty laughter and made them light-hearted again. And, in spite of the spontaneity and charm of his stage presence, his broad smile always came as a disarming surprise to his receptive audience.

Mr. Spencer in an easy chair is the same as Mr. Spencer across the footlights. Other men may over-awe people with their greatness; Mr. Spencer over-awes them with his simplicity. For it was he who kept that velvet voice rolling with laughter and anecdotes when the admiring interviewer was wont to sit with her mouth open and just listen.

Strictly speaking, the basso will still be a civilian when he goes into uniform for Uncle Sam. The government has judged him more valuable on the battlefield as a morale builder than as a machine gunner. Therefore, his first khaki assignment will be a U.S.O. tour of six months duration in one of the theatres of war.

"It is so gratifying to sing for soldiers, because they appreciate so much anything you do for them," remarked Mr. Spencer as he described his last tour. A unit of five Negro men started the three-month trip at Nassau in the Bahamas and went as far south as Dutch and British Guiana. It was the first Negro unit to entertain overseas and was the result of more than a year and a half of instigating effort. Proof of his popularity there was the greeting of a soldier of the 7th C.T.D. on enroute. "Hello there, Mr. Spencer. I don't suppose you remember me from Puerto Rico, but I heard you sing down there."

In the course of conversation, Mr. Spencer discussed a significant change he felt taking place among artists and people in the cultural field. He said that artists are not something apart from real life; a singer in a concert expresses real feelings that he has in common with his audience. But he feels that it is going farther into real life than that.

Seniors Will Discuss Future Class Events

The senior class will hold a meeting tomorrow at 1:15 to plan for those things necessary to graduation. Specifically under discussion will be the topics dealing with class dues, a class dinner, a gift to the school, the possibility of a Junior-Senior Prom, and commencement announcements. Committees will be appointed by President Anthony Cagliano to investigate these matters should the class decide to consider any of them.

Since both Mr. Cagliano and Secretary Lillian Schwenke will not be able to attend the meeting, the president has asked Doris Kinsey to preside.

He pointed out that theatre people are becoming more interested in the government, even to the point of lobbying in Washington on the questions of the soldier vote, subsidies, and the poll tax. They are realizing that because of their popularity, they can have a tremendous influence on their public merely by expressing their own opinions. And they intend to use that influence for good purpose.

While his interviewer was still getting used to the fact that artists are real people, Mr. Spencer assured her that they have more fun than anybody. He said that, although they take their work seriously, the fact that they know how to express themselves makes them enjoy themselves more when they relax. On the question of hobbies — well, no — our basso just sings. But he does like to take pictures. On this point, the charming Mrs. Spencer, who accompanied her husband here, supplied the aside information that he is an excellent cook.

Just another evidence of the great kindness and graciousness which the soloist radiates was his private concert for Barbara Vigdor who was confined to the infirmary at the time of his performance. Upon hearing that she was disappointed not to be able to attend the concert, Mr. Spencer slightly staggered the faculty table in the dining room by stating, quite as though it were an everyday occurrence, that he would go over to Sherman Cottage and sing for her. And he did.

The Last Word

THE ALBRIGHTIAN would like to join in with the oh's and ah's accompanying the distribution of this year's "Cue." If there is room for one more compliment, add "We think it's swell" to the list.

But there is something more we enjoyed about the "Cue" which only THE ALBRIGHTIAN could appreciate, and that was the cooperative spirit which dwelled in the Office of Student Publications while the book was in formation. If one can judge by what former editors of THE ALBRIGHTIAN said about the "Cue" staff, things never ran too harmoniously. We can truthfully say that this year there was no hair pulling.

Naturally, there was a mercenary end to all our friendliness. For the use of our scissors and cheese pretzels, we in turn will collect many pictures (some of which are in this issue) and, if our Lions in the Ranks should forget to write, we can now issue Albright's version of the pin-up fad.

The "Cue" makes graduation seem very near, yet it will be easier to leave, assured that we can take with us a fitting likeness of Albright, the squirrels, and the gang from chem lab. It is the collection of memories we'd like to share with those fellows and gals who can't be with us at diploma time.

