Ten Additions Increase Teaching Staff

Smith, Gates, Widdowson, Merkel, Hollenbach to Come; Tripp Leaves

Five new faculty members have been added to the business, education, and science departments, according to an announcement by President Harry V. Masters.

LeVan Pretzman Smith, new dean of men and assistant professor of education, is a graduate of Muhlenberg College and received his master of arts degree at Columbia University. His experience included coaching and teaching at Pen Argyl, Pa. and Glen Cove, N. Y.

Business Dean

Formerly dean of the school of business, International Correspondence Schools, Donald S. Gates will be professor of business administration.

Professor Gates received his A.B. from Harvard College and his master of business administration from the Harvard Business School.

At one time he was professor of business and economics at Roanoke College, Salem, Virginia and assistant director of the Norfolk, Virginia USO. From 1935 to 1943 he was dean of the department of business and teachers, University of Seranton Evening School.

Navy Veteran

J. Howard Widdowson will assist in the department as instructor in business administration. A Navy veteran, he has a B.S. in Education from Temple University. He is now working towards his master's degree at the University of Pennsylvania.

Before entering the service, he worked in the claims department of the Automobile Club of Philadelphia. After being discharged, he taught for a short time at Glassboro, N. J., High School.

Math Prof

Roy T. Merkel, a graduate of Franklin and Marshall College and Lehigh University, will be assistant professor in mathematics and physics. A veteran of the Marine Corps, Professor Merkel has had considerable experience in high school teaching, having most recently been superintendent of schools in Brockway, Pa.

Albright Grad

Instructing in the biology department will be Charles B. Hollenbach, who received his B.S. from Albright and who studied at the Buffalo Museum of Science. He also served as senior assistant in the Pennsylvania State Museum for a few years.

Two other faculty changes have been revealed by Dr. Masters. Professor Newton Danford, a member (Continued on Page 3)

Record Number Enroll For Summer School

The Office of the Dean announces an all-time record enrollment of summer students, 50 per cent greater than the highest in previous years. Two hundred thirty students will attend the sessions which will last from June 10 to July 19 and from July 22 to August 30.

Two hundred of the students are men, most of them veterans. One hundred twenty eight are regular-session students; thirty are former students, re-entering college this summer; fifty-six are new students; and sixteen are unclassified.

Classes will be conducted in biology, chemistry, English, German, Spanish, history, math, religion, and sociology. An enrollment of one hundred sixty was the previous high summer figure.

Jeanne and Gene

Jeanne E. Schlegel will edit the 1946-47 edition of the "Compass" and Eugene Pierce will be the business manager, announce Agnes Snyder and Newell Wert, presidents of the Y.W. and Y.M.C.A., respectively. The "Compass" is the official guide to college activities issued every year to the freshman class under the auspices of the combined Y's.

Miss Schlegel includes among her college activities vice-presidency of the Pi Alpha Tau Sorority and membership in Sigma Tau Delta, honorary English fraternity, and Pi Gamma Mu, honorary social science fraternity. She is feature editor of The Albrightian and a member of the Women's Glee Club and Domino Club.

Pierce, a returned veteran, was a member of the Y. M. C. A. cabinet during his former student days. He also belonged to the Men's Glee Club, Kappa Tau Chi, and International Relations Club.

Walton Reveals Dean's List; Twenty-two Vets Win Academic Honors

Veterans who entered Albright last February appear in goodly number on the Dean's list of academic rating for the past semester, revealed Dean George W. Walton last week. Sixteen veterans new to the college in February appear, and six ex-servicemen who were former students.

The "A" honor list among the veterans includes Harold Bare, Arthur Himmelberger, William Marlow, Mark Powers, Thomas Young, and Paul Johnson. On the "B" plus honorable mention are Angelo Baro, Richard Beyerle, Jay Carver, Frank Casper, Robert Mattern, George Nahn, Richard Posey, Charles Rabuck, Edward Reider, Irvin Smith, Charles Speicher, John Allen, Carl Kern, George Morfogen, Dale Weber, and John Wojnarowski.

