

Cue To Adopt Collegiate Look, On-the-Spot Photo Coverage

The Centennial Cue will feature a new look, according to Helen Schoener, editor-in-chief, '56. This year's yearbook will be the new 9" x 12" collegiate size and will feature more pages than in previous years.

Another new feature is that all pictures of organizations will be taken at the actual meetings to provide more of a realistic atmosphere.

Since the 1956 Cue will be set up and organized a bit differently from previous years, Miss Schoener was given a three day orientation on yearbook planning at the American Yearbook Company in Owatona, Minnesota, last spring. Since that time, the company has moved to Hannibal, Missouri. Miss Schoener spent most of the time planning with the art and make-up staffs and gathering various ideas for the centennial Cue.

Senior Pictures

Miss Schoener also reported that the yearbook is making marked progress. The senior pictures are being taken and are expected to be completed by Oct. 8. Most of the faculty pictures have already been taken. Other progress is also being made by the various staffs.

The Cue staff in addition to Miss Schoener includes Norman King, '56, business manager; Jane DeWald, '56, Gerald Zaid, '56, and Marilyn Teeter, '57, associate editors; and Patricia Brown Clopper, '56, and Peter McCuen, '56, sports editors. Andree Schmoeyer, '56, is covering social fraternities and Richard Englehart, '56, and Natalie Filbert, '56, are in charge of art work.

Photography editors are Sandra Smith, '56, John Catalano, '56, Melvin Horst, '57, is the official photographer. Sylvia Gruel, '56, has charge of the division pages, and Rachael Kaebnick, '56, and Sally Lanz, '56, are copy editors. To round out the staff, chief typist is Allan Gibstein, '56.

Typists Needed

The Cue reports an urgent need for capable typists to help with the yearbook. This year, Pi Delta Epsilon hopes to revise yearbook staff selection by giving underclassmen an opportunity to help with the Cue so that the process will not be entirely new to subsequent staffs.

With these improvements and additions in mind, Miss Schoener and her staff are hoping to have the Cue become a member of the Associated Collegiate Press, which sponsors a system of professional criticism.

First Cultural Program Will Feature Novelist

Elizabeth Bowen, British novelist, will present the first culture program of the year at Assembly next Thursday.

Miss Bowen is visiting the United States for two months for the purpose of speaking before college and literary groups from coast to coast.

The Rev. Kenneth Kline of the New Berlinville EUB Church will speak in Chapel next Tuesday.

Potskian To Speak On Football Savvy

Coach John A. Potskian will be the Y speaker next Tuesday, 7:30 p.m. in the Pine Room. Potskian, Albright's new head football coach, will show some movies of last year's games and explain some fundamental football plays to the Y audience.

It is hoped by Y officers that through this meeting students will better understand the game of football, which plays such an important role in fall campus life.

Members Selected For Double Quartet

David Lubba, '56 will direct the Double Quartet this year as Anne Young, '59, accompanies the group.

Janice E. Bertolet, '58 was selected as the new second alto.

The remaining seven members are: Sonia Flicker, '57, first soprano; Josephine Seyfert, '58, second soprano; Kathleen Forry, '57, first alto; Robert Reeser, '56, first tenor; Dr. Samuel Shirk, second tenor; David Serfass, '56, first bass; Dale Ringsdorf, '58, second bass.

Dance Tonight

The Daymen's Organization will sponsor a dance tonight, 8 to 11 p.m., Krause Hall. The first fifty girls with escorts will receive a flower. Music will be provided by Wilbert Wollenhaupt and his band. All students are invited.

Student Council To Plan Changes In Constitution

Student Council, at its next meeting Oct. 14, will convene as a "committee of the whole" to discuss, and propose amendments to its present constitution. Clement Cassidy, '57, chairman of the Constitution Committee, reported that the committee has gone over the constitution thoroughly and has picked out parts of the constitution that are outdated and that definitely require amendments.

"Frosh" will help to stimulate school spirit at the Pretzel Bowl game, Orientation Committee chairman Lowell Perry, '57, reported. The freshmen will meet at the Albright Courts 6:45 p.m. tomorrow night. They will then walk up to the parking lot near Sulwyn Hall where the girls will be waiting. The combined group will then march to the stadium and onto the football field where they will form an arch through which the Albright team will run. Arthur Saylor, '57, announced that customs violators will make posters publicizing the game.

