

ARMISTICE DAY CELEBRATED IN CHAPEL SERVICE

Prof. Zener Reviews the Spirit of American Participation in the World War

Although Armistice Day was not declared a holiday at Albright, the occasion of the signing of the Armistice was fittingly celebrated in the chapel service, Tuesday, Nov. 11th. After the opening exercises President Bowman introduced the speaker of the occasion, Professor Zener, who took as his theme the need for greater common interests in humanity.

Going back to the days of 1918, Prof. Zener recalled to us how Americans joined hands with the rest of the world in winning the war. Personal differences were forgotten and everyone put his shoulder to the wheel. This willingness to cooperate in the great task was best shown by the community spirit of which we all like to think. Well do we remember the spirit of America which was shown in those days by such songs as: "Over There", "K-K-K-Katy", "Joan of Arc", "The Long Long Trail", "Keep the Home Fires Burning", and other War songs. It was this spirit of cheer and courage, coupled with the community spirit that enabled us to win the war.

Since the close of the War, much of this unity has been lost. Diverging interests have thrown the people apart. What America needs today above all else is an interest in common humanity. We cannot afford to lose sight of other peoples. We must come to realize that what is demanded of us is, in the words of Kipling, "An humble and a contrite heart." If we come short of this, then we have need to say, "Judge of the Nations, spare us yet, Lest we forget, lest we forget!"

WASHINGTON VICTORY CELEBRATED BY DAY-OFF

Parade, "Snake Dance", Freshman
Tug-of-War, Bonfire, Speeches and Moonlight Hike Are Events of Day

November 3rd was declared a holiday to celebrate the victory of the Albright eleven over the Washington College team. The celebration began immediately after the chapel service with cheer leader Steltz in charge. There were songs and yells and afterwards a parade and "snake dance" on Main St. At every corner the town people were told of the victory with songs and cheers given by the students. It was the true Albright spirit, almost 100 per cent strong, and indeed 100 per cent enthusiastic for the Red and White.

In the evening the enthusiasm found further vent around a large bon fire kindled on the athletic field. By reason of their victory in the afternoon, the Freshmen had the honor of lighting the fire. The entire student body then gave cheers, led by cheer leader Steltz, and sang songs led by the Misses Herr and Helm. The rest of the hour was spent in listening to short and peppy talks by Dr. Bowman, Prof. Keen, Dr. Gobbie, John Smith, captain of the team, and Manager Shewell. The celebration came to a close with the singing of the Alma Mater. The old Albright spirit was aroused, not only because of the Washington victory, but new spirit was instilled for the big game with our old rivals, Lebanon Valley College.

Following the celebration on the

BROWN BROTHERS OF LANCASTER TO SING

Will Appear in High School Auditorium Evening of Lebanon Valley

COLLEGE QUARTET TO ASSIST

One of the most interesting attractions that will appear under the local spotlights this season is the trio of "Brownies".

Each member of this "Juvenile Delight" has been in the process of training since his entrance upon the stage of life. Harry Robert, the oldest of the three, has been appearing in public as a soloist since the celebration of his third birthday. Chas. Richard and Glen Earle have since came to the fore and together with their brother have become extremely popular throughout the Keystone state. Their appearances in New York State and other out-of-state centers, as "Lancaster's Popular Juvenile Gospel Singers", have won for them unusual prestige.

This same efficiency has been carried into their secular concerts for which there is a constant demand. Their versatility is further seen in the fact that they are a vital part of a new orchestra that has recently delighted Lancasterians.

The basis of the success of these "Brown Boys" lies in the untiring efforts of their talented and godly mother, Mrs. Harry C. Brown, who is their chief teacher.

The Y. M. C. A. extends to the readers of the Bulletin the privilege of hearing the "Brownies" in a concert in the High School Auditorium, Saturday evening, Nov. 22 at 8 p. m.

