College Enrolls 270 In Class of 1964

New Staff Assumes Positions In Administration, Education

Eight additions to the faculty and staff have been made for the current term. Two new members fill vacancies created by professors on sabbatical leaves.

As announced last semester, Dr. Philip Elkin heads the department of business administration and economics. He replaces Donald S. Gates, retired professor of business administration and economics. Dr. Elkin received his A.B. from Lafayette, and his M.A. and Ph.D. from the University of Pennsylvania. His last position was that of assistant professor at the New York University School of Commerce.

New director of the Albright College Psychological Service Center and assistant professor of psychology is Dr. Stanley K. Smith, Jr. He succeeds Dr. Milton G. Geil as head of the center.

Dr. Smith received his A.B. with honors from the University of Pennsylvania and his M.A. and Ph.D. from Temple University. He has been associated with the Temple University Psychological Clinic for the past six years.

Rachel H. Hinman, a June graduate of Albright College, is the newly-appointed psychologist in the Psychological Service Center. During her undergraduate years she served as president of the Phi Beta Mu social sorority, business manager of the Albrightian and member of Pi Gamma Mu, honorary social science fraternity.

Instructor of Latin is Dr. Helen J. Loane. She teaches an intermediate course.

Elections Subject Of Club Agenda For Fall Semester

International Relations Club president, Natale DeLuca, '62, recently released tentative plans for the semester's activities. Since this is an election year, the emphasis will be on the party platforms and candidates.

The first meeting is scheduled for Sept. 21. At this time a faculty panel will discuss the major issues of the election. Linda Hershberger, '61, club secretary is in charge of this program.

The following meeting, Oct. 5, will feature a meeting of two opposing candidates for a public office. DeLuca will take charge of this evening.

Arlin Haas, '62, IRC treasurer, will be chairman of the next meeting. He hopes to obtain a guest speaker of note to address the group concerning the progress of the election campaign.

The first semester programs will close with a few discussion nights about the North Atlantic Treaty Organization or the Organization of American States. Second semester meetings will study the African situation.

Membership in IRC is open to any interested student at the beginning of each semester. IRC sponsors a Berks County Model United Nations assembly at Albright in the fall and attends the Mid-Atlantic States Model United Nations in the spring. Advisor of the club is Charles A. Raith, assistant professor of political science.

College Offers New Courses This Fall

Registration for freshmen is scheduled for Sept. 16, and for upperclassmen, Sept. 19. Several new courses are being instituted this term.

The Great Books Seminar for juniors and seniors, offered both semesters, credits three hours per semester. This course, taught by Eugene H. Barth, associate professor of religion, will be a non-departmental major, i.e., it can't be applied to a major or minor field.

Business administration seniors can take business administration 401-402, a course in policy-making and implementation. It is taught by James Connors, instructor of business administration and staff member at the Carpenter Steel Company.

Latin

Dr. Helen J. Loane, Latin lecturer, will teach Latin 201-202, an intermediate course requiring a two-year pre-requisite of Latin study.

Descriptive geography and physical geography is offered by Dean Emeritus George W. Walton. They will be taught first and second semester respectively with three credits.

Council To Sponsor Used Book Exchange

Stephen Lipkins, '61, Student Council president, recently announced the opening of the used book exchange. The exchange will open Sept. 19, in the balcony of Krause Hall.

Operating hours for the exchange will be posted on the bulletin boards in the administration building and Krause Hall prior to the opening. A non-profit operation, the exchange is held each semester under the direction of Student Council. It will enable upperclassmen to sell books which they will not need anymore, and others to obtain a good book at a lower price.

Students wishing to sell books in the exchange should put their name and desired price inside each book. After the book is sold, the student

Schedule Keeps Class Busy During Orientation Period

With a total of 270 entering freshmen, Albright College opens its 105th year as an educational institution. Upon arrival of the upperclassmen, the college population will be approximately 850.