Two organizations will undertake three of the regular Student Council-sponsored Friday night dances during the year. The Daymen's Organization is sponsoring one of (Continued On Page Four)

Homecoming Plans Set

Second Of Five Major Events For Albright's Centennial Year Includes Ten Academic, Social, Athletic Features

Plans for Albright College's Centennial Homecoming Saturday, Oct. 22, were revealed today by Fred A. Howard, Mount Penn, chairman of the Homecoming Day Committee. The agenda will include an academic procession and convocation, an alumni and student banquet, and a night football game against Franklin and Marshall College.

Catalano Tells Ivy Ball Plans

Plans for the annual Ivy Ball to be held Oct. 21, 9-12 p.m. in the Physical Education Building, have recently been announced by John Catalano, '56, chairman of the Ivy Ball committee. This dance will be a semi-formal, non-corsage affair.

Tickets are $2.50 a couple and can be purchased from a special committee consisting of George Yeager, '56, chairman; Jeanne Handorf, '58; Dolores Schaeffer, '58; and Janet Weil, '59. Matt Gillespie and his orchestra will furnish the music.

The highlight of the dance will be the crowning of the homecoming queen who also will be the centennial queen and reign the whole year. All girls on campus are eligible for the position of the queen.

Other committees appointed by Catalano include: decorations, Patricia Dentith, '59, and Stanley Order, '56, co-chairmen; Richard DeLong, '58; Burton Weissman, '58; Ann Miller, '58; and Pamela Friedmann, '59.

Publicity, John Luckenbill, '58, chairman; Patricia Brossman, '59; Barbara Pelkus, '58; and Ann Swiezek, '58.

Refreshments, Richard DeLong, '58, and Josephine Polvino, '58.

In all, ten academic, social and athletic events are scheduled for returning alumni and other former Albrightians. The centennial homecoming is the second of five major events during the 1955-56 school year in celebration of Albright's 100th anniversary.

Registration will begin in Krause Hall at 3 p.m. Friday, Oct. 21, and continue over the weekend. A joint committee of alumni, student, fraternity, and sorority representatives will be in charge.

Homecoming Queen

Homecoming activities get underway that evening in the physical education building with the traditional Ivy Ball. Albright's homecoming centennial queen will reign over the festivities and will receive a trophy presented by the Alumni Association.

An academic procession and convocation at 10:15 Saturday morning in the physical education building will open the day's activities.

Arthur S. Flemming, director of the Office of Defense Mobilization, will be guest speaker. Representatives from other colleges in the area will be present and honorary degrees will be awarded to Flemming and five other persons, who will be named later.

From 12 to 1 p.m. a buffet luncheon will be served in the college dining hall for alumni, students and special guests. This will be followed by a reception in Krause Hall at 2 p.m. when tours of the campus and other points of interest in the Reading area will be arranged.

Also scheduled for Saturday afternoon are meetings between alumni and active chapter fraternity and sorority members. The meetings will be held at 3 p.m. at the following places: Alpha Pi Omega, 1616 Olive St.; Kappa Upsilon Phi, house on campus; Pi Tau Beta, Albright court apartments; Zeta Omega Epsilon, house on campus; Phi Beta Mu, Sherman cottage; Pi Alpha Tau, Blue room, Selwyn Hall.

Greek Groups

Besides these meetings, fraternity and sorority members will participate as groups at the homecoming banquet and football game.

In addition to these events, a cross country track meet against Franklin and Marshall in the college stadium is also planned for 3 p.m.

The centennial homecoming banquet will be held at 5:30 p.m. in the physical education building. Donald J. Blackmore, '42, of Claymont, Del., personnel manager of the Graver Tank and Mfg. Co., Edge Moor, Del., will be toastmaster.

An entertainment program featuring alumni quartets is also planned. A quartet from classes that graduated in the '40's will include: H. Eugene Pierce, '47, of Reading; Bruce F. Knesley, '43, of York, Pa.; Robert M. Mattson, '43, Johnstown, Pa.; and Paul A. Kimmel, '47, Camp Hill, Pa. Another quartet will be made up of graduates from the '20's but names of its members were not available. Marjorie Christ, '48, of (Continued On Page Four)

1955-56 Cheerleading Squad

The 1955-56 Cheerleading squad will appear for the first time at tomorrow night's Pretzel Bowl Game, 8 o'clock in the college stadium. Cheerleaders are (left to right, top to bottom): Sheila Greene, '58, Judy Cohen, '57, Susan Lindermuth, '59, Sylvia Gruel, captain, '56, Marilyn Wertz, '57, Saul Weinstein, '59, Richard Chorpennig, '59, Jonathan Hole, '58, Gerald Knapp, '59, Miss Gruel, Miss Cohen, Miss Wertz and Hole also cheered on the squad last year. Miss Greene, Miss Lindermuth, Weinstein, Chorpennig and Knapp were added after try-outs last week.

