Combined "Y's" To Enjoy Retreat At Camp Arcola

Geil, Greth, Gingrich, Smith To Speak

In order to start the college year with a week-end of religious inspiration, the combined "Y's" are holding their annual retreat at Camp Arcola near Collegeville. The retreat centers about the theme, "Finding Ourselves in Relation to God and Others."

All "Y"-retreaters will leave the campus from the "ad" building at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. Lunch will be served at noon and at 1:30 p.m. there will be an opening worship service in charge of Harry Buck and Geraldine Bowker. Dr. Wilbur Gingrich will present the keynote address on the scriptural background of the theme of the retreat. A three hour recreation period will precede the dinner at 6 p.m. with Grace Vanaman, assistant to the superintendent of the Fifth Street community center in Philadelphia, as guest speaker.

The evening assembly at 7:30 p.m. will be addressed by Dr. Morris Greth on the subject, "Finding Ourselves in Relation to God." A group discussion on Dr. Greth's talk and some recreation will continue until 11 p.m.

Sunday morning at 7:15 a.m. there will be a Galleian service in charge of Margaret Thompson. Breakfast at 8 a.m. will be followed by three interest group discussions on the subjects: (1) Ethnic minorities, (2) Industrial co-operatives, and (3) The religious patriot. After a half-hour intermission, Holy Communion will be administered at 11 o'clock with Professor Lewis Smith presiding. Dinner will be served at 12:30 p.m. A worship service in charge of Miss Ann Benninger will be followed by an address by Dr. Milton Geil on the subject, "Finding Ourselves in Relation to Others." Supper at 5:30 p.m. will precede a short vesper service under the direction of Harry Buck. This will conclude the week-end designed to strengthen the individual outlook on religion. Cars will leave for Reading at 7:30 p.m.

Camp Arcola, the Philadelphia YWCA camp, has excellent eating and sleeping quarters. Located on the Perkio-men Creek, it has boating, tennis, badminton, baseball, and horseback riding facilities.

The guest recreation leader will be Larry Smith of Terre Hill, the adult counselor of the Young People's Union of the East Pennsylvania Conference. He has a lot of new songs, games and dances.

The total cost for each person for the week-end will be $1.40, 40c registration fee to be paid at the book store and $1.00 to be paid at the retreat. All students are invited to attend the retreat.

Whew—What A Whopper!

Dr. Milton Geil, Izaak Walton, Makes 'Super-Catch'—A Record!

Faculty Members Tour Country During Vacation

The fish story of the week concerns the "irresistible prof"—Dr. Milton Geil. Dr. Geil it seems caught the plunger, that you see above in a four-ton truck, while vacationing this summer in the Great Lakes Region. The exact location of the catch is Georgian Bay in the 30,000 Isles. The erstwhile head of the engineering classes here also succeeded in psychologically settling an estate.

Compared to this, the other professors spent very tame vacations. Prof. John H. Duddy, for instance, spent the summer studying with the famous director, Dr. Christian-son, at Penn Hall, while Miss Elsie Garlach attended the French school at McGill University in Montreal, Canada, visited Quebec, and enjoyed herself at her summer home in Wykert.

Miss Ernestine Elder and Miss Esther Fenil did graduate work at Columbia University where Robert Work, who was on the library staff while studying play direction, entertained them with his antics. Prof. Newton Danford joined the staff of the Engineering Defense Training Program at Kane, Pa. Mrs. John Smith studied with her husband at Springfield College at Gloucester. Their summer home is located at Wheeler's Point. The other Smith of our Albright staff—Prof. Lewis Smith "recuperated" at his summer home in the mountains near Bloomsburg where he led the simple life of a Thoreau.