Having plunged into orientation activities upon arrival Wednesday, the class of 1964 will continue this processing until next Tuesday. Tuesday marks the opening of classes and convocation.

Faculty Attends Annual Retreat

Dr. F. Taylor Jones, executive secretary of the committee on institutions of higher education, of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, was the principal speaker at the Faculty Retreat. The retreat was conducted Sept. 13, in the dining hall lounge.

A graduate of Rutgers and Drew Universities, Dr. Jones resides in Ridley Park, Pa.

Retreat Theme

The theme of the retreat centered upon "preparation for undertaking a faculty study of Albright College in terms of long-range planning and future development." This included admissions, policies, curriculum evaluation, expansion and capital fund drive plans.

In Thursday's opening congregation of the entire class in the Merner-Pfeiffer-Klein Memorial Chapel-Auditorium, the Rev. Mr. William R. Marlow, college chaplain, conducted a worship service. After this, William Vogt, '62, and Myron Rodos, '62, orientation committee chairmen, officially welcomed the freshmen class to Albright College. Dr. Clarence A. Horn, professor emeritus of biology, explained the student health program.

Two testing sessions in the field-house yesterday conducted by Dr. Milton G. Geil, professor of psychology, and conferences with Mary E. Harding, dean of women, and Dr. John W. Kopp, dean of men, filled yesterday's schedule for the class. Tuberculosis tests were also administered.

Convocation Set For Next Tuesday At Assembly

Dr. Paul R. Anderson, vice president for academic affairs and professor at Temple University, will address the student body and faculty at Albright College's opening convocation. Convocation is scheduled for Sept. 20, in the Merner-Pfeiffer-Klein Memorial Chapel-Auditorium.

Dr. Harry V. Masters, college president, will officially open the 105th year, and remarks by Stephen Lipkins, president of Student Council, are also included in the program.

Prior to his appointment at Temple last February, Dr. Anderson had been president of Chatham College, Pittsburgh, Pa., since 1945.

A graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University, he received the Ph.D. degree from Columbia University. He holds honorary degrees from Ohio Wesleyan, The University of Pittsburgh, Allegheny College, and Elmira College.

In 1954, Dr. Anderson was named to the Pennsylvania State Council of Education. He was reappointed by the present governor and presently is chairman of the council's Committee on Higher Education.

In 1955 he was appointed chairman of the Governor's Commission on Higher Education to study the long range needs of higher education in the Commonwealth.

For ten years Dr. Anderson was chairman of the Exceptionally Able Youths Committee in Pittsburgh, and headed 13 Citizens' Committees on Public Health which led to the development of a strong public health program in that city.

He has held membership on the boards of directors of the Pittsburgh Symphony and educational television station WQED. He was a member of the Citizens' Committee to review the financial needs of the Pittsburgh Public Schools in 1959.

The tall mirror-face of the Merner-Pfeiffer-Klein Memorial Chapel-Auditorium reflects the activities of the students on the Albright College campus. Why do these individuals dash so hurriedly to and fro seeming confused and yet . . . what these students think . . . study . . . create today will reflect in the mirror of tomorrow.

Albright College Gingrich Library

From The President's Desk

Welcome, Class of 1964!

It is a pleasure to extend a most sincere welcome to another group of fine young men and women who now become a part of Albright. This welcome is a personal one from me to you. But I also speak for the faculty, administration, trustees and a host of friends of Albright College. We join together in our welcome and in our desire that the years ahead of you on this campus may be inspiring and profitable.

In becoming an Albrightian you see the institution as it is today—faculty, students, educational program, and facilities. It is our college and we are proud of it. What Albright is today did not come into being over night for we now enter upon its 105th year. During this more than a century there have been thousands who have had a part in Albright's continuous progress and high achievement. These include consecrated faculty members, able and generous trustees, thousands of eager students, a concerned supporting church, loyal alumni, and many, many friends. You now join this on-going stream and you become part of Albright College.

