THEMESIANS AGAIN CLAIM MUDGE CUP

Girls Are Victors In Closely Contested Debate With
The Neocosmians

NEGATIVE WINS 2-1 DE-CISION OF JUDGES

For another year the prized Mudge Cup will occupy its point of vantage in Mohn Hall, the home of the Themisians, by virtue of the fact that in the final inter-society debate with the Neocosmians the three fair debaters won by a decision of two to one. The annual contest, which gains in rivalry each year, was held in the college chapel, Thursday night, December 13, where a fair-sized audience had gathered.

Rev. Hershey, pastor of the local United Brethren Church, presided, and announced the subject for debate: Resolved, that "The Principles of the Kansas Industrial Court Act be Incorporated into Pennsylvania State Legislation." The Neocosmians, represented by Snyder, Charles Raffensperger, and Kyle in the order of their speeches, with Shick as alternate, upheld the affirmative side, while the Themisians, represented by Martha Shambaugh, Phyllis Bicher, and Edith Rosser, Armita Miles as alternate, opposed them with the negative.

Both sides put up excellent arguments, both from the standpoint of material and delivery, and the debate was proof of Albright's increasing interest and ability in the forensic (Continued On Page Two)

MRS. LEHMAN BRINGS MESSAGE TO GIRLS

Under the auspices of the Missionary Committee of the Y. W. C. A. Mrs. Lehman, missionary to China and now home on furlough spoke to the Y. W. on Saturday afternoon, December 16th. In an intimate way, Mrs. Lehman, by contrasting the advantages of Chinese girls and American girls, told us why we should be thankful for our American birthrights, and, not only be satisfied to be thankful, but to help bring similar advantages to the Chinese. In all China, Mrs. Lehman said, the girls are as anxious to learn as we are, but schools are lacking, and when schools are erected, where are the teachers? A strong plea for missionaries was made. Ring Out, Wild Bells

Ring out, wild bells, to the wild sky,
The flying cloud, the frosty light;
The year is dying in the night;
Ring out, wild bells, and let him die.

Ring out the old, ring in the new,
Ring, happy bells, across the snow:
The year is going, let him go;
Ring out the false, ring in the true.

Ring out false pride in place and blood,
The civic slander and the spite;
Ring in the love of truth and right,
Ring in the common love of good.

Ring in the valiant man and free,
The larger heart the kindlier hand;
Ring out the darkness of the land,
Ring in the valiant man and free,

Christmas Carollers Were Abroad Early

Faculty And Friends Of The School Visited By Girls And Boys Respectively

As is their custom, the girls of the college went "carol singing" this year. On Sunday night, Dec. 16th, the air was filled with the sweet music of their songs, for a goodly number responded to the call to cheer others by means of song. They sang at Faculty Heights, at the homes of Dr. Stober, Professors, Walton, Zener, Keller, Benfer, Rev. Heck, Dr. Gobble, Dr. Hunt, at "Old Main" and concluded the "sing" at Mrs. Mohn's home. Then on Tuesday night, Dec. 18th, the boys continued the good old custom and sang their Christmas wishes to faculty and girls. The singing was done by both with the true Christmas spirit and was greatly appreciated. May the custom never die!

WONDERFUL ADDITION TO COLLEGE MUSEUM

A collection of birds and mammals, representing the accumulation of forty years, was recently purchased by the Board of Trustees of the College from Mr. Walter Schnader, of Lancaster, Pa., and added to the specimens in the Museum. The consideration was $700, a mere song for the real value of the collection. The original intention had been for the presentation as a gift to the College, but recent unlooked-for business adversities compelled some payment. The collection was moved by truck to Myerstown on January 3rd. Placement and cataloging are now under way.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES WILL MEET

A special session of the Board of Trustees of the College will convene on Wednesday, January 10th to consider matters of general interest to the College.

