Weaver '41 Grad, Randolph Air Cadet

West Pointers Among Enrollees

Randolph Field, Texas, Jan. 27, 1942—Graduating the first war-time class of aviation cadets and student officers in its history on January 9, Randolph Field, oldest and largest of the Air Corps' basic flying schools, continues its major role in the Air Forces' huge pilot training program. One hundred thirty-three universities and colleges are represented by this group, and among them is an Albright College man, Edwin R. Weaver, Lock Haven, Penna., B.S., Class of '41.

Having completed twenty weeks of intensive primary and secondary aerial schooling, these pilots-to-be are now ready for the final stage of their course at a specialized training field that will make them the best of any nation's first line military pilots.

Up to now they have learned to pilot low-powered biplanes and faster low winged monoplanes. All aerial maneuvers from solo to formation flying have been mastered. They know their aircraft—its possibilities—its limitations.

The mechanics of engine maintenance is no longer a secret to them. They fly as well by night as they do by day. An uncharted course through a darkened sky is just another navigation problem.

They have completed courses in weather, radio code, military law and close-order drill in their extra-curricular activities—all in preparation for their future duty as pilot-officers in the Army Air Forces.

Among this group are many members of the June, 1941, graduating class of the United States Military Academy at West Point, New York. After completing their schooling at the "Point" they were chosen for training as pilots in their present grade of Lieutenants. Upon graduation, they will become Air Corps Officers of the Regular Army.

After completing the Air Corps course, Aviation Cadets are appointed Second Lieutenants in the Air Corps Reserve and will go to duty with units of the Combat Command.

Cross Drive Tops Goal As Daymen Give $10

The Red Cross drive was exceedingly successful. The campaign resulted in the collection of $56.87, or $6.87 over the goal set for the drive. The organizations cooperated splendidly and willingly, highlighted by the Daymen's contribution of $10.00.

Prof. Green Sponsor Of Defense Hikes

Group To Start Saturday At 1.30

Professor Marcus Green's hikes are now affiliated with the Albright College Council of Defense, Committee on first aid, sanitation, and health.

The purpose of the organized hiking groups is to help maintain physical fitness by participation in vigorous outdoor exercise. In order that everyone may participate, men and women students as well as faculty members are invited. The hikes are planned for Saturday afternoons in order not to interfere with regularly planned school activities. The hikers meet in the science building and leave promptly at 1:30 p. m. They will return in time for the evening meal. The first hikes will be short until the students become accustomed to the exercise. The greater number of trips will be in the country east of the college. Proper warm clothing, especially covering for the ears, and proper footwear are necessary. Reverend Kresge and a student committee will assist Professor Green in planning and conducting the hikes.

Defense Council To Collaborate With Local Raid and Fire Heads

Your Name In Silver For 30c Still Offered At Bookstore

A few days still remain for students to have their names engraved in silver on the cover of the 1942 "Cue." The fee for the service is thirty cents, which is payable in the bookstore.

Organizations who have not yet paid their picture fee to George Evans had better do so immediately. The final deadline is February 5.

Conservation Group Stresses Saving Of Necessities

The Civilian Defense Council of Albright College, which is headed by Ray Hain, is gaining additional importance every day. At present, the program is expanding rapidly. The defense council works in collaboration with the Reading-Berks Defense Council, which recently issued a bulletin dealing with all phases of its work. Our council received one of these, which among other things, lists the local air raid and fire warden. The council comes in contact with them, for Albright's Chief Air Raid Warden, Michael Dutzer, and his first deputy, James Kane, work very closely with the local Chief Air Raid Warden, Ralph S. Johnson, and Local Chief Fire Warden, Harry Brown. Dutzer heads the committee on Air Raid Protection, which includes a number of deputies charged with preparing for air raids. A rather effective system has been worked out, and practice drills will be inaugurated within the next few weeks. There will probably be a check up of flashlights in the rooms in case of emergency.

Several of the other committees are becoming rather active also. The committee on Men in Service includes in its duties the securing of names of men in the service or those who are inducted from the different organizations on campus. Provisions are made for sending cookies, cigarettes, and other gifts to remind the boys that we remember them and are behind them. Anyone expecting to go into service should see Polly Brossman, who is in charge of this committee.

Stress Saving

Another increasingly important committee is the Conservation Committee, charged with the conservation of materials. The committee's work is to instruct the students of the campus on how to save in the interests of National Defense. Points which it will probably stress are the abolition of needless use of electricity, saving in the use of paper towels, and no waste of food. As anyone who considers the problem can realize, living costs have increased considerably. Saving pays ample rewards. The central theme is to save whatever can be saved.

