MID-SEMESTER REPORT INDICATES HIGH COLLEGE ACADEMIC RATING; SENIOR CLASS LEADS STUDENT BODY

Fewer Deficiency Grades Given Than at Any Mid-First Semester Survey Since Merger of Albright and Schuylkill; Juniors and Freshmen Tie for Second Place

A study of the records made by the students in the various departments for work done to date, as reported in the recent mid-first semester check, shows the following distribution of grades: 15% are of "A" rating; 37%, "B"; 33%, "C"; 11%, "D"; 2%, "E"; 2%, "F." This reveals the very gratifying fact that 85% of all the grades submitted are of quality rating ("A," "B," "C"), leaving only 15% in the deficiency group ("D," "E," "F"). Of the grades submitted in a similar check for the mid-first semester of 1931-32, 80% were of quality ranking, while for the same period of the college year, 1930-31, only 77% reached this standard.

On the basis of the percentage of quality grades received and the percentage of students who received no deficiency grades, as indicated in the following comparisons, the Senior class leads the college by a considerable margin, with the Juniors and Freshmen virtually tied for second honors. Of all the grades earned by the Seniors, 94% were of quality rating; by the Freshmen, 85%; by the Juniors, 84%; and by the Sophomores, 78% were of this grade.

On the basis of individual records, 73% of the Senior class, 50% of the Freshman, 48% of the Juniors, and 41% of the Sophomores received no deficiency grades for work done to date; while 32% of the Seniors, 21% of the Freshmen, 15% of the Juniors, and 10% of the Sophomores received no grade below a "B" for work completed thus far. This represents a commendable improvement over the individual records made by the students at the time of the mid-first semester check of last year when 65% of the Juniors (Seniors of this year), 56% of the Seniors, 51% of the Sophomores, and 40% of the Freshmen received no deficiency grades; while 27% of the Juniors, 23% of the Seniors, 15% of the Freshmen, and 13% of the Sophomores received no grade below a "B."

The following chart resume indicates the distribution of the records made by the various classes on the basis of all the grades recorded at this mid-first semester check (the numbers indicate the percentage of the grades of the quality indicated given to the respective classes):

	Seniors	Juniors	Sophs.	Frosh
"A"	23	18	7	12
"B"	46	34	35	36
"C"	25	32	36	37
"D"	5	14	15	11
"E"	1	1	4	2
"F"	0	1	3	2

MONDAY OFF!

Dr. Klein, in an announcement made in the dining room Monday concerning the fine exhibition given us Saturday by our football team, said the annual Thanksgiving vacation would be extended over Monday, December 4th. Classes will be resumed Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock.

ANNUAL FOOTBALL BANQUET TO BE HELD FRIDAY, DECEMBER 14

Friday, December 14, the college dining room will be the scene of the football banquet, which is an annual affair of great interest. The theme of the Lions, in red and white, will be prominent throughout the decorations.

The banquet will consist of a turkey dinner served in the excellent style characteristic of the chef and his staff. The football team will be the guests of honor while the students and faculty will be given the privilege to attend.

A program is being planned by the Athletic Council which will feature a speaker prominent in football circles. It is probable that the speaker will be one of the following: "Sleepy Jim" Crowley, coach at Fordham University; "Marty" Brill, one of the famous Four Horsemen of Notre Dame and present coach at LaSalle; or "Barney" Berlinger, a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, the famous track man who won both the Pentathlon and Decathlon events.

Awards will be made to various members of the team and the banquet will appropriately close the 1934 football season.

HOME EC. CAFETERIA PROVES SUCCESSFUL

An outstanding "food feature" on campus came to a close last week with the completion of the lunch-room project, conducted by the Home Economics Department. This was under the direction of the Senior students, Catherine Winter, Harriet Venus, Martha Felmelee and Lillian Slater.

The Senior students prepared all food in the lunchroom and did the marketing and accounting. The average number of people served during the period was 53 per day, with attendance totaling as high as 72 some days.

Nine Seniors Make Final Bow Today

Nine veteran Lion football men will offer their valedictory Thanksgiving afternoon in what will doubtless be a mighty attempt to salvage some of the wreckage of the disastrous 1933 season.

