Chairman Announced For Domino Club Production

Patricia Hostetter, instructor in English and director of the Domino Club, has announced the chairmen who, with their committees, will be working behind the scenes for the Domino Club fall production, "The Rainmaker," to be presented in White Chapel Hall, Nov. 15, 16, 17.

Stage crew chairmen are Richard Matthews, '60, and Thomas Burns, '60. Lois Anderson, '57, and Virginia Mangin, '57, head the makeup committee. Other committee heads include Mary Ellen Wray, '58, lighting; Sarah Dettra, '59, publicity; and Sandra Miller, '60, tickets.

Rehearsals Under Way

Rehearsals are well under way for the production which starts Elizabeth Reynolds, '57 and Ralph Carl, '57. Both of these students played leading roles in last year's production, "King of Hearts." Miss Reynolds was the sweet character of Dunreath Henry and Carl played the obnoxious Larry Larkin. This year Miss Reynolds will play the part of a plain and lonely, but hopeful young girl in search of romance. Carl will portray Bill Starbuck, the loud braggard, but gentle dreamer.

Other members of the cast include Harold Bauchman, '58, Vaughn Mervine, '59, Robert Sidman, '60, Alexander Wipf, '60 and Arthur Younkin, '60. Mervine and Bauchman have appeared on the Domino billboard before. Sidman, Wipf, and Younkin are newcomers to the Domino stage. One of the major developments for this year's performance is an extended three-part stage.

Tickets for "The Rainmaker" will go on sale Tuesday, Nov. 6. Albright students will be able to exchange an activity-book ticket plus 10¢ (tax) for the admission ticket.

Football Ticket Sale Enters Final Phase

The student campaign to sell tickets to Albright's home football games will enter its final phase during the next two weeks, Thomas Sprucebank, '59, assistant chairman of the ticket committee, announced today. An appeal was also issued for all students to back the drive by selling at least one ticket each.

According to present indications, several campus organizations have made arrangements to sell large blocks of tickets to a number of local businesses and industries.

Although the drive is expected to end within the next two weeks, the final results of sales will not be made until after Nov. 17.

Tickets now on sale may be used for the Homecoming Day game next Saturday against Lebanon Valley and the final game of the season Nov. 17 against Scranton.

High School Group To Be College Guests

Guidance counselors and principals of Berks County high schools will be guests of the college, Tuesday, Nov. 5, in conjunction with the regular meeting of the Conrad Weiser chapter of the National Vocational and Guidance Association.

Preceding dinner in the College Dining Hall, the group will view a film shown by the Parish Pressed Steel Co., of Reading, and will hear further discussion of the Parish scholarship plan for engineering and manufacturing supervisory training.

A group discussion, with resource persons drawn from the college faculty and counselors, will follow the dinner. The general topic is "The College and the Community."

GOP Nominee Chapel Orator

The campus Republican Party Club was "well satisfied" with the response and reception accorded to Republican candidate for Congress, Thomas K. Leinbach, when he spoke at chapel program Tuesday, according to John W. Luckenbill, '58, club president.

Candidate Leinbach's appearance at the program was one of several club projects on campus to be held in conjunction with Professor Charles Raith's political science classes and the club.

Eisenhower Bandwagon

The Republican Club plans to take part in the Eisenhower Bandwagon activities when the group visits Reading. The club will also take part in the election watch to be held Tuesday, Nov. 6.

The club has been active in contacting Republican voters in local wards in an effort to get out the vote in the coming election. Carlton Dodge, '58, and Richard De Long, '58, are in charge of the phase of the club's program.

Officers of the club are: John W. Luckenbill, '58, president and Susanne Schick, '59, secretary. Like its rival Democratic organization on campus, the club has obtained $50.00 from the Citizenship Clearing House of the Ford Foundation to finance its operation.

Social Hour

The Hallowe'en Faculty-Student Social Hour will be held today, 3 to 5 p.m., in the Blue Room of Selwyn Hall. Entertainment and refreshments will be provided. Everyone is invited.

New Point System Set Up By WAA

The Women's Athletic Association set up a new point system for awarding girls' athletic awards at their meeting, Oct. 18.

The association adopted the following scoring system for activities: basketball, 25 points; hockey, 25 points; W.A.A. cabinet, 20 points; cheerleading, 20 points; senior manager, 15 points; junior manager, 10 points; May Day dancing, 10 points, and the position of captain of any sport, 5 points.