Dr. and Mrs. F. Wilbur Gingrich spent two weeks in Illinois, with Mrs. Gingrich's parents. Dr. Gingrich passed a little time at the University of Chicago, preached at the First Evangelical Church of Ohio, at the First Moravian Church in Reading and the Alsace Reformed Church. The Neal Har-risses summered in Columbia, Pa., (Continued on page 3, column 2)

College Librarian For Eight Years, Is Set To Relax

Director, Producer, Adviser, Negotiator For Domino Club

Since last week's Albrightian went to press the campus has been informed that Robert Work, officially librarian and unofficially everything else, has accepted the position of assistant in the Reference Department of the Harvard College Library. This will necessitate his leaving Albright where he has been the negotiator for most of the cultural events of the past eight years, director, producer, and adviser for the Domino Club, and president and active member of the Berks County Chapter of Alumni.

Honor Graduate

Mr. Work graduated from Albright, magna cum lauda, in 1932 with an A. B. degree. The following year he decided to spend reading the best works of all times.

"This", he says, "was an education in itself!"

The following summer he worked at Albright and was appointed to his present library post in 1933. His graduate library degree was conferred upon him in 1937 by Columbia, where he has been working for the past four summers in the University Library.

Started Greek Plays

When he first came to Albright he stated his policy concerning the Domino Club. That is that only works of excellence by distinguished playwrights would be given on the Albright campus. One glance at his productions is enough assurance that he has carried out his resolution. The annual Greek Festival, instituted in 1935, the Passion Sunday Drama Festival and his Old English plays, usually (Continued on page 3, column 4)

Swing Your Partners At Council Stomp

We'll see you all tonight at the student council dance in the dining hall from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m. An honest-to-goodness orchestra will provide the music—Charlie Wade's to be exact. The admission is only twenty-five cents per person.

Council Tribunal Aims For 'New Order'

Body Meets Twice Weekly

Student council has started the year right by going into smooth running order. An effective and efficient tribunal this week. The object of the tribunal is not only to mete out punishment to misbehaving freshmen, but also to help those who seem to be having difficulty adjusting themselves to campus life.

Every week the student council bulletin board will exhibit the names of those unfortunates who are to appear before the tribunal for assistance or reprimanding. This authoritative body is scheduled to meet every Tuesday at 4:30 p.m. and every Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

Buckwalter Tours West, Takes Color Pictures

During the summer months, Professor and Mrs. Henry C. Buckwalter motored through the western states and Mexico. In the weeks of their stay in Mexico, the professor attended a symposium at the University of Mexico.

As in the past, Professor Buckwalter photographed many beautiful scenes with his camera. These shots were taken in color and will probably be shown in the chapel.

Business Department Gets New Member

Vanderwerf, CPA, Lancaster Man

The business administration department has added a new member to its faculty, Mr. John W. Vanderwerf, who is teaching Accounting Law. He is fully qualified, having received his Bachelor of Science degree in Economics from Villanova College in 1933 and having reached in 1939 the highest point attainable in this field—that of being a certified public accountant.

Mr. Vanderwerf was born in Lancaster, Pa. and lived there for seven years. Then he traveled to Europe with his parents, remaining in Rotterdam, Holland, for nine years. Upon his return to this country he completed his high school education in Lancaster. Since his graduation from Villanova he has lived in Atlanta, Georgia, and three years ago took up residence in Reading.

Silent Sophisticates

Albright's first football game of the 1941 season was a brilliant success—at least that is what college administrative officials think. They wish to voice their thanks to all the scouts and local fans who turned out for the big opener.

The frosh supplied an unprecedented surprise by turning out in such a large number. That was the largest group of freshmen that ever attended the opening game in a single body. The scouts and drum and bugle corps presented a brilliant spectacle of color and quantity.

Yes, the quantity was there in the frosh turnout too, but there was a very great lack in quality.

This year all indications thus far point to a prosperous season of football for Albright. We have been waiting patiently for such a season for quite some time and are very enthused over it (supposedly). By that, we mean there are a few loyal Albrightians who have enough school spirit left to give some support to their alma mater. But what is wrong with the rest of the students? Where are those high-spirited rooting sections of years gone by? Where are the whistles, the sirens, the bells—gone and forgotten? Yes, surely there are people yelling. Who are they? They are a few loyal upperclassmen, a few (a very few) frosh, and some of the city's loyal fans. But what of the rest of the student body? Are the others ashamed of their alma mater? Are they too refined, too cultured, too pompous to yell for their school, their team, their own good friends? Could it be that they do not care whether or not the team wins a game? Why are they present then? Surely there must be some reason for being there, although you wouldn't know it from the actions of the student body as a whole. Are the cheer leaders to blame for this disloyalty, this disrespectful silence? Of course not. They wouldn't be out there trying to lead those cheers with so much vigor if they wouldn't have any school spirit, any loyalty for their alma mater.

