"Patrick" Henry

This is George Henry with his original make-up as an old, half-blind Irishman in the Domino Club production, "The Far-Off Hills."

Domino Debut Goes Off With Proverbial Bang

Gales of laughter swept in the Domino Club's first production of the year, Lennox Robinson's "The Far-Off Hills," on Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

The comedy-farce of Irish folk life was a promising beginning for the dramatic season. We give our was Gayl's first appearance on the portrayal of Susie Tynan was one of the best things we've seen. This was Gayl's first appearance on the Domino stage, but we're looking forward to seeing more of her.

The honors for comedy go to Elden Spangler. As the man with the tombstone manner and "pet" hiccup, he created a most un-funeral amusement. Ada Gossler and George Henry, on whom we can always depend, were outstanding. Ada, as the prim, managing, elder sister, was entirely convincing. She made her sudden change to a really human young woman in the last act seem natural. But then, it would have taken a colder person than Marian to resist Art McKay, whose appearance as Pierce made feminine hearts flutter. Art never seems to act—he is always quite at ease. George Henry's Kelly-green accent and trick make-up caused favorable comment. His very real portrayal of old Patrick Clancy added quite a bit to his fame as a character actor. Jane Buttorff, as Ducky, was completely natural.

The play disclosed some hidden talent with great possibilities. Jerry Ross, as Pet, was vivacious and very young. Ruth Hand added a comic touch as the maid whose love always flies to her teeth. Don Blackmore and Charles Miesse were excellent in their characterization of Oliver and Dick, Patrick's cronies.

A lion's share of the applause was for Robert Work, whose directing genius turned a group of screwy rehearsals into an entertaining play. The property and costume committees are to be congratulated for their fine job. Harry Arnold, as stage manager, deserves very special mention for his lighting effects and quick scenery changes.

Library Exhibit Marks Art Week Observance

Albright's contribution to American Art Week is an exhibit of water colors, oil paintings, and a view in the Memorial Library.

The number of special projects, all on the pieces of art are the work of local artists, many of them former Albright students. The catalogus follows:

A special exhibit includes a collection of pieces of hammered copper by Miss Florence V. Innis, a hammered aluminum tray and a collection of silver jewelry by Dorothy Butler, and two paintings on textiles by Miss Ernestine Elder.

'Y. W.' Head Explains 'Why?' Of Religious Emphasis Week

Next week has been set aside by the college administration and the combined Y's for the observance of the annual Religious Emphasis Week on campus. At such a time many students challenge the advisability of such a week, and many others look passively on. The week comes and goes, and those students have not once considered why such a week is planned.

Listed among the aims and objectives of Albright College is this statement: "The college, as one unit in the student's life-long process of education, aims to inspire and guide him in developing his whole personality." None of us doubts the desirability of a well-rounded, balanced personality.

We take good care of the physical side of our natures—we see that we get enough food and rest, that we're warm enough, that we look just as fine as we can look. The

Dr. Eisenhower Speaks To Student Body

Dr. John Eisenhower, principal of Reading Senior High School, spoke on the "American Plan of Education," in chapel on Monday and Tuesday.

Dr. Eisenhower reviewed the educational system in present day Europe. The European system stresses high centralization of the secondary schools. He said, "The ministry of education is responsible (Continued on Page 2)"

Hold Devotion Week Earlier Than Former Years

Religious Emphasis Week, usually a feature of the spring semester at Albright College, has been moved up two seasons this year and will be celebrated next week.

An outstanding leader in the church youth movement, the Rev. Maurice L. Haehlen, of Naperville, Ill., will be on campus to address faculty members and students several times daily from the beginning of the week through Thursday.

The Rev. Mr. Haehlen, a graduate of Western Union College, Le Mars, Iowa, the alma mater of Albright's president, Dr. Harry V. Masters, will conduct meetings at 10 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. In addition, cooperating with the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A., he will meet many informal gatherings of both students and faculty throughout the week.

The Rev. Mr. Haehlen received a diploma from the Evangelical Theological Seminary in Naperville, and holds a master's degree from Northwestern. He is pastor of Grace Evangelical Church in Naperville.