Debating Team Is Chosen and At Work

Crumbling, Kachel, And Shick
Are New Men Chosen To Represent Albright In Debate

Albright's inter-collegiate debating team for the 1923 debating season has been chosen and Prof. I. C. Keller, advising coach and the one person responsible for Albright's debating success of last year, has the team hard at work for the coming debates. The team is composed of Chas. Raffensperger, '23, Frank Kyle, '23, Ellsworth Escott, '23, Harry Crumbling, '24, Kenneth Snyder, '24, Charles Kachel, '24, Albert Swank, '24, and Blaine Shick, '24.

From this able group of debaters, two well-balanced teams have been chosen to represent Albright in the affirmative and negative sides of the question. The affirmative team will (Continued On Page Two)

XMAS WEDDING IS OF INTEREST TO STUDENTS

On the evening of December 21, at Hovans, Penna., was performed a wedding ceremony of much interest to the people of Albright, for the contracting parties were none other than Charlotte Kurtz and Bernhart Kingsley, former Albright students. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Kingsley, father of the groom, in the beautifully decorated home of the bride's parents. The attendants were Walter Kurtz, brother of the bride, also a former Albright man, and Miss Marion Manbeck. The guests included relatives of the bride and groom and a few intimate friends. After a sumptuous dinner the happy couple left on a trip to Canada, and upon their return will reside in Lancaster. The bride will be remembered as a former member of the class of '23, a good-natured person, full of life and "pep". The groom, a man of sterling character, is best known as an athlete of the highest order. To these newlyweds the Bulletin extends congratulations!

BASKET BALL GETS DELAYED START

Speedy Team Will Represent
Albright At Swarthmore
On Saturday Night

COMPETITION IS STRONG
FOR BERTHS ON QUINTET

Basket ball is getting a late start at Albright, due to injuries of the men and inadequate heating system of the gymnasium. It is a wonder that Coach Benfer is at all able to place a team on the court, yet night after night the men, twenty strong, brave the cold and turn out at the gymnasium for practice in order to uphold Albright's traditional honor on the basket ball floor. Unfortunately we were forced to cancel our first two games, but on Jan. 13, the Red and White will journey to Swarthmore, and the Garnet will find no mean opponents in their midst, for Coach Benfer is developing one of the speediest teams ever turned out at Albright. Speed and endurance is his slogan, and his teams surely possess these qualities.

Miller and Kline, two veteran guards will probably retain their positions as will Dech, the speedy little forward. Around these three veterans Benfer will probably build his offense. Abel, Ziegenfuss, Zellers, and Raffensperger are the likely candidates for the center and forward positions. Zellers and Raffensperger have had varsity experience last year, while the others are new men, and the Benfer style of coaching is bewildering at times to (Continued On Page Two)

FORMER TREASURER OF ALBRIGHT DIES

William M. Hoppes, of Allentown, Pa., was called from this life on Saturday, December 2nd, 1922, at the age of 61 years, 6 months. Trained for business in the Eastman College, New York, he entered on the work of a merchant and continued in that calling until 1911, when impaired health led him to retire. He suffered from conditions which necessitated a serious operation nineteen weeks before his death; and, while the difficulty was corrected, an affection of the heart developed which brought the end.

He was a consistent Christian, filled nearly all the offices in the congregation. (Continued On Page Three)

ALUMNI ANNOUNCEMENT

One of the unfortunate results of the adoption of the new constitution of the Alumni Association was the forced retirement of Dr. Gobble from the chairmanship of the Literary and Scientific Committee. This loss would be irreparable were it not for the fact that Dr. Gobble has kindly consented to act as an advisory member of the new committee. However, the present chairman feels that, in order to maintain the record the past committee made, the Alumni and friends of Albright will need to rally to the aid of the men who have accepted the responsibility of supervising this work. If you know of material of a literary or scientific nature that is available for Albright, get in touch with a member of the committee. In this way you will be doing our college a real (Continued on Page Three)

EDITORIALS

A NEW RESOLUTION

Now that the popular time for making good resolutions is upon us, the Bulletin Staff wishes to offer to you one more good resolution to add to your list.

