Caught in the Act

Three non-voting student representatives will attend the meetings of the faculty committee on student organizations and activities to express student opinion, student council decided on Tuesday after being informed that the way was open for such representation.

Reporting to council that the faculty had approved student representation on the activities committee, Russell F. Weigley, '52, president of council, recommended that council send to the committee's meetings a group large enough to ensure adequate student representation yet not so large as to be cumbersome.

Sauertieg Makes Motion

Elliot Sauertieg, '52, moved that three representatives be selected each spring immediately after the all-school elections to serve one-year terms. The members, he moved, should be selected by the executive committee of student council and approved by a majority of those present at a meeting of council.

Sauertieg's motion was accepted with an amendment presented by William A. Heck, '52, which provided that one of the three student representatives shall be a senior during most of his term on the committee, one shall be either a junior or a sophomore, while the class of the third shall be left to the discretion of the executive committee.

Glee Club to Present Messiah Before Chapel

The Glee Club under the direction of Dr. John H. Duddy will present the Christmas portion of Handel's "Messiah" during the chapel period next Thursday.

Six persons will have solos in the presentation. They are: Sopranos, Jacqueline Artz, '52, Mrs. Ann Rentschler, '53, and Nancy Lou Walker, '54; alto, Barbara Benner, '54; tenor, Walter Eisenhower; and bass, Dale Moyer, '52. Mrs. Charles Kistler will be the organist.

The program is being sponsored by student council.

Chess Association Plans Interclass Tournament

A tournament among members of the four classes is being planned by the Albright College Chess Association (ACCA), Adolph Butkys, '55, president, revealed this week. The tournament is scheduled to start in January.

The club now has 17 members, but Butkys urged that seniors report so that all classes will be represented. Registration for the tournament will be held today from 2 to 5 o'clock in Union Hall.

ACCA meets every Friday from 2 to 5 p. m. in Union Hall. The constitution of the group has been approved by the faculty committee on student organizations and activities.

Prof. Ellery B. Haskell has been named faculty adviser.

World Wants Leadership Of U. S., Students Told

Pierce Butler addressed chapel last Tuesday on the subject "A Vision for World Government." Butler, as vice-president of the United World Federalists, told the assembly that from the viewpoint of the world, the United States must take the leadership in straightening out world affairs.

Albright Debaters Compile Record Of 5 Out of 8 Victories at Temple

Albright debaters won five of eight debates against competition from throughout the Middle Atlantic area at the Temple University novice debate tournament held in Philadelphia last Saturday.

The Albright affirmative team, Robert Berkstresser, '55, and Richard Witmoyer, '52, won three matches while losing only one, while the negative team, Dean Frantz, '54, and Edmund Ettinger, '55, compiled a two-two record. St. Joseph's College of Philadelphia, Brooklyn College and Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute were victims of the Albright affirmative team. The affirmative's only loss was to Georgetown University, Washington, D. C.

The Albright negative debaters conquered Swarthmore and Lafayette

Students To Celebrate Christmas With Parties, Carols, Matins, Dinners

With the beginning of an 18-day Christmas vacation only a week away, pre-holiday activities fill the college calendar between now and Saturday, December 15. Many of the activities are for the whole school, whereas others have been planned by specific organizations for their members.

The campus Y organizations have scheduled their annual party for underprivileged children of Reading for this Sunday afternoon. Also programmed for Sunday are "Der Deutsche Verein Weihnachtsfeier" at St. John's Lutheran Church and the dormitory women's Christmas party.

Christmas matins will be broadcast over station WHUM from 8:15-8:30 o'clock Monday through Saturday of next week under the auspices of the Y. The traditional caroling is scheduled for Tuesday at 8:30 p. m., and a dawn communion service for Friday at 6 o'clock.

Wednesday evening the semi-formal Christmas dinner for boarding students will be held in the college dining hall. The glee club will present the Christmas portion of Handel's "Messiah" during the chapel period Thursday morning. Friday evening President Harry V. Masters will be host to the faculty at his annual Christmas dinner. The daywomen will hold a Christmas coffee hour Wednesday afternoon.

