Students to Vote Next Week For Leaders of Nine Groups

Officers of nine leading campus organizations for 1951-52 will be elected next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday through the annual all-campus ballot. The question of abolishing Saturday classes will also be decided.

All students are eligible to vote for the Student Council president. All men may vote for the Y.M.C.A. officers and all women for the Y.W.C.A. and Women's Student Senate officers. The officers of the Daymen's Organization, Daywomen's Organization and the three classes will be elected by their respective members.

Candidates for the presidency of the Women's Student Senate are Evelyn Nantz and Lois Gehris. The Daymen have nominated Francis Carney and Howard Peiffer. Contenders for the Daywomen's presidency are Joyce Snyder and Miss Gehris. All of these students are juniors.

Because of the withdrawal of Vincent Gentile and Owen J. Davis from candidacy for the presidency of the Class of 1952, two new nominees had to be chosen last Tuesday. They are Oscar Mogel and George Simmons. Gentile withdrew because he is also a candidate for the Student Council presidency and Davis withdrew because of his imminent federalization with the local National Guard unit.

Other Class of '52 nominees are for vice-president, Francis Carney and Norman Snook; for secretary, Helen Hasselgren and Margery Mansfield; for treasurer, Charles Ziegler and Barbara Wrisley.

Candidates for Class of 1953 officers were also selected last Tuesday. Presidential nominees are William Schmidt, Joe Ustynowski, Gene Lang and Robert Waldner. The second highest of these will become the vice-president. The Girvin twins, Annetta Deussen, Nancy Reed and Betty Martin are candidates for the post of secretary. Running for treasurer are William Locher, Dorothy Kuettel, Phoebe Hunter and Thomas Green.

Robert Bieler and Thomas Shultz are the nominees for the presidency of the Class of 1954. Candidates for vice-president are Robert Skinner and Dave Keller. The class has not selected nominees for the positions of secretary and treasurer.

Russell F. Weigley and Gentile were nominated on March 13 for the Student Council presidency. The candidates for the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. offices are listed elsewhere in this issue.

The Saturday class issue will be presented in two forms. Those who desire the retention of Saturday classes will check one question. Those who wish to have them abolished, with the understanding that they may have to be rescheduled on different afternoons, will check the other question.

Because the proposed Student Council constitution was not approved by the governing body until last Tuesday and must subsequently be considered by the faculty, it cannot be placed on the all-campus ballot next week.

William A. Heck is chairman of the student activities committee of Student Council, which is in charge of the all-campus election. The results will be released through The Albrightian next Friday.

Election Scheduled For Dorm Prexy

Margery Mansfield and Joanne Raffensperger have been nominated for the position of president of the Women's Dormitory Council for next year. The election will be held on Monday, April 9 at 7 o'clock. All dormitory women will vote.

Both of the candidates are members of the junior class. Miss Mansfield is a home economics major from Philadelphia and Miss Raffensperger is a Spanish major from Ridgewood, New Jersey.

Council Approves New Constitution With Amendment

Following the addition of two fraternity and sorority representatives to the membership of the proposed Student Council, the new Council constitution was approved by the present government organization last Tuesday. The vote was 21-1.

Russell F. Weigley, chairman of the constitution committee, proposed the change in membership to meet the objection of the fraternity men who had voted against adopting the document the preceding week. Article III, Section II, Part 1 was accordingly changed to read "The Albright College Student Council shall be composed of the presidents of the Interfraternity and Intersorority Councils and representatives from the Men's and Women's Senates elected on a class basis, and shall be responsible for major all-college issues."

The proposed constitution must now be approved by the faculty before the entire student body can vote on it. Since the next faculty meeting will not be held until Monday, April 16, the issue cannot be placed on the all-campus ballot next week. It is likely that the student referendum will be held before the end of April.

Two Council Members Added
With the addition of the fraternity and sorority representatives to the membership of the proposed Council was increased from 11 to 13. The organization of the Intersorority Council has not yet been completed.

The question of adopting the proposed constitution as a whole came up in Council for the first time on Tuesday, March 20. Action was tabled, however, since an insufficient number of Council members were present. The following Tuesday, March 27 the vote showed 18 in favor of the constitution and five fraternity representatives against. However, the document was defeated since a two-thirds majority of the entire Council membership of 30 was required for approval. The change made last Tuesday removed the fraternity objection. A roll call vote was taken each time.

Originally it had been hoped that the question of adopting the con-

Wrisley, Finch, Snook, Buxton Compete for Y Presidencies; Other Officers Nominated

Nominees for the offices of the Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Association were chosen at a recent meeting of the Y Cabinet. Nominees for the Y.M. offices are Leonard Buxton and Norman Snook, president; James Barrett and William Glant, vice-president; David Keller and Thomas Shultz, secretary and Charles Benner and Theodore Whitby, treasurer. Y.W. candidates are as follows: Barbara Finch and Barbara Wrisley, president; Evelyn Kressler and Evelyn Nantz, vice-president; Margery Mansfield and Nancy Reed, secretary and Virginia Marick and Patricia Miller, treasurer.

Albrightian Staff to Hold Dinner April 13

The staff of The Albrightian will hold their annual banquet on Friday, April 13 at the Thomas Jefferson Tea Room. Any member who is interested in attending please contact Barbara Miller or Phoebe Hunter by Monday, April 9. Menu lists are posted on the bulletin board outside of the office.

W. Heck Appoints '52 Editorial Staff

Eleven students were appointed last Friday to editorial positions on the staff of The Albrightian by William A. Heck, editor-in-chief for 1951-52. They are Phoebe Hunter, Patricia Schearer, Marie Kaputo, William Wahl, Russell F. Weigley, Dorothy Delaney, Barbara Farris, Virginia Seems, Michael Lafferty, Ray Weitzel and Jessie Nucci.