Fifteen Bucks Go Begging

Most of us have some pet subject about which we like to harangue. Some have the advantage of taking a public speaking course, so we have a ready-made audience upon which to thrust ideas. We discuss anything from hobbies to the shortest route to Tamaqua or how to cement spark plugs in one easy lesson. However, only a few people enjoy this privilege.

About this time of year every member of the Junior Class has a chance to blow off a little steam in the Junior Oratorical Contest for which Charles S. Kelchner awards $15 in prizes. Perhaps the word "oratorical" seems frightening to those of us who would simply rather talk, or perhaps the contest is not played up enough by its sponsors, but the fact remains that to date we know of only one person who has actually informed Prof Harding that she is interested in participating. One or two others have said that they expect to see the prof this week.

Mr. Kelchner really doesn't mind awarding the prizes; in fact, we rather think he wants to, so how about a few more entries to make it a real contest!

Yea, Team

Just in case you haven't read the sports page as yet, the Albright women's varsity squad won their first game of the season. And what a thriller that turned out to be in the closing minutes! The crowd was rooting with zest, but the crowd last Friday night consisted of no less than nine people (and no more).

We've shouted a good deal about the lack of a cheering section at the fellows' games at Northwest. At Thirteenth and Union, we have three sides of the gym and the entire stage all to ourselves, so nobody comes, probably because it's more fun fighting for a seat.

When Ursinus played here several weeks ago, they brought a cheering section — three cars filled with boosters. When the gals played at Elizabethtown, they played to a cash audience. The situation will be the same at Lebanon Valley.

Johnny Durko (the women's most loyal fan) is entertained by the sport. Even the sports editor of THE ALBRIGHTIAN says it's "different." Let's give it a second glance!

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

A mass of unsuspecting students armed with "Cues" and happy smiles were pounced on by the Inquiring Reporter with the question of the week, "What do you like best about the 'Cue'?"

Anna deFarges, '45, Psychology: From "stem to stern" the theme of Lions in the Ranks was carried out. It was written to Albrightians in the service and certainly accomplished its purpose in carrying Albright to those fellows and girls.

Rillie Lee Wright, '44, Sociology: I think the art staff did an excellent job on the drawings beneath each picture.

Mary Eschweh, '46, Science: I was glad to see the songs in the "Cue." I've been wanting to learn "The Lion's Roar" and now "I dood it."

Paul Deysher, '45, Math: There wasn't any one thing I liked above all the rest, but several things seemed to stand out to me. I liked the section on Albrightians in the service, the informal campus shots, the drawings beneath the Junior and Senior write-ups, and the poetry section — especially the one by Mary Jane Weber.

Betty Burnett, '47, Home Ec: The question isn't fair! I think the whole thing is positively wonderful!

Charles A. Russ, '46, Pre-Ministerial: The "Cue" as a whole is a very well arranged book. There is no one thing that is especially outstanding in my mind, but the symbolism behind the individual pictures of the Juniors and Seniors are unique.

Marian Christ, '45, History: Those clever, and sometimes enigmatic, drawing under the pictures.

Jane Helms, '45, Math: I liked the section of the Albrightians in the service. Without them, this book would be incomplete, for they not only helped to make this "Cue" possible, but they are also the ones who insure the publication of future "Cues."

Agnes Snyder, '47, Liberal Arts: I think it's a mighty good idea that the Cue was written for the boys in service. It makes them feel that they are still a part of Albright, no matter how far away they may be.

Helen Grass, '44, Sociology: Everything! It's wonderful! — pictures, write-ups, all the fond memories and friends here!

Ernestine Elder, Prof of Home Ec. There is so much that I like about this "Cue" that it is difficult for me to answer this question. I like the work of the art staff and I think that the selection and arrangement of pictures are very good. Perhaps what I like best is that this "Cue" shows that the staff, in compiling it, has constantly kept in mind all of those persons who have an interest in it whether they are on campus or far away.

Felice Epstein, '45, Psychology: I liked the theme of the book, particularly the idea of having a letter. Because it is a vital part of Albright. I was impressed with the section about the Seventh C. T. D.

Religion Through The Week

Geraldine Bowker and Robert Klenc, chairmen of the "Y" worship committees, have announced a tentative schedule for vespers services for the rest of the semester.