The boys will be assisted by Chas. Yost, reader and the Albright College Male Quartet, composed of Messrs. Yost, Raffensperger, Schoenly and Mohn.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION

President Calls On People To Set
Aside Thursday, Nov. 27 For Giving Thanks

Washington, Nov. 6.—President Coolidge's Thanksgiving proclamation follows:

We approach that season of the year when it has been the custom for the American people to give thanks for the good fortune which the bounty of Providence, through the generosity of Nature, has visited upon them. It is altogether a good custom. It has the sanction of antiquity and the approbation of our religious convictions. In acknowledging the receipt of divine favor, in contemplating the blessings which have been bestowed upon us, we shall reveal the spiritual strength of the Nation.

The year has been marked by a continuation of peace whereby our country has entered into a relationship of better understanding with all the other nations of the earth. Ways have been revealed to us by which we could perform very great service through the giving of friendly counsel, through the extension of financial assistance, and through the exercise of a spirit of neighborly kindness to less favored people. We should give thanks for the power which has been given into our keeping, with which we have been able to render these services to the rest of mankind.

At home we have continually had an improving state of the public health. The production of our industries has been bountiful. We have been remarkably free from disorder and remarkably successful in all those pursuits which flourish during a state of domestic peace. An abundant prosperity has overspread the land. We shall do well to accept all these favors and bounties with a becoming humility and dedicate them to the service of the righteous cause of the Giver of all good and perfect gifts. As the Nation has prospered, let all people show that they are worthy to prosper by rededicating America to the service of God and man.

Therefore, I, Calvin Coolidge, President of the United States of America, hereby proclaim and fix Thursday, the 27th day of November, as a day for National thanksgiving. I recommend that the people gather

ALBRIGHT CRUSHES ST. JOSEPH'S ELEVEN

Gasull, Gross & Griggs Score Touchdowns—Albright Pierces St. Joe's Line At Will

Albright vs. St. Joseph's College

The husky, fighting Albright team crushed the St. Joseph's College team in the Armistice day game played at the Phillies' ball park. Ebert, who played his last game for Albright for this season, was one of the shining lights of the game. He carried the ball many times and always gained ground. His twisting and squirming and eluding of tacklers resulted in many of Albright's first downs and sent a thrill through the spectators. Gasull also starred in the backfield. His feat, one of the most brilliant of the whole game, was an off-tackle play in which he passed the St. Joseph line and cleverly eluded the secondary defense, crossing the goal line for a forty yard run and a touchdown. He failed in the try for point.

Griggs played a stellar game at left end, which is proved by the fact that no gains were made around his side. Only forward passes were used on his side and they when attempted were grounded. His triumph came in the third period when he intercepted a forward pass from De-

STUDENTS TO PATRONIZE BULLETIN ADVERTISERS

Student Patronage of Advertisers
Aids in Securing Future Support
For Student Publications

The attention of the Business Staff has been called to a matter concerning our advertisers.

In every college community business men endeavor to secure the patronage of the students. They cooperate by placing advertisements in the publications that are issued by the students. In return they have a right to expect that the students will patronize them in their business. This condition also applies to our own College town. Advertisers ask, "Why don't the students patronize the advertisers? Why do they patronize business places that do not support the College? Why do they all go to one place when there are a number of business places that carry similar goods?"

It becomes a task for the Business Staffs of our publications to secure ads for the Bulletin and Speculum unless the students support them. To the students of Albright we would say that you first see who are our advertisers, and then do the right thing by patronizing them.

Students Give Reasons For Choice of Life Work

Tuesday evening, Nov. 4, the Y. M. held a "Vocational Meeting". Five minute talks were given on five of the outstanding vocations of life: Business, Henninger; Law, Newton Miller; Medicine, Raffensperger; Teaching, Heil Gramley; Ministry, Heasley.

The speakers gave their motives for choosing such professions. Family example and monetary advantage played a great part, but the master motive was service. Each speaker saw in his future calling a means of promoting the cause of humanity.

Albright vs. Washington College
Coach Haps Benfer's crippled Albright team came through its last home game of the season by outplaying the heavier Washington College team, on Saturday, November 1, winning, 7-0.

Albright tallied eleven first downs to Washington's two, scoring most of them on neat end runs and off tackle plays. Eberts carried the ball over in the third quarter on a beautiful 25-yard end run, Gasull adding the extra point with a drop kick.

Albright had several chances to score throughout the game, but passed them up when the Washington defense tightened. Washington never threatened the Red and White goal line during the entire game, and resorted to punting most of the time.

