King and Queen To Reign Tonight At Mardi Gras

Profits Will Go To Social Service Fund Of Y. W. C. A.

Simple Simon met a plemian going to the fair. Said Simple Simon to the plemian, "Do you know I'm making a personal appearance at Albright College on Friday night?"

Said the plemian to Simple Simon, "Don't be simple, Simple! Who hasn't heard about the Mother Goose carnival? I've been hoarding my pennies for it all year."

There are 380 collegians on campus just like the plemian for whom the annual Mardi Gras tonight, the climax of February social events, will mean fun and entertainment, while for the Y. W. C. A. it will mean money to carry out its social service program.

Living Nursery Rhymes

The rooms of the girls' dorm will be decorated in the Mother Goose motif. Jack and Jill will be there selling lemonade. Old Mother Hubbard will divulge the contents of her cupboard. And the King and Queen of Hearts, the people's choice, will preside.

The planned entertainment will include a truth-or-consequence program with questions and consequences submitted by the students, and organized games.

Dennis Strawbridge will be master of ceremonies. The committees in charge of the Mardi Gras are: Margaret Savidge; Edna Bialek, general chairman; Marion Bittenbender, rooms; Margaret Wolfe, entertainment; Joan Belmont, publicity; and Maxine Pincus, decorations.

Debaters Return From Road Trip

A girls' debating team, composed of Verna Fye and Olga Bitler, returned to campus this week after visiting Hofstra College and University of Connecticut.

The co-eds argued the affirmative side of the proposal for a Western Hemisphere Union. Dr. John B. Douds, debate coach, accompanied the team.

Albright played host to F. & M. on Monday when Earl Stetler and Seymour Mendelsohn attacked the British-American Union plan before the students of Wyomissing High School.

Miss Esther Fenili, Spanish teacher, received her M. A. degree in Romance languages from the University of Pennsylvania at exercises in Philadelphia two weeks ago.

McKay, Mendelsohn Win Awards In Junior Oratorical Contest

To Show Movies Of Swedish Cooperatives

Motion pictures of cooperatives in action will be shown in the dining hall at 8 o'clock Wednesday night. They will include shots taken in Sweden and America.

Mr. Walton, Reading Senior High School, will be the speaker. The program is another in a series of cooperatives sponsored by the Student Industrial Group.

Work To Talk On 'Words and Music'

First Semester Tea In Library Next Tuesday

The first Library Book Talk and Tea of the present semester will be held at the library fireplace next Tuesday at 4:30 p. m.

WORDS AND MUSIC will be the subject of a talk by Robert L. Work, librarian, who has arranged the program to acquaint the faculty and students with the use of books on music in the library collection, and to prepare them for appreciative listening.

Selected passage of a critical and interpretive nature will be read and illustrated through the playing of recordings that will range from Bach to Gershwin.

As usual, tea will be served from 4 o'clock until time for the program to begin. Students, faculty, and friends are invited to attend.

Letters To The Editor

The editorial columns of this paper are open to the student body. That's the first principle of the ALBRIGHTIAN. We therefore are printing the following letters to the editor. They are self-explanatory.

Dear Inquiring Reporter:

In regard to your recent column in the Albrightian mentioning student's opinions concerning "Hell Week," we cannot see your point in asking such a few fraternity or sorority members about this ordeal. Fraternity initiation should concern those who are active members and not those who know nothing of the fundamentals. What a poorly chosen headline! Albright students do not desire initiation off campus. This is the opinion of 12 non-fraternity people and three fraternity members. What a poor basis of judgment! Half of the group were girls who already have their initiations confined to the campus. We feel that fraternity initiations should concern fraternities only and not girls and individuals who are in the good graces of the administration, or so desire.

Since when has the above mentioned group been selected to govern the social affairs of four fraternities and influence the admin-

'Peace' Is Theme Of Nine Talks

The Charles Kelchner prizes of $10 and $5 for the best orations by members of the junior class went to Arthur McKay and Seymour Mendelsohn last night.

Speaking in the chapel, the winners were opposed by seven classmates. Outside judges handed down the decision.

McKay talked on "Peace with the Propagandists"? He said it will be possible to make peace with propagandists only if one can see beyond the verbal barrage clouding the issues.

Mendelsohn's address was entitled "Temple of Peace." He presented a plan for peace based on the use of force by democracies, and the erection of a world agency for administering justice.