Each of you brings to Albright the ability to profit much from your experience as a student. The college exists to give you every opportunity and encouragement for maximum achievement. You will find a faculty and fellow students who are friendly. What you accomplish, however, depends almost solely upon you—your ambition, the wise use of your time, the making of friends among the faculty and students, and the extent to which you take advantage of the opportunities which are yours to gain knowledge and skills and to develop your personality and character.

We wish you well and pledge to you our best endeavor that the years ahead may be years of high achievement.

HARRY V. MASTERS

Nine Graduate At Exercises During August

Dr. Harry V. Masters, president of Albright College, conferred degrees upon nine students, August 13, 1960. Scene of the August commencement was Teel Hall Chapel.

Addressing the group was Dr. F. Wilbur Gingrich, Greek department head and professor of religion.

Dr. Masters gave the charge to the class, and Dr. Mahlon H. Hellerich, dean of the college, presented the candidates for degrees. Representing the alumni was Norman E. Dettra, Jr., Esq., a member of the class of 1952.

Receiving the bachelor of arts degree was David E. Dohner, Laura J. Palm, Wayne A. Selfarth, Wilma M. Severin, and R. Steven Smith.

Edith A. DeAngelis, Paul A. Marrella, and Ronald P. Yeager received the bachelor of science degree.

A bachelorate of science in economics was awarded Bernard H. Sarfert.

Automatic Canteen Serves Albrightians

The Albright canteen in the basement of Krause Hall has gotten its face lifted! Ten automatic machines serving everything from soup to sandwiches now await the fingertips of hungry students. An added charm is the new hours the canteen will be open . . . from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.

When Student Council sponsors a dance or other activity in Krause, the canteen will be open until the close of the activity.

The wood paneling topped by red and white squares, plus the new tabletops and paint job makes the canteen unrecognizable, but attractive.

One sandwich machine serves 'em hot. It cooks the sandwich on a radar range in 18 seconds flat. Other machines serve milk, cold sandwiches, fruit, soft drinks, ice cream, coffee and candy. A change machine and new water cooler were also added. A planter (with plant) and counter space at the counter end for opening cans, etc.

Automation hasn't replaced the canteen helpers, though; each of the waitresses will service the canteen throughout the week.

Freshmen Orientation Schedule

Last evening the freshmen participated in a program of explanation of the various student groups, cheers, customs and a square dance. This morning, registration was conducted in the fieldhouse under the direction of Anna R. Benninger, registrar. The afternoon presented another testing session, followed by band tryouts.

Tonight a fellowship dinner featuring Stephen Lipkins, Student Council president, as master of ceremonies is on the agenda. An 8 p.m. program in Krause Hall will climax today's activities.

Saturday the college dean, Dr. Mahlon H. Hellerich, and the freshmen advisers will meet the group in a chapel-assembly at 8:10 a.m., after which there will be a TB reading in the Health Center. The afternoon session will conclude the orientations testing sessions.

Hampden Park will host the traditional freshman doggie roast from 4:30 to 8:30 p.m. Equipment for various games and sports will be available for use. The dining hall will furnish the evening meal.

Sunday

Sunday will feature a worship service in the chapel-auditorium at 11 a.m. and from 3:30 to 5:30, a reception at the home of President and Mrs. Masters. Professors and staff, the orientation committee and freshmen are invited to the reception at 1605 Palm Street.

After the buffet supper for resident students, there will be a vesper service and a group sing in the chapel-auditorium.

All day Monday instructions concerning the use of the foreign language laboratory will be given in cal United Brethren Church.

Appointees

Appointed Bible study leader, a member of the national council, and a regional leader was Miss Bailey. Barto and Miss Roush were also appointed to the national council.

the laboratory. Group assignments will be posted. From 9 to 11 a.m. individual pictures will be taken in room 101 of the chapel-auditorium. 12:45 p.m. will be the time for photographing the entire class in the fieldhouse. Glee club tryouts will be from 1:15 to 5 p.m. in Teel Hall chapel.