Members of the senior class who attained "A" ratings are Mary Bringer, Phyllis Carter, Peter Cianci, Irene Fisher, John Kissinger, Lucille Loti, and Elizabeth Pottieger. The senior "B" plus list includes William Bernhart, Mary Eschwei, Jenn Harer, Mary Jane March, June Plowfield, and Anna Wartluft.

Three juniors appear on the "A" list: Marion Fiedler, George Kutsher, and Ruth Rehr. Those attaining a "B" plus rating were Jane Bausher, Margie Handy, Mervin Helfrich, Martha Herrick, Mary Jane Painter, and Agnes Snyder.

Sophomores who are on the "A" list are Catherine Frantz, Marian Gerberich, Virginia Hallacher, Vladimir Koltun, Miriam Kramer, Barbara Rhoads, Lucy Smith, and Stephen Winter. In the "B" plus group are Miriam Parker, Lois Taylor, Geraldine Wentzel, and Heber Yeagley.

Seven freshman attained the "A" honor rating: Rosemarie Behler, Helen Capozello, Thelma Degler, Jerome Dersh, Frances Kochel, Perry Matz, and Dorothy Seisler. The "B" plus honorable mention students are Rhea Dobb, Allen Fisher, Nevin Follweiler, Sylvia Hoppageh, Kazuye Kiyono, Esther Messersmith, Rachel

Forty-one Seniors Graduate, Others Receive Awards

Speaking on "Christ Calls Youth," David E. Young, conference superintendent of the United Brethren in Christ Church, addressed the forty-one graduates of 1946 during the baccalaureate services held on June 2 in Christ Evangelical Church.

Challenging the seniors with a quotation from Nehemiah, "Let us rise up and build," Reverend Dr. Young emphasized that increased moral and spiritual demands are to be anticipated by today's youth. "Christ calls you," he concluded. "Will you measure up to the responsibilities for which you have been prepared?"

Invocation

Rev. Ralph S. Kresge, pastor of Christ Evangelical, asked the invocation and read the scriptures.

During the 87th annual commencement exercises held on Sunday afternoon June 2, Spruille Braden, Assistant Secretary of State, warned the graduating class that although makeshift diplomatic solutions may seem to bring a temporary peace, "today's appeasement entails a tremendous higher price tomorrow."

A caustic critic of Argentina on the grounds that that country failed to fulfill her international obligations, the State department official asserted that if a nation fails to live up to its pledges, it must eventually find to its sorrow that its influence in the world has suffered.

Good Neighbors

"The only possible foundation for satisfactory international relations is a combination of self-respect, mutual respect and a respect for obligations as was concisely enumerated by President Roosevelt in his original proclamation of the Good Neighbor Policy."

Elizabeth H. Pottieger, speaking in behalf of herself and fellow-graduates, declared "As a Christian nation, we of the United States must come to the conclusion that Christianity is the answer for the world. . . . We must stop thinking of Christianity as a purely individual matter and begin thinking of it also as a practical solution to the problems of today's world. . . ."

Bibliographic Society Selects Librarian Raepffel

Josephine E. Raepffel, College Librarian, was honored during the past week by an invitation to become a member of the Bibliographic Society, an organization made up of the prominent librarians of the United States. She was inducted into the society in absentia last Wednesday.

Miss Raepffel was recommended for this honor by Dr. William W. Rockwell, librarian emeritus of Union Theological Seminary, with whom she was at one time associated.

She got her A.B. from Rochester University, her B.S. in Library Science from Columbia University, and her M.A. from New York University.

Ravitz, and Helen Ross.

Also entitled to voluntary class attendance but not on the Dean's list are Charles Kachel, Robert Sokol, and Richard White. Freshmen are not entitled to free cuts until they enter their junior year.

Khouri, Ward, Vesper, Barth, Stutzman New Additions to Faculty

Albright's liberal arts faculty will be increased this fall with the addition of five new members, revealed Dr. Harry V. Masters.

John W. Khouri will be assistant professor of history. Professor Khouri, who is now working on his doctorate at the University of Pittsburgh, is a graduate of Beaver Falls College and of Pitt. He has taught at the University and in the Pittsburgh public schools.