If you will glance at the inside pages as well as the last page of the Bulletin, numerous names displayed on prominent type will catch your eye, names of individuals and of various firms who bear the brunt of our paper.—Our Advertisers. These men have been kind enough to insert their advertisements without any guarantee or much hope of material returns. Some of our advertisers have complained that they have not received sufficient consideration or patronage from the students to warrant a renewal of their "ads". In all fairness we cannot expect them to continue giving us "ads" indefinitely for mere "thank-yous" on our part. Let us all resolve to turn over a new leaf, and the next months give our advertisers some tangible proof of our appreciation.

It is a matter of only four months until the new business manager will have to begin soliciting advertisers to finance the Bulletin during the coming year. The student can greatly simplify matters for him when he asks for renewal of this year's "ads", if they have clearly shown these different firms that Albright has made returns in patronage. It pays to advertise,—but it is a poor rule that doesn't work both ways. It pays to patronize our advertisers.

So let it be one of our most religiously kept New Year's resolutions to repay our advertisers. You will be helping your new business manager; you will be insuring the financial success of next year's Bulletin; you will be gaining good-will for the College.

NEW YEAR

Again, we as students are facing a new year. Much will be determined by what we put into this coming year. Our lives will be molded and our destinies determined by the character of work which we perform.

Therefore, as we approach this year, we should resolve to make each moment count in the sum total of our life's activities. A moment lost is a moment never to be regained. Poor Richard has said, "Lost time is never found again", and what we call time enough, always proves little enough. This is very true and we should endeavor to utilize every moment that is placed in our hands.

Misusing time is one of the greatest defaults a man can have. Are moments but to be cast about as worthless stones? Or are we to while away our time as the birds in the air? Yea, the birds that fly have more purpose in their flight than multitudes of people who wander thru life. Franklin also said, "But dost thou love life, then do not squander time, for that is the stuff life is made of." Again, "Sloth, like rust, consumes faster than labor wears; while the use of keys is always bright" is another proverb of the Quaker town philosopher. "If time be of all things the most precious, wasting time must be, as Poor Richard says, 'the greatest prodigality'."

Therefore, should we not enter the New Year with a fixed determination to make the best of all our time? Our purpose should be to make each succeeding day better than the last, the result of which will be a well-lived life.

Is it too late to wish everybody a Happy, Happy New Year? We're counting on a happier one this year than last, and at that rate, this new year will have a lot to measure up to. After all, it depends upon one's very own self—does it not?

CLERIC

In the first of a series of lectures for prospective ministers, Rev. I. Moyer Hershey, local U. B. minister, and an able speaker, addressed a well attended meeting of the Cleric. His theme was "The Divine Call To The Ministry". Rev. Hershey maintained that one divinely called to the Gospel ministry, rarely if ever, succeeded in any other vocation, if he does not heed the call. He cited numerous experiences to prove this.

He also brought out the fact that one not divinely called has small hope of achieving success in the ministry. The speaker then spoke at length on ways of testing whether one has really been divinely called. Rev. Hershey speaks from a wealth of experience, hence the student body should make it a point to hear him. His next lecture, to be held in the near future will center about "The Passion of The Ministry".

SCIENCE CLUB

At a recent meeting of the Science Club Mr. David Hoffman delivered a very instructive and highly interesting lecture on the subject "Essentials of a Diet". His conclusions were that leafy vegetables, milk, and eggs are very essential to our diet, if we are to secure the necessary elements. Mr. Hoffman also spoke at length on vitamins, food constituents found especially in the above food.

Mr. Guinter then addressed the Club on the theme, "The Scientific and The Ministerial Student". The burden of his well-heard address was the fact that the interests of these two classes are not conflicting, but are, and must become, more nearly identical. Mr. Guinter proved himself a speaker of no mean ability.