Other speakers and their subjects were: Marie Bertolet, "The Greatest Battle Ever Won;" Donald Blackmore, "Our Challenge in a World War;" Charles Miesse, "Peace;" William Bottonari, "America and Peace;" James Bryce, "Peace;" Dennis Strawbridge, "A Eulogy to Peace," and Verna Fye, "Peace Through the Individual."

The judges were Norman Brillhart, of the Reading High School faculty; Roscoe Ward, principal of Mt. Penn High School; and the Rev. Paul T. Slinghoff, pastor of St. Mark's Reformed Church.

All-College Affair Dropped For Year By Student Council

Junior Class Gets April 26 To Hold Its Annual Prom

The all-college affair, originally suggested to be a dinner-dance, was officially erased as a possibility this year when Student Council decided to drop the matter on Monday.

At the same time council relinquished its date of Saturday, April 26, so the junior class can hold its prom.

Albright Gets Recognition

Vincent Rusbosin, president, and Natalie Brant, council representatives at a conference of the Pennsylvania Intercollegiate Student Government Association at Penn State last weekend, said Albright will elect one of the seven members on the association's executive board next year.

They reviewed the proceedings of the meetings, and made several suggestions for improving student government.

Harrises Host To Cage Squad

Throw Feed For Team In Shartlesville Hotel

Mr. and Mrs. Neal O. Harris treated the Albright cage squad to one of those famous (all you can eat) dinners at Shartlesville Monday night. The feast was a reward for the Lions winning five straight league games. Coach Harris had promised the cagers the meal early in the season if they made good. They did. Dick Shollenberger continued his record breaking ways by downing dozens of chicken legs, breasts, wings, and gizzards. Bill McKinney took runner-up honors.

Those who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Harris, Dick Shollenberger, Bob Rhoads, Bill McKinney, Paul Petrucka, Ken Hopkins, Sam Sehl, George Horn, Paul Leinbach, Bill Spangler, Raymer Kent, Leonard Sheffer, Jim Kane, Marshall Popelka, senior manager; J. Calwell Pomeroy, junior manager; Otto Kambitz, property man; and Roy Conner, publicity writer.

Levan Heads W. A. A., Succeeds Savidge

Mary Levan was elected president of the Women's Athletic Association, succeeding Margaret Savidge, at a meeting this week. The other officers are: Jean Bomgardner, vice-president; Katherine Geib, secretary, and Joan Belmont, treasurer.

President Attends Schoolmen's Conference

President Dr. Harry V. Masters was in Atlantic City for several days this week attending a convention of schoolmen. He returned home yesterday.

That Same Old Story

Well, it's happened again. For the "nth" time a proposed all-college affair has fallen through. Preceding generations of Albright students have tried to direct the varied campus interest towards such a goal, but, in recent years especially, they have always been thwarted in their attempts.

This year's is just another. We had high hopes of seeing the thing brought to a successful conclusion and really set a mark for future student bodies to shoot at. But then again, day-dreaming is a bad thing, especially when one believes it's the real stuff.

We are not trying to learn where the fault lies because it wouldn't mean anything if we did find out. There probably would be a fancy passing of the buck from Student Council to faculty and back, leading us on a merry chase of nothing.

We do know, however, that a spokesman of the faculty told the student lawmakers they would get $100 and a lot of support from the faculty to sponsor the proposed affair, whatever it might be—a dinner-dance, a dinner, or just a dance, all details that could have been ironed out at an early date.

Council approved the plan, decided on a formal dinner-dance, proposed a set of admission charges, and appointed a committee to set the ball rolling. Student Council's suggestions were given to the faculty for approval. And from there on a hundred different stories have been offered to explain what happened.

Some tales would blame the committee for not going ahead and completing arrangements. Others are long, drawn-out, vicious stories of red tape that would put even our governmental job-getting process to shame.

But all of them evade the central issue. The facts are that the money WAS offered, the plan WAS drawn up, the student body DID show an enthusiastic response immediately after the tentative setup was announced, and that council last Monday decided "no go."

For many years these super-colossal college affairs have been proposed. Some proponents wanted elimination of all fraternity and sorority dances in favor of a "strut" with a name-band. But those ideas never got to first base. This year we had something really practical to work on and what happened? No one was willing to exert a little bit of extra energy to put the program across.