On February 20, Doris Arnes and Marian Barger will be in charge; on February 27, Elaine Kyle and Betty Anne Lutz; on March 5, Lura Heverly and Margaret Sheppard; on March 12, Joy Cutler and Ruth Ritzman; on March 19, Charles Russ and John Smith; on March 22, Geraldine Bowker and Ferne Allen; and on April 2, Earle Bixler and Professor Stanley Newhard.

After Easter, vespers will be led as follows: On April 16, Irma Peoples and Betty Burnett; on April 23, William Beal and Rillie Lee Wright; on April 30, Ruth Stirn and Betsy Hummel; on May 7, Jean Harer and Mary Jane Weber; and on April 14, Joanna Wentz and William Lippert.

He's big enough to break thru the line in a football game; he's tall enough to reach up and gingerly sink a basket; he's fast enough to make the track team; and he's shy enough to blush. He is John Durko.

Trophy cups would be far more appropriate than a bouquet to offer our Dandy-Lion since he is quite definitely not the flower-type. Durko's six foot three inch figure is a well-known one on campus. A four-letter man, he is good-natured and easy-going until he's aroused. Then, a hearty temper comes to the fore.

John is a business ad major and was an active member of the Albright Business Club when that organization existed. He expects to be an accountant after he gets that sheepskin.

Durko's chief claim to fame at Albright—and in newspapers all over the country—in his senior year, is his remarkable prowess on the basketball court. The captain of this year's squad of fighting Lions John has done himself proud as a marvelous one-hand shot from any angle on the pivot, as Bill Reedy wrote in the Reading Eagle. Durko has certainly made headlines. Though he has played flashy football and baseball and done track work for Albright, this is John's first year as a basketballer, under the colors Red and White. He was ineligible for college ball prior to this season because he had played professionally for the Reading team in the Tri-County League. However, he is very much on our side this year and has done an excellent job.

A favorite story about this strong, silent Kappa from Mahanoy City is the tale of his blushes. It all happened last January when everyone in the college Dining Hall burst into a rollicking round of "Happy Birthday, dear Durko." "Dear Durko" turned a lovely shade of red when he stood up, after much coaxing, and the crowd broke into cheers and applause. P.S.—His birthday is in July —maybe that's why John was embarrassed.

John doesn't only go in for long time intercollegiate sports. He did well at representing the campus in intramural softball and track. And his captaining of the men in the Skunk Day battle (the sexes over a hockey stick) was nothing to be sniffed at.

No more appropriate gift could be presented to this Albright athlete—than Ignatius, the "honorable" skunk and brother to Moratio.

Council Says . . .

Although the election for May Queen was held last Friday in chapel, the results will remain known only to the committee conducting the election until some time nearer May. THE ALBRIGHTIAN will carry the announcement.

Stunt Night has been postponed until Tuesday, February 22, since the Penn State Extension School had already engaged the chapel for Friday, February 18. Consequently, Student Council decided that the Domino Club could again have that date (Feb. 18) to sponsor a Student Council dance in the College Dining Hall. Short notice, but you know the Dominos!

Since no one volunteered to tackle the Student Council chapel program for February 29, the Council thrned the date over to the cheerleaders.

The faculty on council reported the progress of the proposed constitution made at faculty meeting on February 7. Yesterday a special faculty meeting was held to finish the job.

Paul Mattson was introduced as the new A.P.O. representative replacing Gerald Heilman. Among the missing were Marion Christ, Dorm Women; Marie Bonner, Sophomore Class; Warren Loesch, Dorm Men; and Polly Brossman, Mus. No, we didn't omit anyone, Anthony Cagiano WAS there.

Replacing Opal Brown, who left Albright at the end of the first semester, Minnie Silbermann was elected A. P. O. representative to the Women's Dormitory Council.

Rev. Lester L. Stabler, Director of Public Relations, was the chairman of the Kiwanis Club at their noon meeting last Wednesday held at the Berkshire Hotel. The program was sponsored by the Boys' and Girls' Work Committee, of which Rev. Stabler is the chairman. The meeting was aired over WEEU.

