Debating Out-Look Is Bright

Nine Men Try Out For Posi-tions On Varsity Team— More Interest Shown This Year.

FOUR MEN OF LAST YEAR'S GREAT ARE BACK AGAIN

With Charles Raffensperger, Frank Kyle, Ellsworth Eacott, and Kenneth Snyder of last year's successful col-lege debating team back again, the outlook for another championship debating season is bright. Besides these veterans of the rostrum, there are others who are active in society debate who will make good in inter-collegistic competition.

CHRISTMAS

We are approaching a season which is more widely celebrated than any other season of the year. Dec. 25th is a day of universal recognition. In every part of the world Christmas day is observed with a greater degree of enthusiasm and with a more profound degree of significance than any other day in the year.

Why is the day so universally recognized? The answer to this question gives to the day its extreme beauty. Christmas is widely recognized because of its profound significance. The day has a beautiful meaning—a real, vital inner meaning. One is amazed when he thinks that the whole world is celebrating a day which has for its background a religious principle. And, furthermore, this principle is the fundamental basis of the as for its background a religious principle. And, fur-nermore, this principle is the fundamental basis of the Christian religion. Never before did this though impress Never before did this though impress itself so force-fully upon the mind of the writer. Christmas is the celebration of the birth of Christ,—the Keystone of Christianity. Christ is the essence of all good and He is the Savior of humanity. Is it not marvelous that the whole world is paying homage to this great King? Is this not proof that the Christian religion will stand as long as the world stands? Can we not say that herein lies the beauty of the day? We, as American citizens, can be would that we

We, as American citizens, can be proud that we live in a Christian land—that we have Christ as our leader—and that the whole world is paying homage to this great King, the Savior of humanity.

TRY-OUT

It seems apropos at this time, to set forth a cherished plan which has long been in the minds of the members of the present Bulletin Staff. It is a new system of securing membership on the Staff, a plan, which when worked out as planned, ought to do away with a considerable amount of difficulty which has always accompanied election to membership on the Staff.

The present system, generally known, of merely proposing names to the respective literary societies for election has been in vogue since the establishment of the Bulletin, and such procedure was in its lawful domain when the paper was a literary magazine. But the Bulletin has completely metamorphosed itself and is now a college newspaper, successful enough to have secured membership in one of the great collegiate organizations, namely "The Intercollegiate Newspaper Association of the Middle Atlantic States." We feel that progress of such a commendable report deserves a similar progress in the method of conduction, and would therefore propose earnestly a new system.

In reality it is not so very different from the present method, but would result in a more efficient staff. The plan briefly stated is this: Instead of merely proposing names deemed worthy of membership, and the immediate election, a tryout of say, three or four months would take place, and at the end of such a period, those producing the desired results would then hold forth in the election for the coveted positions. In this way the most efficient and capable men would reach the places on the staff. The present system leaves much to be desired, for at each election, practically a new staff comes in, unlearned and absolutely ignorant of the newspaper law, to say nothing of being uninterested.

This system would extend, not only thru the news and editorial positions on the paper but also thru the business ends as well. Reporter work and editorial work would be duly stressed. Each society, as at present would be assured of positions in the rotation system of election in vogue, provided that it take the responsibility of making sure that a sufficient number of its members would try out, especially during the

The Editor-in-chief carnestly desires the consideration of literary societies and faculty advisors, of this plan. If feasible, work as early as possible on the new plan should begin, even as early as the next issue.

Will not you, literary societies, lend this plan your hearty endorsement, at least by giving it a trial?

On Sat. Dec. 16, the basket ball season opened up in the High School. The boys lost to the alumni to the tune of 26—24 and the girls team also lost to the alumni girls 10—2.

CHRISTMAS OF 1918

(Blaine W. Shick '24)
In the lives of the people of all civilized nations there is one day or civilized nations there is one day or season which is woven around one central thot or idea,—giving. We call this time Christmas. The people of whom I am going to write call this time, the "Fetes de Noel." This is the time when the little Noel comes to the villages and gives good gifts to the little boys and girls.

It was December of 1918. Picture if you can, a town bearing the marks of destruction and desolation caused by four years of incessant warfare with the curse of enemy oc-Picwarfare with the curse of enemy oc-cupation. Picture in this village thirty or forty children, many or-phaned by the great war and many of them awaiting the return of their fathers. Most of them were clad in ill-fitting parts of discarded, filthy uniforms. In their faces were lean, hungry, pinched looks which gave them the appearance of so many lit-tle old men and women.