Now Hear This . . .

Student Council's case against the Ghost Riders of the Paint Bucket Brigade was ably and thoroughly stated in post chapel assemblies this week. Prexy Paul Hetrich expressed the opinion of the administration and most of the student body when he requested that the excellently organized energies applied in the Muhlenberg Paint Job be channeled into more constructive directions in the immediate future.

The impression given by Hetrich was clear and to the point. Not only had a wayward minority placed all of Albright College in an awkward position, but had also deprived it of certain dollars and cents previously earmarked for culture programs or Friday night dances. To round out his impressions on the subject, Hetrich quoted from the philosophy of the Administration that if for some sadistic reason a repeat ride of the Paint Bucket Brigade should occur, the troopers therein would have earned the necessary credits to be drummed out of the corps . . . not to mention Albright.

For the record and somewhat as an echo, we would like to add a "period and well-done" to Paul Hetrich's views.

A few people have stated that the paint jobs in question are to be regarded simply as a tradition to be religiously observed and enjoyed. These few say that so long as there is competition between colleges, this sort of thing is to be expected—that it has always happened and will continue—that it is "tradition." There the explanation of the minority ends, and there we will insert some words of plain, ordinary common sense.

Two weeks ago we tried to bring to the attention of the student body the idea that with the presence and passing of this Centennial Year the Frosh and Upperclassmen will be observing worthwhile traditions of the past—but more important, will be building new traditions on the road to Albright's second two-hundred years.

The point is obvious. So far as we are concerned, these prouling paint parties are embarrassing to mature-thinking and acting students. They reflect the bad taste of the roughish minority on the entire college, and we as Albrightians do not like it. Such episodes are costly in dollars, and also costly in maintaining the respect of the public and of other colleges. On the more personal side, they will prove costly in the future to those involved—whether the price is sitting it out in a local jail, being expelled, or having a head or two cracked by defending forces.

There is no need to become involved in moralization, but we want it plainly understood that the criterion for building tradition is not to accept what has been done before simply because it has been done before. We want to see the energies of the entire student body directed toward making Albright more respected, not only because of her high academic calibre, but also because of the high character rating of her students.

Everybody Look . . .

The IBM "brain" solved the problem—a machine for the collection of facts and figures. Albright has in a similar way gathered vast information which only a few take advantage of. Our bulletin board is ideally located on the first floor of the Ad Building, where it cannot be missed by anyone who has any interest in observing the important notices posted there each day.

These notices may include a class assignment, announcement of a club meeting, a job opportunity, an important message from the Dean's Office, a change of class hour, or even an occasional "no class today." How many of us pass this information center ten times a day and never stop to see if there might be some pertinent material there for us?

The board is divided into three sections: Student Activities, Academic and Placement. Surely with the wide variety of names, dates or facts placed there, we can find something which pertains to us.

If the Registrar's, President's and Public Relations Offices can go to all the trouble of putting information at the end of our noses, we ought to be "nosey" enough to look at it. J.D.

ABSTRACTIONAL

By Phil Goldfeder
I DREAM I WENT TO CHAPEL IN MY

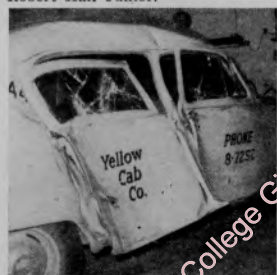

two-tone Yellow Cab. It really wasn't too difficult. Once I drove to the Book Store, I made a sharp left and took the stairs.

This is my first period today and I'm already pooped. Now where in the world is my seat . . . guess I'll just have to climb through this mob and find my way to the bulletin board . . . oh yes, here it be—J 21. Whoops—there goes the bell! I'll have to make a run for it now . . . excuse me, pardon me, excuse me sir, pardon me miss, what? you say this isn't row J? How about that . . . excuse me, pardon me sir, I think I'll straddle over this seat and—boy, just made it! I'd sure hate to miss the announcements.

"Will the owner of a two-tone Yellow Cab, which is parked in the rear of our auditorium, kindly remove it immediately after services today." (Wonder what made Rev. Barth so angry?)

By golly, just look at my seat—I couldn't imagine why I was feeling high—there must be at least thirty-three hymn books here. Hope I can distribute them before we finish this song. Too late!—the guest speaker is already in take off position at the pulpit with his sermon "Religion fights S—." Think I'll sit way back in my cushioned-seat and try to dig this guy.