Seniors

The orientation program, headed by Vogt and Rodos, was planned and conducted through Student Council. They were assisted by a 48-member student committee and the faculty and administration.

Seniors on the committee are as follows: Carol Flanagan, James Garofalo, Lipkins, David Lombardo, Judith Miller, Susan Mock, Agnes Oaks, John H. Weaver, John S. Weaver, Dorothy Werner, Carol Wilson.

Others

who formerly owned it may either take the money or use it as credit toward a book that he might wish to buy.

Students are urged to cooperate in making the book exchange a successful operation.

Honors Given At Banquet

At the third annual Student-Faculty Awards dinner, both individuals and groups received awards. The dinner was staged May 23, 1960, in the college dining hall.

The following students have all been graduated.

Gold "A's"

Gold "A" winners were Ruth Hansen, Nancy Hellman, Stanley Michalak, Nancy Ratajczak, Willard Stitzel, Michael Teitlieman, Minot Tillson, and Gerald Bauer.

Bauer received a citation for participation in Student Council and the American Chemical Society prize of $15.

Miss Hellman also won a membership in the American Association of University Women and a silver key for her work on the Albrightian.

The Reading Open Forum prize of $25 for an essay concerning the World Health Organization and a citation for Student Council work went also to Michalak.

Alumni Honor

In addition to her gold "A", Miss Ratajczak received the $35 Alumni Graduation Honor for making the "greatest contribution to Albright." She, too, received a silver key for working on the Albrightian staff and a Glee Club citation.

Tillson received the language prize of $20 and the newly created English prize of $25. Sandra Bressler won the $25 biology prize. For outstanding work in anatomy, Barton Smith was given a prize of $15.

The $25 Ahepa Greek prize and the history award of $25 were won by Merrill Marisseau.

Chemists' Prize

Receiving the Reading Chemists' prize of $25 was John Alderman. Alderman also won a citation for participation in Student Council.

High academic standing and participation in varsity sports won $25 for Robert Shoup. For proficiency in accounting, Robert Harter was awarded $25. Gerald Orr received the $25 prize for excellence in psychology.

A February graduate, James Doremus, was awarded $15 for participation in athletics. Patricia Cush received the J. Bennett Nolan history prize of $25 for research on the Reading Museum and Art Gallery.

The $25 Gust Kraras award in religion was earned by Frances Jarvis. The Albright Faculty awards for promise in teaching, two prizes of $42.50 each, went to Eleanor Schmickly and Harry Humphreys.

Underclassmen

Underclassman prize winners include Peter Pepe, '62, the $10 award for excellence in biology; Nancy Trumbauer, '61, $10 for high scholastic average; Carol Matz, '62, $35 for the Sophomore woman of high scholarship and participation in athletics; Wilbert Wollenhaupt, '61, the $25 prize for excellence in German; C. VanKirk Hoyt, '61, $25 for excellence in Biblical studies; and Bruce Schaeffer, '62, $15 for excellence in mathematics.

Carol Hagenbuch, '63, won the $20 Pi Alpha Tau sorority award for the freshman making "the most worthy contribution to Albright."

New Courses

Seminars Set For Fall Term

Blue Mountain YWCA Camp set the scene for the pre-school YMCA-YWCA cabinet retreat. Highlighting the Y program for this semester, which was organized at the retreat, is the Seminar series.

The series will be offered three consecutive Tuesday nights, Oct. 4, 11, and 18. Proposed lecture topics are, "A Look At Existential Philosophy," to be taught by Ellery B. Haskell, associate professor of philosophy; "An Ethical View of Twentieth Century Literature," to be presented by Dr. James D. Reppert, assistant professor of English; "The Philosophy of Modern Day Science," to be instructed by the Rev. Mr. Eugene Barth, associate professor of religion.