Sure it's too late now to sponsor the affair. With the Saturdays in

Have you noticed the sickness that is becoming prevalent on the campus in the last few days? They are early symptoms, but they are positively the sign of an early spring. Yes, it is "spring fever"! The old saying still holds good—"In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to"—fishing, swimming, etc. (Fooled you that time). Well, anyway, you get the drift of the thing. Some students have even gone so far as to suggest quitting school and going to the South Seas, such as the Chesapeake Bay. (Eh, Ellen!)

Talking about quitting school, reminds us to mention something about a small item in this column last week. We were just kidding about that professor "heckling"—we meant no one in particular—oh, gee (?) no!

On Tuesday evening, February 18, the Reading Chemists Club was entertained by Mr. Walter Schlegel, a metallurgist, on the "Relation of Chemistry to Heat Treating." The brilliant lecture was illustrated by slides showing diagrams of different types of steel furnaces and lists of the reactions taking place in the different furnaces. Mr. Schlegel stated that the heat-treater is looking for a deoxidizing compound which could be regenerated over and over again. He suggested that the person who prepares this compound will be rewarded in a very honored and also lucrative manner.

Here's a new angle on science—The scientific German students, under the capable direction of a junior member of the German department, are translating a text from German into English for Dr. Horn. The work deals with hormones and invertebrates. The students working under Mr. Schach are—Wagner, Morgan, Kauffman, Weidner, Pearce, Gundlach and Potter. Sehr gut, nicht wahr?

The senior chemistry majors showed their broad knowledge in chemistry in chapel this week. We should give credit to these boys—they really know their subject. The majors are—Sheffer, Walton, Yoder, Popelka, Frystack, Ziegenfuss and Winterhalter. All of the speeches were excellent, but we think the best one was Frystack's "thynthetic rubber!"

May booked up by the campus social organizations, council would be foolish to risk its neck in a shaky financial venture. But don't forget, the original proposal was made at the November 18 meeting of Student Council. And that's three months ago.

Now the word is going around that plans will be made for a dinner-dance, or some similar affair, next fall. That's great. That will give about seven months for arrangements. If the right persons get together it will be a success and there might even be a rebirth of school spirit at Albright. But if past action is any basis for prediction, well —

GEORGE'S GOOFY AB

"MANY ARE COLD, BUT FEW ARE FROZEN"

Now in the parlor meet the pair,

When the golden day is done;

Two forms with but one easy chair,

Two hearts that beat as one.

"This," murmured the demure K., as her A. nudged still closer on the sofa, "is the closest call I've ever had."

I think the reader has realized by this time that a tragedy is going out to happen. Bububurururu-huhuhuhohoho. I've found it. What? They tried to hide it in the dusty shelves of the Library, but I found it. Way in the back darkness, I found THE PUN BOOK—early 1906.

If you haven't thrown the paper over your shoulder, hold tight and I'll give you a sample of perverted wit of 1906.

General Sherman was always coolest on the point of attack. Most people are hottest when on the point of a tack.

Here's one: A Maine husband calls his wife "Crystal," because she is always on the watch.

How're you comin', stand it? Can you take more? O. K. You're asking for it: As the couple were about to elope, the young man asked, "Does your mother know you're route?"

Smith—"Why do they call that Pullman porter doctor?"

Hardy—"Why, because he has attended so many berths."

Of course you've heard about Miss — she's so proper she won't even accompany a man on the piano without a chaperone.

One statistician classes pedestrians as the quick and the dead; those who get across and those who don't.

"My sister had a fright yesterday. She had a black spider run up her arm."

(That's nothing. I had a sewing machine run up the seam of my trousers. I realize that in my case they are seams.)

Don't doubt the veteran who tells you he was always where the bullets were—the best; perhaps he was hiding under the ammunition wagon.

Then one like this: A telephone girl always reminds one of a tortured saint because there is a continual "hello" around her head. (Aren't these the Bronx berries?)

Here's one from late 1906: "You haven't a cent, and yet you wish to marry Miss Bilyan. Don't you expect her father to kick you out?"

"Oh, no, I intend to go before the foot-lights."

Money was invented when the dove brought the green-back to Noah.

All crooked bank cashiers run to Canada because that's the only place Toronto. (Horrible, isn't it; I don't know why you read it.)

