

ENLARGED SUMMER SESSION PROMISED

Plans Are Being Laid To Offer a Much More Extensive Program of Courses This Year

CORPS OF TEACHERS TO BE ANNOUNCED IN JANUARY

Students Now Enrolled in Regular Classification May Continue Work During Summer And Receive Credit Toward Degree

The department of Education under the direction of Professor Zener is now preparing a syllabus of the courses that will be offered during the Summer School beginning on June 15th, 1925. The full corps of teachers will be announced in January and the entire program of the six weeks' session explained. It will be possible for students in the regular classification to obtain credits toward their degrees by attendance during the summer, and it is probable that a number of the students now in College will be enrolled for this purpose.

The dormitories may also be opened during this session though the dining room is not likely to be open.

The organization of the Summer School will be much more complete than heretofore. Last year the College was obliged to decline admission because of the limited number of courses that were offered. A generous provision with high-grade instruction will enable the College to accommodate a large number of students. It is understood that special efforts for teachers are included in the provision that is being made, and due stress will be laid upon such courses in education as will enable teachers to accommodate themselves to the new requirements of the school code in Pennsylvania.

"Y" CONFERENCE HELD AT GETTYSBURG COLLEGE

Local Christian Organizations Represented At Interesting Bible and Discussion Group Conference

Over the week end of Dec. 5, at Gettysburg College, an intensive Bible Group and Discussion Group Conference was held under the auspices of the Gettysburg College Christian Associations. A large group of about one hundred fifty young men and women, representing twelve Eastern Pennsylvania colleges, were present. The spirit of the conference was fine and the interest compelling.

Dr. A. Bruce Curry, Ph.D. of Union Theological Seminary, N. Y., was teacher and leader of the entire Conference. His method of analyzing bible passages and the plans used in conducting discussion groups were innovations along those lines.

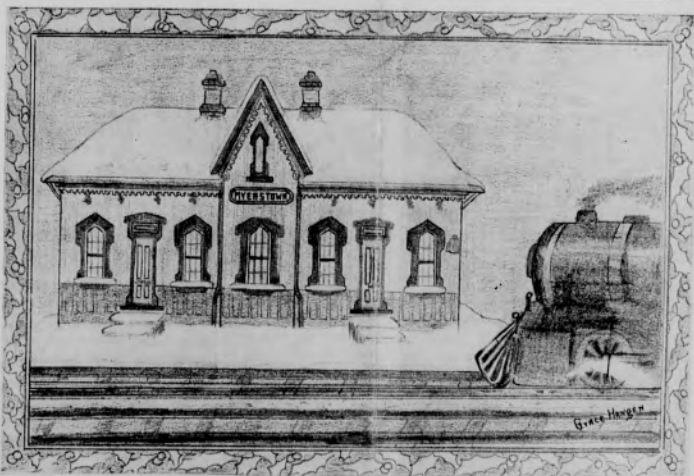

In the last session of the Conference, Dr. Curry made the statement that the aim of the Conference was to benefit the campuses of the colleges represented, and to give a different view of life to every student.

It will be remembered that Dr. Curry conducted a Conference on our Campus last year, and was much appreciated by the "Y" workers.

SPANISH RECITAL

On Tuesday evening, December 15, a Spanish Music Recital will be given in the Chapel, at eight o'clock. The recital is under the direction of Misses Flory and Strasser, instructors in Piano and Voice, respectively. A large number of pupils of both departments will take part, and students and friends of the College are invited to attend.

FOOTBALL "A" AWARDED TO FOURTEEN PLAYERS

Ceremony Held During Supper Hour Since Chapel Is Not Available—Team Presents Coach Benfer With Sweater

An unique feature in our College athletics was the public awarding of the football "A's" to the men of the Squad who qualified during this past season. This took place at the supper hour, Monday, Dec. 8th.

In a few well chosen words, Coach Benfer told of the odds under which the team worked, their fighting spirit, and the handicaps they faced through lack of sufficient material. With only one man, Mr. Frank Everett, graduating this year, Coach feels encouraged with our next year's outlook.

After the awarding of the "A's", and the cheering for the men on the team, Manager Shewell presented Coach Benfer with a new sweater to signify the Squad's appreciation of his works.

