ALBRIGHT TO BE HOST TO FIRST MEETING OF STUDENT VOLUNTEER UNIONS; EXPECT 150 DELEGATES

Colleges in Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey To Send Representatives to Convention Here; Is Continuation of Student Volunteer Movement's Buffalo Conference; Will Feature Round-Tables.

Y.M., Y.W.C.A.'s ARE HOSTS

Many Prominent Speakers Obtained for Sessions; Theme Is Similar to Earlier Convention

Delegates from colleges throughout Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey will gather at Albright during February to continue the work and renew the friendships of the Buffalo convention of the Student Volunteer Movement.

This convention is the first of what are to be known as The Amalgamated Conventions of the Student Volunteer Unions. It will be held at Albright College from February twelfth to the fourteenth. The delegates to the number of 150 are expected from all colleges in Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey which sent delegates to the Buffalo convention held during the Christmas recess.

Other Clubs to Aid

The idea of acting as hosts to an affair of this nature has been close to the hearts of the leaders of The Campus, Y. M. and Y. W. C. A.'s for some time. The realization of the dream is being carried out, we are told, in connection with the University of Pennsylvania. The other religious organizations on the campus such as the Bible Class and the School of Theology while they will have no formal part in the invitation of the delegates, will aid greatly in their entertainment and in making the affair the success its sponsors hope it will be.

Conference Theme

The Theme of the discussions will be much the same as that of Buffalo: "The Living Christ in the World Today." Round-table talks will supplement the discussions. Many of the speakers who were so important to the larger convention have been obtained for this one. The list of speakers will include the following noted men: Dr. Oscar M. Buck, the first speaker at the Buffalo Convention; Dr. Paul Harrison of Arabia; Rev. William Miller of Persia; Rev. Lenard Allen, Professor at Cairo, American University; Rev. Dr. Noss of Japan; Rev. I. E. Oberholzer of China; Rev. Paul Moore of Africa, and Dr. Albert Bowles of The Peace Movement.

A number of Albrightians will do much to make the thing go over. The committees under the direction of Lydia Schober and Paul Gottschalk, Presidents of the Y. W. and Y. M. C. A.'s are as follows: Registration committee: Harry Paul, Lydia Schober, Paul Van Es, Russel Bonney. Entertainment committee: Arthur Weiss, Lester Stabler, Peter Foltz, William Basom, Richard Wiley.

GERMAN CLUB FORMED

A meeting of the Deutsch Gruppe was called on the fifth of January at one o'clock. At this meeting Prof. Von Aesch presented a German book of songs to the club. The dues of the club were set at fifteen cents per member. A time for meetings was discussed but no definite date was set. Betty Rimelpacher was elected secretary and programs for the club were discussed.

First Play-offs in Inter-Frat League Verify, Upset Dope

Greek Loopers Stage Hot Contests Before Capacity Crowds in League Openers

The inter-fraternity basketball season opened on Tuesday with a spirited game between the Zetas and the A. P. O. fraternity that thrilled a capacity crowd.

The A. P. O.'s managed to grab off a victory 33-30 but not until three extra periods had been hotly contested. Jeff Snader was the high scorer with five buckets and four foul shots also dropping the winning basket. Sturgenecker played a bang-up game for the Zetas running up a total of twelve points against the opponents.

In the second contest of the evening the Lions had little difficulty humbling the Kappas 22-11. Hino and Orr of the Lions made a strong combination at forward. The Kappas fouls proved costly, the Lions scoring six fouls to one for the Kappas.

On Thursday the Beta Delta Sigma fraternity was thoroughly outclassed by the Pi Tau Betas. Carvell and Gunther led the attack and rolled up the huge score of 52 to six. The playing of Gunther reminded many of the days at Myerstown when he starred on the Albright varsity.

Dr. McCruaig Tells Chapel-Goers "How To Build for Life"

Lecturer Is Noted Author; Is Authority on Eugenics and Human Relations

Dr. J. Espinall McCruaig of New York City; University lecturer on Eugenics and an outstanding authority on the application of Morality to the common-place relationship of life.

Dr. McCruaig is the head of Higher Eugenics Foundations and also offers a course in "Studying of Human Relationships." The course dealing biologically, sociologically, historically, legally and religiously with the foundation concerning human life involving Mateship, Marriage and Progeny.

This system of study of research in Eugenics has been applied to the vital interests in both men and women, involving sex attraction, courtship, love and marriage, and offspring.