The following awards will be granted for earning the necessary number of points: class numeral, 50 points; letter, 100 points; sweater, 150 points; key, 200 points; blanket, 250 points; and blazer, 300 points. The blanket and blazer have just been added to the list of awards this year.

This plan will be retroactive for every girl on campus.

The W.A.A. is also planning to set up a new constitution and standards for cheerleading, varsity sports, W.A.A. cabinet and May Day dancing.

The officers of this group are Cynthia Winner, '57, president; Marilyn Wertz, '57, vice-president; Mildred Polk, '58, secretary; and Martha Richards, '59, treasurer.

SC Rescinds Cue Resolution

At its special meeting on Tuesday, Student Council voted unanimously to rescind a resolution passed by it at its previous regular meeting which pertained to The Cue. This resolution had called for the adding of five members to The Cue staff from the junior class. The motion to rescind the resolution was made by Philip Eyrich, '58, and was passed without debate.

President Rules

Clement Cassidy, '57, president of Student Council, ruled that he had no power to carry out the provisions of the resolution because Student Council had no jurisdiction over The Cue other than to approve of the selection of editor and business manager as stated specifically in the constitution of that body. The junior class had voted to not back the resolution on Thursday, Oct. 18. The Cue staff had vigorously opposed the measure.

After considerable discussion, Council approved a motion made by Louis Rossi, '59, to disperse with any other business at that meeting of the body because it was a special meeting and the business which had forced the calling of the meeting had been taken care of. An amendment to that motion by Ronald O'Reilly, '58, to also adjourn the meeting was similarly approved by the representatives.

Tickets For Ivy Ball On Sale All Week

Tickets for the coming Ivy Ball went on sale last Monday and can be obtained in the administration building all next week, announced Sheila Greene, '58, Ivy Ball ticket chairman. The goal of the committee is 300 tickets.

The tickets for the semi-formal, non-corsage dance are priced at $2.50 and can also be obtained from the following people: Lois Anderson, '57; Robert Durrwachter, '57; Robert Fox, '57; Lee Hagginbotham, '57; Victor Lauria, '58; John Luckenbill, '57; and Richard Mountcastle, '57.

Also Josephine Seyfert, '58; George Tietjen, '58; Jon Bradshaw, '59; Margaret Parker, '59; Harry Humphreys, '60; Nancy Ratajczak, '60; and Claire Vogel, '60.

VanHoove Heads Democratic Club

One of the newest organizations on campus this fall is the Albright Democratic Club under the leadership of Robert Van Hoove, '58. The club's members meet once a week to discuss party activities throughout the nation. The group is composed of students who have volunteered to help the Berks County Democrats.

Secretary-treasurer, Gregory Gonet, '58, explained that the Ford Foundation is responsible for the creation of this club. Through the Foundation, a grant of $50.00 was obtained by the Citizenship Clearing House for the purpose of running such an organization.

Activities Planned

Many activities have been planned by the group in connection with the coming election. An election watch has been planned for Nov. 6th, when the members will keep a running total of the voting returns from 8 p.m. until 1 a.m. A $15.00 reserve will be shared by both the Democratic and Republican Clubs for this watch. All those who are interested are cordially invited to come to Krause Hall, election night.

A welcome rally is being held today at the airport for Estes Kefauver, Democratic candidate for vice president, by the Albright Club. Kefauver will speak briefly at the airport and then will deliver a main address at a dinner being held in his honor at the Abraham Lincoln Hotel this evening.

Glee Club Schedule Listed By Director

A schedule for the '56-'57 Glee Club concerts has been released by Lester R. Yeager, assistant professor of music. The first concert is to be given this Sunday at the Fleetwood EUB Church.

A quartet selected from the Glee Club will give a concert at Bellman's EUB Church, Sunday, Nov. 4. Eustace Renner, '59, will be the speaker for the occasion.

The annual Christmas concert will be given in conjunction with the Albright College Concert Band. A special Christmas Concert will also be presented on Sunday, Dec. 9, at Emmanuel EUB Church.

Hallowe'en Hoedown Sponsored By Y's

The combined Y's will sponsor a Hallowe'en Hoedown on Tuesday night in Krause Hall, 7:30 to 10 p.m.

Cynthia Winner, '57, is chairman of the event. Other committee members include Albert Ellis, '58; Barbara Cox, '59; Dorothy Bookhamer, '60; and Harry Humphreys, '60.

Rev. Paul Scheirer of Pottstown will be the square dance caller. Slow numbers will be played between the sets. Refreshments are also planned.