CO-EDS GIVE PARTY TO BOYS OF CLASS

On Thursday evening, Dec. 11, the Freshmen girls entertained the gentlemen of the class at a party in Mohn Hall reception room. A short program introduced the evening's fun. Mary Shultz welcomed the fellows with a short speech. Madeline Line and Glen Garrett delighted the party with solos. Then stunts and games helped to break the ice, and everyone gave his best to make the gathering successful.

The Junior girls served the refreshments including sandwiches, cake, coffee, and ice cream. The room was attractively decorated with Christmas colors.

POLITICAL CLUB DISCUSSES INTERESTING CLUB TOPIC

"The Third Party" was the subject for discussion in the meeting of the Political Club, Thursday evening, Dec. 4.

Howard Clark opened the discussion by giving a detailed history of the Third Party movement. Other members of the Club spoke on the possibility of its continuance. The Club also discussed its probable relation to the Progressive Movement of 1912, the Labor Movement of England, and the Socialistic Movement of Soviet Russia.

ONE OF OUR STUDENTS WRITES INTERESTINGLY FOR CHURCH PAPER

The Following Article Was Written By Clyde E. Hewett, '26 And Appeared in a Recent Issue of "The Evangelical-Messenger"

THE COLLEGE MAN'S CONCEPTION OF CHRISTIANITY

By Clyde E. Hewett, '26.

To-day men discuss this subject much. Some of their comments are favorable, others unfavorable. Liberalism, materialism, and rationalism, they believe, have swept the college men from the moorings of the "Faith of Our Fathers." A sympathetic understanding of the college man's religion would brand this article largely a misapprehension. Hence, this article is neither an apology nor a defense, but rather an explanation. The words "practical," "dynamic," and "positive," are keys to the collegian's religious conception.

The practicality of his religion does not imply that there is a lack of interest in the theoretical phase. In the great fundamental doctrines of Grace he recognizes the framework of the Christian Faith. However, only in so far as these vital tenets are at stake is he interested in the bitter theological controversies of Christendom. The letter of Christianity he would give due attention, the spirit of Christianity he would stress.

The practical elements of his faith may be illustrated thus: The rooms of the old New England mansion were in sharp contrast. The parlor was used only for important occasions, such as funerals, weddings, or calls from the parson; the living room was used for matters of daily routine. Like the living room would the college man have his religion to be. His religion is not alone for the highways of life; but for the crowds, the market places, and the street corners as well.

Yet religion may be practical but lack the throbbing pulsations of abounding life. The heathen faith, though crude, were unexcelled in the practical element. The gods held sway over the minute details of life, but abounding variety and vitality was lacking. These two elements the practical and the dynamic, the collegian would combine that his daily living may be animated with the fervor of a veritable live-wire. For this reason, the words of Dr. Russell H. Conwell to a graduating class appeal to him; "Accept whatever service, high or low, far or near, then bury to the hilt."

To these two elements, the college man would add a third, the positive element. He recognizes the negative phase of life, yet would not make it a hobby as the man who preached fifteen sermons on the Devil, to his congregation and was then told to consign the Devil to his rightful place and preach about Jesus Christ. Our college student would stress "thou shalt not" rather than "thou shalt not." He believes that more can be accomplished for the Kingdom of God by telling men how to live rather than how not to live. Christianity, though unmerciful in its flailing of sin, is positive to the core.

This article in a nutshell would read thus: The college student's conception and ideal of Christianity is a religion practical in its application, dynamic in its tenor, and positive in its force.

This ideal he knows he can attain only by vital union with Jesus Christ, the One whose life was a practical, dynamic, and positive expression of the matchless Faith which He founded.

BASKETBALL WORK GETS UNDER WAY

Large Squad Reports To Coach "Haps" Benfer For First Practice of 1925 Season

THREE OF LAST YEAR'S REGULARS BACK AGAIN

Promising Appearance of New Men In Practice Point Toward a Strong Reserve For This Year—State Forestry First Game

A call for basketball candidates for the 1924 and '25 season was answered on Tuesday evening by a squad of twenty-five men. The outlook for a successful season presents a rather good appearance. However, Coach Benfer will have to find two men to take the places left vacant by "Deddy" Miller who was lost by graduation, and "Fog" Smith who played a brilliant game last year with the Red and White varsity. Both of these men were noted for their great work in the back court positions both on the offensive and the defensive.

