Teel Hall Will Become Women's Dorm Next Year

Teel Hall will become a women's dormitory next year because of the overflow of freshmen women that have been accepted, Student Council President Al McKenney announced at Tuesday's Council meeting.

Men were housed in Teel this year.

No decision has been made on whether freshmen or upperclass women will be housed there, Dean of Women Doris G. Manzollilo said when questioned by a reporter.

Men will be housed in the new dormitory that is now under construction. The basement and first floors will be finished by September and the second floor by October 1, the office of the Dean of Men reported.

Dean Manzollilo stated that the change came as a surprise to her Tuesday morning when she learned from the admissions office that a large number of freshmen girls had been accepted and therefore the extra dorm was needed for girls.

The men face the main problem, she said, since most of their assignments had already been made, and now they are without a dormitory. Letters have been sent to the men explaining the new situation.

President McKenney stated that administration officials had told him the girls will outnumber boys in the incoming freshmen class.

Mr. Philip A. Eyrich, Council advisor explained to Council members that 1,150 students must be enrolled to balance the college's budget. This year men applications have not met Albright academic standards but the applications of girls' have, therefore the admissions office has accepted more girls than boys. Since the class is not complete there is a good possibility that this pattern of more girls than boys will continue, he said.

Dean Manzollilo said that she was almost sure that this would be the only dorm that would be changed.

Albright Names Biology Prof

Dr. Gino A. Di Virgilio, instructor in gross and microscopic anatomy at the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia University, N.Y.C., has been appointed professor of biology at Albright, effective September 1.

In announcing the appointment, Dr. Arthur L. Schultz, Albright president, said that the college was especially fortunate to secure a man of Di Virgilio's combined medical background and teaching experience.

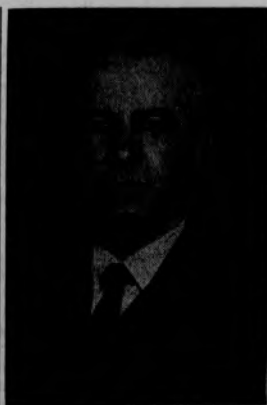

Dr. Di Virgilio's departmental responsibilities would include histological technique, and two courses especially organized for pre-medical students, microscopic anatomy and physiology of coordination, according to Dr. Edwin L. Bell, II, biology department chairman.

He also will continue his current research on various cancers and microscopic anatomy, Bell added.

Born an American citizen in Pescara, Italy, Dr. Di Virgilio received the bachelor of science degree from St. Michael's College, Vt., and the Master of science degree in histology and embryology from St. Bonaventure University, N. Y.

He was awarded the Ph.D. in anatomy by the University of Ottawa, College of Medicine, Canada, where he was a post-doctoral fellow, and earned the M.D. in 1963 at the University of Geneva, Switzerland, while a student and research associate in the Clinique Universitaire de Chirurgie.

He served as instructor in gross anatomy at the University of Manitoba, College of Medicine, from 1956 until his appointment in 1959 as assistant professor of gross anatomy and chief of neuroanatomy at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine, N.Y.C.

A neuropathologist to various hospitals in N.Y.C., Dr. Di Virgilio in 1964 served as Senior Research Scientist in neuropathology with the New York State Psychiatric Institute, and in October of 1966 was guest lecturer in gross anatomy at the University of Miami, College of Medicine, Fla., specializing in thorax and abdomen study.

He is a Fellow of the National Research Council of Canada, and has been recognized for his work on the optics system and blindness, and was awarded a gold medal for his special research work on cervical cancer. He is active in various American and European medical societies, particularly those dealing

Magnificent Men Will Appear Tomorrow Night

The Magnificent Men, a fast rising new singing group, will give a performance on April 22 in the college fieldhouse. The show, sponsored by the Campus Center Board, will be followed by a dance in the Campus Center, featuring Vic and the Catalinas, a local band. The show will begin at 8:00 P.M. and the price of tickets is two dollars.

The Campus Center Board has organized extensive publicity for the show, covering all the major colleges within a forty mile radius. Especially large groups are expected from Kutztown State College and Cedar Crest College.