Gee, that's a very odd type of air-conditioned dress that redhead is wearing . . . it looks like the kind that might be sold in one of those "50% off" sales. Isn't that the new cheerleader sitting next to Hector Needleman, '53, our first string chess player? Some people are just born lucky . . . the unfortunates become philosophical. Well, I'll be a monkey's great grandpop. There's the boy who was voted the best-dressed in our class. Yes sir, that's Robert Hall Junior.

Gripes, I better pay more attention to the speaker. It certainly isn't polite letting my mind wander like that (no worry though, it's too weak to go very far). How the devil am I going to finish this math assignment? It's a good thing I brought my book along—I can at least see what I should have done. Darn! Every last paper I ever saved is probably on the floor. Thank you, thank you, thanks a lot, thank you, guess I've got them all by now. Boy, Mr. Minister sure gave me a dirty look that time. Oh well, it's too late to study anyway. Guess I'll just compare my watch with the Albright clock. It's a lot smaller and only five minutes off . . . could be worse. In fact, I'm lucky my watch is working at all the way I accidentally dropped it off the bleachers at the last basketball game we won. Come to think of it, it was a pretty long time ago. Actually, when I really put my mind to it, I didn't drop it—I was still wearing it when I was pushed off the stands.

What's every one getting up for? What? . . . it is? Wow, that was an interesting chapel program. Must make it a point to do this more often—say, once a week.

Albright Personality

Helen Schoener

By Janet Weil

It's really amazing how one gal can find time to do so-ooo many things, but sure enough, our feature senior of the week manages to find time for everything. This, in itself, is a bit of a problem as Helen Schoener can easily tell you. Being president of the Pats, editor of "The Cue", president of Pi Delta Epsilon, and a member of Delta Phi Alpha, Pi Gamma Mu, Domino Club, and an intermural basketball team very nicely take care of Helen's spare time. As long as we're chalking up this busy senior's accomplishments, you can add a pleasant smile and a subtle sense of humor to the list.

By Bob Reeser

About two hundred years ago, Tom and Dick Penn decided to establish a settlement of their own. Traveling northwest from Philadelphia, they found the perfect site along the Schuylkill River and thus Reading was born. In this naturally protected area the colony thrived and grew. Today in 1955 we find a metropolis of 165,000 offering to you Albrightians a wealth of knowledge and pleasure. Throughout the year I hope to bring items of interest to your attention as they happen in the city and surrounding county.

This year the musical life of our city will be inaugurated with a bang. On Sunday, Oct. 16, at 3 p.m., in the Rajah Theatre, 6th and Walnut Sts., the Reading Symphony under the capable leadership of Mr. Alexander Hilsberg will begin its 43rd season. This year will be Mr. Hilsberg's eleventh with the symphony. The series consists of four concerts to be given on Sunday afternoons at 3 o'clock.

First Concert To Feature Pianist

Mr. Maryan Filar, Polish born pianist now residing in Philadelphia, will be the soloist of this first concert. Filar has had great success throughout Europe and was honored by playing the 100th Chopin Anniversary Concert at Berlin in recent years. At present he is Director of music at the Philadelphia Settlement House. Mr. Filar will play the Beethoven Concerto No. 5 for Piano and Orchestra.

This concerto opus 73 in E-Flat Major was written at a time when Vienna was besieged by the French. History has it that Beethoven, while composing, had to take refuge in the cellar with pillows covering his head to keep out the noise of the French cannons.

The first movement is introduced by a lengthy orchestra passage which finally gives way to the piano and the movement breaks into full stride. The second movement is the typical slow one which has gained the appellation — "Devotional." Vigor and life describe the third movement based on a very tricky tune which is masterfully handled by Herr Beethoven.

Number Two on the program will be Brahms' Academic Festival Overture:

Brahms was offered an Honorary Ph.D. by Cambridge University in 1876 but refused it upon finding out that he had to go to the school to receive it. This refusal was based on a childish fear of water and the sea. A few years later the University of Breslau gave him the degree for which he composed the above mentioned overture based on four German College Songs.

The Reading Symphony is dedicating this number to Albright as a centennial remembrance and the Helen, who calls South Temple, Pa., home sweet home, is getting her first taste of dormitory life this year. She admits to liking it a lot. Why? Well, to quote Helen, "it saves a lot of running back and forth."