The concluding number was a well ordered current events presented by Phyllis Becher.

At this meeting, which was well attended, one new member, Miss K. McCurdy, was initiated. Prof. Walton was in attendance.

SOCIETY AND CLUB

POLITICAL CLUB

On Thursday night the Albright Political Club heartily welcomed in to active membership Messrs. Heil, Gramley and Clyde Hewitt.

The opening number of the highly instructive program was a resume of Gov. Sproul's administration by Mr. Grumbling.

Was Pres. Harding justified in opposing the Pension Bill? This was fully discussed by Mr. Schick.

Dr. Finnegan as the Educational leader of Penna., was the subject of Mr. Swank's discourse.

Mr. Bennett who was present at the opening of the Legislature at Harrisburg gave an interesting talk on the organization of the two houses.

PASSED AWAY

Friends and enemies of the "Old Barn", (yes we use capital letters since it is demise) will be interested to hear of its passing on. On our return from the holiday vacation Barn and all traces had disappeared. There is a certain mystery attached to its disappearance for what on earth could have become of all that the Old Place contained? It might possibly appear in some disguised form as dining room hash and then another solution is its drowning in Albright Lake. Who can tell? Quien Sabe?

To be college bred, means a four year loaf, a great deal of dough, and plenty of crust.

There are plenty of good jokes, but few of us are original.

CONFESSIONS OF A FLAPPER

December 2nd—Jane and I decided to-day, that we are going to be flappers. I had a little trouble to get Jane to do it. She's my best friend, and always does what I want her to, but she just balked a little on this. She says her mother doesn't approve of flappers, and when I told her that that is the general idea of being a flapper, not to listen to anyone but one's very own self, she looked awfully shocked and said, then surely she couldn't do it. But she always does what I want her to, and at last I persuaded her to try it, for a little while, at least. I said to her, "Jane, we're both 15, it's soon time we learn to be our own bosses. Do you want people like your Julia to rule over you? Do I want our Milly to always order me around? Never! We'll be flappers, Jane, and after this, big sisters don't count." I came home for supper to-night, at heart, a flapper. The family doesn't know it yet, but they will to-morrow.

December 3rd—Today, Jane and I started out on our career as flappers. I was afraid Jane would back down. She needs lots of support. She's a good follower, but needs somebody around to help her. I was almost afraid to meet her this morning, but she came to school with just enough difference in her looks to let the world know she's a flapper too. I didn't have such a hard time as I expected to get the clothes together. Milly went out and I took one of her waists. She was asleep when I went out this morning and didn't notice me. Bob, he's my brother, has plenty of ties, so I just went in his room and took one. I'm pretty tired to-night. I learned lots of new things to-day. Cora Kelly, a girl in our school knows heaps of slang and flapper talk, so I tried to stay near her to hear it. It is great talk. You can express yourself so well.

But the family didn't understand at all. To-night at supper Bob had on a new suit, and when I told him it was the cab's cuff, mother sighed and looked at father with that "What-is my baby learning now" expression, and Milly said, "Mother, why do you let her use such awful language?" Father said in a tone he uses only when he's terribly cross with me, "That kind of talk will do, young lady. We'll have no more of it please." But I'm not going to let little things like family displeasure hinder me; I've set out to be a flapper, and I'll be one.