Miss Hunter will serve as news editor, Miss Kaputo as copy editor and Wahl as sports editor. Weitzel and Lafferty have been designated co-feature editors. The other six people were assigned to the editorial staff, which will handle major reporting assignments and assist with such work as writing headlines, preparing dummies and typing.

Heck also announced that William S. Sailer and George Spencer will be staff photographers and Dave Keller will continue as staff cartoonist. Richard Stinson will also retain his position as radio news editor. The exchange editor will be Annabel Sanders.

Initial plans for the new staff for this spring were made at a meeting held last Friday afternoon. The staff will begin functioning with the issue of Friday, April 13. Meetings of the entire group have been scheduled for every Friday afternoon at 3:10 until May 18. They will be held in Room 203 of the Administration Building. Heck explained that these meetings will give the staff a chance to discuss mutual problems, study each week's issue and consider assignments for the coming issues. The holding of regular meetings of the entire staff is an innovation in Albright journalism.

Miss Hunter joined The Albrightian staff as a reporter in September, 1949, and was appointed assistant news editor last fall. A resident of Manheim, she is a sophomore history major. Miss Kaputo has been a reporter on the staff for the past three years. She is a Spanish major from Reading. Wahl, a business administration major, was appointed sports editor last September. Both Lafferty and Weitzel live in Reading and gained experience as feature writers this year. The former is an English major and the latter a history major.

Miss Schearer, a sophomore, has been an Albrightian reporter for two years. Misses Delaney and Farris, freshmen, and Miss Nucci, junior, joined the staff last fall.

Howard Platzker, business manager of the new staff, disclosed that he will appoint a circulation manager and business staff soon. The news, sports and feature staffs have not been completed yet.

Council Opposes Loyalty Oath Bill

Student Council has gone on record as opposing a bill in the Pennsylvania Legislature which would require all teachers to take a loyalty oath. The legislation, House Bill No. 27, is "An act requiring every person in the employ of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania or any political subdivision thereof to take an oath of loyalty . . ." It was amended to include all teachers in state supported colleges and universities. The bill was called to the attention of Council by the Pennsylvania Region of the National Student Association.

Council also acted last Tuesday to send two delegates to an N.S.A. Student Government Convention and Clinic at Muhlenberg College on April 28 and 29.

In action taken on March 27, Council decided to investigate the feasibility of adopting a point system. Such a system would limit the number of offices which any student could hold or the number of organizations to which he could belong.

Council voted to investigate the possibility of permitting other groups than the Y's to meet on Tuesday nights. At present Tuesdays are reserved for Y activities.

Musical Group Elects Officers for Next Year

An election of officers was held by the Band and Orchestra Club on March 19. The following were elected to office for the coming year: Jack Greenspan, manager; Vincent Gentile, president; Nicholas Allard, vice-president; Barbara Benner, secretary and Norman Snook, treasurer. Mr. Hans Nix will serve as faculty advisor.

Musical History To Be Made Tomorrow As Claude Thornhill Plays for Ball

For the first time in the history of Albright College a name band, that of Claude Thornhill, will play for a combined Freshmen-Sophomore-Junior dance, the "Blessed Event," to be held at the Rajah Ballroom tomorrow night, April 7. Taking into consideration the cost of the affair, the committee has announced this a strictly no-corsege dance which brings it down to normal dance price. The dance is open to all students, faculty and alumni.

The "Blessed Event" committee is composed of representatives from each of the three classes and is headed by three co-chairmen, Jack Greenspan, junior; Betty Martin, sophomore; and Robert Skinner, freshman. Other committee members are Jane Katz, publicity chairman; Margery Mansfield, ticket chairman; Doris Hill, refreshment chairman; Phoebe Ann Hunter, Helen Hasselgren, Ann and Kay Girvin, Priscilla Cooper, Joan Fleming, Dorothy Carey, Nancy Lou Walker, David Keller, Joseph Ustynowski, Vincent Gentile, Robert Bieler, Jay Schraier, Ramona Latorre, Joan Moyer, Elliott Sauerstiegl, Mary Jane Titlow, Robert Waldner, Francis Carney, William Locher, Joan Moore, Marilyn Miller, Patricia Miller and Lois Stockinger.

Claude Thornhill

The committee has announced that Mr. and Mrs. Lester Stabler and Dean and Mrs. Levan P. Smith will be the chaperones for the dance.

If Claude Thornhill arrives in time, he will be interviewed by Richard Stinson on the Albrightian newscast over station WHUM on Saturday at 2:30 P. M.

"It is my belief that students do not simply belong to the 'Y', but that the 'Y' belongs to them," stated Buxton. "The value of the campus Christian Association must not be limited to persons with any one set of beliefs, but should be made practical to all faiths and creeds. The function of the 'Y', as I see it, is to give direction and purpose to the lives of the greatest possible number of students. To meet this function, the program of the 'Y' must cover all phases of a modern college student's life. The bases for any purpose and meaning do not lie in some fantastic, futuramic philosophy, but in the careful application of the basic premises of our Judao-Christian heritage."

Buxton, a psychology major and English minor, is a member of Kappa Tau Chi, Sigma Tal Delta, Domino Club, College Choir, Sons of Albright (quartet) and 'Y' Cabinet. A pre-ministerial student, he expects to attend the Evangelical School of Theology and do pastoral counseling at Boston University. After this academic work Buxton plans to enter the active pastoral ministry.