New instructor in the English department will be Mrs. Annadora Spengler Vesper, another graduate of the University of Pittsburgh. An alumna also of Thiel College, her teaching experience was gained in Western Pennsylvania schools.

Albright To Host Annual Pennsylvania Institute July 5-14

Albright College will be host this week to the seventeenth annual Pennsylvania Institute of International Relations, sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee of Philadelphia. The institute will last from Friday, July 5 to Sunday, July 14.

The primary purpose of the institute is to provide critical and constructive study of international relations and to offer a workshop where the faculty and institute delegates may study problems of international import.

Dr. Eddy Asirvatham, former head of the international relations department of the University of Madras, India, and now at Boston University, will lead discussions relating to India, Asia, and international law.

Rain Dampens Weather But Not Spirits As Graduates Participate In Final Activities

Pomp and circumstance, a bit of laughter, and the traditional nostalgia were all present as the class of 1946 was graduated on the second of June.

Culminating a week of senior festivities, the commencement exercises were held in the auditorium of the Northeast Junior High School because of the weather which had started off the day with a driving rain at the time of the baccalaureate service, and appeared to be promising more of the same at the time of the commencement exercises.

The climax of the senior activities came at the Junior-Senior Prom which was held at the Berkshire Hotel on May 31st. The classes turned out in full force to celebrate the ending of exams and the coming graduation. Though the temperature of the ballroom was pushing 100 degrees by the end of the evening, the crowd danced and jitterbugged with just a brief rest at intermission, until Herman Miller finally said, "Good night, ladies and gentlemen, it's been a pleasure playing for you."

Professor Clyde A. Harding and the Rev. Lester L. Stabler served as marshals for the graduates as they marched with the dignity becoming their new positions into the auditorium.

The principal speaker, the honorable Spruille S. Braden was well received by the class and audience. His statement that he was about to give the graduates their last talking to, was very appropriate, and the serious matter of his address well thought to the spirit of the times.

"Betsy" Pottieger, capable editor of The Albrightian, spoke for the class on the subject "Christianity and the World Conscience" in her capacity as student commencement orator.

A mixed chorus under the direction of Dr. John H. Duddy, provided a musical interval in the long program.

The exercises closed with the awarding of prizes and the acceptance speech of John Kissinger, future psychologist, as alumni president of the class of 1946.

The seniors of this year saw many changes in the college from war time conditions to the period of reconversion to peace. Here's hoping they will have smoother sailing as they begin their careers in a world which is "normal" once again.

Council Sponsors Outing For Summer Albrightians

A picnic held at the Green Hills Lake last Friday was the first summer activity sponsored by Student Council.

Summer students and their guests enjoyed swimming, boating, softball, and dancing—not to mention eating.

Ralph Miller, William Walb, and Herbert Vogt had charge of the arrangements.

Gordon Attends Meeting Of Pennsylvania Colleges

Treasurer Charles C. Gordon, Jr. represented Albright at a meeting of Pennsylvania colleges in Harrisburg June 17. Representatives of the state colleges delved into impartial fact-finding on such important campus problems as taxation, health, transportation, and housing.

Our Dedication

Your editors have decided that this first summer issue of THE ALBRIGHTIAN shall be dedicated to students attending the summer sessions (goodness knows they deserve some commendation for sitting in classes in this heat), and especially to you students who are entering Albright for the first time this summer of 1946.

We hope that you will find it another guide to becoming acquainted with the College, her doings, and her personalities. We hope that, in its limited way, it may help you to get the feeling that IS Albright.

The editorial staff of THE ALBRIGHTIAN will welcome and consider thoughtfully any suggestions or comments you new students may have concerning the paper. Leave your suggestions at THE ALBRIGHTIAN mailbox at switchboard in the Administration Building.

Remember, this is your student paper.

Hearty Welcome

THE ALBRIGHTIAN can't miss the opportunity to welcome two other groups on campus this summer, the new faculty who have already assumed their duties as Albright pedagogues, and former Albrightians who are returning to their pencils and books after "absences on war service."

What we have said to the new students applies equally well to you: We shall appreciate your suggestions and comments at any time. We are glad that you are here.