The practice consisted mostly in getting used to handling the ball, getting up speed, and other conditioning exercises. Most of the fellows who reported have been out for football and as a result the entire basketball squad is in good condition.

Varsity men of last year who were out yesterday afternoon are Glen Raffensperger, captain-elect and regular forward for two years; Rusty Zellers, regular center for the past two years; Stein Griggs, regular at the other forward position last year, and Hollenburgh guard for the past two years. Others who were on Coach Benfer's squad last year and are again out are: Derr, a guard;

ANNUAL BANQUET OF POLITICAL CLUB HELD

Pres. Bowman and Prof. Zener Are Guests of Club At Annual Banquet at Taste Good Shop—Both Address Club

The banquet hall of the Taste Good Shop was the scene of the annual banquet of the Political Club on the evening of Dec. 9, at 6 o'clock. The members of the Club assembled at Main Building at 5:45, and with Dr. Bowman and Prof. Zener as their guests, proceeded to the hall. At 6:15, all those who had gathered for the occasion were seated. Every man did full justice to the excellent repast which was served, it being a real "chicken and waffle" supper. The hour was interspersed with the usual number of "wise cracks" and laughter of the spontaneous and hearty variety was prevalent at frequent intervals.

At 7:15, Pres. Grumbling called the fellows to attention, and introduced as the first speaker, Dr. Bowman. His remarks were extremely practical, the gist being a plea for us to get away from the hustle and hurry of life, with its resultant incompleteness, and take more time to our thinking and the carrying out of the plans which are the result of adequate thought on the problems which face us now, and the greater

EDITORIALS

TRUSTEES AND THE BULLETIN

It has been discovered that not all of the trustees of Albright College are Bulletin subscribers. It seems to us to be very important that every trustee receive the College paper, and from this time forth they will be considered subscribers. If they are not prepared to pay for the subscription it will be paid in some other way. If they do not care to read the Bulletin perhaps they will be sufficiently interested to hand the copies as they come to other persons who may be or become interested in the College. The Bulletin joins hands with the Faculty and students in general in the attempt to bring the College before a larger public. We are expecting a greatly enlarged freshman class next year and it is important that the trustees as well as other friends of the College take a vital interest in everything that enters into the life here in any determinative way. We want to believe that trustees are the most thoroughly interested friends of Albright and that they are prepared to give it their entire support so long at least as they are willing to remain members of the board. When once their interest in the College ceases, or if ever the time should come when they are unwilling to render the service to the College that trusteeship implies, it should be obvious that the time has then come for resignations and substitutions. The price of the Bulletin is $1.50 per year.

GIVING

Almost two thousand years ago three Wise Men followed the Star which led them to the lowly manger where lay the Christ Child. To Him they brought gorgeous gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh. Thus began the beautiful custom of giving gifts at Christmas time—a custom which is carried out today.

Do we give gifts in the same spirit as they were given that first Christmas night? What is our motive for giving gifts? Largely, we give gifts because of the social custom which we feel must not be broken under any circumstances. Or, we expect a gift from Mary or Jack and feel we must return one. We may as well stop giving gifts if we only do so from a sense of obligation. Why not get into the real giving spirit? Let's look around and give to those who are in need and can really appreciate it. How about the poor family around the corner? Look them up and bring the real Christmas cheer to them, and you will in turn have the knowledge that "It is better to give than to receive".

"Not what we give, but what we share,
For the gift without the giver is bare."

Rosalie Walters (having pears for desert) "Lena, are these "Bertollet" pears?"

Lena: "No, I'm not related to the pear family."
Iva Statler: "Oh, you belong to the peaches!"

R. Retriek: "I'm going to teach school and save money to get married."

N. Miller: "Girls don't usually save money to get married, they get married to save money."

Campus Chatter

Good King Wencelas looked out

On the feast of Steven,

And the snow lay round about

Deep and thick and even.

Brightly shone the stars that night

For the frost was cruel,

When a poor man came in sight

Gathering winter fuel.