Salute

Many times we find it easier to criticize than to compliment. This is true not only in our personal lives, but in our editorial policy. This week The Albrightian would like to compliment the progress being made along musical lines by the college.

First of all, as most of you know, the marching band is getting new uniforms. It is planned to have black serge uniforms with red and white trim. All metal used on the uniforms will be silver. This will certainly improve the appearance of our band at football games and other college functions.

However, this is not the only musical progress being made. As soon as football season is over, a concert band will be started. There are many college programs which would be improved by the performance of a concert band. This year, this need will be met. There are still many openings in the concert band and anyone interested should contact the head of the music department immediately.

We could not compliment these musical developments without mentioning the addition of a music appreciation course in the curriculum. It is important for the college graduate to be trained in not only science, English, philosophy, psychology, religion, etc., but also in the arts. It is hoped that this course will improve our knowledge of the arts. S.J.G.

Men Only

This editorial is strictly for male members of the Albright College community.

Gentlemen: An urgent situation exists on this campus that demands the immediate consideration of every red-blooded male among us. According to a notice on the main bulletin board at the entrance to the administration building, some 21 girls residing on the third floor of Selwyn Hall, fearing that males on the Albright campus are too bashful or afraid to ask them to the Ivy Ball, Friday, Nov. 2, had to be so bold as to advertise for male escorts to the dance. This advertisement is an affront to the chivalrous and manly traits of every unmarried male on campus. It is also an insult to the male prerogative of having the initiative in the race for life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, in regards to association with members of the opposite sex.

As a famous battle cry once stated that now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their country, so it is now time for all good men to come to the aid of their campus. It is time to prove conclusively to the world that Albrightian males fear nothing, least of all women. And let the thought perish that Albrightian males are too bashful to ask any female for a date. Unless something is done to correct this situation, unmarried males at Albright will ultimately have to face the sorry prospect of being pursued, bribed, trapped or otherwise coerced into the dating of females on campus. Surely, no respectable male among us wants to see this happen.

It is up to every unmarried male on campus to correct this situation by promptly dating the women concerned in the notice. You, as a male, owe it to yourself in two respects. By dating a girl for the Ivy Ball, you will be assured of having a pleasant evening at one of the biggest social affairs on campus. But more important, you will aid in preserving the reputation of Albright males as being red-blooded, God fearing, women-loving men. L.J.R.

Toward Peace

By George Withers

Peace alone is not the proper objective of effective diplomacy. Had peace been the only objective, world War II would not have begun. The democratic will for peace may yet introduce less security, a lowered guard, and reduced strength. The United States was the first to demobilize following World War II and will be the first again, if given the chance.

In the diplomatic and political struggles between the West and the Soviet Union, compromise tends to be the giving up of things by us for the promised relinquishing of the Soviets.

It is evident the Soviet Union seeks the following: an interval during which she can strengthen and consolidate her hold on the satellites, increase consumer goods for her people, and establish stability for her government. She also wants a weakening of American bases overseas and hopes for discent in Asia, Africa, and the Middle-East.

The United States seeks peace also, but not the kind that permits the attrition of the Western world and the sacrifice of its security. Our search for peace, our loathing for war, our desire for compromise, our hope for beneficial change must never destroy our strength.

America may find an alternative—one that offers hope. She may look to the future when the passage of time may heal the Soviet Union of its spirit of aggression. If this is to happen, three things are essential: first, she must live through the passage of time; second, she must continue her resistance; third, she must continue to speed her own progress.

In the meantime, aggression will be prevented only by the will to apply resistance, and the Western strength capable of applying it.

The road is hard toward a lasting peace, but there is evidence of traveling in the right direction. How tragic if we misread the signpost now and lose our way.

Explanation

By Sandra Gerhart

What has happened to the Freshmen Orientation Program at Albright? Why was the hygiene course dropped from the curriculum? These questions were asked by many of my classmates. In this article I'd like to answer them.

Albright is classified as a liberal arts college and has always offered an outstanding liberal arts course. In order to be placed in that category a college must provide not only for literary and scientific education, but for moral education as well. In this respect Albright had never offered any fine arts courses as a requirement. To overcome this weak point, the college has allocated the orientation and hygiene courses. By relinquishing these two hours, they were able to insert music appreciation.