Today at Harrisburg, in the House of Representatives, there is a round-table discussion of the Defense Programs of the colleges of the states which have such programs. Our college is represented by faculty members Mrs. Anna Smith and Professor Newton Danford and three students. Dr. Martz, President of Bucknell University and State Director of Civilian Defense, will be in charge of the

'Y' Fireside Program Features Singing

Double Quartette Renders Selections

The "Y's" sponsored a Faculty-Student Fireside Fellowship program at their combined meeting last Tuesday evening at 7:30 p. m. in the dining hall.

Following the singing of "The White Cliffs of Dover," by Paul Kimmel, a recording of Lynne Fontaine's reading of "The White Cliffs" was played. The recording was obtained through the courtesy of Mrs. Harry Matten.

Special numbers were given by the double quartette composed of Dorothy Fox, Jane Redcay, Rillie Lee Wright, Doris Schlosser, Gene Pierce, Bruce Knisley, Paul Kimmel, and Robert Mattson.

Group discussions and refreshments concluded the meeting.

Albrightian Staff To Meet At 1.00 P. M. In Room 103

Let's Get To Work NOW!

By ART McKAY

One wonders what has become of some of the committee in the Albright College division of the State Council of Defense. The Albrightian of November 21, 1941, carried a news story which announced the various committees and their chairmen. Committees covering such important areas of national defense as air raid warnings, fire protection, first aid, conservation of defense essentials, men in service and American unity were named.

Some of these committees have presented their program to us very effectively. The committee on first aid is particularly active and effective, it seems. Can't we hear more from the others?

There is, no doubt, some good reason why definite plans have not been formulated and presented to the student body by such committees as those on fire protection and air raid warnings. What it is, this observer is not in a position to know. But it does seem imperative that whatever the reason is, we must get over it or around it somehow . . . and soon.

I could scarcely be called, by any standards, an alarmist; I am not making for speedy action on the part of these committees because I see imaginary Germans and Japanese lurking around every corner. Yet, I do see that the possibility of being asked to face conditions like those faced by the citizens of London is not too remote from any of us. And I think we are unprepared to meet them.

When I see a moving picture like the one shown in chapel early this week, I recognize, as you must, how very little I know about coping adequately with the instruments of warfare which are now being used against civilian populations by the nations at war. That recognition is but a clue to greater and more profound ignorance.

Let's get our committees working soon at the task of disseminating useful information intelligently to the student body. The more we know about the situations in which we are likely to find ourselves the better is our chance to meet them adequately.

Recreation And Defense

The ALBRIGHTIAN, in conjunction with the student council, this week has instituted a plan by which they can do their part towards the national defense. These two campus groups have adopted a method of procedure whereby each and every student, professor, and college patron may do his or her bit toward a final and complete victory. HERE AT LAST IS YOUR CHANCE TO DO SOMETHING WORTHWHILE FOR YOUR COUNTRY.

The following idea has been approved by the president of the college and the paper's faculty advisor. Everybody will be asked to contribute in some way to build up a fund for the purpose of buying defense bonds. These defense bonds will be put in the name of the college and upon their maturity the proceeds will be used to offset the expense of erecting a recreation building. Every week the ALBRIGHTIAN will publish a barometer of the campaign's success. Campus groups as well as individuals will be asked to contribute.

To show the students that the ALBRIGHTIAN is sincere in its efforts, the editorial board has decided to sacrifice the annual staff banquet and use the money allotted for that purpose to start the defense fund. If these students are willing to sacrifice something for which they have been working hard all year, surely the rest of us should be willing to sacrifice a bit of our spare time and energy for this worthy cause.

"Yes," you say, "but asking for contributions does not take time and energy." Wait a moment, you have not heard all that we have to say.

Besides asking for contributions, extensive preparations have already been taken to start a collection of all old papers, rags, and tin cans which are offered toward the defense fund. The proceeds from the sale of these materials will go a long way in helping to purchase these bonds.

The school truck will be made available for these collections. Any persons or organizations who wish to aid in this defense drive are asked to inform the ALBRIGHTIAN or student council as to the location of any such materials which they wish to donate or of persons wishing to offer their services. This can be done by air-mail, pony express, carrier pigeon, telephone, telegraph, or any other of the modern conveniences of communication. This request goes not only to the Albright students, but also to any persons who feel that bit of patriotism coming to the foreground which they have held in silent submission for so long, no matter how remotely they are connected with the college.

Each campus organization can do its part by saving all newspapers, wastepaper, old crib notes, fraternity term-paper files, cans, bottles, or even old clothing and putting in a call for the collectors.