Cavanaugh played a good defensive game for Washington, while Smith was the outstanding defensive Albright man. During the first quarter the game resolved itself into a punting duel between Gross and Cavanaugh, with Gross outpunting the Washington kicker by 10 to 15 yards.

In the final period, Washington opened up, but could not gain any yardage, Wissler intercepting one of its passes for a 30-yard run which almost resulted in a touchdown.

Gasull, by his clever open-field running, and Garrett, who carried the ball most for Albright, with Eberts also speeding up in the second half.

The entire Albright line, played a fine game, especially on the defensive and Washington was unable to make a first down through the line.

ELECTRIC SHOCKS

The sparks have been flying around Albright College. What kind of sparks? Electric sparks. What is all the fuss, all the commotion about lights and electric bills? After the storm has quieted down we have become aware of the fact that the electric current bills for the Institution have been exceedingly larger than they should be. As a result of it all legislation has been passed and an edict has been issued to the effect that the new light regulations will be imposed upon those guilty of wasting current.

After lengthy discussions and deliberation the Executive Committee came to the conclusion that prohibitive and restrictive measures were needed in the electricity question. As a result the orders went forth that in order to save electricity it would be unlawful for the girls of Mohn Hall to use any electrical appliances. There shall be no more curling irons, no more electric irons, no more electric stoves, no more electric heaters, and, I presume, no more lights for the girls. In brief that is the edict against Mohn Hallers.

The men of Main Building have been ordered to destroy all high watt bulbs and to keep lights turned off when not in use. There is no come back on that score. Some of the men have been careless with the lights. But it stands to reason that the occasional burning of a light in an unused room is not responsible for the high light bills.

Are the girls of Mohn Hall to be considered the guilty party? No. A little investigation of the subject will reveal the facts that it costs a little over one cent per hour to run a curling iron; in regards to the use of the electric iron, experience shows that a family wash can be ironed for a moderate cost. As to the electric stoves and heaters they are seldom in use now because the heating plant is working. It seems impossible that the girls are responsible for the large light bills, yet they are the victims of the recent legislation. It appears to be a case of turning off the faucet when the entire barrel is leaking.

What might be the real cause of high light bills? Why do the entrance lights burn from 6 p. m. until 6 a. m., Why are the lights at Main Building door, Library door, and "Y" room door burning after midnight? Why are the lights in the gym left burning until after 9 p. m.? Why are the lights in the lobby and in various first floor rooms left burning far into the nights? Why are the hall lights in Main Building left burning day and night? Who is responsible for this waste? Are the students?

Neither the girls nor the men are responsible for this waste. Why are the students to be punished for the faults of others? Restrictive measures breed disrespect and violation of law. Why not first try to solve the problem with cooperation?

One Act Drama

A Voice: "Some one ask me if Johnnie Smith was married?"

Johnnie: "What did you tell him?"
McCurdy, longingly: "I don't see why the team has to be awfully so much."

Campus Chatter

Hip, hip, hooray! Laugh, shout, grin! Anybody downhearted? No!! Why? Because we've won a game, a real football game, score 7 to 0. Did anyone say we couldn't? Let him guess again. The first of November was one grand week-end.

With a sigh of contentment the parrot notes the above as just a little of the precipitate from the infusion of high spirits that has swamped our campus since the Washington game. The contentment is because he no longer must wrack his small green head to find a touch of optimistic sentiment around the place. No indeed. In fact there's so much cheerful chatter going on since that victory that it's rather hard to know where to begin.

Probably most cheerful of all cheer, however, was the revival of the good old pep. It came back pretty well down at the game, but that isn't telling half. By Monday it had seethed and worked, and increased itself so much that it couldn't be controlled, and even cheer leader Steltz himself was moved to express a word of commendation.

And say boys! What do you know about bonfires? They're some stuff aren't they? Much more fun now, too, than in the days when Prof. Keen used to guard the wood for them in the face of volleys of rotten apples. And Moonlight hikes! Well, we're going to beat Lebanon Valley, and there's no arguing to it.