Among the organizations which will hold Christmas parties next week are Le Cercle Francais, Sigma Tau Delta and the Heo Club.

Christmas activities held this week were the Y toy repair and a party for members of La Sociedad Cultural Espanola.

Heo Club Plans Party

The December meeting of the Heo Club will be featured by the senior members who will present "Christmas In Other Lands" as their theme. The meeting will be held next Thursday in Sherman Cottage.

Getrud Kuecklich, guest speaker, will talk about Christmas festivities in Germany.

Following Miss Kuecklich's speech, carols will be sung by the members. Refreshments will be served.

Miss Artz to Sing

Le Cercle Francais will hold its annual Christmas party Monday evening at 7:30 in the lower social room. Jacqueline Artz, '52, will sing a vocal solo. The Christmas story will be read from the Holy Scriptures in French.

The evening will conclude with several games and with refreshments.

Christmas Dinner Scheduled

Sigma Tau Delta, honorary English society, will hold its annual Christmas dinner at Reeser's Restaurant next Thursday at 6:30 p. m. Prof. Clyde A. Harding will be guest speaker.

The program, under the general direction of Norman Snook, '52, will feature the traditional reading of neophyte's papers. Dr. Samuel Shirk will be guest of honor, while Michael Lafferty, '53, will serve as master of ceremonies.

Newly inducted members of the society are William Meyer and Joanne Raffenger, '52, Anne

Rev. Trickett to Speak At Dawn Communion

The traditional dawn communion service will be held next Friday morning at 6 o'clock in the college chapel. The Rev. Homer L. Trickett, pastor of First Baptist Church, will speak. Communion will be in charge of the Rev. Eugene H. Barth, director of religious activities.

Blood Donations Total 140 Pints

About 140 pints of blood were donated by Albright students and faculty to the Red Cross for use in Korea when the Bloodmobile visited campus Thursday, November 29. Thirty-five volunteers were not accepted as donors, chiefly because of low blood pressure.

Deans LeVoy P. Smith and Ruth E. Williams and Dr. Clarence A. Horn addressed to student council a letter commending the council and especially its blood donor chairman, James Buch, '53, for its conduct of the campaign.

Among those who appeared to contribute blood were:

Arthur Eck, Joan H. Williamson, Evelyn C. James, Thomas F. Green, James Buch, Lester L. Stabler, George Myers, William A. Heck, Peter Kollet, Elliot Sauertieg, James Bachman, Arlene Kuhlman, Dimitrios Zafros, the Rev. Eugene Snyder, Mrs. Elsie B. Guth, Bruce Kurzweg.

Thomas Shultz, Albert Gittleman, Eliot Perceley, Robert Metzger, Marilyn Russo, John A. Schmidt, Clarence R. Dautrich, Lois J. Gehris, James Hall, Cynthia Reinhardt, Phillip Rickenbach, Joseph McWilliams, Herbert Staer, Bruce Tenley, Joan Moore, Lewis

Musicians to Reorganize

The college orchestra will be reorganized next semester after being inactive thus far this year because of lack of interest, Jack Greenspan, '52, student manager, announced.

125 To Be Party Guests

Approximately 125 underprivileged children will be entertained at the Y Christmas party this Sunday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock.

In previous years the children were invited for noon-day dinner, but this year the plans have been changed and the children will be served a buffet lunch in Union Hall, Evelyn Nantz, '52, chairman of the party, announced. Before the supper the children will be entertained by Frank Bird, '50, who will give his traditional Indian act, and by David and Ann Breneman, two children from Lancaster, who will present a magician act. Climaxing the program will be the appearance of Santa Claus with gifts for the children.

Student-parents will call at the children's homes for them and take them to the party in Union Hall, as they did in previous years.

Serving on Miss Nantz's committee are Arlene Yeager, '53, Michelina Cacciola, '54, and Kathleen Carls, '55.