You'd probably have to look hard for someone who has hiked to Valley Forge, but we've got just the person. Helen led her group of campers to Valley Forge this summer. Despite the three days it took to accomplish this feat, Helen likes camping and all outdoor activities. High on her lists of likes are also poetry, journalism, theatre, literature, and rainy days. About the only thing Helen vetoes is operating mechanical things.

Someday, after graduate school, Helen would like to utilize her "higher larnin'" by becoming either a social worker or clinical psychologist. When queried about additional ambitions, Helen confessed that she eventually would like to wear a ring on the fourth finger of her left hand. If the past is any indication of this senior's capabilities, the future should certainly prove the realization of all her ambitions and hopes.

program will contain a few notes about the school.

The final item on the program will be Symphony No. 1 of Sibelius:

The American public has only recently been introduced to the symphonies of Sibelius through the efforts of Arturo Toscanini, famed Italian conductor now in retirement.

This work has the traditional four movements and is described by the composer as a self portrait of the Finnish people. Movement number one: a rumble of the drums leads into a lonely melody sung by the clarinet which later lunges into a full orchestration and a titanic climax. Movement number two: tenderness abounds throughout which leads to an outburst of vigor only to fall back into the original mood. Movement number three: scherzo very quick and rebellious showing a definite heroic character to be found only among the Finns. Movement number four: broad theme is tossed about in the orchestra which eventually bursts into a victory song proclaiming Finland over all.

The three remaining concerts will be held on Nov. 27, Jan. 15, and March 18. Mr. Hilsberg has some more prospective soloists and the series should be a huge success. Tickets can be purchased at the Rajah or you may call Alma Burke or Mrs. Fred Christman.

Haage Concert Opens With Ballet

On Monday, Oct. 17, at 8:30 p.m., less than 36 hours after the last echo of Sibelius' symphony has faded away, the auditorium of the Rajah will again ring with orchestral sounds. This time it will be the orchestra accompanying the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, as the Haage Concert Series gets under way with an exhibition of toe dancing.

The Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo was established in 1929 after the death of the famous Russian impresario, Diaghileff. Although most of the dancers have Slovak names many of them are not of that origin. Tradition blooms in this branch of the theatre also and so we see how Alice Marks is known to the dancing world as ALICIA MARKOVA.

The program will contain Scheerazade by Rimsky-Korsakoff, Swan Lake by Tchaikovsky and an unidentified Pas de Deux. Sounds good doesn't it?

Mr. Haage's second concert is scheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 15, and features a Scotch-Irish tenor who is a Catholic priest by profession. I don't know if Father Sydney MacEwan will be accompanied on the

Pretzel Bowl Scheduled For This Saturday Night

Muhlenberg Tops Albright 26-13; Dragon Races 94 Yards For Score

Lions Paired With Gettysburg In Annual Shrine Spectacle

IN THE LION'S DEN

By Phil Eyrich, Sports Editor

Tomorrow the Lions' football team returns from an unsuccessful road campaign to begin a three game home stand. They will meet Gettysburg, Franklin and Marshall, and Alfred on successive weeks. Despite the fact that the Red and White have lost their first two games, the team has proved that it has a good offense and needs just defensive polish to become a winning pigskin unit. The team deserves the support of all Albrightians tomorrow night when they face the rough Bullets of Gettysburg College in the colorful Pretzel Bowl game. The full backing of the Albright students could easily spirit the team to their first victory.

A glaring defensive weakness was uncovered in the game at Muhlenberg, that in the aerial department. The Lions inadequacy at long-pass defense proved their downfall last week as the Mules scored three of their four touchdowns via the air route. Although it was not the express fault of the Albright players but more one of defensive strategy, better "heads up" playing might have lessened the devastating passing of the Mules reserve quarterback Dick Cornish.

Offense Good . . .

Roy Dragon once again paced the backfield of the Lions, while Jack Huntzinger spearheaded the play of the linemen. "Willy" Smith was the chief ground gainer for the charges of Coach John Potskian, and Bob Wetzel and John Cunningham also produced good, but spotty, running. In addition to Huntzinger, the ends looked good in the Red and White line, particularly George Flynn, Don McCarty, and Frank Hoffman. Sophomore John Cunningham saw frequent service in the backfield throughout the game and played well. With Cunningham, perhaps the best pass-catching back on the team, in the game the Albright aerial attack threatened even more.

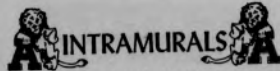

Although the weak pass defense of the Lions was the key factor in losing the games, several penalties and fumbles, which should well have been avoided, also deterred the Lions efforts. It is hoped that the experience of the first two games will remedy this fault in this weekend's tussle with Gettysburg.