And then the good king called his page and together they hunted the poor man's house and carried to him bread and wine. And so, because it is a story of the real Christmas spirit, we sing this old Anglo-Saxon legend as a holiday carol.

We're singing a great many other carols as well just now. Christmas caroling, at Albright, seems to be the most satisfactory way of getting out the holiday excitement that is possessing us all. It ought to be a most legitimate way, too, for no one can accuse our glee clubs, at least, of torturing the air.

But of course there are some few of us who are rather timid about inflicting our voices on others. And these, if they can't make their tongues carol, can make their lives carol instead. It's most probable that good old King Wencelas, with his cracked voice, and white hair, couldn't sing, but all the same he became famous in music by making his life sing. Which all goes to prove that Albright is on the right track in singing Christmas carols.

Yes, it can't be denied that the familiar old Christmas Spirit has swooped down on us again. At any other time in the year we could hear the church choir sing "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing," and remain completely unmoved; but now, even if our room-mate whistles only a few bars of it, we are somehow thrilled to our very back-bone with appreciation of its meaning. For it suggests myriads of ideas pleasant to our thought. "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing"—How many Christmas cards will I need this year, I wonder?—Only four days before we go home.—Hope Dad gives me about fifty dollars. I know what I'm going to give him—Turkey and filling and mince pie smell mighty good in the morning when dinner's being cooked. Oh, boy, don't they taste good, too!—There'll be a lot of nice things to do when I get home. I'll see everybody 'nat I haven't seen for so long." How it happens is hard to tell, but some things surely do effect us extraordinarily lately.

But the Parrot must get down to business. Yes, he might as well admit that he's just as anxious for Christmas as everybody else, and almost forgot that his duty is to note events on the campus.

A rather poignantly pitiful bit of conversation took place in our dining-room several evenings ago at supper. It is true, the tragedy of it can be appreciated only by those who are accustomed to boarding at the school, but even at that, the parrot feels justified in reporting it as an example of the appalling temerity of Freshmen when they have not yet learned to fear the powers that be.

The conversation was as follows:
A junior, seeing that the bread-plate was empty, remarked, "Does anyone care for more bread? I'll send for some more." And a freshman piped up, "Oh yes, I'm hungry. Tell him to bring bread, and butter, too." Imagine asking Minnie for seconds on butter.

Girls' Basketball started a little over a week ago, too. That event dare not be omitted from our column because one of our self-constituted tasks is to keep track of the pursuit of health, grace, and beauty that was begun by the girls last September. The comparatively large number of aspirants for this sport shows that "the pursuit" is still under way. If this number of girls stick to their purpose, the Coach will have some pretty good material with which to work up a team. The spots shown at practice, too, indicates that we ought to have a better team this year than ever before.

Regular boy's basketball practice is well under way, too, for there is to be one game before Christmas, it is reported. There is no doubt that the boys will make good for this year's team will be no less the same as last year. Besides, Albright has made good in basketball. Do your stuff, basketball men, and get ready for Lebanon Valley.

And Myerstown has bought herself a Christmas present. At least that's what we think it is, for it only came lately, and we can't imagine why it was bought except because the town wanted to be generous to herself. For the people got along for years without it. It's the new mail box in front of the post-office. Pretty isn't it? And a useful gift, too.

We're going home now. Goodbye, everybody. Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Eccentrix

"Pep Meetings" are being held to promote interest in athletics. The faculty suggest that a few be held in the interest of their class-room work.

Albright can boast of the most energetic and the most studious Fresh of any college. He is no other than Mr. "Prink" Flory, who, being so interested in his studies, took all his books home over vacation together with his pillow and forgot his clothing. He confesses that his object was to sleep on his books and allow what may sink through. His experiment proved a grand failure. Mr. Franklin Hartzell, an upper classman, has been reported for pulling a similar stunt, but the contents of his traveling bag were not books. Ask him what they were. He may tell you.

Students in Modern History were asked to record the great historic events of 1924. Those who included in their list, the "upsets" in football history for the past season had perfect papers. Guess who is the history Prof.?

The cross-word puzzle rage has grown to be a menace to studies. Profs. are complaining that students do not have specific knowledge, but can sling an "excellent line". Deitz has not as yet been complaining that dictionary sales are falling off. Cross-word puzzle sharks are sure that by increasing their vocabularies they are more than compensating for their failure in definite class room recitations.