A Pat on the Back

It seems to us that a special note of commendation should go to the twenty-two veterans entering College last February whose academic record made them eligible for the Dean's list. While it is not a snap for anyone to make the Dean's list, it is especially hard for men who have been away from studying, cramming, lecturing, and books for a number of years. Being thrown into a new environment totally different from Army life is a confusing experience for anyone, and therefore, no one would have been greatly surprised if the men had emerged from this last semester with grades relatively low. Instead, we have all watched with interest and a little bit of shame at our own laxness, as the majority of the veterans plowed into assignments, map studies, and term papers with great conscientiousness and vigor.

It seems to us that they have purpose with a capital P as their motivation. How well many of us could use purposiveness as the keynote of our college careers.

There'll be Some Changes Made

In keeping with announcements during the past year or so of College expansions and improvements, we personally can vouch for several changes on our campus which have been effected in the few short weeks since our last exams.

We expect that by fall those of you who haven't visited Albright during the summer will be constantly surprised by the changes. One of the more spectacular is the reconversion of the bookstore, whose complete store you will find on page three. Miss Raeppl announces that the library will be going in for even bigger and better bookcase displays, and that exhibits of new accessions to the library are being shown on the main desk.

Dr. Masters says that "no-girls' land" (the third floor of the Ad Building), hitherto used as men's dorms, will be half converted into class room space. The men now going to summer school are living in the Zeta house, which has for the past few years been "no-man's land."

In fact, our heads start to whirl just thinking of all these changes. We're afraid we may have to ask some frosh next fall for directions.

BY ANNE ONYMOUS

Anybody interested in using the mails this summer will find that Barbara Rhoads and Anne Wickham are receiving letters at Penn State and the University of Wisconsin, respectively, where they are taking summer courses.

There have been so many weddings and engagements lately that The Albrightian has been going around in editing circles trying to keep track of them.

Marion Latta and "Red" Lamberson started things off by announcing their engagement at the Zeta spring formal. Bet that's one dance they will remember for a long time.

Albright's May Queen, Gayle Haupt, announced her engagement to Bill Wagner a few days after commencement. What's that line about "you would reign all alone like a queen on a throne?"

Cupid landed his latest arrow by way of the Reading Eagle of June 23rd in which Marie Bonner's engagement to Reed Frederick was announced.

The seniors actually don't have a priority on engagements even though it may seem that way. Mary Griffiths, a popular freshman who entered in February, has just said yes to James Archer, a student at Drexel.

The happy ending to all those air mail letters from the South Pacific which used to wait for B. C. in the day students' mailbox came when Betty Claire Voeste became the bride of Donald Spang on June 1st.

According to the reports, Dick White had a bad case of bridegroom jitters just before the ceremony at 35 and Becky's wedding. After a honeymoon in N. J., they are living on Palm St., and Dick is once more "hitting the books" in the summer session.

On June 16th, Noel Fromuth, next year's football captain, got Jean Seidel, '44, as his permanent coach. Wedding bells rang out for them at St. Joseph's Church.

And finally, the Snoopers extends its best wishes to Jim Conroy and the former Phyl Stock who announced their marriage recently. If you want to drop in for tea, they are at home on South Fifth Street, near the library.

W.S.S.F. Total

A total of four hundred and ninety one dollars from a five hundred dollar goal was collected in last year's World Student Service Fund drive, say Agnes Snyder and Robert Schneider, co-chairmen of the affair.

The W.S.S.F. drive was conducted on campus to aid needy students in other countries, as well as in the United States, who would have been unable to continue there without financial support of the colleges participating in the drive.

John H. Duddy Wins Music Degree At Phila. Academy

John H. Duddy, director of voice and piano, at Albright College, recently received the degree of Doctor of Music at the Philadelphia Musical Academy. Dr. Duddy was awarded his degree for his oratorio, "Light of the World," a forty-five minute work which takes a chorus of sixty symphony pieces and a pipe organ.

The Academy, which was organized seventy-six years, holds a dual status as the oldest musical school in Pennsylvania and one of the nation's oldest institutions dedicated to the fine arts. It has conferred honorary degrees on many past and present celebrities, among them Serge Koussevitzky, Eugene Ormandy, and Carlos Salcedo.