A stirring battle against a highly favored Lebanon Valley team has roused those nine seniors to the pitch needed to take Ursinus into camp and to end their four-year football curriculum in a burst of glory.

Four linesmen and five backs comprise the contingent which will doff their moleskins for inter-collegiate eternity, after Thursday's holiday scrap. Heading the list are Co-Captains Charley Karlovich and Stan Hino, who have been bulwarks of Red and White squads since their Freshman days way back in 1929. Shenandoah Stosh dazzled with his long runbacks of punts and his lightning-like passes from the very moment of his first game in the Stadium, and has never relinquished the varsity quarterback job. Karlo had a harder fight to make the team in the beginning, but his defensive proclivities marked him a Gibraltar as soon as he won a first-string trial.

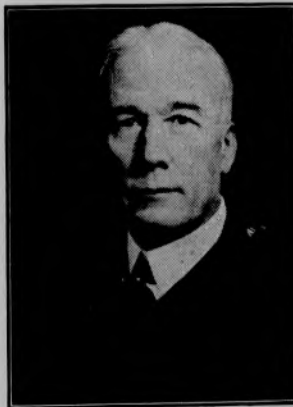

The entire varsity backfield will graduate this June along with Hino. Radio DeFranco, annually a three-letter athlete during his college stay, whom injuries have retarded this fall; Tommy Iatesta, who carried the brunt of the offensive attack this year after alternating as a halfback during his first three seasons; Andy Conway, who came into his own as a punter and defensive back extraordinary, after a long siege on the bench; and Jackie Orr, a steady, dependable fullback in the pinch.

One guard, one tackle, and one end join Karlovich in their adieu to the pigskin sport. Pug Lease, who put up a brilliant game against Lebanon Valley; Jimmy Oslislo, back at end after losing a year's experience because of quinsy; and Elmer Bottiglier, who has served as a faithful replacement in every game this season.

ALBRIGHT COLLEGE TO BE HOST AT STUDENT FACULTY STATE CONFERENCE BEGINNING FRIDAY, DECEMBER 8th

State Y. M. C. A. Conference Held at Albright Will Sponsor Many Prominent Speakers; Dr. Klein to Give Opening Address of Welcome

CONFERENCE SPEAKER

ROBERT E. SPEER, D.D.

SENIORS MAKE PLANS FOR CHRISTMAS PROGRAM

The annual Christmas program will be given by the Senior class in the chapel on Tuesday evening, December 12, at 8 o'clock. This program will be in the form of a radio broadcast. Amateur talent will constitute the entertainment.

The radio announcer for the evening will be Wesley Stevens. Group singing as well as solo work, instrumental numbers, and musical numbers, will be a part of the program. A skit will be given by some of the Senior girls.

The presence of Santa Claus will complete the program. Willard Burger will fill the role of this gracious benefactor. A free evening of amusement is promised to all.

Albright College will have the honor of being host to the Student Faculty Conference which is to be held here on December 8, 9 and 10 under the auspices of the State Young Men's Christian Association of Pennsylvania. The general theme of the conference will be "Advancing With a Changeless Christ."

Among other prominent and outstanding speakers at the conference will be Dr. Robert E. Speer, honorary president of the Student Volunteer Movement in America and also president of the Presbyterian Board of Missions with his headquarters in New York City. He is the author of numerous books, the most recent one being "The Finality of Jesus," in which he points out how Jesus in Christianity meets the challenge of all religions. Dr. Speer is not only a noted author, but a widely known lecturer as well, and, in missionary work and experience, rates with Dr. E. Stanley Jones. His addresses before the members of the conference will be on "The Finality of Jesus" and "Is There Adventure in the Application of the Principles of Jesus?" No one can afford to miss this opportunity of hearing such a dynamic personality as Dr. Robert E. Speer.