The Campus Center Board hopes to have good student support for the show so that in the future Albright will be able to sponsor many "big name" concerts. Dale Vandersal, Director of the Campus Center, told The Albrightian, "The Magnificent Men is an excellent up-and-coming group and their concerts have been well received at other colleges. We are expecting a large crowd and student support will make possible continuing concerts at Albright next year. There is no reason why Albright cannot sponsor good "big name" entertainment. Next year, we hope to contract groups with a reputation such as "Peter, Paul, and Mary" or "The Beach Boys."

The Magnificent Men consists of seven members who combine singing and instrumental talents to produce the "solid sound of soul." They are billed as "a group of young musicians who are really into the 'that's where-it's happening, baby' groove of real natural rhythm music and they know they have what it takes."

The unusual name of this unusual group comes from the movie, "The Magnificent Men In Their Flying Machines."

The group has made several television appearances in Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Detroit, and Cleveland. Recently they have been touring throughout the major Eastern colleges and schools and they headlined New York's Apollo Easter Show.

The Magnificent Men have released three single recordings, the most successful being "Stormy Weather," which was number one on the Capitol Plug list. The group has also released an album entitled "The Magnificent Men," which is available in the Campus Center for use in the music listening room.

VATICAN II TALK SCHEDULED

Discussions centering on the work of the Second Vatican Council will be held at Albright College, Wednesday and Thursday, April 26-27, under the college's topical lecture series, "Revolution and Response," Rev. William R. Marlow, college chaplain, announced this week.

Father Thomas E. Ambrogi, S.J. professor of sacramental theology and ecumenics, Woodstock College, Md., and Dr. Claude Welch Berg professor of religious thought and chairman of his department at the University of Pennsylvania, will serve as resource persons for the two-day dialogue on "The Continuing Agenda of Vatican II".

Local clergy have been invited to join the college community for the program which begins Wednesday night at 5:45 p.m. with dinner in Albright's dining hall, for which reservations are required. The discussion period to follow at 7:30 p.m. in the college's new Campus Center is open to the public, Chaplain Marlow said.

Additional information about the program may be obtained at the chaplain's office.

Applications are now being taken for Editorial Board and other administrative positions on The Albrightian next year. Interested persons should submit their names and position desired to The Albrightian, Box 107; these may be dropped in the campus mail slot near the mail-room.

Dr. Gable Answers Criticism

Criticism of the infirmary and the policy concerning the dispensation of contraceptives were the two themes stressed by Dr. Joseph E. Gable, college physician, in a recent interview.

In answer to the continuing criticism leveled at the infirmary, Dr. Gable stated "that as far as criticism is concerned we encourage and invite constructive criticism about the health center but we have a distaste for malicious criticism."

Dr. Gable attributed the spreading of incorrect rumors about the infirmary to students who were looking for sympathy. He stated that most of the rumors are unfounded and have been proven so.

He pointed out that the infirmary enjoys a good relationship with most of the students.

"We are trying to do a job to the best of our ability," Gable explained, "but people do not realize that we cannot be the family doctor to over one thousand students."

Concerning the policy of dispensing of birth control pills Dr. Gable said they are given only to "married students and to those women contemplating marriage in the next few months."

The doctor stated that the college has given him no guidelines in this area and that he believes the free dispensation of the pills would be "to condone pre-marital sexual relations."

Only three or four women students have asked him for pills this year, he said and all of these were either engaged or married. No single woman had been to him, he continued.

Dr. Gable stated that he really thinks it is not the place of the college to dispense these pills but should be done between the family doctor and the student.

SOUND-OFF

The Student Council will hold a "Sound-off" Session this Sunday at 2:00 P.M. in the lounge of the Campus Center. The purpose of this meeting is to give Student Council a chance to hear student complaints about Albright in hopes of improving the situation. The meeting will be held strictly for students and no faculty members will be in attendance.

Al McKenney, Student Council president told The Albrightian, "This is a chance for students to say in public, without fear of any reprisals, the things they have been thinking about for years in private. We hope that Council will then be able to act upon these new ideas. We urge all students to attend this session."