Six new members of Kappa Tau Chi will be inducted at their meeting this Thursday evening. President William Lippert will induct the following: Leroy Hertzog, Verner Hertzog, Jesse Newcomer, Charles Russ, John H. Smith, and Newell Wert. Dr. Virgil Zerk, fraternity adviser, will deliver an introductory talk to the new members.

The men of the Seventh C.T.D. played host to the college students last Friday night when they gave a dance in the mess hall, known to civilians as the dining hall. With the aid of college hostesses and furniture borrowed from the dorms, the soldiers made their first dance a success.

Cat Daze

A common scene in the anatomy lab these days is that of a student hard at work over a cat. Already the anatomy students have oriented themselves to the peculiar smell—which was quite easy to do after having worked on the dogfish—and have become deeply engrossed in discovering what makes Tabby purr by delving around inside her.

Nice Pussy

So that their work would be on a more friendly and less formal basis, most of the anatomists have christened their overgrown kittens. Aaron Taub seems to think that "M.G." is a fitting name for his black and white feline. Although Taub claims that any reference to persons living or deceased is purely accidental, it looks like he had a "purr-puss." It has been rumored that Prof Marcus Green is on the verge of flunking Taub, except that he can't decide which M.G. on campus the fellow has in mind.

"Mangy" refers

Ruth Plowfield refers to her gray cat as "Mangy," while Frank Cable addresses his lucky black pussy "Irwin." Jean Miller hit the jackpot with two cats. The one she calls "Smoky" and the other one she best describes as "short, skinny, and slimy"—and she's not kidding!

More Names

Bill Gray doesn't know why he calls his black and white friend(?) "Dobey;" it just seems to fit. Mae Jean Picking appropriately calls her black and white animal "Chessie." Bert Blauch refers to her partner in no definite manner. She declares that her conversation depends on how he treats her and in what mood he catches her.

Catty Remarks

The following are some of the more quotable quotes gleaned during an anatomy session with Prof Green:

"Get those bones done by Monday at 4:00, you birds, or I'll flunk you out of this course."

"Horrors, it's only 11:20."

"Oh, my cat stinks!"

"I don't like this tongue sticking out like this. It gets me."

"Girl, where's your great scapular notch?"

"Hey, my cat's mangy."

for the rest of the semester. Outstanding feature of their four-month schedule is the plan for a spring "Y" retreat. Forums, worship services, and recreational programs have been provided for.

The resignation of Gerald Heilman as retiring president of the Y.M. was read by his successor, Cecil Pottliger, former vice president, and accepted by the group. Because he is a part-time student at the college, Mr. Heilman finds it is impossible to continue as the head of the men's organization. Elected vice-president, he became president last September when Procy Jacob Wagner did not return to Albright.

As is the custom at the second semester, the Y.W. elected to their cabinet Joy Cutler and Agnes Snyder to represent the freshmen dorm and day women respectively.

Zeta Paffy Carls Is Shocked By Daintiness of Zeta House

Open House, Open House — who's having Open House? "We are!" — said the Zetas—and so they did at 3 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, February 6. Complete with Uncle Pao at the front door and "Mom" Garlach at the punch bowl, the Zetaettes (the smallest housing unit on campus) entertained approximately a hundred people with sightseeing, punch drinking, and just talking.

From the serenity and calm of "Mom's" room to the Zeta Kennels of Aida Seltzer, guests looked in awe. From the modernistic smoothness of the Vigdor-deFarges-Epstein combination to the flowery home atmosphere of the Weger-Fisher-Harer corporation, guests nodded and commented. The newest Zeta duo, Hummel-Rex, and the lone Frosh Kyle received their due in approval also.

But who was that pacing the hall and tearing his hair? Yes, poor thing—it was Paffy Carls—an honest-to-goodness Zeta, now khakiified. The drapes and dressing tables were just too much for him. Two other Zetas—Dr. Zener and Dr. Gingrich—also joined the tours of inspection.

With the absence of most of the male S.P.O.'s, the women were in high hopes of escaping the white glove test—even though they were prepared for it. But they hadn't counted on first Lt. Eddie Carpenter. What a mean forefinger he wields for inspection!