Snook is a philosophy major and English minor and is active in Sigma Tau Delta, Philosophy Club, College Choir and orchestra, Domino Club, Kappa Tau Chi, Zeta Omega Epsilon. He is also secretary of Y.M.C.A.

The following is Snook's statement of the Y's purpose: "The Christian association is a fellowship of concerned college students, open to everyone. It must meet the needs and interests of all students through a wide program, and provide means of expression of love and brotherhood throughout all activities of campus life. God's fulfillment in man's life is its chief concern, which is carried out through worship, study and action." "One of the purposes of the Y.W.C.A. is to foster participation by the members in all religious activities on campus," Barbara Finch stated. "I hope that next year the 'Y' activities may be so planned that every girl will want to take part and thus have a closer fellowship with the students and a closer relationship with God."

A Spanish and English major, Miss Finch is president of La Sociedad Cultural Espanola, dormitory.

Graduate Exams Offered May 4, 5

The annual Graduate Record Examinations by which college seniors qualify for graduate schools will be given at Albright College's Psychological Service Center May 4 and 5, 1951. Registration closes April 20, 1951.

The Medical College Admission Test, sponsored by the Association of American Medical Colleges, will be given at the Psychological Service Center on Saturday, May 12, 1951. Registration for this closes April 28, 1951. Information and applications for these two national examinations may be obtained from the Psychological Service Center at Albright College. Prof. John W. Reid, acting director, says that seniors expecting military service to interrupt their study earn better scores by taking such examinations now rather than after service.

Thank You

Last year at this time I assumed my new duties as editor-in-chief of The Albrightian. Since then 23 Albrightians have been published. Looking back, I realize that this could not have been accomplished without the untiring efforts of the staff and the cooperation of students and faculty.

I especially want to take this opportunity to thank those staff members who will graduate this June—Peter Bohren, business manager; Barbara Miller, news editor; Ray Schlegel, assistant sports editor; Jay Kyle, feature editor; David Fulmer, circulation editor; Kathleen Guenther, copy editor; and reporters Alma Natanablat, Harry Nelson, Charlotte Winner, William Schaeffer, Ruth Tyson, Charles Wolf and Terry Connor. I'm sure they will agree that our college newspaper has provided them not only with fine companionship and worthwhile experience, but also with a feeling of achievement. A note of thanks also goes to Dr. Edith Douds for her sincere interest and helpful advice.

The new staff headed by Bill Heck and Howard Platzker will begin their duties next week. Having worked with them, I know they will do an excellent job. However, they too will need the support of you, the student body.

So farewell, and thank you for the honor accorded me as editor. May the new Albrightian staff have much success in the coming year.

Pat.

Voting - Our Opportunity

Have you voted? That should be the major question at Albright College next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, when one of the most important all-campus elections in recent years will be held. There is no reason why we cannot have close to a one hundred per-cent vote.

Why is this 1951 election so important? In the first place, the student leaders will have a particularly essential and difficult job next year because of the international crisis. They will need to have vision and courage so that the various organizations and through them the individual students may meet the responsibilities which will be ours. We'll have the chance, next week, to elect leaders who will meet this challenge.

In the second place, the ballot will contain two questions about Saturday classes. The one is to be checked by those who favor the retention of Saturday classes; the other by those who wish to abolish Saturday classes with the understanding that they may have to be re-scheduled for late in the afternoon. This is the first time that we'll have a chance to express our opinions directly on this issue which has been the cause of much griping in the past. We can't afford to miss the opportunity to vote.

Our opportunity is at hand to elect our leaders and effect some of those changes which we desire. We can reject it. Or we can use it in such a way that the college as a whole and each of us individually may benefit tremendously.

Robert DeFarges, Dandy Lion this week, came to us from Upper Darby. Of his home town, Bob says, "Philadelphia is a suburb of Upper Darby." He adds, however, that not all residents of the area feel this way.

During the past four years Bob has been active in four campus organizations. The Alpha Pi Omega fraternity of which he is now president has claimed him since his freshman year. A past treasurer of this group, Bob is a very enthusiastic member. Pledgship, he told us, was really rough, but it was worth it. Also president of the Inter-Fraternity Council, a group which he hopes has a good future, Bob wants us to urge all students to attend the dance held in the S.U.B. tonight, the dance being sponsored by this organization. We'll see you there, Bob. The Skull and Bones society has claimed him since his junior year, and he is now treasurer of this group. He is also a former member of the Alchemists.

Bob has done the usual assortment of summer jobs, from laboring to surveying. His memories of Albright are too numerous to begin to mention he says, but he'll always remember his roommate of four years, Chuck Wolfe. Bob is also a past resident at the Hunter home, a family that has seen many an Albrightian come and go.

With a major in biology and a minor in economics, Bob hopes to get a job selling biological or medical supplies unless, of course, Uncle Sam gets him first. Whatever his vocation turns out to be, we know one role that Bob will enjoy playing, that of a husband. That's right, Bob's getting married in June, and the lucky girl is Jean Wick.

Best of luck to you, Bob!

Never Return by Irving Schultz, Joe Jones and sons, $2.50.

An angry first novelist's roaring account of the anguish, passion, and misfortune of a sweet young girl who was driven into the streets. Her own family didn't want her. Against the background of New York when beer-barons reigned supreme during the roaring twenties, Irving Schultz condemns the generation that roared too long and too loud.

Twenty-to-One by Dave Bunyon, Wilfred Smythe and Co., $2.50.

This is the story of a hard working bookie who didn't play ball with Florida's biggest gamblers and how he staked his whole future on one race and lost his book. We'll bet twenty-to-one that once you begin this you'll never want to finish it.