Profs. Named To Pa. "Who's Who"

Ten members of the Albright faculty are included in the recently printed "Who's Who in Pennsylvania."

This volume, issued by the publishers of "Who's Who in America," contains the biographies of prominent men and women throughout the state.

Albright representatives include Professor Graham Cook, Coach William Dietz, Professor John C. Evans, Professor Felix W. Gingrich, Dr. Milton Hamilton, Dr. Clarence Horn, Dr. J. W. Klein, president emeritus; President Dr. Harry V. Masters, Dr. Gerrit Memming, and Dean George W. Walton.

Professors from the School of Theology included in the volume are Dr. Raymond W. Albright, Dean Albert H. Kratz, Dr. Charles A. Mock, Dr. Michael Ritzman.

Alchemists To Hear Alumnus

Kenneth Betz, class of '39, will speak to the Alchemist Club at its December meeting. That announcement was made at a meeting held on Tuesday evening in the Science Lecture Hall.

George Hurley, a member of the club, presented an interesting talk on hydroponics, or soilless growth of plants. Most of the material for his talk was the result of experiments he is carrying on at his home.

William Brandenburg and Marshall Popelka were named to an executive committee planning for a convention to be held at the college in spring. Martin Epstein, president of the club, presided.

HELL WEEK

"Hell Week" is certainly the name for it! The frosh girls are straggling around campus looking like poor martyred souls who don't know what sins they have committed, and I'd swear that the sophomores are growing horns and tails. It must be a great deal of fun to think up such horrible antics for other people to perform.

I wonder who gave this year's sophomore girls the idea that they are the most important people on campus? They seem to have forgotten the fact that they were freshmen last year, and that they were treated fairly well in connection with customs! Instead of being looked up to, by upper classmen and freshmen, they have made themselves thoroughly disliked and have incurred the antagonism of many students.

I hesitate to use such words in connection with all the soph girls; one or two are gaining a bad name for the entire class. It's too bad those girls can't wake up to that fact, even though it is too late to remedy the damage they've done. Perhaps they haven't considered that the "cute" little stunts they've prescribed will cause a reflection upon Albright as a whole!

I suggest a sophomore tribunal for the wayward members of the same class—perhaps that would take some of the snobbishness out of them. I also suggest that next week be "kindness to freshmen" week, with burning in oil as a penalty for the sophs who don't observe it!

Jeanette Snyder.

COLLEGE SWING BAND READY FOR ACTION

With Ben Funk as director and Charles Hollenbach as business manager, the "Albright Collegians" are ready to swing out in the smooth manner of Sammy Kaye.

Organized only two weeks ago, the "Collegians" have been rehearsing twice a week in the chapel at 4:30 in the afternoon. Tentative plans are carried out, the band will play for the dance in the dining hall this evening.

The personnel of the orchestra includes Paul Di Blasi and Bob Klein on the alto sax, and Alois Makovsky on the tenor sax. The trumpet trio is made up of Ben Funk, Charles Hollenbach, and Dick Walton. Albert (Eddy Duchin) Falcone takes care of the piano while the drummer is Dwight Dundore.

The "Dolly Dawn" is pretty Gayl Harris, a sophomore. The orchestra also intends to add a few new instruments in the near future.

The Snooper

By ANNE ONYMOUS

Have you noticed that some of the girls on campus seem to like the "Brand" of freshmen boys this year?

Is it conceit or humility

Bill Hostetter was asked a question in English class and replied: "Do you mean for me or the average person?"

A certain transfer in the dorm certainly believes in the psychology of "An Apple for the Teacher!"

Shame on you, George Henry, for scaring the poor little A. P. O.'s. They didn't know you had just come back from the "Far Off Hills!"

Sam Moyer doesn't like our cheering; he drowns us out every time we cheer. And then he's obstinate, and won't play when the stands are quiet. Isn't that just like a Pennsylvania Dutchman?

Mary Lauer finally broke into the scoring column. She was playing golf with Zeb and made the hole in one.

The Girls' Glee Club was interrupted one day by one of its members entering late from gym class, terribly out of breath.

"Take it easy," said Prof. Duddy. "Your breath is coming in short pants."