Unfortunately . . .

The Albright-Muhlenberg game produced more than one sour note, however, due to the antics of some Albright students the night before the contest. It was discovered on Saturday morning that during the night the campus of the Allentown college had been painted at various places by overly enthusiastic Albright students. First estimates of the cost to clean up the work by Muhlenberg officials was placed at a considerable sum.

It's about time the students of this school realize that such acts as painting the campuses of rival schools accomplishes nothing but straining the relationship, both scholastic and athletic, between neighboring schools. It would indeed be a shame if the long athletic rivalry between Albright and Muhlenberg which has produced such fine athletic contests over a span of time which covers many years would be destroyed just because a few students cannot control their "barbaric" ideas.

According to the way most of the colleges and universities think today, such practices as painting campuses are considered to be as barbaric as the Dark Ages. Not only must money to pay for the damage come from Albright College, and indirectly from the students themselves, but it just makes the offended school's team play harder in the game, not to mention the consequences that will face the students if they are discovered. If the students here at Albright are so enthused over this year's football team, and there is no reason they shouldn't be, then why not put their energy to work constructively to boost the team when it really counts—at the game!

The intramural football league got under way this past Monday evening, October 3, with two games being played. The APOs met the Kappas, and the Zetas encountered the Pi Taus. A fifth team, the Daymen, are also entered in the competition and a sixth team is expected.

Intramural tennis began yesterday. The following have entered the tournament thus far: Richard Steffy, Charles Landesman, Charles Sample, Carl Witonsky, John Rickenbach, John Schiavo, Jack Rosen, Donald Noga, Jim Reusing, and Ted Gabriel.

Last year the Pi Tau team won the intramural football championship when they won both halves of the schedule. They were unbeaten in the competition for the season. Bill Davies and Ken Greenawald were two of the stars on last year's Pi Tau team.

Aerial Attack Paces Mules To First Win; Miscues Ruin Lions

Taking advantage of numerous Albright fumbles and penalties, plus the inadequacy of the Lions' pass defense, the Cardinal and Gray of Muhlenberg College rolled up a 26-13 win over Albright College last Saturday afternoon at Allentown, Pennsylvania. The Lions, given to fits of greatness thus far this season, battled the Muhlenberg team to a scoreless tie until late in the first half, when with just 1:45 remaining on the clock, the Mules launched a 76-yard pass play which left the Allentown aggregation leading 7-0 at halftime.

Lions Score

Albright pulled to within one point at 7-6 in the opening moments of the third quarter when Roy Dragon raced 94 yards on the opening kickoff of the second half for the first Lion touchdown. In the final frame the Red and White of Coach John Potskian had another golden opportunity to tie the game, but a freak intercepted pass gave the Mules the ball once again.

Having held Muhlenberg following the opening kickoff, the Lions

PLAYER OF THE MONTH

Roy Dragon, Albright's varsity letterman quarterback has been chosen as the "Player of the Month" for September, 1955 because of his stellar play in the first two Lion football games.

Dragon is a 21 year old senior here at the college who hails from Roselle Park, New Jersey. He is a graduate of Roselle Park High school, and is currently playing his fourth year on the Albright football squad. Dragon is a member of the Alpha Pi Omega fraternity, and is also the regular shortstop on the baseball team.

Our "Player of the Month" has figured in the scoring of each of the Lions' four touchdowns thus far this season and has excelled particularly in the offensive department. Dragon runs, passes, and punts for the Red and White of Coach John Potskian.

He has been productive the most in the aerial department this year, having completed 15 out of 27 passes in two games with just one interception. His 15 completions have averaged 186 yards for the Lions, an average of 12.4 yards per completed pass. The .555 average of this 5'10" 180-pound athlete has been the spearhead of the Red and White offense.

Albright College will play host to the Gettysburg Bullets tomorrow night in Albright Stadium at the annual Pretzel Bowl classic. The Lions will be seeking their first win after two setbacks at the hands of Bucknell and Muhlenberg, while Gettysburg will be trying to make it two in a row; they crushed Bucknell in the Chocolate Bowl last week 27-6.

took command of the game by marching to the host's five yard line on eight plays which netted Albright 42 yards. Here a fumble by Dragon gave Muhlenberg the pigskin. The teams continued to exchange punts until the Mules scoring pass late in the first half. Sophomore quarterback Dick Cornish tossed that aerial to end Don Herman who outraced Dragon to the goal line. The conversion was good and the Mules led 7-0.