Burlington's Choice by Josie Henderson, Fred Small and Co., $2.50.

Beautiful red-haired Gertie McSwine's misfortune was that her blood ran rampant over her mind despite the fact that she had a Ph.D. Gertie was only a small-town librarian until she met Bixby, a wild adventurous Princeton student. Here is Gertie's passionate story—of how she goes to Princeton, and against a background of lavish fraternity parties, scavenger hunts and football games, paves the way for Bixby up the ladder of success. The thrilling climax of this tale will leave you gasping for breath and shouting for more.

My Trigger Finger Itches by Pecos Mike, E. Lariat and Co., $2.00.

Two-gun Hassidy was a peace-lovin', rough-ridin' cow-poke until he met Rusty Russler who tried to swindle him of his ranch and his entire herd of cattle. Read about the thrilling stampede, and how Bessie, Two-gun's cow, saves his life. Set against the background of the roaring West when the six-gun was the law of the land and life was cheap, you'll meet such characters as Red's Queen of the Dance Halls, and Slip, the gambler; and at the same time you'll learn the history of the great Indian nations and their great chief, Buffalo Robe.

Try to Stop Him

All the world's a stage, and everyone tries to get into the act, attempting to spring their own little choice bits of humor on unsuspecting you and me. Not only one humorous morsel do they attempt to shove down our throats, but a hilarious dinner. The stock cliché that always pops up to inject new breath into a dying conversation is, "Did you hear the one about . . . it's a killer." And it probably will kill you, too, but that won't stop the narrator. He'll keep trying until he makes you laugh, so why not laugh hysterically as soon as he begins, and end it all in a hurry? So what if he does look at your face like a dentist looking for a cavity in a tooth; if you don't laugh he'll keep trying until he thinks of a newie that is certain to do the trick. He's as persistent as a toothache, and twice as painful, and he always repeats phrases such as "That's a joke, son" or "I keep throwing 'em and you keep missing 'em" or "I pitch 'em, son, but you're built too low—they all go over your head!" Isn't that hilarious!

This person's only serious moment is when he's reading the latest copy of "Gay Magazine," and the only reason he's serious then is because he's trying to imprint all of these trivial jokes firmly in his oh-so-witty brain so as to have them at his tongue's end. The jokes he has memorized are so numerous that he's able to tell them for hours, without stopping for breath. He usually does this, too. The bad feature of this is that he won't pause long enough to let you or me slip in that dandy that we've been saving for just such an occasion. The complete end, however, is when he himself tells the same dandy that we've been saving That's when we really have to control the urge to kill!

One Kind of Student

Joe Smith, student, sat slumped over his desk. It was a Monday evening and he was tired. It had been a rough weekend. Pen in hand, he forced himself to the task of writing home, his first letter to the folks in weeks.

"Dear Folks," he began, "It seems like years since I've written to you, but there's really not much to tell you. My work has been going fine . . ."

He winced inwardly. Three term papers and two book reports were due within three weeks. He was four chapters behind in history, and he had to study, to cram, for an examination the following morning. He should be studying now, but he was short of money, the all important element, and he had to get some for his big date the next weekend.

"We had a swell time over the weekend. Friday night we studied, and on Saturday we played tennis all afternoon and took in a movie that night."

A swell time? Well, the "weekend" had begun on Wednesday night, when he and four of his cronies had crashed their way into a wedding party that one of them had been invited to. What a night that had been; all those girls, all that fine music, food, and drink. That was the night they had raced Bill's new car until the engine got so hot that it wouldn't run any more! They were all high, and they had to thumb it back to school (they got a ride on a milk truck) and they were all so tired that none of them went to classes the next day. They slept all day and went out again that night, this time to an after-hours club that had one of the best bands in town playing in it. That was the night he and Bill met Millie and Francine and Sandra, and they phoned Fred to join them so that Sandra would have a date. It wasn't until four hours later that a big dark man had approached their table and taken Sandra away with him and that was when Millie had mentioned that she forgot to tell the boys that, oh yes, they were all married, but that this was their night out because their husbands were out of town. And five minutes later, it developed that their husbands were not out of town and the situation called for a lot of fast explanation. He and Fred and Bill really had an excuse to get spiffed that night, and they missed classes again the following day. Friday night was the night that they all went to a private party, a stag show, and he got in a card game after the festivities were over and lost ten dollars. Ten dollars, and he needed money.

" . . . and I had to buy three new text books because the library doesn't have enough to go around, and I really need these books. I hate to ask you for the money, but . . ."

He really needed that money. It would help him to get his suit back from the tailors, the suit he had torn the night that Bill dared him to go over the barbed-wire fence that surrounded the city reservoir, the night that he went swimming in the same reservoir and got arrested by an alert policeman for trespassing on city property and for disorderly conduct and . . .

"I miss you all and think of you very much. Mom, I can't wait to come home again and eat some of your good cooking. The food here is lousy. Well, I must close now and study . . ."

His family, receiving the letter, immediately sent him some money. They were very proud of their son Joe and they enjoyed his letter very much. Especially his mother.

This 'n That

Easter Vacation is now past history, and what is important is now, the present, and the future, the next eight weeks. There are book reports, outside readings, exams and regular studies to do, and that ominous deadline, mid-semester grades, is soon to be met. What are you doing about it, Joe and Jane Albright? The time is now, and now is the time to really dig in and ferret out those elusive facts that we're expected to know. How does your record for class attendance look? Remember, the nights are getting nicer, dorm girls are allowed out one hour longer now than they previously were (due to the presence of spring) and there are a million-and-one school activities awaiting our attention within the next few weeks. If you have work to do—as you undoubtedly do—do it now, 'cause it'll be even more difficult to begin when complete spring fever sets in. Or has it?