You ask what the answers to these questions are—wherein the fault lies? Here is the answer. THE UPPERCLASSMEN ARE TO BLAME! Why the upperclassmen? Because they think the frosh should do the cheering, the yelling; they feel it is not in their place to give any support. Surely, let the frosh do the cheering—they are the ones to give the vitality to the campus. Yet it has been stated time and time again that the orientation period is designed to accustom the frosh to college life, to stir within them a sense of school spirit. By what end is this accomplished? Are they to teach themselves something which the upperclassmen do not know? Come on, fellow Albrightians, let's get behind those fellows on that field, let's cheer them on to greater triumphs, let's be an example for the frosh and not—vice versa.

Tribunal

At last the tribunal for misbehaved freshmen seems to have attained at least a commendable degree of efficiency in meting out justice.

We wish to congratulate the student council tribunal committee for this effective system which they have put into operation thus far. We feel that it is the best policy we have seen on the campus in the past few years.

We hope that the members of this committee will continue to mete out punishment in the fair way and with the efficient method that they have used this first week. They should make the punishment fit the crime and not resort to any sort of violence except in extreme cases of stubbornness.

STRICTLY PARTIAL

HELLO, FOLKS

For the benefit of any freshman who may, during his wanderings thru the Albrightian, have stumbled across "Strictly Partial" and may have become curious as to just what this column is doing here, we hereby officially inform you that the purpose of this column is to keep the Albright student body abreast of the news. This is no easy task. As fast as we get one of our foreign correspondents comfortably tucked away in some Italian munitions factory so that he can give us the lowdown on the bambinos' morale, along comes some Serbian with a time bomb and whoof—we're minus one "grade B" correspondent and a perfectly good typewriter (not to mention the wear and tear on the munition dump).

Then again there's the slight difference of reports. Even after emerging from a calculus course, I fail to see how the Germans can advance 25 miles past Kiev, trap 10 Russian divisions and batter them up thoroughly, while the Russians on the other hand, advance 30 miles in the other direction, butcher countless Nazis and win a complete victory. Try plotting that on a map sometime. It looks worse than a Fuller Brush Salesman's route map.

Then too, there are the reliable statistics given (at no extra cost) by the high commands of both sides. The Germans, for example, claim to have put the finger on three thousand or more Russian armored units. I wonder how many of these "tanks" could have been lost Russians, overloaded with vodka.

While American sympathies are with the Red armies as a rule, nobody seems to care much what happens to Stalin, just as long as something worse happens to Hitler.

Adolph, incidentally, has had to have some of his "ersatz" experts perfect a nail polish with vitamins in it so Der Fuehrer can nibble on his claws during the Russian campaign and still get his daily nourishment.

This stunt that the Russians have perfected wherein they pretend they're dead, then come to life and so on, is nothing new when you come to think of it. All along, Mussolini has been pretending he's a live member of the axis when everybody knows he's a dead duck.

Poor Muss, the most pathetic sight of 1941 was his standing at Brenner pass exchanging "Heils!" with Adolph and trying to act like an equal. Oh well, blessed are the meek . . .

—Ralph Fleming.

BY ANNE ONYMOUS

There's nothing like keeping a promise to start the year out right so here's a bit of gossip on the frosh—snoop—snoop—scoop.

Ruth Ploughfield is already the favorite of one of the frosh football men. That's keeping interests within the class.

Ann (her last initial is D—hint, hint) left her heart at Annapolis—we hear she keeps the local mailman on the run.

Bob Bennett seems to be the man to see when it comes to rating introductions to another Corning product, Bud Dineen.