Dragon Stars

Dragon's run to open the second half came after the ball had been partially deflected by him and rolled to the six yard line. He ran straight up the middle of the field and was in the clear at the 45-yard line of Muhlenberg. Halfback Bob Wetzel threw a tremendous, but unnecessary, block on the Mules' safetyman at the host's five yard line, and Dragon scored. The PAT was missed, and the score was 7-6.

Muhlenberg's Herman blocked a Rightmire punt, and the Mules recovered on the Lions' 18 to set up their second score. Moments later, after a valiant goal line stand by the Albright team, John McDonald worked his way around the right end and fell into the end zone for the Mules' score. The good PAT made the score 14-6.

Mules Tally

Later in the third period a 72-yard scoring pass play to back Bob Lee gave Muhlenberg a 20-6 lead. Lee, after taking the pass ambled down the sidelines, eluding Lion John Cunningham only after he had been taken out of the play by a terrific block.

In the fourth quarter, Albright's Frank Hoffman recovered a fumble on the Muhlenberg 21 and then Dragon pitched to George Flynn who, crossing in front of the line, swept into the end zone. Ralph Cyphers converted to make the score 20-13, then set off a beautiful inside kick and recovered it himself to give Albright the ball again.

Dragon attempted another pass to Flynn which was intercepted after the Lion end bobbled it; had it been completed there was no one between him and the goal line. The Mules scored on a 55-yard pass a few moments later, and the final tally was 26-13 in favor of the Mules.

The Pretzel Bowl is sponsored by the Shriners with the proceeds going to help crippled children. Over the past, this annual game has provided many of the much needed dollars to help aid and cure those unfortunate children.

The Lions will be up against a "big, fast" team, according to Coach John Potskian of Albright with the Bullets sporting a veteran backfield this year. Gettysburg will employ their usual balanced-T formation against the Albright squad with the emphasis on passing and quick opening plays.

Defense Stressed

Coach Potskian spent the week working on Albright's pass defense and polishing their running game for Saturday night's fray. The Lions are hampered by injuries to three of their regular players. Tackle Frank Goldstein suffered a broken thumb in the game with the Mules and guard Bob Sulyma, team captain, injured his ankle. Both are expected to sit out the Gettysburg game, while Ed Oberly is also a doubtful starter due to a shoulder injury.

Sophomore halfback Frank Capitani stood out for the Bullets in their first game as he served three touchdowns and amassed 103 yards in 16 attempts from scrimmage. He electrified the crowd with serving runs of 33, 36, and 44 yards. Gettysburg trailed the Bisons 6-0 early in the game but soon reversed the tide and came on to win handily.

Stellar Quarterback

Another man to watch in the Gettysburg attack will be their senior quarterback, Frank Gagliardi. In two seasons of play, he has broken virtually all of the Bullets' quarterback records and has been named to some unit of the AP All-State, All-East and Little All-American squads. He is considered a leading candidate for Little All-American honors this year.

Also ready for action in the Gettysburg backfield are veterans Ernie Paliszewski, Mike Duka, Dave Lichenfeld, Bruce Pieper, Bill Tarro and Bob Lebo. Prior to their opening game the Bullets outplayed Temple University in a scrimmage.

This will be the 15th meeting of Albright and Gettysburg on the gridiron. Over the years the Lions have won 2, lost 9, and tied 4. The rivalry began in 1913 when the two schools battled to a 7-7 tie. Albright's victories came in 1950 and 1952, when the Lions triumphed 14-12 and 7-0 respectively.

Lions Injured

The game will pit Albright's split-T and balanced-T attack against the already mentioned balanced-T offense of Gettysburg. The two big questions that stand out before the game are the strength of the Red and White due to several injuries, and the pass defense which proved so weak last Saturday at Muhlenberg.

The Lion offense has proved itself to be capable of scoring frequently, barring fumbles and penalties, and the defense should be the key to the game.

Eight seniors, two juniors, and one sophomore will be in the Bullets' starting lineup for the Pretzel Bowl. Although the Gettysburg team rates a solid pre-game favorite on paper, look for the Lions to be fighting all the way on their home inaugural, and the possibility of an upset cannot be ruled out.

Department Of State To Give Examination

The Department of State announced this week that the second written examination under the new revised procedures will be given in 65 cities on Dec. 9. Albright students, if eligible, may apply to take this examination. Candidates must file their request not later than October 21.

To be eligible, applicants should be at least 20 and under 31 years of age, United States citizens of at least ten years standing, and if married, married to an American citizen.