Have you noticed that fraternity and sorority pledges usually wear the same fresh, beaming, eager faces year after year? It's almost as if they'd been cast from the same mold; or is it the lack of cosmetics on the girls, and the look of utter chagrin on the boys.

Ye Sterling Stir, Sterling College, Kansas, asked several seniors what they considered the greatest lesson college had taught them. Answers included:

"How dumb I am!" "To get all my graduating requirements in before the final year." "That I don't know anything." "To get on and off trains successfully with three suitcases and a typewriter." "To free myself from my mother's apron strings."

Cut Probation

"Oh, how I hate to get up in the morning. Oh, how I'd like to remain in bed!"

Sentiments, poor, poor sentiments. I wake up bouncing—the bags under my eyes, that is, and nod hello to the cruel sun. Why don't they abolish alarm clocks? I stagger blindly over to the washroom and wash away the sleep that has deposited itself on my face, smile at myself in the mirror. My lips part to reveal the moss on my teeth, so I brush the uneven things. This done, I don my dainties and inspect yesterday's shirt to see if the dirt on the collar is too thick to prevent a decent fit.

Dressed and downstairs—where's my belt?—I proceed to eat a leisurely breakfast when suddenly the clock says,

"Come on, it's time to go! You can't afford to miss a class, or even to be late for it. Hurry up!"

Every nerve and fiber in my body is tense. I cannot, I must not, be late or absent. Cut probation, the curse of the socializer, is now dogging my every action. Beads of nervous perspiration roll down my brow, and I break all existing speed records dashing to the car, to school, and into my seat. My stomach is knotted and I'm afraid I'll lose this morning's breakfast.

"Good morning," the cold-stetted voice of my professor says, "have you gained any weight since I last saw you?"

The Pi Taus defeated the Kappas, 43-34, last Tuesday evening in the Northeast Junior High School gymnasium for the "A" league championship in the Intramural basketball circuit.

The battle was even for the first quarter, with neither team getting more than a two point lead. After a time out with the score at six all, the Pi Taus started to forge ahead and were never seriously threatened for the rest of the game. The score at half-time was 24-19. During the second half, the Pi Taus lengthened their lead, and staving off a last period Kappa rally, won by nine points. Kenny Kohl led the winners with thirteen points, followed by John Frymoyer with eleven. Chauncey Krout netted eleven for the losers.

The Pi Taus, winners of the "A" loop, and the Racketeers, winners of the "B" league met last Thursday evening at Northeast to decide the intramural champion for 1951.

Coach Bobby Hicks will have a meeting shortly of organizations on campus to make plans for the spring intramural program. Any team or organization interested in participating should attend these meetings.

Coach Leo Bloom's Netmen to Engage Mules Wednesday

Coach Leo Bloom's netmen will travel to Allentown next Wednesday, April 11 to compete in a dual court battle with the Mules of Muhlenberg. Last season the Lions vanquished their Muhlenberg foe with a 9-0 shut-out on the home court.

Coach Bloom has announced that the first four starting players for this year's team will be Bob Ruoff, Paul Kissinger, Jay Shenk and Don Ermold. Last season Ruoff alternated with Paul Siegfried in the No. 1 position of the singles team and teamed up with Kissinger to complete the No. 1 doubles team. Other members trying to climb the ladder of competition are Bruce Weeber, Lee Snyder and Don Grigsby all of whom are returning from last season.

Delaware Nips Lion Thinclads, 55-22 In Informal Meet

Zellner, Brenner, Hoopes Win For Cats

Albright's thinclads opened their 1951 season March 27 with an informal meet against the University of Delaware in the latter's field house. Competing without the services of three veterans, the Lions could rack up only three wins against six for the Blue Hens, giving the hosts a 55-22 victory.

Pete Alberts was absent because of a death in the family, so the high jump was substituted for Albert's event, the pole vault. Lee Cappel was recovering from illness and was unable to compete in his event. Gerry Potts was unable to participate because of a previously arranged basketball game.

Zeller Sets Pace

Charlie Zellner copped the two mile run for the Shirkmens with a clocking of 11:5.8, for their sole win in the track events. In the field events, Howie Brenner leaped twenty feet, ten inches to lead the Lions to victory in that contest. Rae Hoopes cleared five feet, eight and five-eighths inches for the final Al-bright triumph. Tom Fouracre of the Blue Hens scored a double in the mile and half-mile and placed third in the two mile event.

The first formal dual meet of this season is scheduled with Dickinson on Wednesday, April 18 at the Albright stadium.

Grid Mentors Hold Clinic At G-burg

Coach Eddie Gulian attended a football clinic held at Gettysburg College for one day during the week preceding the Easter vacation. The clinic, sponsored by Gettysburg College, was attended by one hundred twenty-five coaches from the East and featured Jim Taftum from the University of Maryland.

The morning session, which lasted from ten to twelve, consisted of talks and demonstrations on offense. At noon the delegates were guests of the college at a luncheon held in their honor and returned to business again at two to discuss defensive techniques. Movies of the Sugar Bowl game between Oklahoma and Kentucky were shown at four and were followed by movies of the Michigan State and Maryland battle.

Battle Muhlenberg on Foreign Diamond Next Wednesday; Weather Hinders Practice

Twenty-two Candidates Attend Drills; Four Hurlers Prepared For Mound Duty

Cold, damp weather has hindered baseball practice for twenty-two hopeful candidates out for Coach Eddie Gulian's 1951 baseball squad. The Lions opened their season last Wednesday against Dickinson at Carlisle and take the home diamond tomorrow to meet Ursinus in an effort to revenge a 15-7 drubbing of last season. They also will face the Mules of Muhlenberg next Wednesday, April 11 in Allentown.