December 10th—It's been a long time since I've had time to write in this diary of mine. I've been in terrible disgrace. You see it was like this. The day after I became a flapper, Uncle Rob came. He's pretty young yet and is mother's only brother. We're pals. Mother says she hates to see him come because I'm so encouraged in my bad deeds, and if there's anything awful I want he always gets it for me. Well, when I got home from school, there he was, and I nearly smothered him. I was so very glad to see him. Then he held me out and said, "Let's see you, little sister. Why you're growing. Soon you'll be a regular flapper!" Imagine that coming from Uncle Rob! Then he asked what I want most of all, not a Christmas present, just a present, and I told him just what. You can't guess, so I'll tell you. Knickers! But Uncle Rob never batted an eyelash, (that's another cute little expression I learned from Cora Kelly) so we went down town and bought the dearest grey tweeds and blouse you ever lapped. (Cora says that too, and I like it.) I didn't let the family see them because I didn't want

"The way of an Eagle in the air"

CENTURY after century men broke their necks trying to fly. They had not troubled to discover what Solomon called "the way of an eagle in the air."

In 1891 came Samuel Pierpont Langley, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution. He wanted facts. His first step was to whirl flat surfaces in the air, to measure the air pressures required to sustain these surfaces in motion and to study the swirls and currents of the air itself. Finally, in 1896, he built a small steam-driven model which flew three-quarters of a mile.

With a Congressional appropriation of $50,000 Langley built a large man-carrying machine. Because it was improperly launched, it dropped into the Potomac River. Years later, Glenn Curtiss flew it at Hammondsport, New York.

Congress regarded Langley's attempt not as a scientific experiment but as a sad fiasco and refused to encourage him further. He died a disappointed man.

Langley's scientific study which ultimately gave us the airplane seemed unimportant in 1896. Whole newspaper pages were given up to the sixteen-to-one ratio of silver to gold.

"Sixteen-to-one" is dead politically. Thousands of airplanes cleave the air—airplanes built with the knowledge that Langley acquired.

In this work the Laboratories of the General Electric Company played their part. They aided in developing the "supercharger," whereby an engine may be supplied with the air that it needs for combustion at altitudes of four miles and more. Getting the facts first, the Langley method, made the achievement possible.

What is expedient or important today may be forgotten tomorrow. The spirit of scientific research and its achievements endure.

Uncle Rob to be scolded. He left again on Friday morning. Friday afternoon, Jane and I were walking past a barber shop. All at once I thot, "What is the use of being a flapper with knickers if you don't have bobbed hair?" Jane and I almost went quits, but I went in and told the man to cut it all off. Jane gasped when the heavy braids flapped on the floor, but it didn't phase me, even tho I had pretty hair. It looked much better off, and I went home as happy as ever. My plan was great. I was going to surprise the family at supper by getting all dressed up in my new clothes, and introducing myself as the "bobbed-hair and knickered beauty." I surprised them. I sauntered down to the dining room with my hands flappishly stuck in my pockets, and I never felt so wonderful. I whistled and felt so successful. But my life is shattered. I'll never feel successful again. Bob howled. He was so cruel. Milly nearly fainted and father both grabbed me and rushed be upstairs to my room. Mother cried and cried, but father stormed and scolded and was awfully disagreeable and unpleasant. It's over now, but I declare, I hate to think about it even yet. I haven't been allowed to do a single thing ever since. I couldn't go to Eleanor's party, nor to dancing class or the show, nor anywhere, and maybe I wouldn't care so much if it weren't so near Christmas, but I know I won't get a thing. My party dress, my pearl bracelet and new skates, all, all are gone. But the worst is mother sent the knickers to a rummage sale at the Charity Club, and I never can face Uncle Rob again. I guess I'm thru being a flapper.

ALUMNI DEPARTMENT

The friends of Mr. George T. Yost, '16, will be interested in the following news item which appeared in a Lebanon daily under date of Dec. 16th. We understand that the wedding took place on Dec. 6th.