She, misunderstanding, replied, "Oh, but I have a dress on!"

"Mephistopheles" Bitler has been raising hell with the freshmen this week. We can suggest other ways of becoming popular

Byrdie! seems to have quite a liking for pussy 'Katz'

We got all dressed up to go to the Zeta dance, and saw:

Greiss drinking "fruit" punch instead of that foamy golden beverage

Janet, "horning" in on "The Lady in Red"

Toots Oh Jackson abdicated in favor of the home town girl, and was Ginny mad when she didn't show up

Bertino with a gorgeous Reading amazon

Mary Jane Koch dancing the two-time with Norm Jowitz, by special permission of Clem

Jimmy Breen being snatched from the cradle by a Vassarite, while Coach Horn was teaching her friend how to catch forward passes while the girls in the dorm were keeping the home fires burning!

We think the next sign the freshmen boys wear should be "Beat the Rap!"

Ask Jim Pomeroy what "Hood" has that Albright doesn't?

Reed Tietsworth, not satisfied with twirling the baton, is seriously thinking of taking up the accordion.

Question in the Daymen's Club: What is that "Black" menace?

Ted Lunine is being voted the best jitterbug on the campus. Seeing is believing.

Overheard—Clem Boland approving of the statement that Sally W. is all right.

Zieber Stetler trying to tell the day students that he never drinks anything stronger than ginger ale.

"MEN FROM BAGHDAD" ADDRESS I. R. C. ON NEAR EAST

The International Relations Club held its third meeting of the year on Thursday, November 2, at 8 p. m. The faculty room was packed with a record turnout, largely composed of ladies, who come to hear three young men from Baghdad, now students at F. & M., speak on "Conditions in the Near East." The three Iraqi were Fuad Dand, Naji Cohen, and Abdul Salman.

The speakers addressed the group in a very interesting and informal manner. Fuad Dand, who spoke first presented the historical background, and strategic importance of Iraqi, and mentioned its present educational system, and the western influence that has come in since the World War. As evidence of the latter, he cited the introduction of the sandwich.

He then introduced Mr. Cohen, who spoke on the political and economic situation in their country and nearby lands, and emphasized the interests and aims of the great powers in Iraq, and Iraq's problems as an ancient country, but and infant nation, emerging from the yoke of the old pre-war Turkish Empire. The third speaker, Abdul Salman, an F. & M. frosh, maintained a discreet freshman silence. After his companions had briefly presented the historical, political, and economic aspects of the Near East, they solicited questions from the group, and were kept busy for the next hour answering a barrage of general questions.

Pats, Mu's Dine At Barbara Ann

Pi Alpha Tau Sorority held its second rush party in the form of a dinner at the Barbara Ann Tea Room on Friday, November 3. Following the dinner, members and their guests were entertained with fortune telling by Lida Faist, Marie DeSuk, and Betty Dietz.

Guests present were: Mary Jane Koch, Virginia Black, Mary Lou Houck, Lucetta Eckert, Marion Hora, Joan Belmont, Mary Elizabeth Baker, Mary Heckman, Sally Weaver, Helen Hain, Miriam Weidner, Geraldine Ross, Janet Leinbach, Margaret Gosch, Mary Bradley, Marie Kauffman, and Peggy Thompson, and faculty advisers, Miss Ruth Shaffer and Miss Florence Innis.

Mu's Hold Dinner

The Phi Beta Mu Sorority held a dinner party at the Barbara Ann Tea Room on Monday, November 6.

The guests present were: Miss Norton, Aoss Fenili, Miss Elder, Lucille Wolfe, Jane Spatz, Irene Snyder, Sally Weaver, Miriam Weidner, Mary Heckman, Marion Hora, Koen Hain, Marie Kauffman, Elizabeth Wolfe, Ruth Hand, Mary Jane Houck, Christine Hartman, June Spohn, Peggy Thompson, Mary Ammarell, Virginia Black, Mary Bradley, Mary Houck, Betty Miller, and Miriam Hershey.

Pi Gamma Mu's Meet

Pi Gamma Mu held its November meeting on Wednesday afternoon at Professor Hamilton's home. The feature of the program was a talk on "Americanization," by Miss Caroline Reedy, superintendent of Americanization in Berks County. The president, Paul Golis, presided.

for the progress of the system, he added.