Four pitchers ready to do mound duty for the Lions are Hook Martone, Bill Cohrs, Paul Muller and Danny Bieber. The two masked catchers behind the plate are Billy Krohto and Jerry Cocchiarella. Martone, Cohrs and Muller are veteran tossers while Krohto was the regular backstop last season.

Connie Dettling, tall athlete from Reading High, will probably hold down the first base job; Bernie Lillis, veteran of four years and holder of top batting honors last season, will be at second; Blackie Moyer will be at shortstop and George Amole will handle the long throw from third to complete the regular infield. Utility infielders backing up the regulars are Bruce Eickhoff, Joe Esposito, Dick Lee and John Sudol.

Lefty Leitham will be in left, Jay Sherlock in center and Tony D'Apollito in right field. Other hopefuls for the fly-chasing department are Al Pollack and John Seitzinger.

Last year the Albright tossers won twelve games and dropped six. Martone pitched five successive victories before suffering his lone defeat for a five and one record to top all Lion hurlers. He also was second in batting honors with .324 while pitching and playing left field. Lillis led in that department with a .415 mark.

In last year's contest with the Bears from Ursinus the victors' pitcher, Ed Kline, led his Bear squad to their 15-7 conquest of the Cats with a grand slam homer in the fifth inning which aided in racking up the five runs scored in that stanza. Senior George Baumgaertel pitched for the Lions until he was succeeded in the seventh inning by Wilson Serfass. Since none of these pitchers are present on the squad this year, none of the present Cats have had any hurling experience against the Bears. The Lions scored two each of their runs in the second and fourth innings last year but a three run rally in the last stanza was stifled by the winners before the Cats approached victory.

The Cats romped over the Mules 11-4 last season on the home diamond for one of their highest scoring victories of the year. Pitcher Martone opened the Cats' scoring with a home run in the first inning to bring two runs across the plate. Numerous further runs were tallied throughout the fray, but the Cats had their biggest time in the sixth stanza when five final runs were scored to clinch the contest.

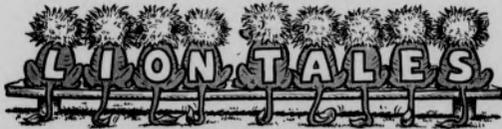

A break in the weather provided an opportunity for an intra-squad game last Saturday afternoon which gave Coach Gulian a chance to look over the hopeful members of his squad before making his final choice. No score was kept at this session. Highlighting the two-and-a-half hours of play was a mighty triple by Connie Dettling and a two-bagger by Lefty Leitham.

The JV girls fared little better while going down to defeat, 28-19, from the claws of the junior Ursinus sextet. Again Pat Miller copped ten points to lead the Albright JV girls.

The Lionesses ended their season with a record of nine wins against four defeats. The Baby Femmes concluded with an even record of three wins and three losses.

TROPHIES FOR BERKS

Two local teams brought trophies home to Berks County this week in the closing of high school basketball. Kutztown captured the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association Championship and Central Catholic won its second successive Pennsylvania Catholic Interscholastic Athletic Association Eastern crown. Last year the Cards beat Pittsburgh to win the PCIAA title.

Five thousand cheering fans watched Johnstown Catholic High School freeze the ball during the final minutes of play to edge out the Cardinals of Central Catholic, 50-48, in the final battle for the Catholic State championship at the Cambria County War Memorial Arena in Johnstown.

The Cardinals' high scoring ace, Mike DePaul, continued his whirlwind pace by leading all basketballers on the floor with twenty-four points. DePaul broke his own school record of last season with six hundred fourteen tallies. Last year he scored six hundred twelve points in thirty-three games.

With last Monday's win Johnstown's Crushers have posted thirty-one successive victories during a two-year period.

Central Catholic was sixteen points in the red midway in the second period and had to push hard to strike back at the Crushers during the final minutes of play. The Cardinals made a last minute bid when DePaul stole the sphere and moved in for the tying marker only to have an official spy him walking and nullify the play.

Central boasts a six-year record of 127 wins against 40 losses for a percentage win average of .760 which is among the leaders in the state.

Coach John Silan's Kutztown High squad won its second straight Class B, PIAA championship last Friday night by defeating Avalon, 51-48, in the final battle in the University of Pittsburgh Pavilion at Pittsburgh. Captain Ron Weidenhammer sparked the Cougars in the last period by scoring three goals before finally putting his team in the lead. He bucketed ten of Kutztown's eighteen points in that period and led in the high scoring department with eighteen counters.

With time running out in the final period Ray Oswald took a quick pass from Weidenhammer and canned a deuce to give Kutztown a four point advantage and the assurance of victory. Then Weidenhammer added three insurance tallies giving the Cougars their second straight Class B championship.

The Cougars finished the season with a 28-2 record and boast a two-year percentage of .935 with fifty-eight wins and only four reverses. The East has now won four Class B crowns while the West has only three.

1951-52 Officers To Be Selected By Campus Groups

Der Deutsche Verein

Dr. Wilhelm Lodz, who was formerly a professor of Greek and Latin in Germany, will be the speaker at the next meeting of Der Deutsche Verein which will be held on April 12 at 8:00 o'clock in the Lower Social Room. Dr. Lodz, who, incidentally, is an ardent mountaineer, has been very active in the Youth Hostel Movement in Germany. He will speak about the organization of and his participation in the Youth Hostel Movement. He will also show slides of the youth hostels and of Germany.