And speaking of new gridiron talent in the freshman class, don't think for one minute that the coeds have overlooked Big Bill Deardon.

Who ever said that good things come in small packages? Betty Bradley seems to do alright in supplying the proof for the statement.

The transfers are also being well taken care of with Jack Gundlach getting off to a good start — we mean his undivided attention to Eleanor, West Chester's contribution.

Bettie Kurtz is beginning to know "Disser" and "data" around the campus.

And now back to the old swing of things:

Visitors to campus on Monday were Kitty Buzzard and Al Falcone. Did you notice the new mustache Al acquired since we saw him last?

Who is singing "All Alone and Lonely" in the Pi Tau dorm? How about getting an airplane, Harry?

Did you know—

That Jane Louise Haupt is doing her share to keep up the morale of the army?

That Ginny Black is sporting a new engagement ring—sorry we neglected to mention it last week, along with other romance developments.

More later. Button, Frosh.

The Score, Please

It is remarkable how much and how little Mr. Roosevelt can say in one and the same speech. Each new burst of oratory is a veritable gem of veiled implicative remarks. None is a clear statement of those ultimate aims in the field of foreign policy which must lie within his mind. Probably there is no person who knows what the president has in mind.

Because of this an unusual situation has arisen in our nation. Step by step our neutrality has been given broader interpretation; speech by speech we have more clearly demonstrated whose interests are closest to our heart in this war. We have heard talk of defending the four freedoms, of guaranteeing all shipping within certain defense areas, set up arbitrarily by us. We have listened to Mr. Roosevelt as he indignantly denounced the Nazi government for its ruthless warfare on the high seas. We have wondered what the consequences of his latest order commanding the United States Navy to shoot first might be.

We know that American ships shall continue to sail the high seas. We are aware that the navy (Continued on page 4, column 3)

Bossick, Threat To Lions

"Muhlenberg will be our toughest game of the year," Coach Lone Star Dietz has been telling his squad since the first day of practice. From all reports this statement sounds very true. Coach Doggie Julian, former coach at Albright, has been priming his Muhlenberg boys for tomorrow's tussle.

Win, lose, or draw both outfits will know that they have been in a battle by the time the final whistle blows.

On paper, the Allentown eleven has the edge. With Bud Bossick, an outstanding passer, to cope with, the Red and White will have to be on their toes all afternoon. Newspaper reports say that the Mules completed 17 out of 20 passes in a scrimmage against the University of Pennsylvania. That's mighty fine tossing in any league!

The Cardinal and Gray are reported to have a fast charging line with big powerful boys. One thing is lacking—a clever open field runner but this is balanced with a lot of power plays. So much for our rivals.

The Lions looked fair last week against Blue Ridge. The initial contest gives Albright a little edge over the Mules in that by tomorrow, the Red and White gridders should have shaken off that "first game nervousness." The Julianmen will be facing their first test.

With a host of scouts from every school on the schedule in the stands Friday night, the quarterbacks were instructed to use as few plays as possible. Tomorrow there will be no holding back.

The team has worked hard this week preparing for a tough ball game. Bob Bennet and Johnny Killiany have shaken off early injuries and should strengthen the backfield considerably. It is doubtful if dependable, hardworking Steve Plaskonos will see action. The big tackle is still a little weak from the effects of the fever that caused him to miss the opener.

The freshmen had their first taste of scrimmage with the varsity Tuesday. The yearlings were on the defense while the varsity took the offense. With only a few days to condition themselves, the frosh should improve considerably after they get in shape.

Most of the linemen are big, tough boys who show a lot of promise. Coach Dietz will need every one next year with a horde of seniors graduating from this year's varsity.

Freshman Gridders To Play Three Games

No Definite Dates;
First Game October 18

Franklin and Marshall, LaSalle, and West Chester have been scheduled as tentative football opponents for the Albright freshman squad. Although no definite dates have been set, none of the games will be played until the eighteenth of October.