Dmitri Mitropoulos, the Greek conductor, was awarded an honorary degree at the ceremony at which Dr. Duddy was honored.

Dr. Duddy won his Bachelor of Music degree from Temple University in 1941 and his Master's degree from Temple in 1942. His biography appears in "Who's Who Among Pennsylvania Composers," published by the Pennsylvania Federation of Music Clubs. He is also included in "Who's Who in American Education," and belongs to the National Guild of Piano Teachers.

Many of his thirty published compositions have been played, among them "Evangeline" by the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, and "Jomambra" by the Syracuse Symphony.

Dr. Duddy directs the choirs of the Trinity Lutheran Church in Norristown and the Trinity Evangelical and Reformed Church in Pottstown.

decisions; therefore, he pointed out moral principles by which they could make moral judgements and according to which they could control their own lives. That, in a word, is the function of Christianity in today's crisis: to create in the hearts and minds of men an acute moral awareness, a Christian conscience, so that men may see clearly the moral principles involved in the problems of the day and on the basis of those principles make the wise decisions required of world citizens.

"Let the church teach with a new fervor the ideals of Jesus, the sacredness of the human soul, so that men may have new vision and new faith in the ways of Christian democracy. For it is on such a basis that the distraught peoples of the world may hope to achieve international order and the brotherhood of man."

Six graduates received the coveted Gold A award, given for distinct intellectual, literary, artistic, musical, and social contributions to campus life. Rita Duncavage, Irene Fisher, Jean Harer, June Plowfield, and Anna Wartluft were the recipients.

The alumni award for the greatest contribution to college academic, social, and religious life was awarded to Irene Fisher, while Miriam Kramer received the Clarence D. Becker

Tiny, but terrific, about sums up Miss Rita Duncavage, one of the dandiest Dandy Lions yet to graduate from Albright.

This charming young lady, whose big brother Wally also attended Albright, has managed to pack enough activities into her four years at college for two coeds. Not only has she been a member of numerous organizations, but she has also acquired a reputation for her capability and competence in finishing the job she has begun.

Chief Executive

As a member of the women's dormitory council during her sophomore year and as president of that organization in her senior year, Rita showed fine executive ability in her handling of dormitory affairs. She also has held another high office in the feminine governing of Albright, that of vice-president of the Women's Student Senate.

The class of 1946 thanks Rita for her efficiency in handling its minutes as she was class secretary in her senior year. She served as a cub reporter on The Albrightian staff in her freshman year and gave vent to her literary leanings again in her senior year when she became a member of the composing staff of the "Cue."

Scientist

Rita has come through the stiff science course with an excellent record academically and in the organizations connected with it. As a chemistry major, she was a member of the Alchemist's Club for three years, and became a member of Skull and Bones in her senior year.

But Dandy Lion says that this week's Dandy Lion was as well known for her social activities as for her more scientific ones. She is a strong member of the P.A.T.'s, having served very successfully as social chairman and vice-president of that sorority in her senior year.

There must be a little bit of Bernhardt in Rita along with all her other talents, as she has been an active

A regional summer conference of Girl Reserves has just ended on Albright's campus. The theme of the conference, open to all Girl Reserve officers in Eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, and Delaware, was "A New World A'Coming".

Main discussion leader was John H. Swomley, associate secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, who spoke at a Y-sponsored chapel hour last semester.

Bookstore Takes On New Appearance As Canteen Is Established

Albrightians attending the summer sessions have been pleasantly surprised lately by the renovated appearance of the College Bookstore. Eugene Pierce, new manager of all Albrightians' favorite gathering place, is predicting even bigger and better things by the time school opens in the fall.

One half of the store is being turned into a canteen where soft drinks, popsicles, pretzels, and potato chips will be sold. The store is purchasing a new electric soft drink cooler and will also handle chocolate milk.

Modernized mail boxes will be installed, and a new counter will be put in the book section. Pierce announces that he is purchasing many books for the fall sessions so that students can procure the textbooks immediately without waiting to order them. A new line of college jewelry will also be ordered. At present the Bookstore is having a fire sale on college pennants.