During the business meeting which will precede Dr. Lodz' talk, there will be the nominations and election of officers for next year.

Philosophy Club

John Rhoads will read a paper on Teggart's philosophy of history at the April meeting of the Philosophy Club, which will be held next Monday night at 7:30 at the home of Francis Carney, 918 North 12th St.

Election of officers for 1951-52 will be held. Plans will be completed for the annual banquet of the club.

Sigma Tau Delta

The regular meeting will be held on Thursday, April 12 at 8 o'clock in the Daymen's Room. Elections will be held and plans will be made for a trip to Philadelphia or Hedge-row to see a play.

Stetzler Receives Chemistry Award

Ray Stetzler was the Albright College candidate for the Junior Award sponsored by the Lehigh Valley Section of the American Chemical Society. The candidate received this award for his outstanding work in chemistry and his high scholarship in all college work.

The award consisted of a free dinner, a year's junior membership in the American Chemical Society, a year's subscription to the Chemical and Engineering News and a year's subscriptions to one other ACS journal of the candidate's choice.

New Constitution

stitution could be placed on the annual all-campus ballot next week. However, when the March 27 defeat made that impossible Council acted to place the document on the ballot in the form of an "opinion poll," with space for the students to state their objections. The passage of the changed document last Tuesday made this unnecessary, and the action was rescinded.

The proposed constitution is intended to be more democratic than the one under which Council has been operating for many years. Among other things it provides for the creation of a Day Men's Council, Boarding Men's Council, Day Women's Council, Boarding Women's Council, Men's Senate and Women's Senate.

Letter to Editor

Dear Editor:

I wish to take this opportunity to thank all of those students who helped me in the preparation of the Religion in Life Week programs. If it was not for their help, the programs would not have gone so smoothly.

First of all my thanks to the leaders for each night: Jim Haring, Jim Barrett, Galen Klinger, Bob Rentz, Charlie Klinger, Paul Muller, and Lloyd Sturtz; second to the Y Choir, its director Leonard Buxton, and the pianists, Mary Ellen Schuman and Joanne Thomas; third to all those who helped set up each day and clear off each night; fourth to Howard Platzger for help with the lighting; and last to Mrs. Shirk for helping the leaders in their delivery.

Thanks again to all.
Pete Young.

Nominees Reveal Platforms; Both Cite Need for Interest

By Russell F. Weigley

We all know that a college education at its best should include more than classroom activities. Among the fundamental supplements to lectures and textbooks are the student government organizations of the college, which can provide invaluable training and experience in the processes of representative democracy. The student participates in electing his representatives to the governing bodies and through them expresses his will to his fellow students and to the administration. Students receive at first hand a sampling of the problems of democratic citizenship; in the near future, for example, the student body of Albright will be asked to accept or reject a proposed new Student Council Constitution.

Thus student government is important as a training school for citizenship; more than that, it is, and perhaps should be to an even greater degree, an instrument enabling students to improve and enrich directly their college life; at Albright it has sponsored a wide variety of projects from freshman orientation programs to faculty evaluation.

It is important for us to remember, however, that student government cannot succeed either as a workshop in democracy or as a leader of campus activity if it represents only the efforts of a small though active minority of the student body. No student council can do really effective work, no student council president can hope for a genuinely successful term, unless student government rests on a foundation of general student interest and participation. If there are shortcomings in the present organization of student government at Albright, then, the first step toward remedying them must be a renewed interest of the student in his campus government.

Student interest, however, must be repaid with an equitable and democratic system of representation in the campus governing bodies; student opinion must receive as fair a hearing as possible. I believe therefore, that the proposed new Student Council Constitution, with its revised basis of representation, should be adopted. Finally, in order that the suggestions arising from student interest may be more readily presented to the faculty and administration, I believe that the new Student Council should work toward student representation on the now exclusively faculty committees on student activities and student publications.

FRATERNITIES

Kappa Upsilon Phi

At the regular meeting of the Kappa Upsilon Phi Fraternity Dale Baker, Bruce Eickhoff, Mario Guidici, Mike Lafferty, Donald Long, James Rutter, James Still and Earl Strawn were inducted into pledge-ship.

Bernie Janis was elected coach of the fraternity softball team and will be assisted by Ed Fleming and Joe Ward.

Alpha Pi Omega

At the last meeting of the Alpha Pi Omega Fraternity, thirteen pledges were formally introduced into pledgship. They are David Keller, William Housum, William Masters, Ernis Zelenak, Tom Shultz, Ivan Moyer, William Himmelman, Herbert Mackler, John Sudol, Robert Beeler, Thomas Pepe, Thomas Masters and James Barrett. Jerry Lakow, Charles Wolfe and James Mann are pledge masters.

Final arrangements were made for the dinner-dance to be held at the Bowers Country Club in Leesport on Saturday evening, May 5. The dance committee consists of Vincent Gentile, chairman, Paul Muller and Theodore Whitby.

By Vincent Gentile

Before I suggest any remedies for the lack of interest in student government matters, it may be best to examine the reasons why we have a student council here at Albright.

The Student Council was originated for the mutual benefit of the student body and the college officials for two main reasons. One is to promote the social and extracurricula welfare of our students. This is being carried out as well as our crowded social calendar will allow. Council sponsors such events as the Ivy Ball, Student Night, Mardi Gras, Freshman Orientation, and others. Proper support of the current Claude Thornhill dance may well lead to a further broadening of our social program.