Matins To Be Broadcast

The annual Christmas matins will be presented by the combined Y groups from Monday through Saturday next week from 8:15 to 8:30 a. m. over station WHUM, Ivan Moyer, '54, Christmas program chairman, announced. The theme for the matins will be Christmas carols of many countries, with each program featuring a brief skit.

Nancy Lou Walker, '54, will supervise the skits and Leonard Buxton, '52, is in charge of music and production. The Y choir will participate.

Monday's program, written by Dean Frantz, '54, will feature the carols of Spain. On Tuesday a program by Carol Althouse, '54, will present Scandinavian carols. Wednesday's program, by Margaret Israel, '54, will be one of Italian carols; Thursday's, by Lawrence Harvey, '54, German carols; Friday's, by Michelina Cacciola, '54, French carols; and Saturday's, by Miss Walker, American carols.

Y Groups to Carol

The traditional Christmas caroling, held under the auspices of the campus Y groups, is scheduled for next Tuesday evening, Mrs. Barbara Pomroy and Norman Snook, '52, Y presidents, announced this week. The singing will be directed by Leonard Buxton, '52.

The carolers will leave the steps of the chapel at 8:30 o'clock and sing at the homes of faculty members.

What Happened to Courtesy?

Common courtesy has not gone out of style. However, it would be only natural for many who attended a recent Albright cultural program to conclude that courtesy is no longer fashionable.

It has been a long time since as much constant talking was heard during a chapel period as was heard when a harpist and violinist presented a concert recently. We use the term "talking" advisedly, for the noise was considerably louder than mere whispering. In fact, we are told that in the rear of Union Hall some students shouted back and forth across several rows.

Admittedly harp and violin music does not appeal to everybody. However, several courses of action are open to those who find certain chapel programs distasteful—and all of them seem more acceptable than talking. The most obvious solution is to cut those programs which are genuinely disliked. With six cuts allowed, this should not cause a great hardship.

However, if we feel that we must attend programs we don't enjoy, the least we can do is show enough courtesy to others in the audience not to talk.

We are confident that many of the students who talked did so chiefly because they were thoughtless and not because they were deliberately discourteous. We believe further that the chief need is to have the matter called to their attention, and that they will respond with considerate behavior in the future.

Pacific School Analyzes Apathy

At the risk of resurrecting skeletons that most students prefer to keep buried, we have chosen this week to report the results of a study on the origin of apathy made by a psychology class at City College of San Francisco. It would appear safe to assume that these conclusions are at least in a sense applicable wherever apathy raises its ugly head.

Worry over the draft, uncertainty and student immaturity were cited as some of the major though unspectacular causes of apathy. Another contributing factor was declared to be the failure of students to know each other.

A somewhat bitter coed said, "Most of the people who are here cannot afford the money to go to any other college, or their grades are too low."

We would like to add one other cause to San Francisco's list. That is a genuine and necessary concern for personal activities apart from the college or university. This may be a part-time job, a home and family, community responsibilities or anyone of a host of other activities, particularly applicable in the case of day students. While this should be no excuse for blatant apathy, it does seem like a plausible reason for failure to take a vital interest in the total program of the college. Some students, believe it or not, are in college chiefly to acquire an education.

The Readers Write—A Missing Bouquet

Dear Editor:

In the last edition of The Albrightian you stressed in your editorial the passing out of bouquets to some different organizations and people in recognition for services rendered. We think you forgot a certain group and have forgotten them in your editions of the paper from the beginning of the year. The group we're referring to is the girls sports, both intramural and inter-collegiate. We definitely think the two-inch writup given us last week was not sufficient in telling of the entire girl's hockey season.

So, we didn't win any games but your staff, we think, has forgotten the lack of support, recognition and student indifference given to this group, despite the hours contributed by the individuals in practice, the fact that we're not receiving any scholarships for playing, and the fact that we participate in these events only out of sheer love of the game.