STUNT NIGHT

Now that Stunt Night 1967 is over, it is appropriate to examine its purpose and see if it is fulfilling said purpose. Actually Stunt Night has two purposes. The first is to encourage student groups to use their creative talents and present skits, and the second is to entertain the remaining students. At present, the rules discourage lampooning the college and the use of double meanings. In addition, the three judges are outsiders who know very little about the college and what is happening here.

These two factors serve no function but to discourage groups from using "in" jokes, that is, jokes which would only be understood by members of the Albright Community. The Albrightian feels, judging by our own taste and audience reaction, that it is the "in" jokes which are the funniest, and should be encouraged. Since audience appreciation is one of the purposes of Stunt Night, we feel that the rules should be rewritten to take this into account. Most certainly the judges should be living within the context of Albright. These changes would serve to make Stunt Night an even greater event of the year.

MAGNIFICENT MEN

One of the greatest complaints of Albright students is the obvious lack of "big-name" entertainment on campus. Usually, if students want to see well known groups, they are forced to travel to Franklin and Marshall, Muhlenberg, or other colleges. After the Chuck Berry flop in the fall, the future looked dim for any other concerts but the newly formed Campus Center Board is working hard to improve this situation.

The Magnificent Men will appear tomorrow night and The Albrightian urges student to attend this concert. The tickets are relatively cheap and the entertainment should be good but, more importantly, a successful concert will pave the way for bigger and better groups and more frequent performances.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir:

What can McKenney do for us? What can anyone do for us? Heaven help the dateless girl on Albright Campus—especially if she lives in Crowell Hall. Time was when she could get up late Sunday morning and go down to the "well-stocked" kitchenette for some orangeade out of an unreliable machine while still dressed in her informal attire—dorm shirt, housecoat, or old wranglers, with her hair set. Due to "progressive" legislation, the Sunday lounge hours now begin at 10:00 A.M.—hardly enough time for a girl to scoot down to the lounge and back again without running into at least four males along the way. But then the young man usually needs at least 45 minutes to get acquainted with his girl before church—right?

The lounge hours have been increased for week days too. Now the lounge is open from 1:00 P.M. to closing time. The "single girl" has to tolerate being a fifth wheel while watching TV not only in the evening but also during the afternoon hours. She is subject to the criticism of the couples for intruding upon their privacy. The stares she gets suggest politely her immediate departure from the area.

Other small coed colleges have solved the problem of the integration of couples and the single coed. How? "Necking nookies" for couples have been arranged; separate TV rooms are available in some schools; other schools of half the tuition of A. C. have a lounge on every floor plus a main lounge for dates. Even in our own Smith Hall the arrangement is passable; the TV is in full view of the main desk—with a more private area on the opposite side of the lounge instead of in the TV area.

In Crowell Hall there are presently six girls living singly and one unoccupied room. These girls may be happier, but the other 112 girls are thereby deprived of a lounge on each floor. We have the space, why not use it? In addition to this, there are many areas available to couples other than the Crowell lounge. Do the boys ever think of taking their dates to Walton Hall lounge or the Fraternity house for privacy? You bet your ~~and~~ ~~crusted~~ ~~saddle shoes~~ they don't! The single coeds don't have these opportunities. A solution can be found here at Albright. Why don't we look for one? The single coeds have just as much right to privacy as the couples. Why not give it to them?

We really haven't asked for the impossible—merely a solution to the embarrassment of the single coed on this campus—be it a lounge on every floor, a separate lounge for couples and single coeds, or the highly improbable "necking nookies."

What about it, Mr. McKenney, can you help us?

IT'S WHAT'S HAPPENING, BABY

What's Really Happening

By Marc Richman

All too often we get so wrapped up in the bad things of life that we fail to appreciate all the good there is. We remember and complain about the days we are sick and forget about the majority of days when we are feeling well. Although I dislike feeling sick, sometimes when I have a bad headache I cheer myself up by thinking, "I know that soon the headache will pass and I will feel better. I want to make a special effort to remember then how miserable I feel now, so that I can really appreciate, at least for a few minutes, the feeling of good health." And when the headache has passed, which happily it always has, I feel better than I ever did before. I have succeeded for a brief moment in appreciating what we all take for granted day by day.

