University Chaplain Scheduled to Speak on Communication Ethics

On Thursday, November 24, Reverend Malcolm Boyd will speak in chapel on "The Ethics of Communication". Reverend Boyd, chaplain of the Wayne State University in Detroit, Michigan, was born in 1923. He graduated from the University of Arizona and was ordained a priest in the Episcopal Church in 1955. He earned his Master of Sacred Theology Degree at Union Theological Seminary in New York.

Besides Chaplain Boyd's work at Wayne State, and his lecture tours, he has done some writing. He has written two plays, the prize winning "Study in Color", and a new play entitled "One Community". Chaplain Boyd has also written a book entitled If I Go To Hell in which he is concerned with Christian communication.

In September, 1961, Chaplain Boyd joined twenty-seven other Episcopal priests as a participant in the "Prayer Pilgrimage" which commenced in New Orleans and ended at the Sixtieth General Convention of the Episcopal Church meeting in Detroit. He has served on both the national and the local boards of directors of the Episcopal Society for Cultural and Racial Unity.

ASIS OFFERS JOBS ABROAD

Grand Duchy of Luxembourg—Every student in America can get a summer job in Europe and a travel grant by applying directly to the European headquarters of the American Student Information Service in Luxembourg. Jobs are much the same as student summer work in the U. S. with employers offering work periods ranging from three weeks to permanent employment.

Lifeguarding, office work, resort-hotel jobs, factory, construction, camp counseling and farm work are only a few categories to be found among the 10,000 jobs ASIS has on file. An interesting summer pastime not found in America is tutoring. Numerous well-to-do European families are inviting American college students to spend the summer with them and teach their children English.

Wages ranging to $400 a month, and in most cases neither previous experience nor knowledge of a foreign language is required. ASIS, in its seventh year of operation, will place more American students in summer jobs in Europe this summer than ever before.

Students interested in working in Europe next summer may write directly to Dept. II, ASIS, 22 Ave. de la Liberté, Luxembourg City, Grand Duchy of Luxembourg, enclosing $2 for the ASIS 36-page booklet which contains all jobs, wages, working conditions, etc., job and travel grant applications, and to cover the cost of handling and overseas air mail postage.

FOLKY FOLKS

Pictured above are several Albrightians performing for the youth group of the First Presbyterian Church of Reading. ALBRIGHT STUDENTS ENTERTAIN LOCAL CHURCH YOUTH GROUP

On Saturday, November 14, a group of students from Albright College entertained the high school youth group of the First Presbyterian Church of Reading. The evening was an informal one of singing and socializing. Because the program was relatively unorganized it allowed for much spontaneous participation from the audience. They joined in with the singers whenever they could and often made requests for songs that were promptly followed out.

Such activities as this are one of the best forms of public relations that Albright College has. It lets the people of Reading get to know the students of Albright College and it lets the students learn more about their adopted community. It is to these students' credit that they were willing to give up a Saturday night in order to do a community service. And it is also to the credit of the college, for the actions of these students reflect those of the whole campus in the eyes of the Reading Community.

Annual Sports Night To Climax WUS Week

World University Service Week will come to a fitting climax tonight at the Albright Field House. A large crowd is expected to be on hand for the annual Sports Night which sees Albrightians of both sexes test their skills in a series of events.

World University Service Week is held under the auspices of the YMCA-YWCA groups on campus. Sports Night is just one of the many activities sponsored during WUS week.

Seven men's groups will vie for top honors in the male events. The four social fraternities will be joined by delegates from the Daymen's Club, the Old Dorm and the New Dorm. Girls' entries include the Daywomen, the Independents and the two sororities.

In last year's competition the Zeta Omega Epsilon ensemble came out on top with Albright Court second. Pi Alpha Tau won the women's events.

Scheduled Events

Among the scheduled events for tonight are the hop, step and jump, the standing broad jump, the high jump, the medicine ball throw, the football throw for accuracy, horse-and-rider and ping pong. The team events feature the rope climb, the foot shooting, the tug of war and the night's finale, the running relay. Team sports for the women are volleyball and badminton.

Practices for these events were held Monday, Tuesday and Thursday nights. Record-breaking showings could be expected on the strength of these rehearsals.

Frats Contest

A sideline to the over-all standings for the Sports Night trophy will be the fight for supremacy among fraternities. A victory tonight will mean nine points toward Achievement Trophy standings.

Prior to tonight, three fraternities were waging a torrid struggle for the top rung. Pi Tau Beta, on the strength of a first in football and a second in the Songfest, leads the pack with 12 points. Hot on Pi Tau trail is last year's winner Alpha Pi Omega with 11 markers. In a not-too-distant third place is Zeta Omega Epsilon with six. The other fraternity, Kappa Upsilon Phi, has no points.