The orientation and hygiene courses weren't dropped altogether. Hygiene is now covered in the physical education and health courses. The orientation period is continued for a few weeks after the Freshmen Orientation week. These orientation meetings are not part of the freshmen curriculum and are not creditable. During the orientation meetings the student is "introduced" to the college. The bridge between high school and college is shortened and the student feels more at ease.

For the next few weeks the orientation meetings will deal with the usage of the library, public relations and the social life of the campus. It is our privilege to take advantage of this opportunity to learn more about our school.

Albright Personality

• Ehrhardt Lang •

By Billie Williams

On campus there is a senior who can truly be called cosmopolitan. Ehrhardt Lang was born in Yokohama, Japan, where his parents serve as missionaries to the EUB church. Right before World War II he lived in Germany for over a year. When the War broke out, he returned to Japan where he went to a German school until fifth grade. Then he entered an international English-speaking school which he attended until his senior year. He completed his education in the U.S.

Active Student

Albright received Ehrhardt fresh from William Penn High School in Harrisburg. Since he has been here, he has become quite a part of campus activities. As a freshman, he participated in intramural sports for the dorm men, worked on The Albrightian, and belonged to IRC.

During his entire college career, Ehrhardt has been active in Kappa

Tau Chi, honorary pre-ministerial fraternity, German Club and YMCA Cabinet have consumed an equal amount of his time. Last year he was honored by being elected president of the two latter organizations.

For two years he belonged to Philosophy Club and Delta Phi Alpha, honorary German Fraternity, of which he is president this year. All these activities have kept our personality busy. However, he has been able to relax and develop such hobbies as sketching and collecting rocks.

This past summer he was a youth missionary for the EUB church. He toured the country with other students and got experience in the type of work that interests him. Next year Ehrhardt plans to work as a youth associate for the EUB church. This will be preliminary to his entering seminary. We have complete faith that Ehrhardt will attain his goal.

Help For The Heartbroken

By Ina Largehelp
 Alias Sandra Strickler

Dear Miss Largehelp:

I am very much in love with a fellow whom I went out with one time a year ago. I see him now about once a week in the SUB.

Although I know he still loves me, he never talks to me except to see if I can fix him up with my roommate. This really breaks me up.

Do you think that he is doing this just to make me jealous and thus win back my love? Or do you think he could be trying to discourage me?

Please help me!

Miss BB

(Broken-hearted and Bewildered)

My dear Miss BB:

I have thought your problem over carefully and have come to this conclusion.

Stay in there and fight for your man! I'm sure that he still loves you, even though he doesn't speak to you and dates your roommate.

Best wishes,
 Miss I. L.

Dear Miss Largehelp:

I go with a guy who is very nice in most respects, but I have one pet peeve about him. Whenever we go to a movie or dance, he always manages to leave his wallet at home, or has forgotten to put money in it. I usually end up paying for the tickets, which creates a most embarrassing situation. Can you give me some advice on how to solve this problem?

Thank you,
 Miss AB.

Dear Miss AB:

The solution to your problem of embarrassment is quite simple. I suggest you give your boyfriend the money before arriving at the movie or dance, then he won't be embarrassed.

Sincerely,
 Miss Largehelp.

Dear Miss Largehelp:

I really have troubles! I go steady, but I am very much in love with my best friend's boyfriend. My best friend's boyfriend is also my boyfriend's best friend. What shall I do?

Miss CP
 (Confused and Perplexed)

My dear Miss CP:

I strongly advise that you transfer at the end of the semester.

Good luck,
 Miss Largehelp.

Lesson Learned

By Catherine Diefenderfer

It was a hot summer day and the bright sun hurt the eyes. The smell of decay and dirt rose from the streets in suffocating clouds. Kids ran up and down the pavements, mothers yelled for them to be careful of the cars, and occasionally were heard the cries of "Fight, fight," or "Stop, Thief." Youngsters had nowhere to go so they fought each other or stole cigarettes and fruit from the local storekeepers. The apathetic cop walked his beat organizingly, and the mailman looked as if he were going to drop. Yes, it was like this every summer. The heat drove people out of the apartments, and the smell from the streets forced them back in. One was just as bad as the other.

Plan

This had been Joe's life, but now he was ready to leave. His plan was very simple: get a job, make some money, further his education and come back home. There was only one problem—it didn't work out that smoothly.

Two years passed, as Joe worked hard in a factory to get the money to go to college. Thinking he had enough money to get through two years of school (provided he stuck to a strict budget and worked on the side), Joe enrolled in college. He proved to be an asset both scholastically and socially, then tragedy struck. He became ill and was rushed to the hospital. The doctors said he had polio and, although he would recover, it would be some time before he could resume college.