The newspapers do the same thing also. Headlines tell of murders and wars; columns list deaths and divorces. Would people buy a newspaper with the headlines "Denmark Celebrates Piet Hein Day," or "U. S. Marines Repair Toys for Hospital Children." Would people buy a magazine with the feature story of "Bing Crosby Loves His Wife and Children," or "Jackie Kennedy Took Caroline and John-John to Florida." Would a movie about Mr. and Mrs. Average American, who are very much in love, have three well-behaved children, are close friends with Mr. and Mrs. American Negro who live next door, are active in community affairs, and who splurge once-in-a-while and take a vacation, would such a movie win an Academy Award? The answers, of course, are all no. We do not want to hear about the good things, which, by the way, greatly outnumber the evil things. There are numerous possible reasons for this, but I do not want to discuss those now.

What I do want to discuss now is Albright College. Not girls' rules, Saturday classes, short vacations, or any of the other things which need to be discussed and corrected, but the Albright College which we too often take for granted. For we too are caught up in the look-on-the-dark-side syndrome, and there is another side of Albright which we often ignore. On the whole, Albright must be a pretty good college or none of us would be here. It is not difficult to transfer and there is nothing forcing us to stay at this college. So why do we stay?

I believe that one major reason is the excellent faculty teaching here. Of course a couple of departments are weak, and more than a couple of teachers are somewhat less than excellent. But on the whole, I have found that the majority of professors are dedicated teachers who are interested in their students. A closely related factor is the small size of the student body, which permits relatively small classes, and a fairly closely knit student body. Only at a small school like this can the President meet personally with each senior, or can the Dean of Students attend a discussion group with ten students, or can the Dean of the College attend occasional seminars. Only at a small college like Albright can the entire student body attend functions as a unit. This is a valuable asset, don't underrate its worth.

Another plus for Albright is the Administration. We have an interested, progressive, young group of Administrators. Granted there are one or two weak spots, but on the whole we are pretty lucky. These people are interested; witness the President's round table, the fifteen-year planning committees, the Dean of the College's detailed paper on the Academic side of Albright, the Dean of Students' attendance at Student Council meetings, and the Chaplain's ever-open door, and heart. These and other things which I have not mentioned, and things that we students do not even know about, help make Albright what it is.

The physical plant of Albright is pretty good, especially with the opening of the Campus Center. More building is being planned for the not-too-distant future, and this will improve what we have now. Socially, Albright is certainly on the rise since the work of the Campus Center Board and Director has begun. And I have a feeling we ain't seen nothin' yet. The Student Council has been weak, but it can and will become a vital force at Albright. We have numerous clubs and activities where students can be a newspaper writer, a radio announcer, a big-brother to underprivileged children, or an outing enthusiast.

Academically, Albright is not bad and is improving every year. Each year new courses are offered, and old ones redesigned. Graduate school admissions are pretty good, and where a problem does exist, steps are being taken to correct it. A program of special assistance to students on Academic Probation is in progress with good results I am sure. The possibility of switching over to 4-1-4 semesters is being explored, and Saturday classes may be dropped in the near future. The Convocations have been for the most part very good and for next year the students will be given a much greater choice. We have had such distinguished visitors as Ray Shafer, James Farmer, and David Schoenbrun; the Commencement speaker is the Honorable Mark O. Hatfield, Republican senator from Oregon. So in this area too, Albright is on the move.

We should not ignore the things that need changing, however we should not forget all the good things for which Albright stands. When I look back upon my years at Albright I will not think about the Dorm Council, or the early girls' hours. I will remember the good things, the opportunities for development Albright gave me. And I will think, "Albright was a darn good school." And I will be right.

Phi Beta Mu, Alpha Pi Omega Capture Annual Stunt Night Honors

Some of the Fractured Fairy Tales were stretched a bit as Stunt Night provided an overflow crowd of students with a night of enjoyment last Friday evening. Skits ranged from King Arthur's Albright Community to the Peter Pan Peanut Butter factory. A total of eight groups presented skits at the annual lampoon session.