: Who's Who At Albright :

LOIS ANNA HELM

Basketball season brings to our notice another star, this one a member of the girls' team. Yes, we mean Lois Helm. "Lou" played guard on the girls' varsity last year and is one of our peepiest players.

Basketball is not her only athletic recreation. In the spring and fall she can be found on the tennis court almost every day, and one of her greatest ambitions seems to be to defeat Miss Gariach. Good luck to you, Lou!

Aside from sports, Lois is one of the shining lights in the musical world at Albright, and often entertains the students at recitals and parties. She is this year's President of the Girls' Glee. Her ability in planning and directing social functions has placed her on many "Y", society, and class committees. She has been a member of the Y. W. Cabinet since her Freshman year.

Still another accomplishment is possessed by this very versatile girl, and this is the art of letter writing. Lois certainly has this art down to perfection to receive as many letters from the same address as she does. Where do the letters come from? Well, it isn't quite fair to tell all of Lou's secrets.

RUSSEL REED ZELLERS

The regret felt by everyone at the close of the football season is assuaged by the thought of the basketball season which is almost here. The Bulletin this week presents one of her basketball stars, "Rusty" Zellers. "Rusty" played center on the varsity team last year and won her admiration with his long shots. You are still there as a basketball player "Rusty", and we are all back of you.

Characteristics? There are many of them, but perhaps the most outstanding impression that we have is that of a pleasant, humorous fellow. We recall the laugh and gay word of greeting, and it brings Zellers to mind. Yes, he is that kind of a fellow, a pleasant companion, and a good sport.

You want to know where to find this all-around man? Well, his usual "hanging-out places" seem to be the lab and the Zeta Fraternity rooms. "Rusty" is certainly a good student if the amount of time spent in the lab means anything.

A pleasing personality bespeaks for this likeable young man a successful career.

Who lives upon the sod?
Or shall I set to work,
And mold this will of mine
According to God's plan,

SPECIAL GROUP PROGRAMS START IN GIRLS' SOCIETY

The Themsian Literary Society held its meeting Friday, Dec. 5th, in Themsian Hall. The usual devotional services were led by the President, Jessie Statler.

The first of the special group programs was then presented. The program was divided into two parts. The first part consisted of a solo, "O Holy Night", by Frieda Miller, and an original sketch, "Christmas Among the Rich and Poor". This sketch by parallel scenes portrayed the contrasting Christmas celebrations in a rich and poor home.

The second part of the program was introduced by a short history of Christmas Carols by Erma Maurey. Elsie Shirk gave a reading from Luke 2 telling of the birth of Christ. The dramatization of four well-known Carols—"While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks", "Silent Night", "Hark The Herald Angels Sing", and "Come All Ye Faithful"—followed. The tableaux were made more effective by the use of colored lights.

The following persons composed the group: Ruth Hetrick, leader, Misses Long, Neast, Mohn, McCurdy, MacCauley, F. Miller, K. Miller, Mowry, Maurey, Shirk, Livingston, and Lackey.

NEOS ELECT C. YOST AS SECOND TERM PRESIDENT—OTHER OFFICERS

On December 5, President A. H. Henninger called the Neocosmian Literary Society together in Neo Hall. The opening exercises were in order. There was no special program, but the officers for the second term were elected and are as follows:

- President.....Charles Yost.
- Vice-Pres.....George Weiss.
- Rec. Secretary.....Paul Harttraf.
- Cor. Sec.....Frederick Glosser.
- Chorister.....John Smith.
- Chaplain.....Glenn Morris.
- Critic.....Harold Andrews.
- Pianist.....Charles Lehman.
- Sergeant-at-Arms.....Jay Flory.
- Question Committee.....Clyde Hewitt, Wm. Harris, Arthur Henninger.

After a few general remarks the meeting adjourned.

SCIENCE CLUB MEETS AND REORGANIZES BY ELECTING OFFICERS

Monday evening, Dec. 1, at 6:30 the Science Club met for reorganization. The presiding officer, Glencoe Raffensperger, conducted the election, which resulted as follows:

- President.....Russel Zellers.
- Vice-Pres.....Harold Andrew.
- Secretary and Treasurer.....Violet Kinsinger.