The other speakers will be Dr. W. A. Hanson, president of Gettysburg College, speaking on "The Cost of Adventure," and the Rev. John R. Hart, of Philadelphia, who will speak on "Advancing for Christ on Our Campus." Dr. Calvert N. Ellis, president of Juniata College; Prof. Charles M. Bowman, of Muhlenberg College; Dean Roger A. Kratz and Dr. M. E. Ritzman, of the Theological Seminary at Albright College; Dr. F. W. Gingrich, of Albright, and Dr. Fritsch, of Muhlenberg, will be the discussion group leaders with Prof. Waltmeyer, of Gettysburg, as general chairman of devotions.

Dr. J. Warren Klein, president of Albright College, will deliver an address of welcome at the opening session, over which H. LeRoy Bringer, president of the Pennsylvania Student Council, will preside. L. LeRoy Stabler is in charge of registration for the conference. The committee for local arrangements consists of Woodrow Bartzges, John Wiley, Paul Fye and Hunter McKain.

The registration for students of Albright will be fifty cents. This includes all sessions of the conference and the banquet which is to be held in the Albright College dining room on Saturday evening, Dec. 9, but does not include the meals given at Christ Evangelical Church where many of the sessions and addresses will take place. If you desire to avail yourself of this unique opportunity, and surely no one can let it pass, see the registrar of the conference, Mr. Stabler.

Approximately one hundred and fifty students and faculty members from the colleges of central and eastern Pennsylvania are expected, and it is the wish of the Y.M.C.A. that all who can provide lodging for as many of our guests as possible.

FRIENDLY RIVALRY

It was indeed a pleasure to witness the spirit of enthusiastic rivalry injected into our campus life the past week-end. The annual battle with Lebanon Valley College apparently was the necessary incentive to touch off the spark of life which has been sadly lacking during the earlier part of the season.

The Thursday and Friday evening events leading up to the climatic gridiron battle were significant of the fact that students desired an outlet for their pent-up enthusiasm that has had little or no opportunity for expression this year. However, for the benefit of those not acquainted with the actual circumstances, we might say that the agreement between the student council concerning the conduct of students previous to this game was fully observed. The expedition to the Lebanon Valley campus Thursday evening and the return engagement to our campus Friday evening resulted in no property destruction whatsoever.

This practice of invading the opponent's campus and wilfully defacing property was carried to such extremes in past years that the respective administrations demanded an agreement be made whereby this type of enthusiasm might be checked. It was not our intention to revive any such childish pranks this year, but rather to stimulate the friendly spirit of rivalry that exists between Albright and Lebanon Valley. We trust that in this matter they will share a similar attitude.

The gridiron encounter, which ended in victory for neither school, was proof that previous scores and conditions of the season mean nothing when the Lions hold their annual encounter with the "Flying Dutchmen" from Annyville. The splendid brand of football that Coach Smith's boys exhibited in Saturday's game fully atones for the many reverses they have suffered this season. We wish them even greater success in their final game with the Ursinus Bears today.

THANKSGIVING

A student has been to the usual football pageant; he has feasted with his parents and the many other kindred folk. Late afternoon finds him walking along familiar streets, glancing at familiar homes and generally enjoying a sense of "well being." Then suddenly stirred by the sight of one of the "disinherited," as the social theorist designates the unfortunate and suppressed people of our lowest strata of society, he begins to analyze the constituent elements of his smug thankfulness. He had been congratulating himself on his good fortunes, much in the manner that the Pharisee said his prayers. Questions one after the other rushed upon his now alert mind. Was he not a product of a rather well protected, sufficient home life? Had he ever been called upon to sacrifice or deny himself, outside of the usual charitable acts that always give one a sense of satisfying a social responsibility, such as it may be? Had his college training invoked in him an appreciation of the great cultural values of the ages? Was he able to offer any one constructive thought toward future social well-being? Was he a detriment to his community or an asset? These pointed thoughts played upon his conscience and he was frustrated at every turn. Then out of his confusion he thanked God that this day he had received a challenge to think things through; to use his mind, to sharpen his insights; and for the privilege of taking that which had been given to him and to look upon his attributes and capabilities, not only as his own possession, but also as his social privilege.

Then he "lifted his eyes to the hills from whence came his help."

The Local Arrangements Committee of the Y. M. C. A. await your answer to their request for housing facilities. We need and are counting on your cooperation. We must know by Dec. 5.