But, do we get a thank you or a note of recognition from anyone other than Mrs. Mosser? No, and obviously we are not even important enough to have any kind of recognition in the newspaper. We, too, have seniors on our teams who have played in events all four years at Albright, but you would never even know there were individuals playing on the team from the week's writup.

Students are talking about no school spirit here at Albright. May We suggest there must be some among the women participating in these intercollegiate events, at least enough to make the girls go out to practice and try to win against other schools.

We're not asking for a full page spread of our activities but we are pleading for a break every now and then by tossing a word of praise or a pat on the back in the form of a good newspaper writup. After all, we're part of the school too, and we're trying to have the name of Albright known in the women's athletic circles too. May we ask why you couldn't make us known here at Albright?

There is the possibility that this lack of publicity is not only the fault of the newspaper but nevertheless, we think the situation should be and can be remedied and we're asking for help on your part.
W. A. A.

Selwyn Sighs

11:58 . . . eleven fifty-eight and two more minutes, two more minutes as we sit beside each other on the narrow low-built sofa, listening while the other tells his story. Listening, longing, talking, telling of the little things, those necessary mundane things one feels he has to say.

Talking, longing, listening—each one counting off the unheard seconds falling from the staking hallway clock, which, like an all-engulfing spirit, hushes out its call: go soon, go soon, go soon, my lad.

Away across the campus at a darkened corner, like a candle flashing on the edge of doom, a street light, blinking as the waving branches brush across its stare, whispers back the echo: away, my lad; away, my lad; away.

Have generations faced this same forbidding call? Has this household's youngest daughter, in those dauntless ages past, felt this same bewildering beckoning, this lively, longing deep-down driving?

And over by the hall-way door, did mother, or the married sister, sit, pulling at her knitting, mindful—oh how mindful—of the younger sibling's moves?

Has this unyielding parlor even been the scene of young good-bye? Of lover's longings lost? Of hips and thighs and searching eyes? Of swiftly fleeting Selwyn sighs?

The clock's metallic hand, in sturdy confirmation, sweeps towards the twelve. And peering through their painted pinks and blues, the faces on the wall forever urge good-bye. So gloved hand on twisting knob I push against the door and step into the night.

. . . without, the streetlight, glowing from the settling gloom, no longer winks a warning call. The trees, the stars, the very night, like cosmic keepers of conformity, caress the soul with over-awing calm. Behind, the glass panes tinkle in the paneled door-way, as the empty winds of winter echo down the hall.

Bud

One of the most sociable lions on the Albright scene is Francis Leonard Carney, commonly known as Bud. He's recognized around campus as president of the daybook, philosophy club, and Pi Gamma Mu, the associate editor of the Cue, member-at-large of I.P.S., assistant manager of debate team and also a member of the Cabinet. But when students see "F. C." at the bottom of a feature page article, they mutter, "Whoozat?" Surprise! Zat's him.

Bud's 24, 5' 11", 160 pounds, single; he has dark hair, brown eyes, and poetical ability. Majoring in history and minoring in philosophy, Francis, whose home is at 918 North 12th Street, plans to go to graduate school after graduation and then enjoy "the Good Life."

Among his favorite memories are autumn leaves on Selwyn campus and, with Jack and Bill, straddling the world over a cup of coffee and discussing his favorite subject, "the still, sad music of humanity."

Via the Exchange

At Kutztown State Teachers College, male students did a turn about and became very charming female models for a fashion show. The Keystone reports that these beauties were all vying for the title of "Missfit." After many exciting outfits were shown the honor finally fell to demure "Roberta" Wolff. Only comment of the runner-ups was "I was robbed."

Lehigh University had plenty to be thankful for this year. As states the Brown and White, it was the first time in 15 years that they had beaten an old rival, Lafayette. The bell in Packer Hall, silent all those years (with the exception of the time it was illegally rung after the Dartmouth game) was vigorously tolled, and everyone in the dorms was kept awake until the wee hours of the next morning by a "band" which marched jubilantly around, accompanied by serenaders.

Students in one of the journalism classes at Duquesne University, so says the Duke, are paying a nicker a mistake for the errors in their compositions.