Mildred Lackey, seeing Hosterman carrying water at the Inter-Society debate: "Gee, is Hosterman out for scrub debating? I see he is carrying water."

Bill Harris looking at Miss Strasser: "Gosh, fellows, I could sing anything for her!"

SOCIETY HISTORIANS!

The Literary Staff of the Speculum Requests That Your Material Be In Not Later Than Jan. 15.

The Literary Staff of the 1926 Speculum requests that the Class historians, Society historians and others whose duty it is to hand in data concerning the various organizations of the school would do so as soon as possible. It is very important that this material be in the hands of the Literary Staff not later than the middle of January. So the Speculum would suggest that the different organizations of the school make such elections to attend to this matter as they deem necessary before the Christmas recess. Thus, the historians would have a splendid opportunity to prepare their copy during the holidays.

Prof. Zener also was introduced and his remarks brought to us the possibility of the organization becoming something more than just a group of students discussing political problems and current topics. He suggested that the Club widen its influence and broaden its scope by connecting up with larger interests.

After having partaken of the bountiful meal and listened to two instructive talks, the Club adjourned with a feeling of satisfaction with the affairs of the evening.

Town Notes

The annual display of the Myers-town Branch of the Needlework Guild was held in Zion United Brethren Church on Friday evening, December 5th. The Directors' appeal for donations was met with excellent response and the many articles will be sent to the various charitable institutions, in the near future. The number of articles far exceeds the numbers collected other years. An interesting program was rendered during the evening in which Miss M. Irene Kiene, Miss Dorothy Kapp, Miss Charlotte Yost, Miss Mabel Hunsicker, Morris Ulrich, Miss Maggie Yarnall, Miss Kathryn Kutz, and Misses Grace, Dorothy, and Esther Dundore took part. After the program a social hour was enjoyed in which refreshments were served.

Although slightly held up by bad weather over the week end the paving and laying of street car track on West Main Avenue has been completed with the exception of laying curb. The road is constructed of the latest type reinforced concrete laid according to state specifications. It is expected to have the road section open for traffic before long. The space about the car tracks will be filled with ballast till paving arrangements can be made.

After a considerable period of training Coach Sheely's High School Quintet took the first game of the season by defeating the strong Lancaster county rivals at Lititz. The game was filled with sensational sports by both teams and resulted in a 33 to 32 score.

ciety debate and the Captain Mudge silver loving cup, representative of Literary society debating supremacy at Albright. The debate was held Friday evening, Dec. 12, with the Themsian team as the opponents of the Neos, the Themsians having previously eliminated the Excelsiors.

The question of debate between the two teams was the same question that will be debated by the Inter-collegiate teams of Pennsylvania this season and reads: "Resolved that Congress should have the power by a two thirds vote to declare effective a law which has been pronounced unconstitutional by the United States Supreme Court". The speakers for the victorious Neo team which upheld the Negative side of the question, were: Dale Gramley, Arthur Henninger, and Clyde Hewitt, speaking in the order named, with Clarence Miller as alternate. The Themsian team composed: Misses Grace Snyder, Fern Stanford, and Phyllis Bicher, with Jessie Statler as alternate.

Prof. H. A. Kiess presiding at the debate, read the decision of the judges, and presented the cup to the Neocosmian team. The judges for the debate were: Rev. L. N. Hershey, Rev. Peters, and Prof. Wallinger, of the Myersstown High School faculty.

STUDY TIME

I like to study best at night,
When lights have been turned out;
When all the halls are silent too,
With shadows round about.
For then I light my candle lamp,
With flick'ring flame and low,
And let it guide my wandering thoughts
Just where they want to go.
My pages dance with little folk
Who come from out the past;
And all the age old things I love
Come back to life at last;
And fitful, dancing shadows too,
In league with scraps of light,
Illuminate all the dreams I dream
And make each gleam more bright.
My clock ticks slow for company;
The pictures on the wall,
All seem to smile at me and say,
They're helping that is all.
But when I look back at my bed,
It waits so patiently,
And holds out warm inviting arms
That seem to beckon me,
And so I blow my candle out,
And put my books away,
And say my prayers beside my bed;
The day is done,—but say,
Now stretch your hours the very best,
Work handles all a gleam,
When lessons turn to fairy tales
And you can sit and dream?