Dr. Uphaus, an outstanding Christian educator, has been upon our campus, meeting with faculty and students, and orientating them to a project of studying problem areas on our campus.

Last Sunday Vespers, held in the College Chapel, were devoted to a Thanksgiving service in music, Scripture, and sermon. Special features, a piano selection by Miss Marietta Kline, and a musical reading by Miss Catherine Yerkes, added to the impressiveness and beauty of the service.

Lloyd Helt, the speaker, reviewed briefly and effectively the Christian Herald magazine article, "Five Reasons for Gratitude," by Margaret Sangster. After giving illustrations in each case, he summarized the thoughts as follows: There are certain universal reasons for gratitude, no matter who you are or where your path of life may lie. There are certain fundamental reasons for thanksgiving, whether you are rich or poor, old or young, ill or well, surrounded by friends or swept with personal loneliness. These universal, fundamental reasons are the truth and light and salvation of those of us who dwell in this chaotic, changing world. They keep us sane and sweet, tolerant, gentle and kindly. They give us the ability to hope and something concrete for which we may hope. These five fundamental reasons are pointed out clearly in this poem, "Gratitude."

I thank you for these gifts, dear God,
 Upon Thanksgiving Day—
 For love and laughter and the faith
 That makes me kneel to pray.

For life that lends me happiness,
 And sleep that gives me rest,
 These are the gifts that keep my heart
 Serene within my breast.

Love, laughter, faith, and life and sleep,
 We own them, every one—
 They carry us along the road
 That leads from sun to sun.
 —Margaret Sangster.

PI GAMMA MU FRAT. HOLD FIRST MEETING

Pi Gamma Mu held its first meeting of the present school year, Tuesday, November 28, in Selwyn Hall at 4.30 P. M. The meeting was well attended both by professors and students.

As is customary, this first meeting was devoted entirely to the business and plans of the chapter for the coming year. The following matters were discussed: The selection of delegates to attend the national session to be held in Philadelphia next month in commemoration of the founders of Pi Gamma Mu, tentative arrangements were made to secure a noted criminologist at one of the society's future meetings and finally Professor Hamilton introduced a letter from Mr. Leroy Allen, national secretary of Pi Gamma Mu, stating that some revisions should be made in each chapter's constitution.

WILLIAM PENN IS TOPIC OF HISTORICAL LECTURE

The second lecture on Pennsylvania history, delivered by J. Bennett Nolan last Friday, was centered around William Penn, the first proprietor of our state.

In 1676 Penn was turned out of his home by his father for taking up Quaker doctrines. He traveled extensively in France and Germany and in 1682 landed in America, having received a large tract of land from the King of England. Penn had attended Oxford, but he was not a business man and bargained generously with the Indians. Quakers, Welsh, Scotch-Irish and French Huguenots followed Penn here and later a great number of Germans. Many evidences of the latter still remain. Penn dealt out the land for one shilling an acre, but for years afterward other English proprietors tried to collect ground rents. Even as late as 1825 men came to Reading to collect these rents, but without success. William Penn died in 1718 and left the colonization to be carried on by his three sons.

Mr. Nolan says that the Historical Society in Reading has a large collection of William Penn's letters, which sometime are to be edited and published.

DR. H. G. HODGES SPEAKS TO INT. RELATIONS CLUB

At the third regular meeting of the International Relations Club on Nov. 23 in Selwyn Hall, Dr. Henry G. Hodges was the guest speaker, whose topic was, "The League of Nations."

First he discussed the development of the idea of a national league from the "Pax Romano," adding that Woodrow Wilson, who initiated the formation of the present league, was the first man powerful enough to carry out such a project. Mr. Hodges then explained the organization of the international group, which he has often seen in action; it consists of the Assembly, Council, and Secretariat. All reports are translated into French and English.

Using his personal observations as illustrations, the speaker effectively contrasted the procedure of the Assembly with that of the Council, the first being slow in its transactions and the latter being informal yet businesslike. After summarizing seven definite constructive activities of the League prior to 1928, which in themselves are of minor importance, yet in relation to the world very significant, Mr. Hodges recognized three serious blunders of the League, namely, in the Sino-Japanese dispute, the Economic Conference, and the Disarmament Conference.