At Ohio State University, several student organizations warned the Ohio State Lantern that unless they were given power to censor reports of their activities printed in the Lantern, they would henceforth bar reporters from their meetings.

The Lantern replied that under no circumstances would it submit to such censorship, and commented that to do so would be to surrender the principle of freedom of the press.

CURRENT TIDES—The Grand Design

By Russell F. Weigley

This is the season of the year when American Congressmen take advantage of their annual recess to go flying to the four corners of the world at government expense, freely giving advice on all sorts of problems to anyone who will listen and generally making themselves obnoxious to busy statesmen from Brussels to Mangkok. One such group recently paused to share their wisdom with the members of the Council of Europe at Strasburg on the Rhine.

The Council of Europe is a body impressive in membership and projects but anemic in power. It is something of a congress of the western European nations, and its aim is to promote western European union. As is the custom with Europeans, the members of the Council greeted our Congressmen politely but with impatience: "The Americans can hardly be expected to understand our problems, but since they pay the bills we must hear them out."

This time, however, the Americans had something worth listening to, though their European listeners were irritated by them as much as ever. Why hasn't any real progress been made toward European federation? The Americans wanted to know. After all is said and done, it is not on ECA or NATO that the security of western Europe must ultimately rest, they said; if the West is to be saved, the nations of western Europe must somehow transcend their differences and jealousies to form a working union that would give them strength to stand in a world dominated by giants of nations beside which even France pales to insignificance. The difficulties in the way are staggering, the Americans admitted; nonetheless western union must be achieved.

Lions to Clash with Fort Dix in Home Opener

In the Lion's Den

By Tom Masters

After-Glow

Although the football season is over, we can't forget it entirely because of the many post-season honors which have been heaped on Lion players.

The first of these was the announcement of the Associated Press All-State team last week, which saw Jack Sudol, Blackie Weidman and Walt Drazek listed in the final accounting. Jack had the top spot as he was chosen on the first team defensive platoon while Blackie made the second team defense and Walt got honorable mention. These three were certainly deserving of their high awards and Albright is duly proud of them.

Another post-season announcement which came last week was that of Gerry Potts' being considered for a spot on the North team in the North-South game. Although Gerry is all ready to travel south come December 22, there is still the matter of a formal invitation to be received by the big end. Whether or not this comes through, however, it is still an honor that his name was mentioned as a possibility. It's worthy of note, too, that he was suggested for this berth by Hen Bream, Gettysburg coach, who was rightly impressed as Gerry grabbed three touchdown passes against his Bullets.

Hoop Hopes

With the 1951-52 basketball campaign now underway, it's time we began to see what it will bring to Albright followers.

The first thing we notice on looking over the roster is the scarcity of experienced talent. If we forget about captain Gerry Potts for the time being, we find that the majority of the candidates for the squad have had very little college experience. Perhaps the most experienced of the group outside of Potts is Connie Dettling, who subbed for Lee Cappel relatively often last season. But the rest of the starting five, which includes "Lefty" Leitham, Dick Whitman and George Amole, saw very little varsity action last season.

Among others who will also get a chance in this wide-open scramble for the starting positions are Jim Croke, Bruce Oplinger, Kenny Nace, Jim Goss and Jim Bachman. Croke and Bachman are sophomores while Nace, Goss and Oplinger are first-year men.

From this group Coach Gulian will have to mold his team, and it will certainly be a mammoth rebuilding job. He lost four of his starters from last year's close-working outfit, so he will be starting almost from scratch.

Gerry Potts, who threw in over 300 points last year will be the coach's starting point this year. Teaming with him on the double pivot will be Connie Dettling, who will add his 6' 6" to Potts' 6' 5". This kind of height should result in lots of rebounds and tap-ins, but many of the teams on the schedule this year, especially Lafayette, will have much more height in the backcourt. Still, height counts for most around the boards, and we'll have it there.

The season ought to be a very interesting and unpredictable one, with Albright's best showing coming in the second half of the schedule as the squad gets more experience. We also predict it will be another winning season, coming about mainly through the last half rush.