A scrimmage with the Exeter Collegians, of the Greater Reading Conference has been scheduled for Thursday evening, October 2, provided the stadium is not occupied by Carnegie Tech. The size of the freshman squad has swelled to twenty-two by the addition of Jock Kratz, giant tackle from Syracuse; Haller LaRue, Shillington back; Robert Snyder, West Reading; and James Ambler, Reading.

Prof. Paul Schach took a summer course at the U. of P. Miss Ethel Norton attended a convention at Williamsburg and Norfolk, Va., then joined an artist's colony, "Coveledge" at Westerly, Rhode Island. Prof. and Mrs. Henry C. Buckwalter trekked off for a trip to Mexico and the Northwest. Dr. and Mrs. Raphael Fenli traveled in the nearby states, and Misses Ann Benninger and Marie Kleppinger journeyed to the Finger Lakes Region and Watkins Glen, N. Y. The Dr. Harry Masters spent some time at Martha's Vineyard, at Nantucket and then went to Ohio.

Prof. Clyde Harding was "baby-bound" in his hometown, Pen Argyl. Dr. Virgil Zener removed himself to the western part of Pennsylvania (Johnstown, Pittsburgh), visited his daughter and family at Sewickley, and attended the Pittsburgh Conference of the Evangelical Church. Prof. John C.

WAA Forms Teams, Purchases Equipment

Modified Gym Work,
New Program Feature

The W. A. A. began its fall athletic program this week. Hockey, archery, badminton, and table tennis teams were organized and practices were held. As in preceding years a varsity hockey team will play against nearby colleges. This year, however, with the larger girls' attendance the competition for the various positions will be much keener. The frosh appear interested and with a little practice will put new pep into the team. Among those frosh particularly eager for action are Bertina Blauch, Ann DeForges, Polly Wessler, and Janet Luckenbaugh.

The archery period, under the direction of Doris Gaul, Albright's No. 1 archer, and her assistant, Jean Seidel, will get under way next week. The schedule is as follows: Monday, 10:30-11:30, 1:30-3:00; Wednesday, 11:30-12:30, 1:30-3:30; Friday, 1:30-3:30. If enough girls are interested a varsity archery team will be formed.

A new feature on the program this year is modified gym work. The W. A. A. is going to purchase equipment such as darts, rubber quoits, and croquet and table tennis sets. These will be used by the girls in the new gym work. They will also be available to the rest of the coeds for use.

On Tuesday the frosh will be given an outline of the sports offered by the W. A. A. when Mrs. Mosser has charge of the frosh chapel assembly.

The girls are asked to reserve October 9 for a big sports event. Fun, entertainment, and surprises of all kinds are in store for all who attend the affair.

Evans audited the N. Y. A. account at Harrisburg and tried to limber up his muscles on his farm while directing the Key Hosiery Manufacturing in Reading. Dr. John B. Douds cogitated over George Herbert's Imagery and wandered to Delaware Beach and Pittsburgh.

Albright Gridders To Meet Rival Mules In 'Death Struggle'

Plaskonos, Demidovich
Confined To Bench
Due To Injuries

Albright's grid machine treks to Allentown tomorrow afternoon to tackle a strong Muhlenberg College eleven, starting at 2 o'clock. The Lion huskies are being rated the underdogs against the veteran Mule aggregation. Albright will be seeking to repeat last year's 14-3 victory garnered in the local stadium.

The Lions, fresh from their 20-0 conquest of Blue Ridge, have the edge over the Mules who will be opening their season. The Cardinal and Gray have had two lengthy scrimmages with the University of Penn and LaSalle College elevens and looked good in both of them.

Coach Lone Star Dietz is counting on his forward wall to stop the Mules' forward passing attack. Dietz figures if the line can rush Bud Bossick, superb passer, the former Windber High star will not be able to connect to six feet four inch Pete Schneider, left end.

Dietz and his first assistant, Jim Horn, will probably start the same combination that opened against Blue Ridge with the exception of Bill Demidovich. Big Bill is suffering an injured side and may be used only in an emergency.

Rangy Bill Spangler and Frank Bertino will be at the terminals with Burd Miller, Johnny Durko and Herb Vogt ready to spill them. Bob Baum, Reading husky, and Jim Harpster at the tackle slots. Steve Plaskonos, veteran tackle, is still weak from a fever and probably will not see action.