The first place winner of this year's honors was Phi Beta Mu sorority. Alpha Pi Omega Fraternity took second place and Pi Alpha Tau sorority won third place.

The winning skit, entitled "Peter Pan in a Sticky Situation," concerned an inferiority plagued Peter Pan who finds his niche in life by creating the Peter Pan Peanut Butter Company and with the aid of some dancing girls, defeats his arch rival, the Skippy Company.

The second place winner, "Snow White," told the story of a capitalistic Snow White who owned stock in all the major corporations and was constantly being plagued by the greedy, selfish government leader. Uncle Sam finally stepped in to save the day before Snow White fell to her downfall.

The skits showed a great deal of talent, wit, and planning on the part of the campus organizations. They were presented on a temporary stage which was set up in the Campus Center lounge.

LIONS FALL TO ST. JOSEPH'S

Despite a four-run first inning, the Lions fell to St. Joseph's College on last Saturday, April 15 at Philadelphia. Pete Nichols ('67) started the game for Albright, but wasn't able to hold down a strong St. Joseph's team. Albright's squad, coached by John Potsklan, has compiled a 4-2 record so far this season, their only other loss being the first game of a doubleheader against Gettysburg.

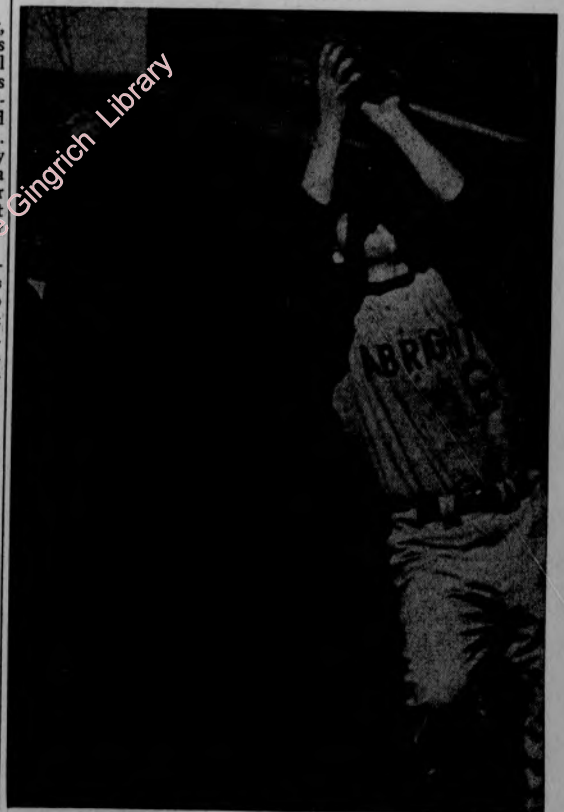

Albright had ten hits to St. Joseph's sixteen and the strong hitters for the Lions were Roger Gallo ('70), Ron Hallman ('69) and Dick Yoder ('67) with two hits apiece. Denny Zimmerman ('70) hit a triple for Albright, but St. Joseph's came up with two home runs to cap the 12-8 win.

ALBRIGHT GRAD GETS NEW APPOINTMENT

NEW YORK, N. Y.—The appointment of Joseph Z. Rowe as Boston District sales manager for the Bondware Division of Continental Can Company has been announced by R. S. Long, division general manager of sales.

Mr. Rowe joined Continental as a Bondware salesman in Harrisburg, Pa in 1964. He later worked as a salesman covering the Philadelphia area for the division.

A graduate of Albright College in 1951 and a veteran of World War II, Mr. Rowe, his wife, the former Jean Victoria Centini, and their two children currently reside at 2816 Country Lane in Langhorne, Pa.

Woody Ranck, first baseman for the Lions, snags a pop fly despite the blinding sun. The Lions have a record of 4 wins and 2 losses. Tomorrow, the Albright team has a doubleheader with the Moravian Greyhounds at Moravian. Game time is 1 o'clock.

German Winners Announced

Winners of the annual competitions for high school students of German held on April 8, at Albright College was announced this week by Dr. Luther F. Brossman, chairman of the college's department of German and supervisor for the Albright test center.