Starting Guard

Richard "Bunny" Whitman, who is a veteran of two seasons of varsity competition. This West Reading product is a brother of Mort Whitman, former Albright basketball player, who graduated in 1949. "Bunny" will have his first chance at a starting berth on the team this year, and will team with Dick Leitham in the back court. Albright will have its first home game tomorrow night at Northwest against the Fort Dix soldiers.

I-M Basketball League Starts

Two Divisions Formed Again This Year

The intra-mural basketball league opened last Monday night at Northwest Junior High. The league again this year will be divided into two divisions, the "A" and "B" sections.

Games played last Monday night in the "A" division were between the Kappas and the APO, the Zetas and KTX, and the Pi Taus and Joy Boys.

"B" Loop Schedule

In the "B" division the contests matched Freshmen South and the Pi Tau "B" team, Freshmen North and the Rebels, and the Kappa "B" team and the Boo Hissers.

Coach Bobby Hicks is league director again this year, and the games will be refereed by neutral players.

Last year in the league competition the Pi Taus took the honors with a record of ten victories and no defeats. Runnersup in last year's standings were the Kappas. The championship was won when the Pi Taus stopped the Kappas in the final contest, 43-34.

Growing Movement

With the announcement last week by Robert A. Hall, Yale athletic director, that the Eli football team will forego spring practice next year, many New England colleges have followed suit and also given up out-of-season rehearsals.

This action seems to be a continuation of the growing movement to get collegiate athletics back on an even keel after a period of instability. It is hoped that future action along these lines will bring about more reforms.

Another development last week in the drive to clean up football was the announcement by Drake University that they were dropping out of the Missouri Valley Conference. This decision came after the conference members refused to take disciplinary measures against Oklahoma A. & M. for the slugging of halfback Johnny Bright.

Albright Tries For Third Win Over Military

Soldiers Boast Close Victory Over Upsala

Playing their first home game of the season, the Albright basketball team will take on the Fort Dix, N. J. quintet at Northwest Junior High at 8:30 tomorrow night. The soldiers are riding high after last week's 54-52 victory over Upsala College of East Orange, New Jersey.

Not since 1945 have the Lions played a service team. The U. S. Coast Guards of Philadelphia proved to be too tough for the Red and White in the opening game of the 1945-46 season as they nipped them 41-35. Bill Landis was high with 11 points, followed by Bernie Lillis with ten. The Coast Guard, led by Weiner's 16 points, ruined the Lions with set shots. Back in 1943, Albright opened up with a 40-32 victory over the U. S. Marines led by big John Durko and Tony Stish.

Coast Guard Defeated

Again in 1944 the Lions' first victim was the Coast Guards by the score of 51-38. Landis was again high with 19 points.

Albright's record against service competition thus stands at two victories against one defeat. The Dix boys are expected to bring with them talent which has had experience in either high school or college. Their roster numbers ten players.

Prior to the varsity game tomorrow night, Bobby Hick's junior varsity will tangle with Sammy's Luncheonette at 7:00. The Baby Lions will play preliminary games to all varsity contests except the New York Athletic Club and Wagner games.

Doctor Scores Is Tops In Faculty Bowling

In faculty bowling competition on November 28, the professors made the following scores: Dr. Dwight Scoles, 170-165, for a 167.5 average; Dr. Gerrit Memming, 175-182, for a 153.5 average; Prof. D. S. Gates, 118-108, for an average of 113; and J. Howard Wid-d-watson, 104-121, for an average of 112.5. The total average for the day was 136.5.

Girl Basketeers Faced With Tough Seven-Game Schedule

Intra-Mural Contest Ends in 0-0 Tie

The final intramural game of all hockey classes was held last Friday, November 30. An all-star team was chosen to play an all-senior team.