Many questions followed this interesting and enlightening address.

All members are urged to be present on December 7, the date of the next club meeting. At this time, also, all new members will be welcomed.

PROMINENT PEOPLE . . .

PAUL VANNESS

Pictured above we have the erstwhile manager of the 1933 football team. This is "Van's" fourth year in the managerial department where he has attained the reputation of being efficient and capable. His activities, however, are not confined to the athletic division. "Van" was the competent president of the Junior class last year, a member of the ALBRIGHTIAN business staff for two years and for three years an active member of the Y.M.C.A. council, being secretary of that organization his third year. Prominent among the students of the business course, he is secretary of the newly formed club pertaining to that department.

Notwithstanding his many extra-curricular activities, "Van" stands high in scholastic rating and is an active member of the Alpha Pi Omega fraternity. Inclined towards a business career and reputed to be exceptionally interested in fish-marketing—I mean marketing, he will doubtless become connected with some large business concern such as the Rummerfield General Store after he leaves Albright.

Seriously, Paul is recognized on the campus for his winning personality and his marked leadership qualities. We extend to one of our most popular seniors success in all his future undertakings.

Games may come and games may go, but the Lebanon Valley-Albright game of 1933 will live in the hearts of all Albright men forever. The Lions were never given an outside chance of even stopping the Blue and White and practically every dopest in the East picked the Mylin aggregation to win. When the game started one could see that the Lion team was not the same team that bowed to West Chester, Villanova, LaSalle, and Davis & Elkins; they looked like football players and played like All-Americans. It was like awakening from a dream and going back to a year ago when the Red and White was sweeping the gridiron of her opponents. It is quite sad that Albright did not find herself until the next to the last game of the season. They are set and ready to go against Ursinus today and will bring home a victory. The Bears have not an impressive season and it is doubtful that this year's team rates any higher than the team that Albright shellacked last year 26-0.

One of the hardest tasks that any writer has ever had to write is the one concerning the game fight that Our Gang put up at the Stadium on Saturday. Every man played his heart out and gave everything that he had. The team as a whole functioned like a machine. Nick Iatesta again showed the way to the team and his constant gains and his ability to go through the line when no one else could showed that with each game he is getting better and better. Four of our linemen played a brand of football that they never have played before and it is doubtful whether they will ever rise to such heights again. Sutcliffe played one of the sweetest games at end that was possible and stopped only when he was carried from the game. Jack has showed us some real football this year and with another year to go he might make us forget such ends as Karlip, Daub., and Fromm. Newt Danford, handicapped this season and with little experience, played a fine game at center and was at the bottom of a majority of the tackles. With another year to go he should develop into a first rate center. Bailey Gass played an excellent game getting down under punts and stopping the Valley men in their tracks; he has a long way to go before he can rate with the veterans of other years, but with two years of varsity experience and his third coming up he should stand out. "Pug" Lease, who has been playing an in-and-out brand of ball all season came into his own on Saturday and gave an exhibition that stamps him as being a real football man. He started the game without a helmet and according to those that know him well, that is when he really starts to play.

Today we tackle the Ursinus Bears, who on paper have a better team than Albright, but one which started off with a grand splurge and has not kept up that imposing record. They were lucky in tying Villanova, but when Dickinson with an unusually weak team tied them their stock hit rock bottom. They have won four games, lost two and tied two. The two teams that Albright and Ursinus have both played are Villanova and St. Joseph's. Ursinus beating St. Joseph 20-0 while Albright turned the trick 43-0. Ursinus was lucky, yes, very lucky indeed, in holding Villanova to a 7-7 tie while Villanova took Albright 21-0. That's the record—now you take your pick and I'll take Albright to win.