Pierce, a veteran of thirty-eight months of Army service and a former Albright student, will also be in charge of soliciting advertising for campus publications and of securing off-campus housing for boarding students. A nephew of Dr. Harry V. Masters, Pierce will complete his study for his degree in the fall.

of the faculty before he entered the navy, will return as assistant professor of chemistry. In addition, he will take up duties as registrar of the College and director of admissions.

Dr. Harley P. Tripp, professor in the chemistry department for the past year, will leave Albright to teach at Marshall College, Huntington, West Virginia.

By FRED PERFECT

It is difficult to give the reader even so much as a synoptic view of science courses for summer activities in the Science Hall have only recently begun. The chemistry courses began with a good attendance, as well as general biology. Comparative anatomy began its session with 10 students.

Rumor has it that casualties will be high, for obviously education as a phase of life must follow an apparent biological law. Survival of the fittest. The lecture on this particular subject was based on that branch of knowledge dealing with the classification of animals and plants known as taxonomy.

Beginning with the phylum chordata to which men belong, hot pursuit was given for the realization of man's actual and accurate scientific name. So down through the more and more restricted classifications these confused students tread, eventually to corner that group of animals who amuse themselves with such antics as war, strikes, and what have you—Homo sapiens.

After this thorough introduction, students made their pilgrimage to the lab where they got their first good look at those cold, grey, sandy, small but streamline jobs, the spiny dogfish and as the general biology students have already guessed, work began on plate 1, the habit sketch. If you happen to be up in the Science Hall, drop in, by all means and console those over-worked students who have chosen to spend six long weeks of their precious life with that dog-fish.

member of the Domino Club for three years. She played the part of a charming but at times exasperating ingenue in the play, "The Importance of Being Earnest," presented in the spring of her junior year.

Feminine Albright graduates also think highly of our Dandy Lion as she was given a bid to the alumna sorority, Phi Delta Sigma.

In the spring of this year, Rita found herself as chairman of May day, with the responsibility for the annual fete placed squarely on her not so square shoulders. However, she undertook that job with her usual imagination and efficiency, and the result was one of the loveliest May days Albright has ever had, complete with original costumes and dances.

For all her activities, the lady from Tamaqua with the "peaches and cream" complexion has managed to set more than one masculine heart aflutter. As a matter of fact, old Dandy Lion was heard growling to himself that the Reading Hospital where she will be working as a Lab Tech had better give her time off to accompany him to the first football game of the coming fall season. Hope she can make it, Dandy!

'46 To Donate Diving Board For New Pool

Marie Bonner, former president of the class of 1946, announced that the class decided at its last meeting to contribute, as its class gift to the College, a sum of money to purchase a diving board for the Alumni Memorial Swimming Pool. Any money left over will go toward the pool fund, she indicated.

The class also elected its officers for the next five years. They are John Kissinger, president; Miss Bonner, vice-president; and Irene Fisher, secretary-treasurer.

Sports around Albright this summer are about as active as Grand Central Station was during the train strike. Of course the tennis courts are still open, but with this Reading weather, very little use has been made of them. And so the typical sport of the summer students is either swimming or chasing the morning bus.

However, all this will be changed next fall, for Albright will have its most active sports program since the war. According to Coach Shirk, almost twenty football games will be played in the stadium this fall. Albright will play five, Reading High six, including such teams as Allentown, Ben Franklin of Philadelphia, and Pennington Prep of New Jersey. Central Catholic will play about five games and Shillington High about three.

This means that there will be games almost every Friday and Saturday, which will give the fans plenty of football. How our team will be is anybody's guess, but from all indications the schedule will be plenty tough. All of our opponents will have plenty of material and seemingly pretty good teams. Coach Dave Strong will have a tough nut to crack in his first year as coach here. Those teams he will be facing will be no pushovers.

Another surprise came last week when an article in the local paper disclosed that Lee Cappel had enlisted in the Navy. I doubt if very many Albrightians saw the article but I'm sure they all wish the long drink of water the best of luck.

Side Lions

Attention Bob Binder — Coach Gene Shirk hopes to have a cross country team next fall. Although no course has as yet been laid out, several meets are pending . . .

Football coach Dave Strong has also been appointed tennis coach next spring—understand he himself is quite a tennis player—won several meets out in Montana, where he is spending the early part of the summer . . .