United Nation Trip Set for Tuesday

A bus load of approximately forty-five Albright College students will leave the parking lot at 6:00 A.M. Tuesday, November 24th for a day at the United Nations. The day has been planned to tour the U.N., attend a meeting and a briefing, and dine in the Delegates Dining Room.

The political science and history departments are responsible for planning this year's trip which carries on a tradition established fifteen years ago. Dr. Charles A. Raith, Miss Barbara Fahy, and Mr. Phillip A. Eyrieh will accompany the group. A lunch of roast beef and chicken sandwiches has been planned to be prepared and taken along. In all, it is hoped that this year's trip will be as successful as those of previous years.

PENN STATE DEAN SPEAKS IN CHAPEL

By Kathy Doak

Chapel, held on Tuesday, November 17th, was opened by Student Council President Barry Ache who presented announcements for the week. Chaplain Marlowe then introduced guest speaker Dean Harold Schilling who is a graduate of Penn State University and is now a physics professor there.

Dean Schilling presented an interesting program whose theme was "Practicing Science With Ultimate Concern". The theme dealt with what new guidelines in terms of thought and participation will lead to a renewal of man and what physics has to do with these guidelines. Dean Schilling said that now the situation is that we don't have adequate guidelines in comparison to the complexity of our modern world; he challenged us with this problem. He said that if science is to significantly contribute to the people it must be practiced with ultimate concern for the highest value and supreme good, not for material gains or short term projects.

He also noted that today, many people exclude science in relationship with society and its values and that many think that physicists only contribute to their own field of science; Dean Schilling denied this. People should think of science in a broader concept and as a way of life, social enterprise, and historical movement. Physics was defined in terms of its human qualities; it is an intellectual endeavor. Then the dean presented three folkways of science: data gathering, theorizing, and the application of the findings of science to life in general. This last aspect makes science more socially responsible.

It is because of this new science that Dean Schilling said "science should be practiced with ultimate concern, and not anything less." This means love of God and man; science must proceed with a sense of the eternal.

On Monday, November 23, the Domino Players will again present the Christopher Fry play, A PHOENIX TOO FREQUENT. The play, which was originally performed at Albright on Freshman Day, will be produced in Krause Hall at 7:30 p.m. Everyone is welcome to attend this performance.

Lions Whip Wilkes 48-14

By Glen Moyer

The Albright Lions brought their season to a close Saturday by defeating Wilkes College, 48-14, with seven touchdowns, four extra points, and a two-point safety. Four of the touchdowns were by passes and three by runs as six men joined in the parade. The victory gave the Lions a 5-1 MAC record and an 8-1 overall record.

Colonels Score First

The Colonels scored first and last, but not often enough to offset the Lion's tallies. The Colonels first score came about when Paul Purta crashed from the one-yard line.

The Lions retaliated in the second quarter with counter by Don Manlove who scored from five yards out. A few minutes later, a two yard sweep by quarterback Lew Nevins made the score 13-6, which survived until halftime.

Gamber Scores

After the intermission George Gamber started the parade of points as he chipped in with two when he blocked a punt that went into the end zone.

Nevins passed to Frank Herzog for the third TD. Roy Shellhammer passed to Herb Naus for the fourth — his first of two — Tom Huntzinger scooted five for the fifth, Shellhammer and Naus teamed up for the sixth, and Frank Bartletta passed to Jim Kearns for the Lions final tally.

Wilkes Intercepts

Wilkes' second score was attributed to an intercepted pass by Ed Comstock, on Don Manlove's only pass of the season, which he carried into the end zone from the Lion's 34 yard line.

HARRIERS DROP FINAL MEET TO F. & M.

The Middle Atlantic Conference cross-country championship will be held today at Temple University. The only Lion harrier to go to the championships will be Jim Garibay.

Garibay finished third in the harriers final meet last Tuesday as the Lions lost to Franklin and Marshall, 21-36. F. & M.'s Dave Thome won the meet with the time of 22:53. Garibay finished the 4.3 mile course in 23:40. The harriers final record stands at 0-13.

Summary of the meet: 1. Thome, F.M.; 2. Bussington, F.M.; 3. Jim Garibay, A.; 4. Kendig, F.M.; 5. John Clark, A.; 6. Kier, F.M.; 7. Dale, A.; 8. Belzer, F.M.; 9. Tosh, F.M.; 10. Sanchez, A.; 11. Neal, A.; 12. Kirkwood, A.