Those successful in the one-day written test will be given a subsequent oral examination before a traveling panel which will meet in regional centers. Beginning salaries for Foreign Service Officers range from $4400 to $5500, depending on age and experience; additional benefits include insurance, annual and sick leave, and a generous retirement plan.

It is expected by the Department of State that approximately 300 officers will be appointed during the coming year as a result of the vastly increased need for Foreign Service Officers. These will fill positions both in the Department in Washington as well as at over 250 posts in 77 countries throughout the world.

Informational material and application forms may be secured from Charles A. Raith, associate professor of political science.

these this evening in Krause Hall and Women's Student Senate will sponsor the annual Sadie Hawkins' and Valentine dances later during the year. Paul Hetrich, '56, introduced Jay Salustro, '58, who has organized a dance band to play at the dances. The Friday Night Dance Committee is under the chairmanship of Claire Matz, '58.

The Inter-Collegiate Committee headed by Allen Lentz, '57, has been trying to build stronger bonds of friendship between Albright and its rival schools. A letter has been sent to Lebanon Valley College to try to organize a combined pep rally. President Hetrich announced these informal get-togethers with rival schools would help to alleviate campus raids.

Campus Film

The Chapel Committee reported that the Rev. Robert S. Smethers, Jr. will show a denominational movie in Chapel Nov. 8 and 10. The movie is of interest to Albright because parts of it were filmed on the campus.

A well-known band from Allentown will play at the Ivy Ball, John Catalano, '56, reported. Six volunteers are needed to stay after the dance to help clean-up. All the committees for the dance are organized and in operation.

Hetrich appointed Jeanne Handorf, '58, Jane Harting, '56, Al Camilli, '56, and Ronald O'Reilly, '58, to the Krause Hall Recreation Committee. The recreation period will be held during the afternoon Mondays through Thursdays.

To Attend Conference

Priscilla R. Morton, dean of women, will attend the Seventh Annual School and College Conference to be held next Wednesday at Cedar Crest College, Allentown. The afternoon and evening panel discussions will be concerned with the topic, "Are Extra-Curricular Activities Out of Perspective?"

Davies, Hole To Speak At Week's Vespers

The vesper service this Sunday evening will be conducted by William Davies, '56. The Wednesday evening service will be held at 7 in Teel Hall Chapel with Jonathan Hole, '58, offering the meditation.

Last Wednesday inaugurated a new plan to bring a foreign student to Albright. Offerings will be taken at all Wednesday evening vespers to provide funds for the student. The plan is in conjunction with the Board of Missions of the Evangelical United Brethren Church.

HOMECOMING

Oncida, N. Y., will be the accompanist.

Another banquet highlight will be the cutting of the college's centennial birthday cake by college officials.

At 7:15 p.m. activities will shift to the college stadium, with a parade of fraternity and sorority floats starting off the proceedings. The centennial homecoming queen will ride on a special float prepared by the freshman class. Prizes will be awarded for the two best floats, but the queen's float will not be included in the competition.

Besides the football game against Franklin and Marshall, which will climax the day's activities, special half-time events are also planned.

Assisting Howard on the centennial homecoming committee are: Isabel Willard Sondheim, '21; Elsie Schaeffer Knoll, '21; George E. Koehler, '48; W. William Carson, Jr., '49; H. Eugene Pierce, '47; Fred E. Luckenbill, '23; Centennial Program chairman; Dr. Paul Leininger and Annadora V. Shirk, of the Albright faculty; Paul R. Hetrich, '56 and John Paolini, '56, of the student body; Dr. Samuel B. Shirk, assistant to the president; and Mary E. Fry, '49, executive secretary of the Alumni Association.

bag pipes or not, but in any event, it's worth investigating. The third feature is the Oberkirchen Children's Choir and is slated for Dec. 7. Robert Goldsand returns to Reading on Feb. 8, and the series closes on March 13 with the Mozartum Orchestra of Salzburg, Austria, in commemoration of the Bicentennial Celebration for Mozart. Tickets can be purchased at Brown's Music House, N. 8th St. or call Mr. Haage (2-3562) after 5 p.m. (Student prices are generous.)

Foreign Films At Majestic

For the foreign movie fan, may I suggest he keep his eye on the Majestic Theatre in Mt. Penn. Presently showing is a film version of Verdi's Aida made in Italy. The photography could be improved but the voices and acting combined with the vivid scenery make up for that defect. What more do you want for 50 cents? The next attraction is called "Green Magic," and has won three titles at the International Film Festival of Venice.