Speculation was rife on what caused so much foam on the punch but it was popular enough, judging from the mob in the "largest telephone booth in the world where refreshments are served." Before the cozy fire in the social room, the ever-present Eddie was busy collecting more autographs in his "Cue" than anyone else had had time to think about, while another Khaki-lad, Bob Mattson, was whisked through the house by Rillie Lee all in a great, big hurry.

From the lacy valentine invitations to the handshakings and "Come again's"—Zeta House was open wide. And as the guests departed, their smiles seemed to say, "Open House, Open House, let's have more Open House."

Too Few Participants May Halt Jr. Contest

The Junior Oratorical Contest, which is to be held on Friday, February 25, at 8 p.m., will determine the winners of the ten and five dollar Charles A. Kelchner prizes.

Juniors of Albright are eligible to enter the contest. Participants are to speak, for an unlimited time, on subjects of their own choosing. Those interested should register with Professor Clyde Harding, who will officiate, before February 19.

Joyce Moyer has been the only volunteer at press time. It will be necessary to cancel the contest unless two or more additional juniors appear. The affair had to be cancelled last year because only one contestant entered.

LET'S GET CLUBBY

Dominos Cast Play

Castings some of the roles in the one-act play, "The Valiant," was the purpose of the Domino Club meeting last Wednesday evening in the College Chapel. The play will be presented March 26, Passion Sunday evening.

Anthony Casiano will play the part of Dyke while Joyce Moyer is cast as the Girl. Other minor roles have not been definitely assigned.

The play is the story of the identity of a man about to be electrocuted. It gets its title from the last line in the play, "The valiant never taste of death but once."

In addition, "Resurrection," by Marcus Bach, is under consideration as another production to be given on the same date.

In order to foster more interest in volunteer war work, the Heo Club will hold its next meeting at the Red Cross Headquarters, Fifth and Franklin Sts. The meeting is open to all women who are interested in making surgical dressings.

English Majors to Spell

The regular monthly meeting of Sigma Tau Delta, honorary English fraternity, will be held tomorrow evening, February 16, at 8:30 p.m. at the home of the adviser, Dr. John B. Douds.

There will be an important discussion of club business in charge of the president, Jane Reday Kriebel. The literary program will be an old-fashioned spelling bee. The members of the program committee are Lura Heverly, chairman, Mary Jane Weber, and Paul Deyscher.

'Y's Center Program About Day of Prayer

In preparation for World Day of Prayer scheduled for the following Sunday, the combined "Y's" will have charge of the chapel service this Friday morning at 8:10 a.m. The purpose of the program is to emphasize the solidarity of students all over the world. "Y" worship committees, headed by Geraldine Bowker and Robert Klenck for the Y.W. and the Y.M. respectively, will take charge of the service.

Dr. John B. Douds, head of the English department, spoke on "The Stout Heart for the Steep Hill" in chapel today. "Lincoln as a Writer" was discussed by Professor Clyde Harding, instructor in English, last Friday.

DENNIS ERTTEL, from somewhere in Iceland, writes: "The Albrightian and its staff is to be commended for performing a wonderful service for Albrightians in the Armed Forces by keeping all informed about our Alma Mater and her Albrightians serving over the world. I wish to thank you for the paper and also for the very appropriate Christmas greeting. Please accept my wishes to the college for a successful year.

"Everything is fine and dandy with me, and under all circumstances, couldn't be any better. I've just about become acclimated to Icelandic weather conditions and I have only a memory of what the weather is like in the States. This bleak treeless country has a very small population which is highly civilized and cultured. Most of the people are of Danish descent. As yet, I have met no Eskimos? The school of higher education is the University of Iceland, at Reykjavik, which is an ultra-modern school.

"Most all the people speak some English and many speak very good English, which is acquired in school and from outside influences. The younger generation tend to adopt English and American dress while the older folk cling to their native costumes. What amazes me greatly, is that many of the Icelandic girls are accomplished Jitterbugs.

"One item in The Albrightian titled, 'Lay That Textbook Down, Babe,' interested me very much in that I am an old staunch Zeta. Just a few words to the girls. Please take good

Conferring with the referee, guarding a fast forward, or mixing a cake batter, Erma Leinbach, Albright's women's basketball co-captain, along with Eleanor Platt, will always be just plain "Worm."