Named top German scholars by the American Association of Teachers of German were: Fourth Year German, John S. Zechman, 8812 Relf Place, Reifton; Third Year, E. Fred Brossman, 127 E. Fairview St., Wernersville; and Second Year, Ellen S. Herman, 1805 Butter Lane. Zechman and Miss Herman are from Exeter Township High School; Brossman attends Conrad Weiser, Robesonia.

Each winner received a book prize from the German Language Association of Reading and Berks County.

Recognized for their language proficiency were these second and third place winners: Fourth Year German, Joanne L. Ritz, South Railroad St., Lyons Station (2nd place), and Martin Beckerman, 210 Opal St. (3rd place); Third Year, Carol L. Troyen, 906 N. 25th St. (2nd place), and Thomas Przybeck, 417 Carsonia Ave., Pennside (3rd place); and Second Year, Ellen Gifford, 706 Warren St. (2nd place), and Fredrick Kistler, 1517 Linden St. (3rd place).

Cured Addict Visits Campus

By Linda Wetzel

Jerry Rutkin, a Bronx dope addict for thirteen years, presented informal but vivid accounts of the fascinating and horrible life of an addict and how he kicked the habit to a group of twenty Albright students in the Campus Center on April 4 and again to a convocation of interested students and community residents on April 10.

Appearing in "Way Out", a film currently showing at the Embassy Theater in Reading, Rutkin presented his moving story in local high schools and over the air the week prior to the film's opening.

"Way Out" is a series of vividly dramatized scenes in the lives of New York junkies. The cast is composed entirely of ex-addicts reliving their own experiences on the motion picture screen.

In his campus discussion periods, Rutkin described the agonies of "cold turkey" (immediate withdrawal from the narcotics) and explained how a close personal relationship with Jesus Christ cured his habit.

COUNCIL CORNER

THE AGENDA

It has been the traditional duty of vice-presidents from the beginning of time until the present to linger in the shadows of their chief executive, shaking hands, kissing babies (not in the case of Student Council Vice-Presidents) and in general presenting the position of the organization to which he is only the man-behind-the boss.

This mantle of good-will ambassador has likewise fallen on me. In an attempt to escape suffocation in the cloak of this responsibility, I will try to bring Council matters to the students through the newspaper. I can promise now that the purpose of this article will not be to portray Al McKenney as a chicken-soup candidate able to heal the problems of an ailing campus over-night! Our idea for this column has been to use it as a sounding board for Student Council problems and achievements.

The basis for any student organization must be a responsible representation of the students. This can only be achieved through the active and intelligent support of those people who have put their faith in our leadership. Finally let me end on a note of unprofessionalism—PLEASE READ THIS ARTICLE—even if the wit is often duller and a good deal less interesting than the average dorm conversation. If you don't—you're liable to get the kind of student government apathy deserved and has received in the past.

Mickey Mustokoff
Vice-President of the Student Council

OPEN LETTER FROM ADELPHI

Dear Students:

Although September seems a long way off, it will be here before we know it and so will a new class of Freshmen.

It is important to the incoming Freshmen to have some understanding of life at Albright before they arrive on campus. As upperclassmen we can help by introducing them to facets of college life to which they will have to adjust.

A summer letter from an experienced college student can mean a great deal to a prospective Albrightian. Hints on what to expect and a little encouragement from the 'Bright can make their college preparation less frustrating.

It is the purpose of the Adelphi program to arrange correspondence between upperclassmen and the incoming class. Next week you will receive letters asking you to sign up to be a big brother or sister. There will be representatives in the dorm to talk to you about the Adelphi program. Fall activities such as a dance, picnic, and student-faculty talent show are being planned to help acquaint the class of '71 with their new home.

With our help, the new frosh will be able to take the step from high school to college with the least amount of confusion in the new social and academic atmosphere. We ask your help to make this program a success. This will only be as effective as we make it.

The Adelphi Committee

MOVIE WILL BE SHOWN IN CHAPEL SUNDAY

The "Wheeler Dealer," a full length color movie, will be presented by the Campus Center Board in the Chapel Auditorium Sunday at 7:30 P.M.