And now to show you how all this has changed in the last few decades, I'll give three more recent ones so that you can see the comparison:

1—Teacher: What is geometry?

Student: A little acorn grew and grew and woke up to say, "Geometry."

The Snoopers

By Anne Onymous

Who was the girl we saw you walking home Saturday night, Wash? Do your fraternity brothers know about this?

According to Mildred Reub-samen, the motto in her home town is: "We always get our man."

We hear Peg Wolf was a perfect hostess when that friend from To-wanda visited Johnson.

Conrad Cramp's interest in Hershey isn't because he's so fond of chocolate bars. Spring is here, folks!!!

With the Frosh and Sophs:

Winnie Morgan working himself into a nervous wreck about the whole affair last Friday night. He even forgot to bring his girl friend.

Tony Caglano "Astaire" and partner, Ruth, showing the jitterbugs just how it's done.

Gerry Ross holding the center of attraction when she appeared with the Navy as escort.

President Masters in conversation with some of the basketball stars.

The Zetas starting their pledge training early—poor Burt.

Saul doing his part to make Barbara like Albright dances.

We didn't realize there was so much talent in the two classes.

Dick Shollenberger set a new intercollegiate record at Shartlesville on Monday night when he dropped a dozen chicken legs into the (bread) basket.

Did June Housman tell you about the bouquet she received from Lynn?

That anatomy assistant, Dick Reinsel, has a number of Albrightians from the dorm curious about the blonde personality charmer from Kutztown State Teachers.

Where's your fraternity pin, Marge??

P. S. See you at the Mardi Gras.

2—Teacher: Can you tell where Napoleon was born?

Student: Ah-uh-of Corsican . . .

3—A bashful young couple, who were evidently very much in love, entered a crowded street car the other day. "Do you suppose we can squeeze in here?" he asked, looking doubtfully at her blushing face.

"Don't you think, dear, we had better wait until we get home?" was the low, embarrassed reply.

Many interesting letters have been received, but I thought it better to letter ride this week.

If you're still conscious: Keep a lip upper stiff and don't forget, no matter how big or high the awning, it's only a shade above the street.

Bucknell Here Tomorrow

The Lion varsity, smarting after the knockout blow at Muhlenberg last Saturday, had to take another one to the chin when Big Big Spangler, giant reserve who had been turning in commendable performances in the last few games, was declared ineligible until his marks improved. With four tough games coming up, it looks bad for even second place in the league. By the way, we've finally conceded the crown to Franklin & Marshall for another year. But we still say our lads can take the champs in the final contest this season.

In case anyone is questioning our figures on basketball attendance for the home games, we want them to understand two things. First, the figures quoted have been given your columnist by Mr. Charles Gordon, and second, they are not the paid admissions but the actual attendance, everybody included. We hope to have the actual paid admissions at the end of the season. Our humble apologies for a misleading headline on the sport page last week. You can see what team we were worried about. We forgot about Muhlenberg, too.

George Ursevich, freshman basketball regular, is also on probation and therefore ineligible for further action on the hardwood. It looks like George Manderbach will take the big lad's place at forward. Albright has racked up 929 points in 19 contests against 806 points made by their opponents. The freshmen have tallied 330 as compared with 313 for the opposition.

Mario Nicotera, '40, is now employed at the Camden Ship Yards. The dark Italian lad had a hard time finding a job at first but he now seems set for quite a few years.

FLASHES: 76 fellows have participated in one or more inter-fraternity basketball games . . . This large number shows a definite interest in sports on the campus . . . They do deserve more attention . . . Softball doesn't seem very far off . . . Clem Boland and Roy Conner were warming up their soupbones with Dick Weber in preparation for a strong Zeta bid for the title . . . Wouldn't be a bad idea to arrange a satisfactory umpiring system right now . . . Aren't you tired of us mentioning umpires and referees? . . . We're tired of (Continued on page 4, column 2)

Lions Battle For Runner-up Spot After Dropping Muhlenberg Fracas, 51-41

Frosh Lose Thriller To Hershey, 54-52

The Bisons are coming to town tomorrow night. They'll be out to avenge the setback the Lions handed them last week when Jim Kane's last minute heave landed for a 40-38 victory.