"George T. Yost, formerly from Myerstown, who during the past two years has been located at Beaumont, Texas, was recently wedded to Miss Josie Myers, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe A. Myers, of Beaumont. It was an elaborate church wedding, the ceremony being solemnized in St. Mark's Episcopal church in the presence of a large gathering of friends. Rev. J. W. Frampton, of Port Arthur, officiated. The church was tastefully decorated with southern smilax and chrysanthemums. Following the ceremony an informal reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, and later, the couple left on a wedding trip to New Orleans. The groom is a son of Mrs. M. Elizabeth Yost, of Myerstown, Pa. He is a graduate of Albright College and the Williamson Trades School and is at present employed as a chemist with the Magnolia Petroleum Company, of Beaumont. During his stay there he has been residing with his sister, Mrs. Carl S. Dickens. His bride is prominent socially, in the activities of St. Mark's church and in the work of the Y. W. C. A. Following her graduation from the High School at Beaumont, she attended the College of Industrial Arts, at Denton."

Mid-year Assembly

The time for the regular mid-year assembly of the Alumni Association is near at hand—Friday and Saturday, Feb. 2nd and 3rd, 1923. Do not forget the time. Make no other engagements for these dates and plan to come to Myerstown.

Do not say, "It will not be worth while to attend"; nor "There is nothing to interest me". Come! Make it worth while; and get interested. This assembly will be to you, alumni, just what you make it.

The mid-year assembly is:

- (1) A rally day for Alumni.
- (2) A day for visitation of undergraduate friends.
- (3) A day for the renewal of old student friendships.
- (4) A time to make new acquaintances among the present student body and bring them alumni cheer.
- (5) A time to get better acquainted with the work of the college and to show your continued interest in her prosperity.
- (6) A good time to see the varsity basketball team in action.
- (7) A time for business and constructive planning of future alumni activity.
- (8) A time of general good fellowship.

A definite program has not yet been arranged. This will probably be announced in the next number of the Bulletin. We are certain of having a good basket-ball contest, Feb. 2nd—Albright vs Juniata. Remember the time.

Be present.

The ballots for alumni trustee will be counted at this business meeting. If you have not yet sent in your vote, please do so at once. Do not forget to pay your annual dues of one dollar. Non-payment of dues invalidates your ballot. Vote now!

day and Sunday, Dec. 16th and 17th, visiting old friends and addressing the Myerstown congregation in the interest of foreign missions, Sunday morning. His stay with us was all too short. Rev. Lehman is at present attending The Biblical Seminary of New York City, for further training preparatory to his return to China next Fall. We hope to have him visit Albright once more before he leaves for his chosen field.

You have noticed, alumni, that the recent numbers of the Bulletin contained practically no alumni news. Who's to blame? The editor can not publish news which he does not possess. Send us some items of general interest.

Rev. J. A. Heck, '16, will present the weekly discussions of the Christian Endeavor topics for the year 1923 in "The Evangelical-Messenger".

Personal

T. R. Buck, '90 is president of the Berwick, Pa. School Board.

Rev. W. A. Eisenberger, '10 became assistant pastor of the large New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, Washington, D. C., on Jan. 1, 1923. This position opens to him a great field of opportunity. We congratulate him, and wish him every success.

FACULTY

Dr. Hunt attended the funeral of Mr. W. Hoppes, of Allentown, whose obituary appears in another column.

Prof. Keller addressed the City Teachers' Institute of Lancaster, Saturday, December 16th, and on Sunday afternoon of the 17th, he spoke in the Birdsboro Y. M. C. A. Prof. and Mrs. Benfer, spent the Christmas vacation at Bangor with Mrs. Benfer's parents, Senator and Mrs. J. N. Hoffman.

Mrs. Elies spent the Christmas recess with friends in Washington, D. C.

Miss Flory attended the Sunday afternoon recital at the new Rajah Temple in Reading on December 17.

After being confined to his home several weeks with severe colds and grip, Rev. Heck is able to attend classes and look after his church duties.

Pres. Hunt and Prof. Zener, head of the Department of Education represented Albright at the Pennsylvania State Education Convention at Bethlehem December 27-29.

The Proof

Manney: "I helped a blind man on the train during vacation."

Jones: "Oh, he wasn't blind, he was only kidding you."

Manney: "No, he was blind—he couldn't see."