: Alumni Notes :

Copies of recent issues of the North-side Visitor, published at Mansfield, Ohio, under the editorship of Rev. Wellington M. Leininger, '97, have recently appeared in the reading room. Rev. Leininger is a son of Mr. George H. Leininger, Treasurer of the College. Since his graduation from Albright he has taken his A. M. from Harvard and B.D. at Oberlin. For a number of years he was engaged in Y. M. C. A. work. Now he is a very successful pastor of the Mayflower Congregational Church, of Mansfield.

Denton M. Albright, '15, is principal of the Kittanning High School. Kittanning is a residential suburb of Pittsburgh and the High School has an enrollment of over a thousand students. Requests for information concerning Albright have recently been received from that source at the College office. The Bulletin is being sent to the reading room of the High School regularly.

Prof. Albright has been very successful in educational work since his graduation from Albright College. He was Professor of Mathematics in the Harrisburg Technical High School for about seven years. He has his A.M. degree from Columbia.

Readers of the Bulletin will remember a reference to a book on Freshman English, which was written by Prof. Grant Cochran Knight, '18, and was published a year ago. A second book is to be issued from the press of Knopf, some time during the coming spring. Prof. Knight is connected with the department of English in the University of Kentucky at Lexington, and he is rapidly becoming known as one of our successful teachers of English.

The following alumni visited the school and attended the L. V. C. game over the week end of Nov. 16: Ruth Thiele, '24; Ann Mengel, '24; Grace Otto, '24; Edith Rosser, '24; Sara Statler, '23; and Frances Wolf-erberger, '24.

ALUMINUM DEMONSTRATION

By invitation of Miss Minnie Smoyer, the College stewardess, a number of Faculty ladies, women of the town and a few Mohn Hall students attended an aluminum demonstration in the College kitchen, Monday, Dec. 1. It was under the direction of two representatives of the Wear Ever Aluminum Company.

Union Theological Seminary Campaign

Great Drive Is Being Made To Raise $4,000,000.—Dr. Fluck a Graduate of This School

Ministers of forty-eight different denominations are banded together in a nation-wide movement to raise $4,000,000 for Union Theological Seminary in the City of New York. The local representative of the movement is Rev. Jonathan L. Fluck, D. D. who is a graduate of the Seminary.

Union Seminary is the largest graduate school of theology in America, and the only one that is both strictly interdenominational and without official connection with any university. It has informal affiliation with Columbia and New York Universities.

This year the Seminary has enrolled 424 students who have graduated from various colleges and are preparing for the ministry in many denominations. Five denominations are represented on the Seminary's board of directors, seven on its faculty and thirty-nine in its student body. No such representative interdenominational group exists elsewhere in America. The Union Seminary Campaign is to be carried on throughout the country among the leading Protestant denominations. John D. Rockefeller, Jr. has already given $1,083,333 and another friend has given $1,250,000 on condition that the entire $4,000,000 be raised.

EIGHTH COMMANDMENT DISCUSSED AS TOPIC IN REGULAR MEETING

The Y. W. C. A. met in Mohn Hall reception room, Thursday night, Dec. 4. The topic discussed was the eighth commandment, and the lesson derived from it was modern stealing. The leader, Miss Hangen, emphasized not merely stealing earthly things but stealing in the spirit of the law. Stealing can be found in the politics of nations and states. It is also revealed in community churches and school life.

The subject was very concrete since it was emphasized in its relation to our Campus life. Several questions which pertained especially to a college girl's life were asked. Miss Garlach spoke of stealing in hotels, which has become an appalling condition in America. By the use of specific examples, she also talked about stealing in examinations.

The Y. W. was favored by the rendition of two beautiful musical selections. Caroline Mowry played a piano solo and Eva Wright sang "Thy Will Be Done".