Co-chairmen of the series, Linda Hershberger, '61, and Charles Schleiffer, '62, will release more information on these series at a later time.

Y-Retreat

Another item on the agenda at the retreat was planning for the Oct. 8-9, Y-Retreat. Co-chairmen of this program are Mary Ann Richards, '62, and William Vogt, '62. Sub-committee chairmen for the retreat were also appointed.

Thanksgiving

Heading the Thanksgiving drive are Audrey Schropp, '62, and Walter Hagen, '61. Fireside Chats co-chairmen are Ronald Eisenberg, '61, and James Garofalo, '61. Heading Game Night are Donna Shumaker, '63, and Frank Papalia, '61.

Leading the group at the pre-school retreat were co-presidents Agnes Oaks, '61, and Ernest Geise, '61. State Y-representative, Ralph Sandman, and college chaplain, the Rev. Mr. William Marlow, presented discussion topics at the retreat.

German Is Year Student

Klaus Kiemle, a philosophy student from Stuttgart, Germany, began his first year in America as a student, Wednesday at Albright College. This year will help to prepare him for teaching in Germany.

Kiemle will come to Albright under the sponsorship of the Undergraduate Student Fellowship Program of the Evangelical United Brethren Church Division of World Missions. He is a member of the Stuttgart-Bad church in Cannstatt, Germany.

After completing his year at Albright, Kiemle will return to the University of Tubingen.

Three To Return To Albright After Year Abroad

After spending their junior year abroad, three Albrightians are once again back in the United States. All members of the senior class this year, they are David Eller, Elleen McCracken, and Pamela Lewis.

Eller attended the Junior Year Abroad program at the Institute for American Universities in Aix-en-Provence, France. Miss McCracken studied through the Hamilton College Junior Year Abroad program at the Sorbonne. Enrolled at the University of Montpellier was Miss Lewis.

Graduation

An English major, Eller studied extensively the French language and literature. At the June graduation exercises he received the Certificate of European studies and the Certificat d'Inscription of the University of Aix-Marseille.

Trips arranged by the Institute in connection with his classes included French schools, Roman temples and arenas, and French industrial establishments. All of the students attended French plays, films and lectures.

During the holidays, Eller traveled in France, Belgium and Holland. The Institute, located in the center of Provence, provided many opportunities for sports and travel. Eller lived with a French family during his sojourn in France.

Miss McCracken

Miss McCracken also lived with a French family while she studied at the Sorbonne. She lived far from the University so she found that she spent much time riding the Metro. She also took advantage of the travel which Paris so conveniently offered her. Miss McCracken is an English major.

Miss Lewis also lived in a private home to better become acquainted with the French way of living. She majors in history.

Hey, Frosh!

Did you say you'd like your parents to know what's going on at school as soon as it happens? You say you want your parents to be the most up-to-date on college life that they could possibly be? You say that you forget to write letters and wish that there were some way that parents could find out the news regularly? Well, don't hesitate! Have the Albrightian sent to your parents every time it is published. It costs only $2.20 per year. See our business manager or editor NOW!

SPORTS STAFF NEEDS WRITERS

The ALBRIGHTIAN sports department is actively interested in securing additions to its staff, and invites all interested freshmen to apply for editorial positions by coming to the ALBRIGHTIAN office on the first floor of Krause Hall this coming Monday, September 19, from ten o'clock to twelve. The sports editor will be there at that time to interview those who seek to join the staff. If this time is not suitable, applicants may feel free to contact him at anytime or leave their names in the sports editor's mailbox in the Krause Hall office. Previous experience is helpful but not necessary.

Biologists Return With Cuban Specimens

Immediately following commencement last semester, an Albright professor and three students headed toward the sunny, not too peaceful shores of Cuba.

The professor — Dr. Albert Schwartz, former assistant professor of biology. The students—Ronald Klinikowski, '62, David Leber, '62, and James Smallwood, '61.