The pep's taking in more than bonfires and hikes moreover, unless the parrot's hearing is in error. It seems that work is speeding up too. The cooler weather no doubt has something to do with the work part of it. Students seem to be feeling the stirrings of mental activity which winter temperatures alone can stimulate, and are settling down to accomplish the year's goal. "Going to do anything this afternoon?" "Not especially. I have three classes, I'm playing tennis at four, and glee practice is at five. That's all." That's the type of spicy bits we've been overhearing lately.

Everyone, as far as Parrot can discern, is enthusiastically busy, and, it must necessarily follow, happy. So may we conclude our efforts by imitating one of the worthy ancients and repeat: "Lebanon Val-lei delendum est."

Eccentrix

Freshman Contribution:

If it is educational for the Freshmen to be thrown over the fence and ducked the same should also impart wisdom to the Sophomores, who are not yet possessors of all knowledge. As a result of this bit of Freshmen logic we have the tug of war.

The people of this country being urged to take an interest in education, are doing their best to attend the football games.

Professors complain because students cannot work difficult problems; and the students complain because the Profs. can't keep score for themselves at a football game.

Autumn is said to have some melancholy days; also many of the boys who had been unable to keep out of people's back yard gardens, have had some melancholic nights.

On October 30, at 8:15 p. m. another of those famous moonlight baseball games was played on the Albright Athletic Field. The game was intensely interesting and the grand stand was filled to its capacity—4 couples—one in each corner.

Our Faculty

ELSIE A. GARLACH

Miss Garlach is a graduate of Gettysburg College and Columbia University where she secured her A.B. and A.M. degrees. Besides this, she took up work at the University of Paris.

We admit Miss Garlach's extensive and thorough knowledge in the field of French, and we have learned to appreciate her as an all-around good sport. No matter what activity is being carried through, Miss Garlach gives it her hearty support. She is ever willing to assist us, from chaperoning parties to reading for us at impromptu programs so much in vogue at the girl's Hall. A more sincere and helpful person to those in dispare cannot be found.

Miss Garlach is also a tennis player of note. She smashes the balls across the net in an awful manner. She has acquired a wicked serve that is the fear and envy of all her opponents.

We pass our verdict, Miss Garlach, that you are not only a good French teacher, but you are also a girl at college to us, ever alert to guide us aright.

Mrs. Mohn tells us that "Selah" after a verse of scripture should never be read, because it means the same as a retard in music.

: Who's Who At Albright :

RUTH I. HETRICK—KATHRYN M. McCURDY

Albright's Who's Who presents two girls in one sketch this week, for who ever heard of Ruth Hetrick without McCurdy, or vice versa? Ruth and McCurdy are as inseparable as the famed "Gold Dust Twins", and far be it from us to do other than uphold that made customary by so much repetition.

Those friends are very like each other, so much so that a description of one will almost describe the other. Both have the same jolly, happy-go-lucky disposition; both are excellent students—seemingly without study and both have that faculty of being able to "sing a line,"—and get away with it. Besides all this, both are amateur comedians and have done much toward amusing Mohn Hall with their stunts and impromptus.

True, there are a few ways in which those very similar young ladies differ. For instance, Ruth is a member of the Girl's Glee, while "Mac", though famed in Mohn Hall for the novelty of her Russian solos, has not yet attained to that. Have you heard McCurdy sing in Russian? You should. It's unique!

Who is the wise one who first pointed out the fact that we have a modern Pocohontas in our midst? The name is certainly appropriate, for our "Mac", like the maiden of old, has found her a Captain John Smith. One more instance of the parting of the ways, Ruth, and another instance of "Two's a company, three's a crowd". 'Tis sad, but true.

Good luck to you, "Pocohontas", and to your pal, Ruth. We're all the better for having met your smiles.

FRESHMEN WIN ANNUAL FROSH-SOPH TUG-O-WAR

Yearlings Pull Second Year Men into Old Canal After Three Minutes of Interesting Tugging—Miniature Scrap Follows.

One of the events that helped to celebrate the day-off, Monday, Nov. 3, which was granted to the student body after the victory over Washington College was the annual Frosh-Soph tug-of-war. The event was staged over the old canal south of the town.