Come on, students, let's show the administration, the city of Reading, and the United States of America that ALBRIGHT STUDENTS ARE WORTHY OF THEIR NAME AND HERITAGE! Here is our chance to show Uncle Sam and the boys who are doing the fighting that we, at home, are not slackers and drones, but that we are busily engaged in doing our part to win that VICTORY and the ultimate PEACE which shall follow.

Now, we don't want any misunderstandings about the building of this recreation building. THE SCHOOL IS NOT CONTEMPLATING THE ERECTION OF SUCH A BUILDING IN THE NEXT YEAR OR SO. The fund which is being set up is to be used at that time in the future when the college finds itself ready and able to start construction. But you can rest assured that this is not all an idle dream, but something which already is being studied in blueprint form.

It is true that we students will probably not reap any of the benefits of this recreation building during our school years, but we will always have pride in pointing out that we did our small bit in helping to bring to life a long-pondered dream and necessity. But more important than that, WE SHALL NEVER FORGET THAT WE HELPED, IN THE BEST WAY WE KNEW HOW, TO LICK HITLER AND THE JAPS.—Harold M. Werner.

STRICTLY PARTIAL

RALPH FLEMING

Hello Folks,

First it was von Bock, then von Keitel, then von Moelders, then von Brauchitch. The British columnists seem to be right when they say that Adolph is losing his generals von by von.

Current rumors have it that one entire Italian band has gone to the firing squad for playing "The March of the Wouldn't Soldiers" while hoofing across the Libyan desert.

But the conduct of Mussolini's boys in German North Africa doesn't seem to bother Der Duce much. After all they now have the glorious "Land of the Rising Scum" fighting with them, so how can they lose? Any day now you will probably read about how Italian corpuscule experts have proven beyond a shadow of a doubt that Japs and Italians are both fellow-Aryans. According to that theory the only reason that the Italians aren't yellow-skinned is that their blood is diluted with olive oil.

After the pact with Germany had been signed, Italian mothers began to name their children Friedrich and Carl in respect to their northern blitzkrieg friends. Now that Japan is in with them heaven only knows what will happen. Three months from now names like "Osaki" Capperelli and "Matsuoka" Carnero might be common in Rome.

This scrap on the Malay peninsula is getting to be hot. Whether the Australians and Japs know it or not, they are fighting in Frank Buck's back yard. This is bad. Even Frankie admits that there are still ten-foot tigers, thirty-foot pythons, and thousands of cobras and swamp adders that he hasn't "brought back alive." I wonder how a lone Jap sentry feels when he looks out into the jungle and realizes that there are other snakes there besides himself?

This week's closing thought: China's gifts to the Western World—soy beans, tung oil, gardenias, camellias, silk, and (you guessed it) dead Japs.

Faculty

Pictured this week is Professor Clyde A. Harding, assistant in the English department and faculty advisor of the ALBRIGHTIAN. Professor Harding has been on the college faculty since 1937.

Dr. Milton Geil will lead a forum discussion on parent education at the Emmanuel Reformed Church Saturday, January 31. The County Sabbath School Association is sponsoring the forum.

The Defense Training School for the second semester, Dr. Geil announced, will begin about February 16. The first semester was concluded this week with examinations and distribution of diplomas.

Dr. Graham Cook addressed the youth at the Youth Rally held at St. Matthew's Evangelical Church January 11. His topic was "The Tater Family."

Dr. Harry V. Masters addressed the Rotary Club, January 27 upon "Youth in the Community."

Dr. Milton Hamilton will speak to the International Relations Club of Reading High School, February 6. His subject will be "Latin America."

Council Says:

Keep fit for defense! Come to the student council dance tonight in the dining hall and loosen up those stiffening joints. There will be dancing—from 8 to 11 p. m. to the 20 tunes the nickelodeon will furnish. Admission is ten cents. This is one of the two dining hall dances this semester to which outsiders will be admitted, but the outsider must be a guest of a student.

Several Friday night parties will take the place of dances during Lent. The dates of these will be announced a week or two ahead of time.

Student council asks that no student bring more than one guest into the student section on Saturday night because the attendance will be very large. Students who are entitled to a seat in the student section might otherwise be forced to stand. Please comply!

Council has gone on record as favoring the campaign to raise money to buy defense bonds which will be turned over to the college at maturity. Represented groups were asked to do what they could in furthering the raising of money, but no compulsory rules were passed.

The week-end of February 20th was announced as the date of the convention of student council representatives at Bucknell.

Lions Out To Claw Birds

Albright's cage team is putting the college on the sports world map. Not since the days of Dick Riffle, who gained All-American football honors here, has our school received as much space and notice in the metropolitan newspapers. The club's fine performance last year and its record of seven wins and one loss this campaign give the Lion cagers one of the best cards in the state.