This was not a pleasure cruise nor a group of volunteers for the Cuban army. These four were working under a National Science Foundation research grant to study amphibians and reptiles of Cuba and the Caribbean. The group worked in spots before inaccessible to Dr. Schwartz, who has been visiting the islands since 1954 to study the life there, and in familiar places. Dr. Schwartz and Leber will remain in Florida this winter and for the spring. Smallwood has returned home and will enter dentistry school at a Philadelphia college this fall. Klinikowski, a Reading native, returned home Monday and will resume studies here next week.

Veteran

Klinikowski had gone two other times to Cuba with Dr. Schwartz to study, draw pictures of, and classify the specimens. This time was just a bit different . . . he did all those things and, got caught in a hurricane besides. Hurricane Donna, whipping about Key West delayed Dr. Schwartz with his mobile laboratory and equipment in Cuba, but the Readingite managed to land safely in Florida and fly home.

When asked to comment about the people in Cuba, Ron answered "We were treated very well." He mentioned that the people were curious about the mobile laboratory, and why anyone would want to collect lizards, frogs, toads, snakes, and birds, of which the expedition has collected 1600 herps and 350 birds. Dr. Schwartz himself has named and described about 40 of these different forms of Cuba, which he will include in his monograph concerning the herpetology of Cuba. The former professor in the monograph will present the distribution, the genus, species, sub-species, etc., of the specimens, which will be compiled after the expedition is completed.

Painting

Ron explained that the specimens are painted in water colors before pickling. Since the formaldehyde solution discolors the body of the animal, Ron did mostly pencil drawings, whereas Leber did water colors. Ron recommends this kind of a summer vacation to anyone who is interested in it.

Before June 1961, Dr. Schwartz and Leber will also visit Jamaica and the Bahamas to sample the fauna of these places for comparative purposes. They hope to collect approximately 8500 by next summer.

In addition to the mobile laboratory with refrigerator, stove, and running water, the party uses a jeep to carry equipment and get over the rough roads.

ate course this year, the first that Latin has been offered at Albright for sometime. A graduate of Goucher College, she later received her M.A. from Cornell University and her Ph.D. from Johns Hopkins University. She is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Pi Lambda Theta, honorary fraternities.

She formerly lectured at Goucher and Johns Hopkins, and supervised Latin in the Baltimore, Md., city schools.

Biology

Assistant professor of biology, filling a vacancy created by the departure of Dr. Albert Schwartz, is Dr. John S. Hall. He won both his B.S. and his M.S. from the University of Massachusetts and his Ph.D. from the University of Illinois. He held a National Science Foundation Summer Fellowship during 1957 and 1959.

Dr. Hall was a teaching assistant in zoology at the University of Illinois. He is a member of the American Society of Mammalogists, the National Speleological Society and Sigma Xi, honorary science fraternity.

Housum

William T. Housum, '53, since July 1, has been assisting in the public relations department with press releases and editing official publications. While serving with the United States Army, he graduated from the Army Language School.

He was formerly a teacher at Fryeburg Academy and North Yarmouth Academy, both in Maine.

Sabbaticals

William W. Hummel serves as assistant professor of history during the sabbatical leave of William R. Bishop. Employed last at the Patton Masonic School, Elizabethtown, Pa., he holds an A.B. and M.A. from Bucknell University. At present he is enrolled in doctoral work at the University of Pittsburgh.

During the sabbatical leave of Consuelo R. Jordan, Elton M. Anglada is employed as instructor in Spanish. Anglada, a native of Barcelona, Spain, won his bachelor's at the University of Santa Domingo and his master's degree at the University of Connecticut. He also studied at the New School of Social Research in New York City.