Girls chosen for the all-star team included Thelma Arnold, Cynthia Dedekind, Sarah Aicher, Leda Pas-gens and Ann Stalenecker, all freshmen. Sophomores were Lois Stockinger, Lois Hiltz, Shirley Slivka, Norma Jean Snow, Margaret Israel, Evelyn James, Miriam Worley, Carol Charlton and Mary Ellen Greth. Juniors playing were Annetta Deussen, Patricia Kennedy, Nancy Loose, Joann Hassler, Evelyn Hinkle and Bernadette Kaluzny. Team work and ability of both teams was such that the final outcome of the game was a 0-0 tie.

Play Alumnae

With the opening of the basketball season yesterday afternoon, the winter schedule was announced

Leads Hoopsters

Captain Gerry Potts, 6' 5" forward, who will be floor leader of Albright's 1951-1952 basketball team. The big Shillington product is the only three-letter man on the campus. He is an end during the football season and a weight man on Coach Gene Shirk's track squad. Although he does not play baseball at Albright, he is a pitcher for the Shillington Red Sox during the summer months. He, along with Connie Dettling, is expected to carry the scoring load for the Gulianmen this season.

G-Burg Opens Against Lions

Series With Bullets To Resume Wednesday

On Wednesday of next week Coach Gulian's basketeers will travel to Gettysburg to meet Hen Bream's basketball Bullets.

Already victors over Ursinus in a double-header played at York Junior College, Gettysburg will be opening their home season against Albright. An overflow crowd is expected to pack the campus gymnasium for the contest.

The Albright-Gettysburg series continues after a lapse of one year. The last game between the two rivals took place in 1949 with the Bullets losing out to the Lions by three points at Northwest. This was the last season of play for Eddie Anlian, all-time Albright scoring ace.

Have Height Edge

Albright will have a height advantage over the Bullets for this contest, but the Battlefields are expected to rely on a fast-breaking type of offense to sweep the Red and White off their feet. This was the kind of play which resulted in the overwhelming victory over Ursinus.

The starting line-up for Albright for this game will be the same as in the previous two games. At forwards will be Connie Dettling and George Amole, at center captain Gerry Potts, and at guards Lefty Leitham and Bunny Whitman.

Lion Cubs Begin Home Campaign; Meet Sammy's

Coach Bobby Hicks' junior varsity basketball boys have been working out daily and have scrimmaged the Reading Merchants and the Kappas.

Among those now working out are 6' 5" Jack Lewis, a transfer from Penn State; Bob Dey, a transfer from Rutgers; Jim Barrett, a letterman, John Ruesing and Ken Hughes, both freshmen. Also lettermen Bernie Green and Al Schlegel, and freshmen George Cramer, Herb Stone, and Fred Hess are participating in the daily drills.

Hicks Refuses Comment

Hicks refused to comment on the team's chances since he is not entirely sure of his starting five.

Zetas Capture Football Trophy

The football championship this year of the intra-mural football league went to the Zetas, who won both halves of the league competition. The trophy was presented to them last week.

Kappas Runnerup

Their final victory was over the Kappas, who were the runnersup in the competition. Some of the victories in the second half of the league play included those registered by the A. P. O. over the KTX and the Zetas over the Kappas.

Girl Basketeers Faced With Tough Seven-Game Schedule

By Mrs. Eva Mosser. The Albright Lionesses will be playing the Alumnae, Ursinus College, Drexel University, Temple University, Millersville College, Immaculata College and Lebanon Valley College and take part in a play-day at Kutztown.

Manager of the girls' team this year will be Evelyn Kressler, '53. Captains of the team are Dolores Bedding and Barbara Pomroy, '52.

Freshmen Added

With the addition of many new freshmen hopefuls and the help of experienced players, the Albright team is looking forward to a successful season. Coach Mosser is hoping for the return of many of last year's veterans. Some of them are Barbara Pomroy, Dolores Bedding, Helen Hasselgren, Patricia Miller, Patricia Kennedy, Judy Leimbach, Jean Hook, Carole Althouse, Carol Neuwiesinger, Martha Little, Elinor Williams, Dorothy Ann Doughten, June Dreyer, Dorothy Kuettel and Phyllis Gruber.