Depression

Joe grew steadily depressed, as time seemed to be rushing by and letting him sit. Then, one day, Joe was visited by the spiritual director of the college and with his help, discovered that life was not hopeless and that he could continue his plans. From that day on, Joe's recovery was remarkably swift and his return to college and his career was assured. But Joe learned a lesson that he was to carry with him the rest of his life. He learned that faith and trust in God can work miracles. His faith was to be tested many times in the years to come, but prayer and belief that things would turn out right were to prove that Joe had learned his lesson well.

Albright, Moravian Vie In Sixth Pretzel Bowl Game

IN THE LION'S DEN

By Phil Eyrich, Associate Editor

A new sport, wrestling, will make its appearance at Albright this year. The first meeting for squad candidates was slated to be held this past week and a good turnout was expected. The addition of the mat sport to the athletic program of the college is a mark of progress for Albright. Just as it is expanding in the academic and social spheres, this college is also moving forward in athletics. Wrestling will give Albright a chance to use its modern fieldhouse for more sporting events than it has in the past, thus taking full advantage of the facilities available to the athletic department. Wrestling will help to round out the winter sports program, which in former years contained only basketball.

Having a second major winter sport will also enable more students to participate in athletics here at Albright. This sport is unique, in that regard, for while in some sports the premium is placed on, and most of the participants must therefore conform to, size requirements, in wrestling persons are needed of various physical statures to fill the various classes. Wrestling will therefore help to meet the athletic needs of a wide range of students, and that is the main purpose of a college having an athletic program anyway.

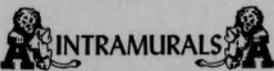

As with the other sports at Albright, however, the key to its success is the support it receives from the students. All men interested in the mat sport should turn out now for the team. Competition is always needed in a team to insure the best performance of any of its members so that the more students that try out for the squad, the better wrestling will be. With regard for the remainder of Albrightians, when the wrestling season starts, follow the team by being present at all of the matches.

As For Football . . .

Turning our attention to football, the Red and White gridders are recovering from an epidemic of injuries which hit the team during the Franklin and Marshall game. Most serious to the team is the fractured collarbone suffered by ace center John Mishko. The injury will keep him out of action for the remainder of the season. This, plus the fact that co-captain Willy Smith is also sidelined, leaves the Potsklanmen minus two of their key players. Ends Frank Hoffman and George Flynn sat out the game at F&M, while Don McCarty was injured in the game with the Dips. He alternates at end and tackle.

The loss of Mishko, coupled with an injury to reserve center Tony LoSapio, leaves the team with only one pivot man in junior Dick Wagner. Wagner was converted from end at the start of this season. Several other players received lesser injuries and are on the doubtful list for tomorrow's game against usually rough Moravian. Having dropped their first five contests, the Lions chances of breaking into the win column appear to be the best against Lebanon Valley, with Scranton and Moravian following, and Lehigh far behind.

So far this season, Albright has produced a terrific aerial attack, with Frank Sudock throwing and Ted Mortsea and Flynn being the leading targets, although many members of the team have shared in the catching end. But the lack of an explosive back with both speed and power has plagued the squad. Fresh Gerry Bricker appears to be most likely of being able to fit the above specifications, but he lacks experience. Bob Wetzel, if he is able to play, could also provide the Red and White offense with the key punch that it needs. Overall, however, it appears that the Lions will have to continue to be dependent on their passing attack for offensive punch.

Zeta Takes Second-Half Lead

With the coming of the basketball season, the second half of the football intramurals has taken on a more balanced look. This was evident when first half champs Alpha Pi Omega, minus six key men, were shut out by an inspired Pi Tau Beta team 20-0. Zeta Omega Epsilon crept into first place with a 2-0 record.

The tie was against Kappa Upsilon Phi, 7-7. Both teams played a scoreless first half, but the Zeta's drew first blood when Ernie Brodbeck intercepted a Kappa pass and went over for the score. Bob Kovac took the pass for the extra point. Kappa stormed back and knotted the count when Bob Lightwise hit Bill Breneman for a six-pointer and the extra point.

Storming back from the tie, Zeta knocked off the Dorm 19-12, and shut out Pi Tau 6-0. Pi Tau's other win was a shut out of the dorm 12-0. In other games, APO defeated Kappa by a score of 20-13, and the Dorm, 20-6.