IN THE LION'S DEN

By JIM ADAM, Sports Editor

When I was a freshman, a scant two Septembers ago, we were during orientation herded into White Chapel Hall each morning for a brief worship service, there being no Merner-Pfeiffer-Klein Memorial Chapel as there is now. I remember clearly one particular morning when Reverend Eugene Barth stood on the stage behind a white lectern and preached from this text found in the fourth chapter of Paul's letter to the Philippians:

Finally, brethren, whatever is true, whatever is honorable, pure, whatever is lovely, whatever is gracious, if there is any excellence, if there is anything worthy of praise, think about these things.

Little did I know then that at some future time I would develop a column around the chaplain's words and put the same title on it as preceded his sermon, "Accentuate the Positive."

As was pointed out that late summer morning, the invitation to "think upon these things" was not designed to invoke some sort of passive recognition of these virtues or qualities on the part of the Christians at Philippi. On the contrary, it was an exhortation to action in appreciation of same. According to this principle, this text serves as a point of reference in relating you young Albrightians to the sports program at Albright College. Such is done in two main ways.

It seems as though, come September, each sports editor of each college newspaper in the country sees fit to include in his column an appeal to the student body to attend that school's athletic contests more regularly and to cheer with more vigor, vim, and vitality than has been observable in previous years. And always, it seems, such solicitation has been founded on rather flimsy ground: either there is a vain desire to out-holler the opposition or influential alumni are returning to campus and it would be a shame if they got the impression that the present student body had any less enthusiasm and school spirit than the class of '21.

Let us however, proceed along different lines of thought. We are to seek out situations where "there is any excellence" and react to it favorably. We are to express praise where "there is anything worthy of praise." This is not only indicative of Christian thought; it is also our civil duty to those who represent us in athletic contests. That there are moments of excellence and praiseworthiness in athletic contests would be accepted by most without much discussion as to particular examples. So then let us "come and cheer" with noble motives in harmony with St. Paul's words, and for no other reason.

Whenever one observes an activity which involves the pursuit of lofty attainment oft times he is motivated to join himself with that activity. How often I have admired the magnificent work of the dramatic organization on campus and have wished I could become a part of it, but for some reason or another have not. The same feeling may come upon some of you regarding an athletic squad, especially in sports not offered in your high school. Do not hesitate to translate your impulse into action. Present yourself at practice; the coach will be glad to welcome you, even though you may be a novice. Thus Rev. Barth's text will work in a second way to relate the class of 1964 to Albright's athletic program.

But let not your adherence to Paul's words end here. I can think of no other standard which will better insure your success in the next four years at Albright College than the one which instructs you to accentuate the positive.

Muhls Prepare For Albright Opener As Coach Shifts Men In Forward Wall

Last Fall's Campaign Reviewed

Last fall Albright College won the championship of the Middle Atlantic States Northern College Division football conference and compiled an over-all record of seven wins and three defeats, the Lion's best win-loss record in twenty-two years. A re-cap of last season follows:

For the first game the Lions made their way to Greenville, North Carolina, only to encounter the strong Pirate squad of East Carolina and end up on the very short end of a 45-0 score.

Drexel

In the first home battle the Lions devoured the Dragons of Drexel, 23-12. Mike Varano started the scoring for the Lions in an auspicious manner by tearing down the right sideline for a 72-yard punt return without a Dragon claw touching him.

Tom Olivo hauled in a 37-yard pass for Albright's second TD after Claude Lynch had booted a field goal, the first Lion three-pointer in ages. Tony LoSapio pounced on fullback Bob Nagle's fumble in the Drexel end zone to complete Albright's scoring.

Lebanon Valley

Next, the Potsklanmen traveled to Lebanon to ground the Flying Dutchmen of Lebanon Valley, 18-0. It was the worst defeat suffered by LV all year as the hosts were unable to penetrate beyond Albright's 30-yard line. Varano, Olivo, and Lynch each scored a six-pointer as Albright notched a total of 318 yards.