During the last week the Red and White squad took it easy after having a cagey Muhlenberg quintet reverse the tables last Saturday night. That score was 51-41, Muhlenberg. The Allentown basketekers beat the Harrismen at their own game, out-fastbreaking the fastbreakers. The defeat ended Albright's threat for league leadership.

The only game played since then was the Frosh tilt with Hershey Junior College on Wednesday night. Hershey came from behind to cop, 54-52.

Dewey Boltz and Tony Stish were the spearheads of the Lion assault, tabbing 14 notches apiece to deadlock Jim Henry, of the Hershey forces, for the runnerup laurels.

Hershey stepped out to a 12-8 lead in the first canto and held a 29-20 advantage at the rest period. Albright went on a 17-point spree in the third chapter to grab a 37-35 bulge.

Boltz gave the Lions a 2-0 lead with a side shot and after Bill Seavers followed with an ace the rivals battled for five minutes without registering. Hurt finally broke the spell with three baskets and Seavers duplicated to offset Boltz' great display of marksmanship.

Henry sparked the hosts with seven markers to outscore Burd Miller, former Hershey performer, who hit three times in a row from scrimmage. Joe Zeock also contributed telling heaves, but Jim Aichele and George Blozar chalked up enough tallies to widen the gap by nine markers at the intermission.

Lions Forge Ahead

Boltz, George Manderbach and Stish swished the cords until the Lions knotted the count at 32-32 midway in the third quarter. Zeock finally gave the Harrismen the bulge with a long heave but Hurt promptly evened things. Lou Smith dropped in a charity flip for the Cubs and Seavers reciprocated. Boltz dribbled into the right hand (Continued on page 4, column 1)

The APO's are this year's interfraternity basketball champions. Stevie Plaskonos and company captured the bunting by nipping the Kappas 28-26, in an exciting contest before a large crowd at the 13th and Union gym Wednesday night.

The first half champions took a commendable lead early in the tilt and held it until the final quarter, when a late Kappa rush fell two points short of a tie.

Steve Plaskonos paced the APO's early attack by scoring ten points the first half. Willard Heisey and Joe Richter, however, provided the winning buckets late in the last chapter. Inability to convert foul shots cost the Kappas valuable points.

Plaskonos' 12 point performance not only gave his team the nod but gained for Stevie individual scoring honors for the league.

Frosh Die, 29-0

The Day Students pulled the big event of the evening by blanking the poor Freshmen, 29-0. Carl Osenbach paced the victors with 13 counters.

In the final contest, the Pi Taus won a forfeit from the Zetas, who failed to bring a full team. In the game played, however, the Zetas, who used Don Spetz, a former student, trimmed the red-shirted boys, 38-22. Dick Weber was high with 14 points. The forfeit pulled the Pi Taus to a third place tie with the Zetas.

Shollenberger, Boltz Lead Red and White In Marksmanship

Sholly Nets 264 Points, Boltz 82; Hopkins Next To Ace With 164

Dick Shollenberger and Dewey Boltz are currently pacing Albright's basketball team in individual scoring. With but four more games scheduled for the varsity and freshmen squads the two local Reading boys seem "in." They both hold comfortable majorities in their respective races.

Sholly, who has manufactured 264 points for the varsity in 19 games, sports a 100 point lead over Kenny Hopkins, his nearest rival, who has 164 markers. Chippy Rhoads, in third place, has rung the bell 125 times.

Dewey, with 82 counters to his credit for the freshmen, tops "Curley" Stish, who has tossed in 63 points. Bill Miller is holding down third place by nabbing 55 markers in nine tilts, two less than the both leaders played.

Letters to the Editor

—in the library, on campus, in the "ad" building. The headline says just what the students said. We're not trying to pervert their ideas. As for the argument that no one has ever been hurt by being paddled at Albright, it is similar to the old adage of locking the door after the horse is stolen. We've always believed that experience is an expensive teacher. But to a group of Zetas and pledges, it's "hang the expense."—Editor.

Dear Editor:

I would like to criticize the article by the Inquiring Reporter, as well as the method of sampling which was carried out. It seems to me that the sampling was not, to say the least, ample, which is a prime requisite of representative opinion of a group.