Standings for the first week of the second half are:

Zeta	2	0	1	32	19
Pi Tau	2	1	1	45	19
AP0	2	1	0	40	39
Kappa	0	1	2	33	40
Dorm	0	3	0	18	51

Individual scoring honors:

Brenneman	14
Greenawald	13
Kovac	13
Townley	12
Brodbeck	12

The tennis intramural title went to Randy Haller, who defeated John Rickenbach in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4. Haller beat Jack Reinhart, Reading High's number one man last year, 6-2, 7-5. Rickenbach advanced to the finals by downing Ernie Firestone.

Dips Top Lions 20-6; Mishko Lost Via Injury

By Mike Teitelman, Albrightian Sports Writer

Undefeated Franklin and Marshall College held off four Albright scoring threats to beat the Lions 20-6 before a Homecoming Day crowd of 6,000 happy alumni at Williamson Field in Lancaster last Saturday. The loss was even more costly for the Albrightians because John Mishko suffered a broken collar bone in the first play of the game and will be out for the season. Dick Wagner filled in at center and will be expected to do so for the remainder of the season.

The first quarter was scoreless, although the Lions started one of their many threats at the F&M goal line. Some good passing by Frank Sudock got the ball to the 20-yard line of the Diplomats, but the attack fizzled.

Late in the second quarter, the Diplomats marched for their first touchdown. Quarterback Jay Powell fired a long pass to Bill Herring which gained 52 yards. Another pass to Herring put the ball on the five yard line. After several plunges, Powell lugged the pigskin over from the one-yard line. The attempted conversion was wide, so the score was 6-0 with just two minutes remaining in the half. Gerry Bricker took the pickoff back 30 yards to the Albright 39.

Score TD

Sudock then fired a pass to Freshman Ted Mortsea who caught the ball on the F&M 35 and raced all the way to tie up the game. Ralph Cyphers' attempted conversion was blocked. Quarterback Powell went to the air lanes after the Diplomats returned the kickoff to the 35. But Frank Sudock intercepted the first aerial and the Lions had the ball on their own 40-yard line. A Sudock pass to Mortsea gained 20 yards and another pass to John Kopp put the ball on the F&M 26, but the clock ran out to end the half.

The Diplomats marched to a touchdown right after the second half kickoff. George Darrah, who was voted F&M's most valuable player, threw a 15-yard touchdown pass to Jim Pettigrew and the Blue and White led 12-6. The conversion was made and the score stood 13-6.

Albright got a big drive underway as Sudock fired passes all over Williamson Field. The soph quarterback hit Mortsea, Kopp, and Don McCarty with short passes that gained four first downs in succession. A Sudock heave to Mortsea put the ball on the 15 and the Lions moved down to the F&M four-yard line. But Sudock fumbled on the next play and Pettigrew recovered for the Diplomats.

Force Punt

The Lions, however, forced a punt and had the ball on the F&M 38. A Sudock pass to Mortsea put the ball on the eight-yard line, but the Lions just could not move the ball. Albright recovered a fumble on the 32-yard line of the Diplomats, but two passes to John Cunningham just missed connecting and a certain score.

In the fourth quarter, the Lions started another march. A Sudock pass to Mortsea was the big game and put the ball on the F&M 19. Sudock repeated the play, again hitting Mortsea, for the seventh time in the game, on the Diplomat seven-yard line. Then Coach John Potskian pulled his ace out of the hole and put in Bob Wetzel, leading per-averge ground gainer on the squad last year, but idle because of a severe shoulder separation this season. Wetzel took the ball to the four, good enough for the first down. But two plunges gained nothing and it was third down.

Sudock threw a pass to Cunningham that slipped out of his outstretched fingers. On the big fourth down play, Sudock again threw to Cunningham on the goal line, but once more he just barely missed the ball.

With only a few minutes to play, the Lions were dead. Then George Darrah bolted around the right side for 40 yards and the third F&M score of the day. The conversion was good and the final score read Franklin & Marshall 20, Albright 6.

Frank Sudock fired 31 passes against the Diplomats, completing

Dick Wagner

15, good for 205 yards in the air. The Lions had 15 first downs compared to 16 for F&M. But it was the same old story on the ground; the Albrightians gained just 100 yards to the Dips 273. Sudock has completed 50 passes out of 106 attempted, good for over 700 yards this season.