Current Tides

The blame for delay, the Europeans say, must rest with the British, who refuse to join such projects as the Schuman plan. The Europeans, say the British, are looking at the situation unrealistically; we of Britain are inextricably bound not so much with Europe as with the nations of the British Commonwealth, and we are accordingly limited in the degree to which we can participate in a European federation.

There is much to be said for the British position. Britain has historically stood somewhat aloof from the continent, and her ties with the Commonwealth cannot be laughed away. The wisest solution would probably be for the nations of western Europe to form a federation without Britain, a federation which could then stand with the Commonwealth and the United States as an equal partner in the Atlantic community. What shape such a federation should take we shall discuss in a later article.

For the present, however, it should be noted that forming even such a union would demand British cooperation along the way, and thus far, as the Europeans point out, Britain has been a hindrance rather than a help. In part this was due to the rather myopic foreign outlook of the Labor party. Winston Churchill, on the other hand, has since the war been a staunch advocate of western union; he was among the founders of the Council of Europe.

The most hopeful thing about the conservative return to power in Britain, some have suggested, is that now at last the reins in London are held by a statesman who possesses the grasp and imagination necessary to guide Europe toward the union she needs. Churchill's career would be monumental indeed if now he should crown it by steering Europe toward that union, by fulfilling the final Grand Design.

'Silver Whistle' Praised As Outstanding Entertainment

Stinson, Innis, Frantz, Seems Star in Comedy

If any additional proof was needed that the combination of the Domino Club's acting, Mrs. Annadora V. Shirks' directing and a top-notch play would result in an evening of outstanding entertainment, that proof was furnished last week by the club's fall production, "The Silver Whistle."

From our standpoint, it was one of the best Domino performances in several years—and that judgment is meant more to spotlight the quality of "The Silver Whistle" than to detract from the plays in former years. From the choice of the cast to the technical details of the stage setting and the conduct of "Omar," the rooster, everything was just about perfect.

Stinson Stars

There is little question that the chief acting laurels must go to Richard Stinson, who as Oliver Erwerter, fast talking hobo philosopher, gave memorable expression to the immortal words of Omar Khayyam, 12th century Persian seer and poet. The role which Stinson charmed his audience is considered a peerless opportunity in thespian circles.

Other stars in "The Silver Whistle" were Annjeannette Innis, nurse in charge of the old folks' home which provided the setting for the play; Dean Frantz, Erwerter's skeptical pal; and Virginia Seems, cynical, sharp-tongued guest in the home.

Miss Innis Proves Charming

Miss Innis proved particularly charming as she brought the only touch of youth to the play, which tells the story of the rejuvenation of the guests at the home. It is to be hoped that she will appear in many more Domino productions before graduating in 1954.

An unusual twist was presented by Frantz, who was seen only with his head and shoulders projecting above the garden wall.

Omar Crows at Wrong Time

It is extremely difficult to single out anything in "The Silver Whistle" for criticism. We must note, however, the humorous touch added by "Omar" in the third act of the dress rehearsal for high school students, when he crowed 19 times. To prevent a repetition of that situation, the rooster was fed grain and apples during the rest of the performances.

"The Silver Whistle" will be repeated tonight for the benefit of the college women's auxiliary, and tomorrow night for the College Club of Reading. Curtain time is 8:15.—W.A.H.

Faculty Committee

Many Cue Fees Still Uncollected

The Cue has already collected about $200 in fees from campus organizations, Richard Witmoyer, business manager, announced. He added, however, that if publication is to proceed unimpeded, all groups photographed for The Cue should pay their bills as soon as possible.

The business staff is making every effort to avoid having to levy a special assessment on members of the senior class in order to finance The Cue, Witmoyer said.

Anyone wishing to order a copy of The Cue, including students who will want copies in addition to those paid for by their student activity fees, should place their orders with Witmoyer or at the treasurer's office before January 8. Seniors graduating in February must pay $2.50 at the treasurer's office if they wish to receive The Cue.