Suddenly, a new rumor was in the air. Some one had said that the little Noel was coming to town that Xmas. Can you imagine the effect a rumor of that kind would have on these children. They stood in groups and chattered wildly. Little Noel had not given them anything for four years. Instead of Christmas there were Germans in their homes. had not given them anything lor four years. Instead of Christmas there were Germans in their homes. The only luxuries which they enjoy-ed were, white bread, coarse choco-late, and a few other articles which they received from the noblest of all organizations, The American Red Cross

Christmas evening was set as the time for the distribution of the gifts. There was to be a combined entertainment of French children and American children after which the gifts would be given out. Thus you see that as we approach this Christmas season we should inculcate within ourselves a desire to give without the thot in mind of receiving some material thing in return—so that those to whom we give they are able. Thus we will in reality receive the greatest reward of all,

ALUMNI

Of the Alumni letters sent out recently by the secretary thirty-three were returned because they were incorrectly addressed. The names are given below. If any reader of the Bulletin can do so, will he please send the address to the secretary, Miss Emily Brenner, 403 S. College St., Myerstown, Pa. If this is done promptly it will still be possible for the secretary to get out the ballots in sufficient time for the annual election. al election.

May we suggest also, that Alumni will be doing the association a ser-vice by notifying either the secre-tary of the association or the secre-tary of the faculty, Dr. A. E. Gob-

RESULTS OF SONG CONTEST

The desirability, and even need, of some new songs and yells has long been felt by the students, and some time ago definite action was taken by the Bulletin staff. Through the initiative of the Bulletin, action was taken by the Athletic Association which provided for a contest for this purpose to be handled by the Bulle-tin. Prizes were offered for the best song and for the best yell and best song and for the best yell and the contest was on.

At the end of a few weeks the student body was assembled to judge the songs and yells which had been written. Miss Sara Statler sang the written. Miss Sara Statler sang the songs, all of which were written to popular tunes, and the student body voted on them by numbers. The majority selection of the students was the song printed below, written by G. Heil Gramley, '26. The song is a campus song and adaptable to five different phases of college life. The tune is the "Levee Song", well known to all.

nown to all. The yells presented were of a more or less mediocre character and savored of a high school twang. As a result, no definite action was taken on the yells and the contest for the

ALBRIGHT'S THE PLACE FOR YOU

-Levee Song 1.

We have a team, some football team, Their specialties are touch-downs; For such a team you've never seen, Their specialties are touch-downs.

Chor We're all singing for a college, The best beneath the sun; The best beneath the sun;
We sing proudly of that college,
Albright is the one.
She is best in all athletics,
Quite good in education too;
You can't find a better college,
Albright's the place for you.

In basket ball they challenge all,
They drop them in so neatly;
All that they meet go to defeat,
They drop them in so neatly.

Our baseball team has all the cream,
With runs they fill the score board;
They hit it out, Oh, what a clout!
With runs they fill the score board.

Our debaters, too, are a dandy crew, Their points are sure convincing; They know the rope, they have the dope,

Their points are sure convincing

Both of our glees are sure to please, They sing their songs so sweetly; With songs they mix some dandy tricks, They sing their songs so sweetly.

LAST WILSON CONSERVATION MEETING

The last Wilson Conservation meeting was held in the college chapel Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A.'s.
Rev. Heek, heau of the department of English Bible in the college, was the leader of the evening and discussed the subject "How rapidly can a Christian economic order be achieved?"

He presented two questions for consideration, the first of which was, "Is a Christian economic order prac-ticable?" This question emphatically calls for an affirmative answer, and a Christian economic order is really ing striven for by great industrial men.

The second question was, "How rapidly can a Christian economical order be achieved?" Rev. Heck in an able manner pointed out that though many people think the attainment of such a high ideal is far off, it may be realized much sooner than most of us think. The last fifty years have brought forth marvelous changes in all fields, and it is only possible that the whole social order may be changed in one generation. One great need for the accomplishment of this, is the education of the masses, and appreciation of each person's

At the next meeting a report will be given as a summary of the four conservation meetings.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Permit me to call attention to a recent ruling of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania which will be of inof Pennsylvania which will be of in-terest especially to those who con-template the study of law: An addi-tional year of Latin (Virgil, Aeneid, I-VI) will be required of prospective law students, beginning in 1923. The total requirement will then be Caes-ar, B. G., I-IV; Cicero, orations against Catiline; Virgil, Aeneid I-VI. All high school teachers and princi-pals should call the attention of pu-puls looking to the study of Law to pals should call the attention of pu-pils looking to the study of Law to the new requirements.

An excellent opportunity is also afforded to those interested in Latin to point out the emphasis on Latin in this ruling.

"THE SONG AT MIDNIGHT".

Once upon a midnight clear, Rang voices soft and sweet. Not a tremor or a fear, cs the moments passed swift and fleet.

A song rang out upon the air, "Peace on earth, Good will to men," Fell from Heaven's golden stair, Into valley dale and glen.

And so to us this message Comes to each and every heart. In youth and olden age, The message flees and darts.

May the "Loyal Folk of Albright", Enjoy the Peace and happiness, Of the song; Sung at midnight, And fill each heart with gladness.