Red And White Loses To Lafayette, F&M

Depth was again the deciding factor as Coach Eugene Shirks' cross-country squad dropped two meets last week. On Oct. 16, the Lions lost a close race to Lafayette 32-32. Captain Don Gottshall won the meet in the time of 24:09.5. George Mack took third and Dick Thrasher copped fifth, but then the Leopard's depth entered the picture as they took the sixth, seventh, and eighth spots to ice the contest. Like their opener this loss was a bitter pill to swallow for the Lions because of the close score.

In their first away meet of the season, the Shirksmen dropped a 21-38 race to the Diplomats of F&M. Captain Gottshall lost his first meet of the season as Don Clark of F&M won the race. The Albrightians placed 2-6-7-11-12 for a total of 38 points. The Diplomats definitely fielded a better team than last year.

The Lions run today against Juniata at home starting at 4:00. The meet should be close and prove to be interesting.

Albright Boasts Two Wins In Shrine Classic

The Albright College football Lions will be host to the Moravian Greyhounds in the sixth annual Pretzel Bowl game tomorrow evening. The game, sponsored by the Shriners, will be played at the Albright Stadium beginning at 8:00.

The annual classic, which is promoted for the benefit of the Shriners' hospitals for crippled children, began in 1951. Albright has played in all of the games, winning two and losing three.

The Lions' victories have been over Pennsylvania Military College in 1952 by a 20-0 score and Muhlenberg in 1954 by a 12-7 count. Losses have been at the hands of West Chester by 32-9, Lebanon Valley by 13-0, and Gettysburg by 46-6 in 1951, 1953, and 1955, respectively.

Three Starred

Roy Dragon, Whitey Rightmire, and John Cunningham starred for Albright in the 46-6 loss at the hands of the Bullets last year in the Pretzel Bowl. Dragon, who was named the Lions' most valuable player for the game, has graduated, but fullback Rightmire and halfback Cunningham return this year.

Moravian, fresh from a smashing 33-2 victory over Lebanon Valley, will enter the game with a two-win, two-loss record. The Greyhounds have topped Lycoming 20-6, in addition to LVC. Their losses have been to Juniata 25-0 and PMC 14-13.

The visitors will be directed by quarterback Tony Matz of Reading, who ran for one six-pointer and passed by another last week against LVC. Together with Harry Shropshire, they form a potent backfield duo for Moravian.

A year ago, the Greyhounds set back the Red and White 35-13 at Bethlehem with a devastating ground offense. Moravian, however, is not as strong as a year ago, but does figure to be a better-than-average small college team.

Lions Ahead

Over the years, the Lions have beaten Moravian 15 times, while losing but four. Albright last won in 1953 by a 21-13 score, but has defeated the Greyhounds in 10 of the last 12 meetings between the two schools.

The Potsklanmen are still looking for their initial win of the season, having dropped games with Bucknell, Muhlenberg, Gettysburg, Lafayette, and Franklin and Marshall. The team, however, is riddled with injuries for tomorrow's contest.

The probable starting lineup for Albright will be Ted Mortsea and Barry Gable, ends; John Setticeerz and Joe Kremer, tackles; Charles Hoover and Dick Napolitani, guards; Dick Wagner, center; Frank Sudock, quarterback; Tom Pollock and John Kopp, halfbacks; and Rightmire, fullback.

For The Record

Albright's grid opponents have compiled a composite record of 16 wins, 19 losses, and one tie so far this season. These figures include games with each other, but a breakdown shows that their record is eight wins, eleven losses, and one tie with schools other than the ones Albright plays.

Lafayette leads the group with a 5-0 record, while Scranton is in the cellar at 0-4. In addition, Lehigh and Gettysburg are 3-2, F & M 3-0-1, Bucknell and Muhlenberg 2-3, Moravian 2-2, and Lebanon Valley 1-3.

Students, Faculty State Views About Nuclear Bomb Tests

A recent all-campus survey on the question of the week, "Should the United States discontinue nuclear bomb tests?" revealed the following comments, as gathered by freshmen reporters Anne Purvis and Robert Poff.

Lemuel Greth, '60: "The United States should not discontinue the nuclear tests, as long as they make the tests far enough from home."

Donna Cook, '60: "No, they should not because it is necessary for safety or President Eisenhower would have stopped them."

Carolyn Stillwagon, '59: "The United States being a Christian country should set the pace for the rest of the world and give up the nuclear test."

Martin Musket, '60: "The United States should keep up the tests as long as other countries keep having tests."

Agnes Smith, '58: "Some of the tests should be given up, but not all of them."