The toss up gave the Frosh the north side of the canal as their battle ground. Eight fellows of comparatively the same weights composed each team. At the whistle given by the Senior President the pull began. For a full minute or more the tug was a draw, but due to the fact that a number of the Freshmen fellows were stuck in the mud up to their waists the Sophs were unable to gain ground. Finally, after three minutes of tugging they were drawn through the canal by the triumphant Freshmen. Amid cheers for the victors the crowd dispersed.

Shirk, Holvey, Ross, Brown, Shoap, Kneller, Heckert and Keller represented the Freshman line-up, and Fassnacht, Glosser, Beeky, Rutter, Wilkes, Calanan, Hoffman and Hosterman.

Upon reaching main entrance an impromptu scrap between the two classes was staged, the Frosh having strung up a rope and a sign with the words, "Sophs bow to Frosh".

Especially I urge them to supplicate the Throne of Grace that they may gather strength from their tribulations, that they may gain humility from their victories, that they may bear without complaining the burdens that shall be placed upon them, and that they may be increasingly worthy in all ways of the blessings that shall come to them.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the great seal of the United States.

The copy righting of each member-magazine with subsequent permission to reprint given only to recognized magazines was favored in a resolution passed at the recent convention of the Mid-West College Comics held at the Sheridan Plaza Hotel, Chicago, Ill.

"This action would prevent the salacious type of magazine from using material from college comics," says an account of the convention published in the Daily Northwestern. "In this way, the college editors hope to discourage and if possible eliminate the publication of indecent magazines."

Speedball, a new game formed of a combination of football and soccer, has been established as a regular intra-mural sport at Missouri. The game is played on a regulation football field and the main difference between the new game and football is in scoring.

A field goal is a ground ball kicked between the goal posts and below the cross-bar, counting three points. A touchdown may be scored by the completion of the forward pass from the field of play into the end zone and counts two points. A dropkick scores one point.

Fouls are penalized by allowing the team fouled a free kick from the place where the foul was made. The game is played with eleven men on a side.—New Student News.

the danger connected with the use of such appliances in the dormitory rooms.

2. The use of chaffing dishes and electric irons will be permitted only in the small room on the first floor of Mohn Hall where electric attachments are provided, and at such times as may be designated by the faculty or Dean of Women.

Students desiring to use such appliances are required to arrange for the use of electric current in the said room with the Dean of Women or some one acting for her.

3. A flat rate for the use of electric current will be charged persons using any of these appliances and the Dean of Women will make report of such use to the College office.

4. The use of electric bulbs of a greater number of watts than those provided by the College is prohibited, and their removal wherever found in the dormitories is hereby ordered.

5. Students will not be permitted to do any laundry work, handkerchiefs and hosiery excepted, in the dormitory rooms or other parts of the College buildings.

It is requested and expected in the interests of all that these requirements will be carefully observed.

laney and ran forty five yards for a touchdown. At another time in the game he received a kick-off and carried the ball for thirty-five yards to mid-field.

The first period was a seesaw session, neither team holding any real advantage. Straight football was used and when that failed, punting. Gross's punting was about on a par with the St. Joseph's kicker.

The second period had a different tale to reveal. Albright had the distinct advantage. The line opened up wide gaps for the backs to speed through. Then is when the march down the field began. Suddenly Gasull tore away and made his sensational run. Albright received the kick-off and soon began another march down the field. Ebert, Garrett, Gasull and Gross alternately carrying the ball, finally, after four successive first downs placed the ball on the three yard line. Gross then bored his way through the red jersey line for the second touchdown.

The third period still saw Albright with a distinct advantage over the "Stilles street eleven". It was near the middle of the period that Griggs picked the pass not intended for him and ran half the length of the field for the touchdown.

In the fourth period Coach Benfer had practically half of his scrub team on the field, and as a result there was no scoring done. However, the St. Joe's team did not once threaten Albright's goal.