Beginning her actual athletic career at 14, "Worm" was the first girl ever to receive a varsity letter in her freshman year at Mt. Penn High School. From the time of this athletic honor "Worm" continued to play basketball and in her senior year captained the sextet. She has no claim to "high scorer," having begun at guard and having stayed in that position.

While in high school, "Worm" recognized basketball as a winter sport only and devoted her interest momentarily to the women's track team.

team and member of the Phi Beta Mu team. Comes spring and Erma generously spends her spare time on the diamond participating in a game of softball—and is, incidentally, a match for almost any one of the Brooklyn Dodgers when it comes to slugging that old apple.

"Worm" is a member of the W.A.A. cabinet and received her numerals in her freshman year, her letter in her sophomore year, hopes to get her varsity sweater with the close of this semester, and next year has her heart set on obtaining that coveted award, the W.A.A. charm.

Lions Oppose Sailors In Tough Cage Battle

On Saturday night, February 19, the victory roaring Albright Lions will play host to the second service team this season when they meet the U.S. Coast Guards from Philadelphia at Northwest. Last year when the Lions engaged the guardsmen they defeated them to the tune of 59-38. The defenders this season have been highly successful, defeating court combinations from: St. Joseph's College, Haverford College Army Air Force team, Villanova, U. S. Marines of Philadelphia, and Rider College. The Coast Guard aggression vanquished the Philadelphia Marines by a margin of points exactly equal to the amount by which Albright conquered that quintet.

Tom McCollum, who last year threatened a red and white victory, will again be on hand to give the Albrightians trouble. McCollum, hailing from Southern High, Philadelphia, has not tallied less than 12 points in any one game this season and in the contest with St. Joe's he garnered 14 markers. McCollum will be assigned at the forward slot by Bob McGinn, University of North Carolina product and spark plug of the Coast Guard machine.

The home team will again tower their opponents in spite of the loss of 6' 2" Mark Guss via naval induction. The Harrismen will depend upon Big John Durko, Alfey Deach, Tiny Landis, Cooky Wagner, Sterling Rickenbach, and Red Gable to produce the necessary punch to subdue the visitors.

Probable line-up:
Coast Guard Position Albright
McCollum ..... F ..... Landis
McGinn ..... F ..... Durko

Woerle Stars For Lassies In 24-23 Wagner Victory

Jinny Woerle, star freshman, paced the Red and White forwards with 19 points to edge out Wagner College in a close 24-23 fracas. After a slow start, the Albright sextet finally tallied six points on two field goals and two line markers by Woerle. The New Yorkers scored on one counter in the opening period on Kiltgaard's foul shot.

Woerle hit her peak in the second frame to sink three field goals as Platt came through with a goal and a good free toss. Miller of Wagner grabbed five points to end the half with a 15-6 score.

In the third period, Wagner began to find the basket and showed excellent form. In the last period, the Green and White dribblers really put on the steam to take a 23-22 lead over the local gals. The Albright defense trio kept the Wagner forwards at bay as the home offense tried desperately to tie the score.

In the third period, Wagner began to find the basket and showed excellent form. In the last quarter, the Green and White dribblers really put on steam and took a 23-22 lead with only a little more than a minute to play.

The game became tense, and, with only 17 seconds remaining the Albright crew called a time out. The rest steadied the gals, and Jinny Woerle saved the day by sinking a left-handed basket, in a one-handed stab just before the whistle blew. Albright's fourth quarter slump almost lost them another game.

Lionettes to Feature Two Games at Home

Tomorrow night the Albright women will feature a double header in the 13th and Union Streets gym as the freshmen take on Muhlenberg Township High School and the varsity tackles the St. John's Lutheran Church sextet. This is the first time the frosh play the Mule gals this year. They have had only one other contest, that against West Reading, which they lost.