RED AND WHITE FLASH OLD SPIRIT WITH RIVAL TEAM

"Nick" Iatesta, "Andy" Conway, Outstanding for Lions; Boran, Feeser, Brilliant for Visitors

The anti-finale of the 1933 Albright football season found the Red and White eleven beginning to show streaks of the old fighting spirit characteristic of all Lion teams. Albright played a much better game than the deadlock 6-6 might indicate, although Lebanon Valley was by no means a meek, subdued opponent. Every Albright roofer was thrilled as he watched an inspired Red and White team venture from its pre-hibernation a smooth, forceful offense and a grim, determined defense which stalemated a favored Blue and White eleven. This deadlock ended Albright's overwhelming supremacy over its ancient foe and marks the 24th gridiron battle between the two institutions.

"Andy" Conway indirectly placed the Lions in a scoring position in the second quarter when he booted the pigskin out of bounds on the Blue and White's five-yard line, forcing the Valiants to kick out of danger. From the 35-yard line the Lions launched a formidable running attack which the Blue and White was unable to repulse. Slack and Conway slashed thru the line to gain twelve yards. Hino plunged thru center for nine yards, to which "Nick" Iatesta added seven yards to gain a first down and place the ball on the six-yard line. Conway tried the center of the line, but ran into a stone wall at the line of scrimmage. Iatesta then scampered thru a gaping hole at right tackle for the first score of the game. Hino's placement kick for the extra point fell short of the goal posts.

Plucky, chunky Frank Boran's entrance in the Valiants' lineup in the second half rejuvenated the sturdy Blue and White and seemed to bewilder the Lions with his speed. Not until they stood in the shadow of their goal posts did the Lions hold brilliantly, and then "Irish" Conway's great punting put the Red and White out of danger. Lebanon Valley chose the fourth quarter to manufacture its touchdown by virtue of Rust's 20-yard pass to Feeser, who dodged his way thru several Albright tacklers and sprinted the remaining twenty-five yards to the goal line. Smith lost an opportunity to lead the Lions when he place kicked as poorly as Hino for the point after touchdown.

Three factors which prevented the Smith-coached men from a victory seemed to materialize into the failure to function as one unit, the absence of a fourth backfield man, and inefficient tackling. Although the Lions displayed a better brand of ball than at any other game this year, the work of individuals was again prominent, while a smooth functioning machine was visible at rare intervals. Iatesta, Hino, and Conway did yeomen's work, but a backfield quartet could not be satisfactorily completed. DeFranco and Orr seemed to be shrouded in an inexplicable mystery which restrained their best performance; Pete Slack's injury prevented his usual brilliant performance, while the remainder of the backfield material suffered inexperience. The shoddy, ineffective tackling which was prevalent all season perhaps caused the score to be tied by Lebanon Valley. However, we want to congratulate Hook Mylin on one of the best Lebanon Valley teams he has ever brought to the Albright Stadium.

Doyle and Rimelspacher

On Monday evening the Pi Alpha Tau sorority held an "Upside Down" party in honor of the Freshmen class. Guests were: Mary Bentzel, Julia Bowman, Dorothy Butler, Betty Campbell, Marietta Caramana, Majorie Eastwood, Mary Falcom, Helen Fox, Ethel Goforth, Helen Gordon, Jeanette Henry, Marietta Klein, Katherine Knerr, Lucy Knoblauch, Amy Leitner, Edith Marquet, Dorothy Marquette, Grace Mengel, Carolyn Miller, Mildred Newkirk, Leona Reed, Ethel Schaffer, and Cora Schankle.

Did that dark-haired football man (he's a Sophomore) get a send-off from his fraters when he went to pay his respects to Selwyn Hall Sunday evening?

Many Albrightians attended an inter-club dance at Wyomissing High School on Saturday evening. The following received bids: Dorothy Dautrich, Jeanette Henry, Dorothy Butler, Sam Henry, Richard Roeder, Paul Vanness, and Claude Felty.

Rumor has it that a thermometer filled with red alky is missing from the anatomy lab. The prof. with the Irish name is reported to have turned purple when he heard of the theft.

Dale Wampler, the head cheer leader of Lebanon Valley College, spent the week-end at the Kappas. He is a former Albrightian and Kappa.

Among those who helped to guard the campus Friday night were quite a few of the co-eds. Several of them were completely disgraced by running out when they heard the whistle. One Senior refused to come in before she saw if her you-know-what was among the injured.