Jerry Kobrin, who writes for the Reading Eagle and also handles the Lions' sports publicity, informed us the night of the Wyoming game that it was the first time in the sports history of Reading that the United Press asked for a story on a basketball game. Just a little item which proves the Red and White's fame is progressing.

Tomorrow night all attendance records should be shattered at Northwest. The 585 reserved seat tickets were sold two weeks ago and the 2000 general admissions won't last long.

While on the subject of basketball, here are some statistics compiled by Paffy Carls, the Lion's demon scorekeeper.

In nine games, Dick Shollenberger leads the club in scoring with 117 points for a 13 point average. Sophomore Dewey Boltz is next with 78 markers while Big Bill Spangler and Kenny Hopkins trail with 76 each. Scrappy Chin Rhoads has hit the nets for 66 tallies.

The Lions have a 60 per cent foul shooting average, dropping 92 free tosses out of 153 tries. That's good foul shooting in any man's league! In those nine contests, Albright has scored 492 points to the opposition's 392. The Red and White's game average is 55 markers, while the enemy has averaged 43.4.

Maybe you wondered why Coach Dietz hasn't been seen much around the campus lately? Well, that gentleman right now is fulfilling a very heavy banquet schedule. Lone Star has been averaging three high school grid dinners per week since the close of the football season in November.

Society note: Seymour Mendelsohn took time off from his studies to visit New York on official business and at the same time see Long Island University battle West Texas State in Madison Square Garden Wednesday night. Mendy was impressed with the size of the Texans' club whose starting array average six feet six. You should be glad we don't play them, Chippy.

Congratulations and best wishes

A. P. O.'s, Kappas Tie For Second

Pi Taus	1	8	220	423

Shackling a strong A.P.O. bid, 25-20, the Zetas copped first place in the intra-mural basketball league's first half of action. So evenly were the teams matched that the first quarter saw no scoring. In the second canto the A.P.O.'s rang the bell for 14 markers while the Zetas countered with five field goals and one free throw.

The last two frames saw Messrs. Vogt, Weber, and Boland bringing the bacon home with a total of 14 points while holding their rivals to two field goals and one free throw.

By virtue of their win, the Zetas became first-half champions and, although not rolling up the largest scores, they flashed enough offensive and defensive skill to come out on top of the pile with an .800 average.

Right behind the leaders are the Kappas and A.P.O.'s tied for second place. This fight will have been decided by today, but because of the press deadline the results are not available.

The Frosh, with five wins and four losses, are in the fourth slot, but in the event of an A.P.O. or a Kappa loss, and provided the third floor boys defeat the Pi Taus, these two teams will be tied for third place.

The fifth position is held by the Daymen, while the Pi Taus are having a cozy time holding down the bottom rung of the ladder by themselves.

Speed-up Cause Change In Frat Cage Schedule

Due to the acceleration of the school program there has been a slight change in the intra-mural basketball schedule.

The schedule as printed will be the same. However, those games originally scheduled for Monday, January 26, will be played on Monday, March 9.

The league referees are requested by the Intra-mural Athletic Council to heed these changes.

Bill Spangler To Be Available; Harris Vows Revenge

The world famous Clair Bee and his equally famed Long Island University basketball team invade the spacious hardwood of Northwest Junior High tomorrow night to duel a clever and hard running Albright quintet. A record breaking crowd is expected to witness the opening tapoff at 8:30. The Albright Frosh engage a strong Hershey Junior College five in a 7:15 p. m. preliminary.

Albright is rated the underdog but local fans expect to see a titanic struggle. Last year the Beemen walloped the Lions in the Brooklyn Pharmacy Gym, 75-31. The Red and White dribblers were handicapped in that struggle by the smallness of L. I. U.'s floor. Coach Neal O. Harris feels confident that his charges will give a better account of themselves tomorrow night on the large Northwest court.

Campus followers of the Lions were alarmed at the beginning of the week when it was rumored that Bill Spangler, rugged center, had dropped out of school. However, the big blond was called home suddenly by the illness of his mother and informed Harris later that he would be available for duty.

The Albright lineup will be the same that has started every ball game this season. Kenny Hopkins and Dewey Boltz will handle the defensive chores, while dead eye Dick Shollenberger and Bob Rhoads work at the forward slots. In reserve will be George Urosevich, Sammy Sehl, Jim Kane, George Manderbach, Paul Leinbach, and George Horn.