GRADES SENT OUT FOR MID-SEMESTER

If you notice gloomy faces coming out of the Registrar's Office on Friday, you can be sure that they belong to students who took the first peek at their mid-semester marks. These grades were received from the faculty on November 16, and released to the students as soon as they were processed. They are also issued to the academic advisors and sent home to the parents.

The important thing to remember about mid-semester grades, which are issued at the half-way point of both first and second semesters, is that they do not go on record, but are merely a progress report of the student's work to that date. They are not based on a particular examination and the standard for grading is the same as for the semester marks.

Students are urged to make an appointment with their academic advisors if the mid-semesters are not satisfactory.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

Expectations of a Friend

By Nancy Trainor

What can one expect from those who expect the same? How can one give when the taking seems more ideal? How can one break contacts with long standing friends? To be replaced by a present need for love. And that love from those shortly known.

How can one be nice to all just for the sake of their niceness in return? How can one hate people and yet find survival impossible without them? How can one expect so much from the many and yet much more from the few he loves so well? How can one find the person to whom he will let the mystery of himself go? And not feel like an ass when the mystery is loosed.

How can one like so few so well and many so little? How can one expect reassurance from the friend and insults to be kindly blown away? How can one expect happiness when there are no answers to the "whys"? It is so easy for one to love when he is blessed with the sacred love of the few. It is not so easy for security and confidence to walk in. When the few must be reminded of their duty.

Letter To The Editor

On the whole, the speakers in Albright's chapel programs have been capable, forceful, dynamic and interesting. However, this was not the case last Thursday when Dr. John Cooney, expert on Egyptian and curator of the Brooklyn Museum, addressed the student body. His speech was dull and uninteresting.

Dr. Cooney spoke outside the interests of his audience. Having no previous background in Egyptology, most of the students attended chapel on Thursday expecting to receive some general knowledge on some aspect of Egyptian culture and/or art. As it was, Dr. Cooney bombarded them with irrelevant information which was little more than a series of anecdotes about his curatorial adventures. Instead of giving the students some kind of general background on some phase of Egyptian and classical art, Dr. Cooney explained the complexities and technicalities involved in discovering archaeological frauds. This kind of aesthetic detective work is only relevant, I suppose, to other curators involved in the kind of activity, but certainly not to students interested in the liberal arts.

However, the blame for this poor chapel program can not be put on

Dr. Cooney's shoulders. The faculty members in charge of the chapel programs have to assume the responsibility. For it is their job to contract speakers who will give meaningful and interesting lectures to the student body. And it is apparent that there faculty members fell down on the job last Thursday.

High Boots In Style For Winter Wear

By Karen Cuper

The weather has been rather warm for November, but cold and windy days will soon be here. And when the cold weather does arrive, and the snow is on the ground, some of us will be donning our boots to keep the feet warm. Boots are back this year with a new look of fashion. Available in many different styles there is a boot to fit anyone's taste.

Boots have been made fashionable as dressy, heeled, shoe boots in leather, suede, and even alligator skin texture. Very popular are those lined with some fur fabric, which turned down add a sophisticated look.

Why not add a bit of "high" fashion to your life? The high leather shoe boot is casually attractive and popular. They are often worn with stretch slacks and bulky sweaters, and judging from the store displays, the favorite combination this year will be the fur-lined ski jacket, stretch slacks, and high boots.

These high fashion boots can be found in most shoe stores and department stores, many moderately priced at $14.00.

So why not be high on the list of most fashionables with the most fashionable footwear, the high boot.

Zetas Announce Open House, "Other Activities"

By Zeta Brothers

The brothers of Zeta Omega Epsilon social fraternity invite all interested persons to attend their Fall Open House this weekend, Saturday, November 21, at the Zeta house located at 1607 Alsace Rd. The open house will start at approximately 8:00 P.M. We can guarantee that all who attend will have an enjoyable evening. Music will be supplied by the Adventures, and the Zeta sweetheart will be announced.

All those attending will be privileged to meet the brothers individually, and those people of a higher calibre possibly may be introduced to groups of three or four brothers at the same time.

Zeta Omega Epsilon has the dis-function of being on social probation for three consecutive years; of finishing third among fraternities in the intra-mural football league; of placing third among fraternities this year in song-fest; and of providing Albright College with a football team which finished with an 8-1 season record.

Again, we would like to impress upon everyone the fact that we, the brothers, can guarantee that there will be on hand many wild women, many wild men, and many wild moments.

Of course, for those who are merely materially oriented, food will most certainly be provided.