By this I mean I do not think that the selection was a true representation of the group affected by fraternity initiations, but appears to be the opinion of a few day students and members of the Mosser's noon luncheon club. I am a fraternity man who has gone through a strenuous program of freshman orientation, not the modified form which we have now, and a "hell week" filled with thrills and experiences which I shall always cherish. To deprive, yes deprive, a student of these activities is to take away a great part of his college life.

Since the freshmen have been deprived of an active period of orientation, it is my opinion that they should be given every opportunity to enjoy a "hell week" worth remembering. Confine it to the campus, if necessary, but let it be a strenuous test of their character.

Signed,

ANONYMOUS.

Certainly you are justified in criticizing the Inquiring Reporter's job as far as a "true representation" is concerned. We had planned to follow up the first article with one in this issue in an attempt to get a better cross-section. Your letter and the preceding one have taken its place.—Editor.

saying something about them . . . But as yet, no working system has been instituted . . . Five Albright basketeers were invited to again join the Reading "Y" team, which will defend its national championship at Northwest early in April . . . Rhoads, Hopkins, McKinney, Shollenberger, and Boltz are the boys.

Dave Levan Accepted By Penn Law School

At least one Albright student is headed for the Bar. David Levan, of Wyomissing, has been accepted by the University of Pennsylvania Law School. His o.k. came last week. So, when next fall comes around, Dave will be studying for the legal profession in the City of Brotherly Love.

Albrightian Staff

To Meet At 1 o'Clock

The Albrightian staff will meet in room 103 at 1 o'clock this afternoon. Assignments will be given for next week.

Potpourri

By Robert L. Work.

The other evening I enjoyed myself tremendously: I took time out to do a bit of reading. Approaching my bookshelf like the returning prodigal son, I picked up the penultimate volume of the Random House Prout and turned to the page where I left off several months ago. (Oh, yes, I've been reading REMEMBRANCE OF THINGS PAST for at least five years, including that one lenten season—two years ago came Ash Wednesday—when I fatuously expected to do it all before that Easter by reading one hundred pages a day; and frankly I rather dislike arriving at the last page of any book, moreso the one which has afforded me so many lounging hours.)

It's amazing how much can be packed into a book. After I had been reading along for a while, I came upon a passage that says to my friends in the science department, who think they are not only working hard at their pretty fluids and sea dogs but really doing something worthwhile in their lab confinements, some of the things that I, as well as advisers in good medical schools, have been telling them for years in an effort to influence them to get a liberal arts education in undergraduate courses and to leave specialization for the graduate school. (I should have used Cassandra in the by-line.)

When several hours later I came to the end of Chapter III and considered it a good place to stop until the next bout—frequently when I've had to stop in the middle of a long section, at the next sitting I've had to reread about a dozen or 20 pages to become au courant once more—I went to the pantry for a change of scene and then re-ensconced myself in a different vein.

At long last I began to read Richard B. Gregg's THE POWER OF NON-VIOLENCE, which a fellow-pacifist lent me months ago. In the chapters on "Moral Jiu-Jitsu" and "What Happens," I found some quotations of striking significance. This is one which affected me strongly: "Ross remarks that 'Motor impulses appear to diffuse themselves with great facility,' citing the infectiousness of marching rhythm, yawning, gestures, and modes of speech." "Whereupon, rather suggestible, I yawned away while a paper fell out of the book into my lap. No danger of falling asleep after that. It turned out to be a copy of THE WAR LORD'S PRAYER by Mark Twain.

Shall we all help Churchill to stone?

"O Lord, our God, help us to tear their soldiers to bloody shreds with our shells; help us to cover their smiling fields with the pale forms of their patriot dead; help us to lay waste their humble homes with a hurricane of fire; help us to wring the hearts of their unoffending widows with unavailing grief; help us to turn them out roofless with their little children to wander unfriended through the wastes of their desolated land in rags and hunger and thirst, sport of the sun flames of summer and the icy winds of winter, broken in spirit, worn with travail, imploring Thee for the refuge of the grave and denied it—for our sakes, who adore Thee, Lord, blast their hopes, blight their lives, protract their bitter pilgrimage, make heavy their steps, water their way with their tears, stain the white snow with the blood of their wounded feet. We ask of One who is the spirit of love and who is the ever-faithful refuge and friend of all who are sore beset, and seek His aid with humble and contrite hearts. Grant our prayer, O Lord, and Thine shall be the praise and honor and glory, now and ever. Amen."