The following individuals have been extended an honorary membership to the Alpha Pi Omega fraternity:

Dr. Cook, professor of chemistry at Albricht.

Dr. Wyle, minister of the First Christian Church, Plymouth, Pa.

Rev. Mengle, pastor of the Alsace Reformed Church, Reading.

Professor Carl Burg, professor of history, Muhlenberg High School.

We wonder if it was necessary for the president of a prominent science organization to take his babe to see "Sweethearts."

Reba Tapper, Miriam Becker, Alma Bergstresser, Kathryn Kutz, Esther Harner, Phi Delta Beta sorority alumni, visited the campus over the week-end.

You should have seen that football man's face get crimson when he saw an old flame waving at some one else. He, poor lad, answered the wave and was snubbed.

Amiel Caramana and Wes Kerbin were the week-end guests at the Caramanas.

From what I hear, the man with the coldest name on the campus isn't that way when he's with that popular co-ed.

Anita Comfort attended a week-end house party at the Chi Phi house at Stevens Institute.

Irene Fray, Mary Ellen Venus, Ann Wetzel, Helen Freezman, and Mary Bowman, alumni of Pi Alpha Tau, visited the "Pat" room Saturday.

That dark-haired Senior was so burned up he stuttered when he stepped in the road of a spray of water which wasn't intended for him on Monday night.

Wes Stevens and Doug Seckler attended a formal dance at the Berkshire Country Club on Friday night.

For the edification of one of our Sophomore girls, an employee of the athletic council explained that the line of scrimmage is the line on which the players hang their uniforms after the game.

The following fraters visited the Kappas on Alumni Day: Park Adams, Robert Hepler, Tom Boyle, Dr. Boom Frock, Elmer Mohn, Peter Fultz, and Linwood Haganbuch.

Altho that Senior lad may burn up over this, we'll risk his anger and insist that his sitting beside that Senior girl is no coincidence, but results from his being on the Seating Arrangement Committee.

The merger of the Phi Beta Mu and Phi Delta Beta sororities was consummated Monday evening when the Phi Beta Mus took into active membership Lillian Slater, Marian Myers, Gladys Novaky, and Jean Goodling. Mrs. Nettie B. Currier, former Phi Delta Beta advisor, was also taken into membership. Those present at the formal initiation were: Miss Anne Kulp, Sarah Hoffman, Anita Comfort, Sarah Emma Myers, Ruth Turner, Eva Jones, Louise Zener, Ruth Fox, and Dorothy Dautrich. Refreshments were served after the service.

A certain curly-haired Sophomore who rooms over the Gym is at present engrossed in an affair of the heart, so his friends, who see little of him on Saturday nights, tell me.

Emily Yocum, Irma Stahl, Geraldine Kershner, Esther Feneli, and Betty Krick, Phi Beta Mu alumni, were present at the Albright-Lebanon Valley game.

The lousy joke that was published in this column last week got in thru a gross mistake of one of the higher-ups. But then, they're all lousy. I admit it.

The A. P. O. basketball team will play a game Tuesday, Nov. 28, with the Varsity five of Lebanon on the Armory court at Lebanon, Pa.

Imagine the embarrassment of seven people when a certain Fresh girl confessed at the dinner table she had never cut her own meat until she came to Albright.

Thomas Hepler and Charles Gabriel entertained their parents, Saturday. Stanley Hino and Ralph DeFranco visited the latter's home during the past week-end.

Since a recent social affair the flame of a silent passion has been burning in the breast of one of our day student Sophomores for that Senior girl. She (he and I agree on this) is decidedly pulchritudinous (pretty to you).

The string quartet from the Reading High School, which played in our dining room Tuesday evening last, were thoroughly enjoyed by the entire student body. We trust they will favor us again.

SWEATER TO BE GIVEN TO OUTSTANDING ATHLETE

Rogers and Johnson sporting goods store of Reading will award to the Albright College football man who is most outstanding in today's game a ten-dollar suede jacket—the selection of color, etc., to be his. The decision as to the most creditable performance will be determined by committee composed of our daily newspaper men and representatives of the Albrightian staff.