MISSIS ILLICK AND WRIGHT LEAD Y. W. TALKS ON "ANGER"

Tuesday evening, Nov. 4, with Eva Wright and Caroline Illick as leaders, the Y. W. met to continue the series of discussions on the Ten Commandments. The topic was "Anger," with the sixth Commandment, "Thou shalt not kill," as a basis. The leaders, in short talks, emphasized the effects of anger, especially when un-governed. Questions and discussions further brought out this side of the topic. Several of the problems which confronted the girls were: Is the ignorant street boy who kills another in a fit of anger more guilty than the educated college girl who gives way to temper and hurts a friend with her tongue? Is anger ever justifiable? What is Christ's example? Does "righteous indignation" have a place? The meeting closed with the Y. W. benediction.

—The man who makes his own God would not want to be left alone with him in the dark.

—The Church should be the retaining wall on the cliff, rather than the hospital at its base.

—Diamonds are chunks of coal that stuck to their jobs.

—When a man loses confidence in himself he makes the vote unanimous.

—Christian life is like an airplane, when you stop, you crash.

—Wickedness has the habit of running past the red signal before it stops.

—You can tell if a man has wheels in his head by the spokes that come out of his mouth.

—Those who climb the band wagon last add least to the music.

—Garments of righteousness never go out of style.

—A four-square man is the only one who is well rounded.

—There are two kinds of men who do not understand women, married men, and single men.

—If you think co-operation unnecessary try to run an automobile on three wheels.

—Public opinion is just private opinion that made enough noise to attract attention.

MEETING INTERESTING

The Y. W. C. A. held its meeting Tuesday, Oct. 28, with Miss McCauley as leader. The topic was "Honor Thy Father, and Thy Mother." The meeting opened with the Y. W. invocation, after which the leader gave a splendid talk on the topic.

Various discussions were given by those present on the question of the college girl or man's appreciation of the sacrifice their parents may be making in order to send them thru school. Do we really appreciate all our parents have done for us, and do we in turn honor them so "our days may be long upon the land which the Lord, our God, giveth us?"

Mrs. Mohn gave a short but pointed talk on the topic. She said that the fault does not always rest with the child, but with the parents, because they begin too late to train their children to grow into men and women who honour and obey.

Miss McCauley, Gindlesperger gave a splendid reading, "A Mother's Love."

This impressed the topic on the minds of those present.

After the singing of the Y. W. Benediction, the meeting closed.

—One way to correct your children is to correct the example you are setting them.

—Clean living makes the undertaker wait longer for his money.

—A mule cannot work while kicking, nor kick while working.

—Sixty muscles are required to produce a frown, and only sixteen to make a smile.

: Alumni Notes :

"Daddy" Miller, '24, prominent in athletics at Albright, visited the College and his fraternity on Wednesday and Thursday, November 5 and 6th.

Herbert Polk, a former student here, has recently taken up the study of voice in New York City. He was a visitor at the College recently.

Misses Leah Hoffman and Blanche Bordner, both of '24, were visitors at the College, November 1 and 2.

Attorney M. J. Baumgardner, '10 and wife, and Prof. A. E. Baumgardner, '17, all of Johnstown, were visitors on the Campus, Saturday, Nov. 1st.

TOWN NOTES

The Myerstown Girl Scouts scored a decided hit on Thursday evening, November 6th, when they presented the three-act comedy, "The Real Thing" in the High School Auditorium before a large audience. The characters were well chosen and the play was well rendered. Music between acts was furnished by the High School Orchestra. Many Albright students attended the play.

The dramatic recital by Miss Grace Sage, Tuesday evening, November 18th, under the auspices of the Myerstown Womens' Club, will be of unusual interest. The artistic preparation of Miss Sage began when she was twelve years old, and her unusual dramatic ability has been carefully guided by such masters as Leland T. Powers, George Riddle and David Bispham. Another valuable part of her training came from a year in the theatre, in close association with Laura Burt, who was formerly Sir Henry Irving's leading woman, and also with Frederick Wallace, who for years directed the productions of Maxine Elliot and Margaret Illington.

COMPOSITION STUDENTS!

Attention And Take Notice—Here's Some Consolation.

Miss Garlach's English students will appreciate the "Punctuation Blues":

Punctuation bothers me?
I cannot seem, to get it;
I learn it; frequently; you see.
And: frequently forget-it,
In English I I try?
To learn when (and where)
To put, a comma:
But I find? a semi: colon there.
The comma-period fault: I find;
Comes popping up, and then
I cure it but, it soon.
Comes, back again,
This; punctuation certainly
Gives me, an: awful-fright
The only cure that, I can see—
Is not to, write?

