Why Don't We Do This More Often? Whoopsi li's here again. It comes several times during the most appreciated about the end of January or the beginning of February. It releases the ten-sion caused by exams. It means no classes, no assignments, and no term papers. It provides plenty of opportunity for sleep and good food and good times. It's fun and it's fine. We crave ti and need it. It provides for complete relaxation and leaves us refreshed and eager for new fields to conquer. It begins after our last exam and ends on Feb. T. Food For Thought

As the Mr. Anthony of Albright, Student Council hashed over a problem at its last meeting—to lunch or two lunches. In order to make it possible for more daystudents to eat in the dining hall at noontime, there was made a proposal—the patern-ity of which was pretty much in doubt—to split the lunch hour into two parts, have half the students attend classes while the other half eats, and serve the meals cafeteria style. Council's pros and cons on the matter are found on page 1 of this issue. It came to no definite decision but submitted all its ideas on the subject to the administration for their consideration.

The daystudent side of the story is that, since there is no other suitable place to eat, they wish to eat in the dining hall. But they don't want to spend the present price of $.50 for lunch and so would prefer a cafeteria arrangement, in which they could spend as much or as little as they liked. As for the dorm angle of the problem, having gone through a siege of meals served cafeteria style during the army's stay on campus they much prefer the present pontime setup of table campus, they much prefer the present noontime setup of table service—and invite the daystudents to join them.

This is a definite problem that needs solving. We feel that some arrangement can be made satisfactory to both sides. We suggest that Council members talk over the matter with their respective organizations to get a more accurate idea of student opinion. We welcome any letters on the subject. And we are looking to the administration for some action.

Fine Points

Although Albrightians had their hopes set high for three strikes in the basketball team's road trip last week, the cagers came hack with two sets of laurels and one booby prize. But taking a look at the week as a whole, Red and White did all right for themselves playing good enough ball to make a 11-game winning streak in a year when one out of every six Al-bright men on the team.

As the team goes into the closing stretch of the season, we hope that several bad "spectatoritis" problems can be solved. Once again we wish to urge better cooperation on the part of fans in staying in their seats until the end of the game—in due respect to the teams on the floor. And then, too, we hope that if Reading fans prefer seats in the student cheering section, they will help to cheer. If they wish to remain silent, they should find seats somewhere else and give the students a break.

Here's hoping the second half of the cage season is as successful as the first one was.

Facts or Factions

Believe it or not, THE ABRIGHTIAN is a student publica-tion. It's main purpose in life is to represent the students of Al-bright and, subsequently, to express their opinion. Therefore, we request as many of those opinions as possible. We want let-ters to the editors. And we will print any letter, regardless of its content, provided that it is signed, but, we cannot print gripes and accusations unless they are backed up by accurate facts. For example, we will print a letter accusing John Doe of dishonesty, on the condition that that letter proves that Mr. Doe cheated on an examination. On the same premise, a statement that praises the team can be printed because it can be proved that the team won 11 games this senson. Please send us letters but please include the facts. won 11 games include the facts.

THE ALBRIGHTIAN

L'HUWII DIX LO'LU Bringing their batting average to 667 the Albright lassies won their first intercollegiate cage contest last Friday night by defeating a strong Elizabethtown squad, 28-20. The contest was played in the 13th and Union Streets gym. Sparking the Red and White of-fense was sharp-shooter Ginny Woerle, who totaled 12 points, ably essisted by Mary Eschwei and Marie Bonner, who had 7 points apiece. Krebs was the bright spot in the losser's scoring but her 14 points were not enough to take the game. Playing in the roughest game of the season, the Albright maids managed to keep a safe six or seven-point lead throughout the game. ELIZABETHTOWN

A Call to United Action

A Call to United Action College and university alumni are a privileged group. Even though they are a minority. they could be a tremendous force for good. They have been accused, however, of missing their op-portunity through their failure in group action. As individuals, most of them have been quick to find places of responsibility amidst the shifting scenes of civilization. As a group, they do not have much sense of unity. They are an aggregation of in-dividualists. There is scarcely any public question upon which they agree. Although they are the educated and presumably the most intelligent group of the country. it is impossible to find an educated public opinion on anything. In other words this minority group has so lost its identity that the most inelligent 3 percent of the population does not have to be reckoned with in deciding the courses of action in our country. This is most unfortunate, yet this is the gist of the ac-cusations pointed toward alumni groups.

educated public opinion on anything. In other words, this minority group has so lost its identity that the most inelligent 3 percent of the population does not have country. This is most unfortunate, yet this is the gist of the ac-cusations pointed toward alumni groups. If there were a consciousness of kind among college men and women over the country, they could provide a leaven for social institutions and governmental policy. If there were a compel-ling group loyalty to as much of the truth and its virtues as is expounded by more than a thousand colleges and universities, and if this were strengthened into a social force by having col-lege alumni assert themselves as one organized group, there is no shadow of a doubt that they would find the tastes and values of life, which have come to be the mental possessions of educated of life, which have come to your attention as one more good rea-son why Albrightians should be interested and active in an ef-people, effective in the economic, pointed the economic communities everywhere. Your editor calls this to your attention as one more good rea-son why Albrightians should be interested and active in an ef-tively organized alumni association for united action. The pro-posal for certain educational legislation by the college presidents of Pennsylvania as outlined in an article in the last issue of "The Alumni in Pennsylvania should read this article again and write to their legislators. to their legislators.