Clair Bee, who is rated one of the best coaches in the business, has a wealth of material from which to choose a starting array. Likely to face the Lions at the initial whistle will be Saul Cohen, and six-foot-six-inch Hank Beenders, at forwards; Dick Holub, skyscraping center; and guards, Howie Rader and Fred Lewis.

Holub, who stands six-five, is the Blackbirds' leading scorer, with Beenders close behind. Bee has another giant in Ed Rothenberger, who reaches six-eight to replace either Holub or Beenders. Lennie Rader is the twin brother of Howie and will see much relief duty.

The twin Raders, Lewis, and Waxman, the club's best set shot, have been playing as a unit since their high school days. They helped to establish a state record at James Madison High School in Brooklyn by copping 37 consecutive contests.

Albright To Sponsor Cage Coach Clinic

Bunny Levitt Will Lecture

Albright College will sponsor a basketball clinic for all coaches and managers of cage teams in Berks County at the Central Y. M. C. A. Monday, February 2, starting at 7:30 p. m. Players will be admitted if accompanied by their coach.

Bunny Levitt, who is the Western representative of the Converse Rubber Company, will lecture on shooting, passing, and dribbling fundamentals. Levitt will also show movies of several outstanding teams in action.

This is Levitt's first trip through the East in this work. His home is Chicago. Levitt is considered to be the world's foul shooting champion, sinking 499 consecutive tries in a contest. For this feat, he was featured in Ripley's Believe It or Not column. In a later exhibition, he shot free throws for seven and half hours, missing two out of 271 attempts.

College students interested in seeing Levitt should contact Coach Neal Harris for full information.

Pi Taus Elect Allen As Second Half Prexy

Wason Allen was elected president of the Pi Tau Beta Fraternity Monday evening, January 26, in a regular meeting held in the fraternities' rooms. Mr. Allen is a pre-medical student from Athens, Pennsylvania, and will matriculate at Temple Medical School next fall.

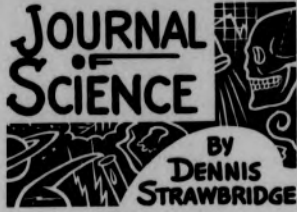

Also elected were John Kleffel, of Altoona, chaplain and vice president; Charles Miesse of Bethlehem, scribe, and Walter Melick of Morristown, New Jersey, treasurer.

On the Defensive

This business of war is very rapidly coming to affect each and every one of us. Grim realities of war are becoming evident on every hand. Reading and Berks County are now in the process of setting into motion an effective air raid warden organization. Dr. Graham Cook, assisted by Professor Newton Danford, head the course being given to train air raid wardens. Volunteers from the city and all parts of the county will gather here on campus to take this course. These volunteers in turn will go into their own particular districts to head their air raid organizations, selecting their own assistants and training them in all the duties and responsibilities this office implies.

The course sponsored by Dr. Cook and Professor Danford will cover the recognizing and decontaminating of all types of poisonous gases, the handling and extinguishing of all types of incendiary bombs, and the many details that make for protecting the civilian population. The time is at hand to recognize and appreciate the gravity of our present situation. The time may come, perhaps in the not too distant future, when we will experience practice blackouts or even the real thing. Let us learn and obey the rules as laid down by the air raid wardens who are being trained on our campus.

The present defense course sponsored by Dr. Milton Geil is due to end February 2. Plans are now being laid to offer a new defense course. In addition to all the chemistry courses now being offered in this defense training, Professor Danford announced that a new chemistry course, industrial organic chemistry, will be offered.

Graduation exercises were held for three Albrightians who recently completed the Civilian Pilot Training Course supervised by Professor George. Robert Gionatti, Warren Engle, and Donald Spatz have earned their private pilot wings. Keep 'em flying, fellows.

Our Future Docs

The country is now experiencing an urgent need for doctors. Seven of our eight pre-meds are now enrolled for the next term at medical school. Wayne Allen, Elaine Shade, and Richard Reinsel will enter Temple Medical School next fall or perhaps even this summer. Ray Hain and Charles Werley plan to enter Jefferson Medical School. Carl Fredericks and Clem Boland plan to enter the University of Pennsylvania Medical School and meeting. George Moger, head football coach at the University of Pennsylvania, is in charge of the physical fitness and health education program.

To Revive Flag Pledge

In addition to the Council's participation in such activities, it is furthering its program of instruction and training. This was demonstrated on Monday and Tuesday of this week. On Monday a film was shown on fighting incendiary bombs, and on Tuesday Professor Danford gave a short talk on this program, the Council distributed leaflets and pamphlets on air raids. A spirit of Americanism is being aroused by reviving the custom of pledging allegiance to our flag.—R. S.