It is significant that one out of every four people in the United States is acquiring education of some degree from colleges, universities, secondary schools and extension schools, the high school principal said.

Around the World with Words

By ART MCKAY

Now that the repeal of the arms embargo and the adoption of the Pittman-sponsored legislation are done, we may lift our heads above the storm of propaganda and see what we have formulated in the field of neutrality legislation. Our new cash and carry basis for trade with belligerents does protect us from "incidents." It does prohibit, at the President's discretion, American citizens and vessels from entering areas defined by the President as areas of combat. But, it gives no protection against World War financial policies.

If war supplies are purchased in this country, American industries will be expanded to meet the demand. The economic system will be keyed into the war situation. When payments can no longer be made in cash, we shall be compelled to let our industries collapse or to supply goods on credit. When credit is exhausted, the alternative to industrial collapse will be loans. When those to whom we have supplied loans and munitions are threatened with defeat, the alternative to "panic" will be war!

Neutrality legislation embodying an absolute arms embargo and a cash and carry policy on other goods within the confines of a peacetime quota seems to be, by any token, the safest and sanest policy for our government to adopt. It meets head-on the economic, political and moral problems which have arisen from the conflict we are facing and offers an adequate solution. Perhaps that's why we haven't used it!

A. P. O.'s To Dance At Berkshire Hotel

The A. P. O. Fraternity will hold its fall dance in the Berkshire Hotel, on December 16, it was announced yesterday by the social committee, Marshall Popelka, Ted Soja, Robert Kline and Albert Falcone.

Sunday morning, members of the fraternity will observe the first day of Religious Emphasis Week by attending the Alsace Reformed Church where the Rev. Mr. Mengel, an A. P. O. alumnus, will have charge of services.

ALUMNI ATTEND ZETA FALL DANCE

The Zeta Fraternity dance held last Saturday in the Iris Club. It was financially and otherwise.

Dancing to the rhythms of Jack Kenney and his band, undergraduates and a surprisingly large number of alumni attended the fall event.

The Lions Den

When the smoke of battle had cleared away last Saturday, most of the people who witnessed the game were wondering what would have happened if West Chester had played the same inspired football throughout the entire game as they did in the second half.

By the end of the first half, even though they did score on a long pass, West Chester appeared to be in for a very bad afternoon and things looked easy for the Albright Lions. The whole complex of the game changed, however, when the West Chesterites came back in the third and fourth quarters with a passing attack that had our defense very much bewildered. Our hats are off to an opponent, who, though perhaps not the best, was certainly the scrappiest team we've met so far this year.

From mail reports, the frosh game at West Chester was a mighty close contest. A 7-6 score such as this one is a good example of the value of that extra point. So far, the Albright varsity hasn't made many points after touchdowns; so let's hope that we do not have any games in which the outcome will be decided by a single point.

Well, next Saturday the Lion Cubs play the baby Owls from Temple University on our home field. At last the students and boosters of Albright will get a chance to see the yearlings in action. A win over the Temple frosh will be a feather in the helmets of our squad because Albright hasn't won a football game, either varsity or frosh, from Temple University since 1928 when the Lions trounced the Owls 10-7.

Tomorrow, the Albright Lions will be playing Dickinson College at Carlisle. As almost everyone knows, this is the home of the Carlisle Indians where Coach Dietz played and coached a number of years ago. It is the first time that Lone Star has taken a team of his into Carlisle and naturally he is hoping the Lions will make a fine showing.

In spite of the fact that Albright hasn't won a varsity football game away from home since the season of 1937, we are of the opinion that he won't be disappointed.

Dr. Colwell On Campus Today

Speaking twice this morning, at 10 a. m. and at 11:30 a. m., Dr. Ernest C. Colwell, dean of the Divinity School of the University of Chicago, is Albright College's honored guest for the day.

Dr. Colwell will be feted at a tea in the college Memorial Library at 3:30 this afternoon.

Pi Tau's Lead Inter-Frat Loop; Cop First Half

The Pi Tau inter-frat football league aggregation, winners of the first half of competition, are also on top of the second canto of the season's schedule.