Fullback Gerry Bricker earned two TDs and Olivo one, while Lynch added a single conversion, to account for the Lions' point production against the Locomotive Warriors in a 19-0 debacle. Varano gained 116 yards in twenty carries in this second home tilt.

Although the Lions did better according to the statistics at Gettysburg, the Bullets fought to a 12-6 victory and ended a three-game winning streak for Albright. In Albright's homecoming fracas the Scranton Royals took advantage of several Lion miscues to rally for a 19-6 win.

Against Moravian the Lions unleashed a tremendous offense in scoring all 33 points in the first half to win easily, 33-12. Olivo and Bricker each scored two TDs and Chapman ran seven yards for another. The magnificent Albright line held the Greyhounds to six yards rushing. The Lions were way ahead in yardage gained against Muhlenberg, but were forced to score in the last minute on a Chapman to Gary Sheeler pass in order to take home the victory, 27-2.

Juniata

All Lion fans remember well what happened on November 14 last as the inspired Albright team simply overwhelmed the previously undefeated Juniata Indians in a 14-0 history-making game.

Last year's results: East Carolina State, 45; ALBRIGHT, 0; ALBRIGHT, 23; Drexel Tech, 12; ALBRIGHT, 18; Lebanon Valley, 0; ALBRIGHT, 19; Locomotive, 0; Gettysburg, 12; ALBRIGHT, 6; Scranton, 19; ALBRIGHT, 6; ALBRIGHT, 33; Moravian, 12; ALBRIGHT, 27; Muhlenberg, 22; ALBRIGHT, 14; Juniata, 0

Lid-lifter For Both Squads At Allentown September 24

Allentown, Pa., Sept. 8.—With a little over a week of practice behind them, the Muhlenberg gridders are smaller both in size and numbers. Stiff workouts in 80-degree temperatures have melted away excess pounds and at the same time given Coach Ray Wispell and his staff a better line on prospects for the coming season.

The squad has been reduced to 34 men with the departure of ends Jim Strickland and Dave Posivak, guard Wilford Weber, and halfback John Murtaugh. All were sophomores, with the exception of Weber, a junior.

Seven Starters Are Held Over

Fourteen returning lettermen, including seven holdover starters from the championship team of 1959, form the nucleus for Albright College's football forces this fall.

Coach John Potsklan is holding two drills daily for 32 candidates in preparation for the opening game with Muhlenberg College Saturday afternoon, Sept. 24 at Allentown, Pa.

Holdovers

The seven starters are Gary Chapman, quarterback; Tom Olivo and Mike Varano, halfbacks; Claude Lynch and Gary Sheeler, ends; George Seighman, tackle, and Robert Meyer, guard.

Lost by graduation from the first unit were Gerry Bricker, fullback; Jimmy Doremus, guard, and Tony LoSapio, center, Larry Woods, No. 1 tackle transferred to another college.

Returnees

Potsklan is counting on Bill Ballentine and George Reagan, who both lettered at tackle in 1958 but did not play last fall, to take up the slack at that position. Robert Eddows, a halfback, who is expected to report next week, will bid for the fullback berth along with Richard Crouse. They are lettermen.

Vacancy

Gene Abers, another letterman, will bid for the vacancy at guard. A pair of freshmen, Robert Gugliemino and Bernard Shuty, are the one centers in camp.

Donald Rietscha, end, and Michael Matto and Michael Weinhold, are other lettermen.

Freshmen

Also in the group of 14 freshmen are George Kurovski and Jack DeLorenzo, quarterbacks; Douglas Dieckle, Robert Kopp, Al Pitts and Jerry Travis, halfbacks; Steve Simon, Irv Godboldie and Robert Sudock, ends; James Lebo and C. P. Miller, tackles, and John Stalk, guard.

Rod Duckworth, tackle; Harold Buck and James Hule, guards, and Michael Morano, quarterback, are experienced holdovers from the 1959 squad which won the Northern Col-