Lynn Probst, '58: "The United States should give it up only if an agreement were made with the other big powers that they would do the same."

Richard Ebricht, '57: "According to the reports, the nuclear tests should be given up because the radio activity which falls back on the earth will effect the heredity of future generations."

Richard Dickinson, '57: "We must keep up the tests because of the competition of other countries. The United States must stay ahead to remain a world power."

Professor Clyde Harding: "We should discontinue the tests if there is a definite guarantee that the other countries would stop their tests. If there is no definite guarantee, then we should continue our tests."

Professor Margaret Haight: "In view of the world situation, it is necessary to continue the nuclear tests, although there should be more emphasis on using it for peace than for destruction."

Lil' Abner Surprises Dogpatch Residents

The annual Sadie Hawkins' dance was held last Friday night in Krause Hall and much to the surprise of the citizens of Dogpatch, Lil' Abner did not try to escape the clutches of Daisy Mae.

The wedding took place before a crowd of 250 people at approximately 9:30 p.m. Portraying Lil' Abner was Edward Traves, '60, and Claire Vogel, '60, played the part of Daisy Mae. Also participating in the skit were Harry Humphreys, '60, as Marryin' Sam; Patricia Cush, '60, as Wolfgirl; Marilyn Catlow, '60, as Moonbeam McSwine; and Dorothy Siegel, '60, as Mammy Yockum.

Decorating the hall were silhouettes pertaining to the characters of the Lil' Abner comic strip. To add to the romantic mood, a kissing rock was also a part of the background.

Music was supplied by the Jay Salustro combo.

College Graduates Praise New Tutorial Project

Ninety-two per cent of the respondents to a Chatham College alumnae questionnaire reported that they evaluated the tutorial project as being worthwhile, according to Dr. Lily Detchen, Director of the Office of Evaluation Services.

The tutorial program is one of the most important phases of the Chatham College curriculum. It is aimed at providing each student with discipline in a self-directed education. The senior student receives six hours of credit for this project which entails their meeting once a week with a faculty member to discuss progress on a project of her own choosing, culminating in the writing of a major research paper.

Occasionally a student in the humanities of exceptional talent will undertake a creative project accompanied by a minor paper relating the creation to a larger aspect of the art. The completed papers are defended orally before committees composed of three faculty members.

In the questionnaire which was directed to alumnae who graduated during the period of time that the tutorial program has been offered (1950-54), the college asked for an overall rating of the tutorial—its values, weaknesses, tangible benefits that might have resulted, suggestions for improvement, and the relation of the tutorial to graduate study.

Similar Questionnaire

It is interesting to note that after the first year of the tutorial program, a similar questionnaire was given to graduates in order to evaluate the tutorial. Sixty-seven per cent indicated that they felt the project had been a good enterprise. In view of the recent response where 92 per cent evaluated the project as being worthwhile, it seems to follow, according to the Office of Evaluation Services, that graduates change their point of view in retrospect.

About one-fourth of the 235 tutorial respondents considered the tutorial program to be the most outstanding feature of their education at Chatham. More than two-thirds of the group felt that the tutorial was more valuable to them than any six-hours of academic credit they might have chosen, in its place. Only eight per cent of the graduates felt that the program was not worthwhile.

For a few, the tutorial had tangible benefits such as being the basis of their being hired or receiving a fellowship, but the college feels that these outcomes are not an intrinsic expectation of the program. Rather, they should be classified as concomitants or extra dividends.

Different Meanings

The tutorial meant something quite different to each student, but most respondents felt that it did such things as "trained them in independent research and organization of material" or "was a major factor in my learning how to interpret data correctly" or "gave me the impetus to further my academic pursuits" or "provided me with a new and favorable relationship with professors because of the close association and work with them."

The chief criticism was that the project involved more work than was represented in the academic credit received. Without exception, graduate students commented that the tutorial experience was immeasurably beneficial. The values were those that might be expected—experience in the scholarly disciplines, training in independent organization and research, the development of library skills and experience in reporting.

The Chatham faculty regards the findings as a reaffirmation of the value of the tutorial program. The unfavorable criticisms as well as the favorable ones will be investigated and appraised with the ultimate aim of improving the effectiveness of the tutorial program.

Vesper Speaker

Jonathan Kurtz, '57, will be the speaker in the Sunday night vesper service. Kurtz, a pre-ministerial student, has chosen as his topic "The Lonely Crowd." The speaker for the Wednesday night vesper service has not been announced.