The second and most important purpose of council is to serve as a focal point for student suggestions and complaints directed to the administration and faculty. This cannot possibly be realized unless each member organization is properly represented. Our problem is to get members to attend meetings. Failure in this has led to a great deal of student apathy. Various organizations can hardly be interested when they are not kept informed and consulted about council matters. We must make our representatives aware of their responsibility to attend meetings and conscientiously report the proceedings to their organizations. Once we do this, student opinion can really reach college officials. Student government meetings are not held to discuss the problems of twenty council members, but rather to discuss and arrive at decisions promoted by all six hundred Albrightians, properly represented by their entire thirty representatives. Student interest and support can very easily be detected by college authorities, and will really influence them to give council's requests much more consideration.

'Madwoman of Chailot' Delightful Hit; Domino, Director Deserve Applause

The Domino Club under the direction of Mrs. Shirk did a very commendable job handling the difficult and allegorical plot of "The Madwomen of Chailot" last week. The contrasts between a cross materialistic world and one of complete happiness and humanitarianism were ably shown by the two factions represented in the play. Yvonne Voigt as the Countess Aurelia was very convincing in her role as the madwoman, and she literally transformed the stage into that "other world." Together with her conspirators Constance, Gabrielle, and Josephine, portrayed by Virginia Seems, Joan Trumbore and Kathleen Guenther, the madwomen were utterly delightful, charming and, in a word, mad. Their plan to send the materialists to their just rewards was rendered almost probable by their insane antics.

Delores Marques and Jay Schriener as Irma and Pierre were the symbolical representatives of youth and hope and love in the world and it was Delores who, in a brief soliloquy in which she was alone on stage, almost stole the show.

The scene in which the materialists were tried by a jury of the little people is one that we'll long remember, especially Richard Stinson's disarming presentation of the philosophic Rappicker. His negative argument as to why the capitalists must continue to dominate the world was completely convincing and acceptable.

tory representative to Student Council and is a member of Y.W.C.A. Cabinet, Dormitory Council, Women's Student Senate, Future Teachers of America and Sigma Tau Delta.

Miss Wrisley is a member of Dormitory Council, Women's Student Senate and the Phi Beta Mu sorority. In the field of athletics she is softball manager and a member of the Women's Athletic Association and varsity basketball team. A mathematics major and psychology minor, she is also recording secretary of the Student Council and treasurer of Y.W.C.A. and the junior class. Miss Wrisley states: "Habit is a cable. We weave a thread of it each day and finally it can't be broken. Being for Y and going to Y are two good habits to develop. It is my wish that everyone finds a Y home here at Albright, a home in one of the best Y's we've ever had."

Albright Delegates Represent Canada; Introduce Bill

Russell F. Weigley, Victor Yarnell, Marie Kaputo, Gerald Englehart, and Professor William R. Bishop, Jr., members and advisor respectively, of Albright's International Relations Club, were seated as the Canadian delegation at the twenty-fourth annual Model General Assembly of the United Nations which was held last Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, March 29-31 at Beaver College, Jenkintown.

On Friday morning and afternoon, committee meetings were held. There were four committees: the Political and Security, the Economic, Trusteeship, and the United Nations Machinery Committee. That evening at the second Plenary Session, Dr. Frances R. Fussell, Consultant in the Executive Office of the President of the United States and Mr. Abraham H. Feller, General Counsel to the United Nations, addressed the group.

On Saturday morning, the committees convened again, and that afternoon the final Plenary Session was held. This meeting opened dramatically with Russia's walk-out. At this session, the resolutions that the committees had passed were voted upon. A bitter fight developed when the resolution proposed by Thailand in the Political and Security Committee was presented. This resolution called upon France to announce the date of its withdrawal from Indo-China pending the establishment of a United Nations trusteeship with France as provisional administrator, according to the provisions of the United Nations Charter, and a trusteeship agreement to be negotiated with the Trusteeeship Council. It calls upon Chile, India, U.S.S.R. and the United States to appoint representatives to an advisory council to assist France in the administration of this trust area. After some heated discussion, the resolution was defeated.

Among the resolutions presented by the Economic Committee was one submitted by Victor Yarnell which called for specialized groups to be established to explore the problems of investments in underdeveloped countries and also requested that the work of these groups be specific in nature and restricted to the needs and conditions of individual countries.

P. Davis Featured As Concert Soloist

The Albright College Glee Club, conducted by John H. Duddy, gave a sacred spring concert on Sunday, April 1 in the Student Union Building. The concert featured Paul Davis, baritone, who is a sophomore student at Albright.

The choir, first on the program, sang: "Now Let Every Tongue Adore Thee" by Bach; "Grant Unto Me the Joy of Thy Salvation" by Brahms; "Go Not Far From Me" by Maltzoff; and "Praise the Lord" by Franck.

Mr. Davis then sang four selections: "Du bist die Ruh" by Schubert and "O Tod" by Brahms, both German songs; "By the Waters of Babylon" by Dvorak; and "Is Not His Work Like A Fire" by Mendelssohn.

Judith Goodman, a junior at Albright, then played a piano solo, "Fuga in G Minor" by Frescobaldi-Bartok. This was followed by Mr. Davis singing three spirituals: "Sometimes I Feel Like A Motherless Child"; "Cert'n'ly Lord" and "City Called Heaven."

The choir then sang several more selections: "Jesus in Heaven" by Clokey; "Inasmuch as This Lonesome Valley" by Lynn with a solo by Wanda Moore; "Were You There?" by Burling; "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross" by Harris; "All Breathing Life" by Bach. The program ended with "Seraphic Song" by Rubinstein, which included a baritone solo by Mr. Davis, accompanied by Joseph Flay on the violin and Barbara Benner on the organ.

Reading area churches were invited to this concert and several of them ended their evening devotions with this program.