Albright vs. William & Mary Coach "Haps" Benfer's team lost a hard fought game to William and Mary College at Williamsburg, Va., on Saturday, November 8, by a 27-0 score. After three hard luck breaks in the second quarter had put Albright behind, the Red and White team played a bang-up game and held the champions of Virginia scoreless in the second half. During the game Albright scored seven first downs to twelve for William and Mary's big orange-jerseyed team and held the southern team about even for the biggest part of the game. It was in the second quarter that the "breaks" went against Coach Benfer and his Boys. In this quarter fumbles and a blocked punt resulted in three touchdowns for William and Mary. Gross's punt was blocked back of the Albright goal line and was recovered by William & Mary while both of the fumbles occurred around the 15 yard line and were turned into scores by the Orange team.

William and Mary's famed aerial attack that baffled the Navy backs earlier in the season, when Navy was lucky to beat the Williamsburg team, 13-7, did not trouble the Albright defense and most of them were broken up. William and Mary's trick plays also received somewhat rough treatment and on the final quarter Albright set them back 27 yards on three down by smearing their plays for losses.

The entire Red and White Myerstown team played a good game and proved by their second half playing that they had fine conditioning as well as the necessary pep and fight to stage such a comeback after having the "breaks" go against them. They greatly surprised the southern school, for they expected to rush up fifty or sixty points on "little Albright from up North."

The defensive playing of Smith and Griggs and Dale Gramley featured the game. Smith and Griggs are veterans on the team and their stellar work is well known to all, but Gramley has risen only since the Dickinson game where he took the position of right tackle when Froek received a fractured ankle. In that game his first play was to break thru and down the Dickinson runner for a loss. Since then he has been rapidly improving. On Saturday he was the outstanding star on the line. His tackling was hard, sure and steady. Near the beginning of the game he tackled the fleet footed Matsuo and threw him to the ground. Both men were hurt but only one left the field. Gramley remained in the game and played hard as ever.

The punting of Gross averaged fifty yards per punt; and the offensive play of Garrett, and of Holvey in the final stages of the game, were also bright spots of Albright's great showing against William & Mary's championship Virginia team.

The line-up and scores:
Albright William & Mary
Griggs J.E. Todd
Everett L.T. Elliot
Loucks L.G. Parsons

: Poet's Corner :AN OCTOBER SUNSET

Red as the blood on Calvary's hill
Was the sun in the western sky;
But faded to rose and blue, until
The sight of its majesty must thrill
Like an anthem to God on high.

Purple as clear as the depth in a pool
We could glimpse through the willow tree;
A lesson to those who in life's school
Must ever obey the divine rule,
Like a suppliant, bow the knee.

Gold like the crest of a sunkissed wave
Paved the way to the Temple Gate;
It made all my heart expression crave,
And strengthened the will to dare
And brave,
And it lessened the fear of fate.

God, the creator of sunsets bright,
Loves to end thus the fairest days;
He deepens the shadows into night,
To leave us memories of the light,
So we render to Him due praise.
—Blanche McCauley.

A SECOND "Y" HAND-BOOK DEPENDS ON STU-DENT COOPERATION

At a recent meeting of the Handbook Staff, the possibility of a second issue of the publication was discussed. The reports of the sale of the present edition revealed the fact that only about one fourth of the old students have secured a copy. It is difficult to ascertain the reason for their limited distribution. It may be because the students in general feel that they cannot afford it, yet we can scarcely believe this to be the drawback, since the price per copy is only fifty cents, which sum does not nearly pay for the printing of it.

The staff feels that the publication is one that is worthy of continuation. However, this will depend upon the kind of evaluation placed upon it by the present students. Before many more weeks have elapsed a new staff should be at work discussing ways of compiling a better book. Will you make known your approval by, first, buying one of the initial copies of the Handbook. Sometime when you will want to see the progress in the Handbook work of your Alma Mater, you can point to this copy and say, "Here's a copy of the first Albright Handbook." Second, will you kindly offer to the staff your constructive criticism of the book, together with the aim that there will be a second and better edition this year?