The second game should prove interesting, since the St. John's contingent will have two former Albright varsity women joining with them; Jean Bomgarner, '42, and Kitty Gelb, '42. The starting line-up will probably include co-captain Eleanor Platt and Lucy Grissold, both seniors, at forward. At the guard positions will be co-captain Erma Leinbach and senior Aida Matz. The two freshmen on the starting varsity, Jinny Woerle forward; and Elaine Schwartz, guard; will no doubt see little action with the frosh squad, since Coach Eva Mosser will have to call on them for the second fray.

The referees for the evening will be candidates who are seeking qualification for licensed officials. In previous years, they were examined while the women scrimmaged, but actual competition should prove more interesting.

Extra Period Brings Defeat To Locals In 49-45 Contest Parnell Leads Bullets In Fast Upset; Sparking Lions In Final Period, Durko Paces Scoring Attack

Game number 13 proved to be a jinx to the Albright College cagers last Saturday night when they dropped a heart breaking extra-period basketball game to Gettysburg College at Gettysburg, 49-45. Captain John Durko, with 28 points, did all he could to ward off the second defeat in college ranks for the Lions, but extended breaks for the Battlenfeld Boys proved too much for the locals.

Plays Last Game

MARK GUSS played his last game for Albright College last night, in the F. & M. game. He is now well under way to answering a call from the Navy. Guss was one of the main cogs in the Lion combination and his presence will be sorely missed. Bob Deach and Bill Wagner are on hand to fight it out for Marks' position.

Albright Downs Rams On Home Court 68-37

West Chester State Teachers met defeat again in their final contest with Albright on Wednesday night at West Chester. Earlier in the season the Lion's took the measure of the teachers 77-23 on the Northwest hardwood. This time it was 68-37 verdict for Albright.

The West Chester quintet kept the Red and White cagers stepping in the first half. It stayed on even terms with the five times jumped ahead of the Lion cagers by the margin of a few points. In the final two periods, the visitors crushed the home team with a smashing offensive. Captain John Durko and Mark Guss led the scoring with 20 points apiece. Bob Deach, rangy forward, put up 7 tallies for 14 points and gave a good account of himself on the defensive.

The first frame saw West Chester leading by a 9-8 advantage. As the half way mark rolled around the Rams were on the short end of a 23-20 score. At the three quarter way the Lions were ahead 38-28 and in the final 10 minutes poured in buckets from all angles of the court outclassing the Rams 30-9 and splurging into an impressive 68-37 triumph.

Vince Parnell of the Bullets vied with Durko for scoring honors with an equal number of points. Making good use of a volley of fast-breaking plays, Parnell was able to split the cords time after time with precision.

At the end of the first quarter, the G-burg lads led 10-7, while at the half, they had extended their margin to 21-16. In the third and fourth frames the Red and White hoopsters outscored the Bullets, but were only able to break even with a 38-38 tie at the finale of the fourth quarter. It was Durko who shot the basket in the last thirty seconds of play for the tying 38-38 count.

Despite hard playing by Captain Durko and Mark Guss, the game ended with Albright on the short end of a 49-45 score.

SIDE LIONS

The Lions may lose another starting guard to the armed forces in the person of Sterling Rickenbach. "Ricky" expects a call from the Navy at any time and may not be able to finish out the present season. This brings the total of first stringers lost by the Albright passers during the present campaign to five...

Since taking up his duties at this revered institution, Coach Neal O. Harris has hung up a presentable record amongst his jayvee tossers. Coach Harris has led six junior varsity clubs to an aggregate total of 50 wins and 17 losses for a percentage of .746...

Prior to the Gettysburg encounter, Albright was rated seventeenth among college teams in the east. The Lions may slip down quite a bit because of their loss to the Bullets...

The Red and White courtsters have a chance to crack another state record this year. Albright already holds the record of being the only team in the state to score over 1,000 points in three consecutive years. By racking up 56 or more counters in the following contests, the Lions can make it four years in a row...

She ran and also took places in the standing broad jump.

And then Erma came to Albright and can now be found either in a home ec lab or indulging in some kind of athletic activity. No track for her here, so in the fall she "went out for" hockey, playing center half-back in both class and varsity teams and has captained her class team the last two years.

But when the winter season comes around, "Worm" really gets "on the ball" and we find her as basketball leader. She spends a good part of every afternoon with varsity practice and games as captain of the class