By virtue of their win over the Frosh Dorm, a forfeit by the Day Students and a tie with the Zeta's, the Pi Tau's are duplicating their first-half performance. In addition to these three games, one other match, on the card, Zeta's vs. Day Students, ended in a 6-6 victory for the Zeta's.

The Phi Tau Beta fraternity topped the first round intra-fraternity touch football title by defeating the second floor theology building boys, 6-0.

In the dying minutes of the last quarter, a long pass by Weslager, of the Pi Tau's, partially blocked by Salup and Swett of the Theolog's, bounced into the outstretched arms of Hain who was standing in the pay-dirt.

This score did not discourage the Theologers for before the Pie Taus realized it, their goal was being threatened. Two beautiful passes from Salup to Swett placed the ball on the Pi Tau thirty-yard stripe. On the next play, which was the last long one to Swett who jumped in play of the game, Salup heaved a the air for it and in so doing caught it out of bounds. This ended the game with the score remaining 6-0 in favor of the Pi Taus.

Week—to provide a break in our academic activity in which we may become conscious of regions that underline our logic and thinking. It should make us aware of the fact that this side of us needs to be recognized and developed, too, if we are to have a well-rounded personality. It aims to make the realization of this so vital to the students that they will try to develop their whole personalities, not only during Religious Emphasis Week, but always.

Lions Visit Coach Dietz's Former Stamping Grounds For Grid Tangle Tomorrow

SPORT SHOTS

By CARL MOGEL

Walter Zuke, varsity end on the undefeated Albright 1937 team, is playing pro ball with the Norristown team, a member of the Eastern Pennsylvania Professional League. The squad, composed of such outstanding stars as Sam Roeder, of Franklin and Marshall, Dick John, of Princeton, Dick Nye and Al Bruno, of West Chester, has emerged victorious three times in five league tangles.

Coach Dietz returns to the scene of his football days tomorrow as he brings his Roaring Lions into Carlisle, where the famous Indian school was located years ago. It was at this institution where the head Albright coach gained his football fame as the blocking back for the immortal Jim Thorpe.

Harry Wilson, Dickinson College center, won the game for the Red Devils last Saturday when he intercepted a Washington College aerial on his own 40 in the last period and sprinted 60 yards for a touchdown to break a 7-7 deadlock. The Albright backs must be on the alert and protect their passes into the feat with such a fine defensive pivot-man as Wilson backing the line.

The Athletics Committee is reported to have put thumbs down on the proposed Albright Frosh-Gabelsville Owls contest which was to have been played on Thanksgiving Day, November 23 at the stadium. Could it be that the committee would find difficulty in explaining a defeat by a sandlot team coached by Truck Yensch who was let out as line coach last year without very much explanation?

Stan Hino, former Albright basketball and assistant football coach, was an interested spectator at the West Chester game last Saturday afternoon. The former Lion football star also saw the Lion Cubs edge out his own West Chester freshman team.

Louis Pearce Wins Albrightian's Guessing Contest

By calling 18 winners in the Albrightian's football guessing contest of last week, Louis Pearce will receive two free tickets for the Muhlenberg game in the stadium on December 2.

Pearce went wrong on the Muhlenberg-Gettysburg and the Michigan-Illinois games. Runners-up were Wash Moholick, who won the first contest, Floras Roupp and Paul Fisher, each with 17 correct. And a close third were six other guessers, with only four wrong choices.

Easiest games for the prognosticators were Albright-West Chester, Ohio State-Indiana, and Pitt-Temple. The hardest games were Illinois-Michigan and Muhlenberg-Gettysburg.

The games for next Saturday listed below, must be placed on the ballot and deposited in the box at the switchboard before Saturday noon, November 18. Tickets will be awarded for the Muhlenberg game. There is still time, too, to enter this week's joust by depositing the ballot of last Friday's issue before tomorrow noon (November 11).