The fast-paced comedy, starring James Garner, Lee Remick, Jim Backus, and Chill Wills, concerns a Texas millionaire, a beautiful female stock broker, and the sale of "widgets."

This movie will be presented as part of the Campus Center Board's desire to bring good entertainment to the Albright Campus. "Under the Yum-Yum Tree," starring Jack Lemon, which was shown last week, was rated as a success by Dale Vandersal, Campus Center Director, "We only made five dollars on the show but it was the first time we did not go into the hole on a presentation so we consider it a roaring success. We provided a night of entertainment for many students which is our primary concern."

Talent Show Will Be Held Tonight

A student-faculty talent show will be presented in the lounge of the Campus Center tonight at 8:00. The show will consist of singers, dancers, and instrumentalists from both the student body and the faculty. Several members of the faculty will also present a skit.

Prizes of gift certificates will be awarded to the first three winners.

Students participants: Singers are Kim Brown, Sandy Pike, Pat Snyder, Sharon Dundore, and a group of Nancy Trainor, Kathy Schneider, Linda Updegrave, Sue Darnes, Denise Nappe, and Patty Worriol.

Dancers are Marilyn Bird and a group of Christy McGeary, Marilyn Lewis, Barbara Olms, and Pat Buschini.

Instrumentalists are Bill Thomas and Don Yanich.

Concert Band Gives Final Performance

The Albright College Concert Band gave its last performance of the current season, last Sunday afternoon, in the college's Merner-Pfeiffer-Klein Chapel-Auditorium.

LeRoy B. Hinkle, chairman of Albright's department of music and band director, conducted the program.

Selections in the concert program included "Italian in Algiers Overture", Gioacchino Rossini; "St. Anthony's Divertimento", a four-part composition by Franz Josef Haydn; "Portrait of a Trumpet", Sam Nestico, with trumpet solo by sophomore Russell L. Cunningham; "March Independentia", R. B. Hall; and "Casa Grande", Henry Gass.

Also, several numbers were offered by the Stage Band, whose members perform with both instrumental groups.

Seniors Johanne M. Menig, Lee F. Adams, and Sarah N. Moyer, performed with the group for the last time. All are four-year members of the concert band.

PEACE CORPS SEEKS 300 VOLUNTEERS

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The Peace Corps this week began an urgent nationwide campus recruiting drive to find 300 Volunteers to serve in health, education and agriculture programs in the Polynesian nation of Western Samoa, with a likely need for up to 1,000 more Volunteers to meet anticipated requests from other Pacific territories.

Modeled on a similar program in neighboring Micronesia—for which 2,500 collegians volunteered last spring—the Western Samoa project requires Volunteers with liberal arts backgrounds to conduct a health campaign to control parasites and diseases which afflict most of the islands' people.

The program also includes Volunteer English teachers for Samoan elementary and intermediate schools and some Volunteers to work in agricultural extension and with marketing cooperatives.

Training for the health and agriculture projects begins this summer and in the fall for the teachers.

Applications and further information on the Western Samoa program are available from the Peace Corps Liaison on campus or by writing immediately to: Polynesia Desk, Peace Corps, Washington, D. C. 20525.

Cowboys Look For College Kickers

Dallas Cowboys' "Kicking Karavan" is coming to Harrisburg.

The club's nation-wide search for potential place-kickers and punters brings the Cowboy group, led by all-time kicking great Ben Agajanian, to Island Park at 9 a.m., Friday, April 21, for an open tryout.

Agajanian, assisted by staff personnel from the Cowboys, will put candidates through tests, looking for signs of kicking potential.

"We are not necessarily looking for polished kickers," says Gil Brandt, Director of Player Personnel for the Cowboys. "What we want to see are men with strong legs and enough potential for our staff to develop. Naturally, any person trying out must be eligible to sign a National Football League player contract."

The Cowboys, NFL Eastern Conference champions last season, have long been successful in finding football players in unusual ways. Two 1966 regulars—flanker Pete Gent of Michigan State and defensive back Cornell Green of Utah State—did not play football in college, but attracted Cowboy attention as top basketball players. Six other free agents (players not drafted) were regulars and a total of 14 free agents made the 40-man squad last season.