Albright expects to have a tennis schedule . . . several school have been approached.

Mr. Shirk also announced that his track schedule is almost complete—did not mention any teams, but will most likely play teams engaged this year.

Albright Confers Degrees on Five

Several prominent men were awarded honorary degrees at the 1946 commencement exercises, among them Spruille Braden, Assistant Secretary of State, who was the main speaker. Braden was awarded the degree of doctor of laws. Dr. Earl A. Dimmick, an alumnus of Albright and superintendent of Pittsburgh public schools, was also given the honorary degree of doctor of laws.

Another Albright graduate, Dr. Harvey Bassler of Myerstown, was awarded the degree of bachelor of science. He is an explorer, naturalist, and geologist.

J. Warren Klein, president emeritus of the College, was honored with the degree of doctor of literature. Dr. Klein was awarded the degrees

College Arranges 1947 Softball Games

Albright definitely will have varsity baseball next spring, announced the Athletic Commission recently. No coach has been named at this early date, but the decision was made to have a team when it was found that the ball diamond would be ready for use next spring.

A few games have already been booked, and in all probability at least eight contests will be scheduled with Middle Atlantic Athletic Conference teams. This league, which Albright recently joined, is composed of eighteen colleges here in the east. For a team to compete in the finals for the baseball championship, it must play at least an eight game schedule with other members. This past spring the U. of Delaware won the title in the playoffs.

of doctor of divinity in 1910 by Ursinus College and doctor of laws in 1934 by Lebanon Valley College.

The degree of doctor of divinity went to Rev. Ivan M. Gould of Philadelphia, who recently was elected to the office of general secretary of the Pennsylvania Council of Churches and is also executive secretary of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association.

Pigskin Team Schedules Full Card; Will Go To Camp September 3rd

Coach Dave Strong will take approximately thirty-five men with him to football camp for fall training, he decided recently. As yet no site for the camp has been chosen, mainly due to the difficulties in making arrangements for feeding the embryo pigskin luggers.

The future gridders will leave for camp September 3, and remain there for two weeks of intensive training under the guidance of coaches Dave Strong, LeVan Smith, and Neal Harris.

Frat Softball Finishes With Zetas Winners

In a hectic last week of play, in which postponed games were played off at the rate of two a day, the Zetas managed to win decisively the 1946 inter-frat softball title. Their only setback was a 4 to 3 loss at the hands of the A.P.O.'s. The Zetas finished the schedule with seven wins against one loss. They were the winners of 1945's softball title, also.

The only competition given the Zetas was that of the A.P.O.'s and Kappa-Pi Tau's, but they were too busy fighting each other for second place to catch the fast stepping Zetas. The Dorm team came in fourth, edging out the last place Daymen.

A picked team representing all the fraternities again defeated the girls' varsity to take possession of Horatio the skunk in The Albrightian sponsored Skunk Day game May 21. For the second straight year the men won by one run, 7 to 6.

The men were unable to hit a ball out of the infield, due perhaps to the fact that they could only use the left hand, but a slippery field prevented the girls from being able to field very accurately, and a four run cluster in the first inning sent the men on the way to victory.

Thomas' Reformed Church. He was one of the organizers of the Old Reading Club. Bruce Balloch, who worked with Smith in the South Pacific on the idea of getting Reading service men in that area together, arranged the service.

Professor Anna H. Smith, instructor of home economics and his widow, recently unveiled a plaque which has been placed in the halls of Reading Senior High School in the popular coach's honor.

After their return from training camp, the new team will still have two weeks in which to practice for their meeting with the Muhlenberg Muhles in Allentown early in October.

Although this will be the first time Albright will compete in varsity football in five seasons, a full card has been scheduled with many of Albright's old rivals. The first two games will be played on the road, but the Lions will return to Reading to play five games in the Albright stadium.

The schedule:

The Scotchman awoke one morning to find that his wife had passed away during the night. He leaped out of bed, ran out in the hall, and called down to the cook:

"Mary, come to the foot of the stairs, quick."

"What is it?" she cried.

"Don't boil but one egg for breakfast," said the Scotchman.