Here are the games: 1—Albright-F, and M.; 2—Army-Penn State; 3—Bucknell-Muhlenberg; 4—Carnegie Tech-Holy Cross; 5—Columbia-Tulane; 6—Cornell-Dartmouth; 7—Colgate-Syracuse; 8—Fordham-St. Mary's; 9—Gettysburg-Ursinus; 10—

Dickinson Scrap At Carlisle Opens 3-Day Road Trip

The highly-gearred, touch-down-conscious Albright Lions begin a three game road trip when they meet the fast-moving Dickinson Red Devils at Carlisle tomorrow afternoon before an expected record Home-Coming crowd.

It will be the fourteenth meeting between the two schools, in a relationship which dates back to 1903; also the first game since 1934. The series standings show that the Dickinson team has won nine games and Albright four.

At least one record will be broken when the game ends tomorrow for the Red Devils have yet to lose on their home field and the Lions have yet to taste victory on foreign terrain. The Kahlermen have won four out of six this season and the Dietzmen three out of five contests.

Tony Wasilewski and Herb Bogar are expected to lead the Dickinson attack which emphasizes the aerial game. Harry Wilson, center, and Raoul Archambault, left tackle are standout defensive stars for the home aggregation.

Albright's attack will again feature the deadly passing combination of Jim Breen and Stan Kuklis, sophomore precision. Long gains on the passes, however, must be credited to excellent downfield blocking on the part of every Lion, especially Gus Cohen, Jim Snyder, and Ray Thorpe.

The only change in the lineup which has been kept intact by Coach Dietz for the past two games will be at the guard position. Al Gustitus has fully recovered from an ankle injury and will replace Vince Rosbosin who was injured in the West Chester game.

The starting lineups:—

Albright	Dickinson
Popelka	FE	Supsulski
Thorpe	LT	Archambault
Cohen	LG	Jones
McCarran	L	Wilson
Wielgolinski	CG	Weimer
Gustitus	RT	Elicker

Theology Students Attend Convention

Lewis Briner and Donald McFall, students of the School of Theology, were delegates to the conference of the Inter-Seminary Movement of the Middle Atlantic Region, which was held November 2, 4, at Drew Theological Seminary, in New Jersey.

At the conference such authorities in religion as A. J. Muste, F. E. Johnson, William Adams Brown, and Bishop Ludlow were leaders.

Another delegate from Reading, the Rev. Mr. Hewlett, pastor of the Washington Street Presbyterian Church, was elected vice-president of the sectional movement. To seminary students the inter-seminary movement corresponds to the student Christian movement for college student.

Indiana-Michigan State; 11—Lebanon Valley-Juniata; 12—Lehigh-Delaware; 13—Minnesota-Iowa; 14—N. Y. U.-Georgetown; 15—Northwestern-Notre Dame; 16—Ohio State-Illinois; 17—U. of P. Michigan; 18—Princeton-Yale; 19—Temple-Villanova; 20—West Chester-P. M. C.

History Majors Publish Works

Bernard Levin, '35, state editor of manuscripts for the Pennsylvania Historical Records Survey, has just produced a printed manual, "Guide to Depositories of Manuscript Collections in Pennsylvania," issued by the Pennsylvania Historical Commission.

Mr. Levin was a major in history at Albright, and began his training in research in Dr. Hamilton's research course. He continued his work in history as a graduate student at the University of Pennsylvania, and has been granted a scholarship by that institution to continue work for his doctorate. The new "Guide," which has distributed to members of the Pennsylvania Historical Association at Lehigh University October 27-28, will be an invaluable aid to researchers in Pennsylvania history. The collections of the Albright College Library, the Museum of the Evangelical Semol of Theology, and the Historical Society of Berks County are among those listed.

Another history major to win players figured heavily in the distinction is Marshall Selikoff, '39, whose thesis, "The Editorial Policies of George Getz," is published in the October number of the Historical Review of Berks County.

Buckwalter Heads Chest Committee

Professor Henry G. Buckwalter, head of the economics department, will lead a team in the local Community Chest campaign now getting under way.

Aiding Professor Buckwalter will be William "Lone Star" Dietz, Neal O. Harris, Dr. John C. Evans, Prof. Paul Speicher, H. L. Breininger, Dr. Graham Cook and Prof. L. E. Smith. Professor Buckwalter is also a member of the chest's speakers bureau.