"Y" ORGANIZATIONS STAGE XMAS PAGEANT IN CHAPEL

On Sunday evening, Dec. 14, the Y. organizations staged a Christmas pageant in the college chapel. The title of the pageant was "A Pageant of Joy." The cast of characters was as follows:

Christmas Spirit.....Anna Benfer.
Spirit of Love.....Grace Snyder.
Spirits of selfishness, Covetousness, Greed, Envy, Hatred, Frieda Miller, Jessie Statler, Ruth Hetrick, Mabel Gindesperger, and Grace Kleinginna.
Mother.....Eva Wright.
Columbia.....Caroline Illick.
Mary.....Kathleen Miller.
Father.....Ed. Harris.
Shepherds.....Glyn Morris, Wm. Kelly, Gordon Oswald.
Wise Men.....Milton Wilkes, Clarence Miller, Mervin Rutter.
Propheets.....Millard Dietz, Clyde Hewett, Homer Hicisley.
Staging effects, drills, costumes, and presentation added to the success of the pageant. Much credit is to be given to Miss Garlach who directed the production.

OUR FACULTY

WALTER S. EISENMENGER

A quiet, unassuming member of Albright's Faculty, yet one who possesses a wide and thorough knowledge of his subject is Professor Eisenmenger, head of the Chemistry and Physics Departments. Besides being brilliant in Science he is well read in many other subjects. Prof. Eisenmenger is a graduate of Bucknell University and also received his M. S. degree from that place. Later he took graduate work at Columbia. Previous to his coming to Albright he also served for some time in the defense of his country.

The Professor on the street is quite amiable, lots of fun, and jolly company. The Professor in the class room is of a sterner type, and always demands exact recitations from his students.

We must not overlook the personal appearance of Prof. Eisenmenger. He is rather tall, well built, and possesses striking features. It is well known that he possesses an attraction to the ladies, and has even volunteered to take one Mohn Hall squirrel hunting.

Although he has strong likes and dislikes he is a "jolly, hail-fellow, well met."

SHERWOOD EDDY AND "PAT" MALIN VISIT A. C.

phy Malin. On Thursday evening, Dr. Eddy addressed the assembly of students and friends of the college by showing the condition of the world through a vivid presentation of the facts as he saw them on his recent world tour. He deduced from the presentation that the world to-day is facing three problems, they being the problems of race, war, and industrial relations. As a possible solution to the above problems, he said that one of the methods would be the entrance and participation by the nations of the world in the world court and the League of Nations.

Dr. Eddy also presented the source of the continual usefulness and stability of a life by illustration. He said that in his own life he did not experience the fullness of life until he realized that the solution of the problems of his life lay in his getting close to Christ, and by continually drinking of the "water of life", which is the only satisfying thing. Through the presentation of the illustrations of a number of great decisions in men's lives, he threw out the challenge to the students as to what they were going to do with their lives.

Continuing the program of Dr. Eddy the evening before, "Pat" Malin, his private secretary, spoke to the students assembled in chapel on Friday morning. His address was an extremely live, and practical one, and came from his own experience and the experiences of the many students with whom he has come into contact. He presented a challenge to us to strive to reach the top in all things, and also our efforts to prepare ourselves for the tasks which will come to us in the future. Get out of yourself the best that is in you by the best training that you can secure, and then thru the discarding of all the superficial things in life, reach the highest points in your life's efficiency.

"Pat" also presented in forceful language the challenge to perfection in our lives as far as things physical, moral, and spiritual are concerned. He asked the question as to whether we as students were able to build up and continue friendships in our lives. To do a work and perform a task because of the purpose we have and not the desire to show the glory of our work, was stressed as a mark of real purpose in the life of a student. Don't be like a ship without a rudder was the final admonition of the speaker in which he emphasized that the best guide we could have for our lives is the life of Christ.

Immediately after dinner on Friday, Mr. Malin again addressed the students on the great subject of the formation of character. Character is at the bottom of all things, good or evil in the world. To develop character we need a strong foundation, we need the power to keep us going, and we also need a control of our character. To culminate all our efforts to the best advantage, we need a goal, and living that out in our lives, makes our lives abundant. By his vivid, burning message, he flung out the challenge to us to give up some of the things in our lives which are bringing to us glory, and substitute things that are upright and true, and unreachably.

Krimmel: "Miller, are you going to take a walk this evening?"

C. T.: "I must ask my girl first".
Kelly: "Krimmel, Miller is not his own boss any more".