Dick Weber and Tom Lubin will handle the guard positions. Both huskies turned in fine defensive jobs in last week's win.

The backfield will be strengthened with the return of Johnny Killiany and Bob Bennet. Both are capable passers while Bennet can boot 'em far and wide.

Starting will be Vic Gigli, Jim Breen, Stan Kuklis and either Bennet or Chuck Klein.

Probable starting lineups:

Muhlenberg	Albright
Schneider L.E.	Spangler
Shanosky L.T.	Baum
Metzger L.G.	Lubin
	(or Demidovich)
Zetty C.	Cocodrill
Walters R.G.	Weber
Petro R.T.	Harpster
Becker R.E.	Bertino
Gorgone Q.B.	Gigli
Bossick L.H.B.	Breen
Minifri R.H.B.	Bennet
	(or Klein)
Bisset F.B.	Kuklis

ALL ABOUT FIGURES

No spot on earth is so dear to the heart of a college student as the college campus. On this dearest of all spots, we dear students gather to chew the fat. And what is the grizzle we chew on most—why figures, of course; big figures, little figures, pleasant figures, and unpleasant figures. Need I say more? You get what I mean? (inserted at the request of Chuck Klein).

The figures I wish to glance at today are not of what you're thinking, but are of a somewhat unpleasant nature. It is always interesting to note the number of freshmen that enter the science course and look ahead four years and see what percentage finish their course. I thought it might be interesting to predict the number of young scientists in the freshman class who will graduate four years hence. A picture of the mortality rate will be gleaned from studying the figures of the class of 1940. This class entered school with 104 students of which 47 were in the science department. After four years, upon their graduation, 68 remained in the class of which 31 were affiliated with the science department.

These figures show that, in the beginning, 45% of the students were registered in the science course. After four years, 45% were still registered in the science course, but the class experienced a 35% loss of its members who originally registered in the science department.

What then, do the chances for our new freshman class look like? With 124 freshmen registered in the college of which 68 are in the science department, it becomes possible for us to predict that only 44 of those now registered under the science professors will graduate from Albright. This is, perhaps, painting a gloomy picture. If it is, I hope that it will serve as an inspiration for plenty of hard work. I've been told from good authorities that it's still not a sin to hit the books.

Stink

As any fool can plainly see, I'm just doing a little ad-libbing to fill my column, for try as I might to find news, things are really dead up in the science department, especially in the biology department. "Pea-Uuuu"—those dogfish sure do stink, so I'm getting out of here.

Frosh, Sing This Song To Notre Dame Tune

Fight! Fight! For old Red and White,
We've got the spirit,
Let's have the fight!
Take that ball right down the field,
To any foe we'll never yield.
We never fumble; we always score.
Come on there, lions,
Let's hear you roar.
Loyal sons of old Albright
Go marching to victory.

is now pledged to protect the shipping of all nations in a restricted area. We are conscious that we are in the process of creating a great system of convoy, one which has already released and will continue to release British ships for service elsewhere. But what we fail to see quite so clearly as that, is that we must sooner or later get into a real war. No nation in the position of Nazi Germany can afford to let us, in the guise of neutrality, destroy or hamper her war efforts.

It seems to me that Mr. Roosevelt has skillfully maneuvered the American people into that well-known dark spot behind the ebony sphere. He has contrived to make it appear that we are committed to our present national policy with respect to Europe because of the necessity for protecting our shipping interests. The fact of the matter seems to be that we are committed rather to the defense of some abstractions which have sprung from the mind of our good friend in the White House. The ideals for which we shall eventually fight are things which Mr. Roosevelt has failed adequately to define.

I would be reluctant to shed my blood for the vague ideals of Mr. Roosevelt. If Nazi Germany is the threat he claims she is, I should like to know what he offers as a constructive device to insure the establishment of a more equitable society after the victory of the allies.

In short—Mr. Roosevelt, quit your "quarterbacking" and tell us the score! You are STILL our servant!