Dr. McCruaig is giving a series of lectures in Reading in the First Baptist Church. The afternoon lectures for women on the subject of "Child Bearing," and evening lecture for both men and women on "Mateship," "Courtship," and "Marriage."

On Monday morning in chapel Dr. McCruaig spoke on the theme of living a life to help others. How to build a foundation in life that will live on forever.

Dean Kratz Gives Series of Vesper Addresses on Work

Feeling of Social Responsibility Plainly Evident on Campus; Series Well Attended

An effort to vitalize the Vesper services on this campus is being made by the theology school. Dean Roger Kratz is the featured speaker in this movement. He is to deliver a series of lectures on the stimulating topic of "Human Values Produced By The World's Work." This is very evidently in sympathy with the feeling of responsibility so evident on this and other American Campuses recently regarding the present economic crises in which the world finds itself.

Two of these challenging talks have already been delivered. On January tenth the Dean spoke on the topic, "What is the Chief End of Work?" On January seventeenth he elaborated the question: "Can Industrial Society Satisfy the Worker's Instinct of Workmanship?" There were other interesting features at each of the Sunday evening meetings.

Two more in the series are yet to be heard. On the dates, January twenty-fourth and the seventh of next month the topics are announced as, "Of what social value is the work of various workers?" and "Creative and predatory work."

The meetings are from 5.00 to 6.00 p. m. every Sunday evening. So challenging a series by one of Dean Kratz's qualifications merits the attention of every Albrightian.

DOCTOR TEEL SPEAKS AT PERKIOMEN SCHOOL

Doctor Teel recently visited the Perkiomen school where he delivered an address to the students and faculty of that institution. Perkiomen is the alma mater of a great many of our present undergraduates, among them some of the most successful of the Lion athletes.

The address was of a religious nature and concerned religious education. The Doctor spoke on Sunday evening, January seventeenth. He reported that his visit to the school was a most pleasant one.

Social Relations Institute Staged By Theologs Here

The Place of the Church in the Social Crises of the Present Day Discussed Is by Economists and Divines

The Institute of Social Relations held in the Evangelical School of Theology on January 12th has added much to the contributions which the School of Theology has been making in the past. Such conferences have aided in developing the Evangelical ministry of the present day.

The lecturers of the Institute were: Dr. Jerome Davis, Associate Professor of Practical Philanthropy at Yale Divinity School, Dr. George W. Taylor, Research Professor at the University of Pennsylvania and also professor at Albright College, and Dean Roger Kratz, Professor in Homiletics and Sociology at The Evangelical School of Theology.

In the morning session, Dr. Davis spoke on the theme "Profit Sharing and Ethical Evaluation." "Profit" stated the speaker, "is not interest on investment, but virtually getting something for nothing." The profit motivation acts as a spur to the wrong kind of thing, and destroys the higher values. It acts on the same principle as Gresham's law, bad motives drag down the good. The subject of his afternoon address was, "What Christianity Can Learn from New Social Philosophies."

Dr. George Taylor lectured on "Wages and Human Well Being." The two principal divisions in this address were, the Wage Contract and the Security of the Worker Under the Labor Contract. A very unbiased opinion was represented in this discussion. "Labor is not a commodity," declared Dr. Taylor, "but still its wage is determined as any other commodity."

Dean Kratz, the first speaker of the afternoon, addressed the audience on "The Place of the Church in Social Progress." The conclusions of the speaker were that the church is a great Socializing Institution and its primary task is the equalization and promoting of the higher values of life.

Fraternity Leads First Meeting in Y. M. Series Tues.

Leaders Gratified with Large Attendance at First Fraternity Led Meeting of Association

The Beta Delta Sigma fraternity led the Y. M. C. A. on Tuesday evening to a renewal of interest in one of the best meetings of this kind ever held on our campus.

The subject of the evening was "Faith." Horace Wolbert presided and gave an excellent talk showing some examples of faith given in the Bible. Lisle Bartholomew and Raymond Sheetz told briefly how campus life can be made better by a greater faith between students, faculty and fraternities. Robert Castetter gave a reading: "The Stylish Church."

Every Tuesday evening, immediately after dinner, some fraternity will lead the Y. M. C. A. meeting which will be held in the chapel.

Foreign Relations Group Hears Rabbi Regner on Court

History and Functions of World Court Described at Meeting of Club; Next Meeting to be Devoted to Russia

The International Relations Club held its regular fortnightly meeting on Tuesday evening, January 12. The speaker of the evening was Rabbi Regner, who spoke to the club on the "World Court."

Rabbi Regner explained the beginning of the Court and its functions. He told the relation between the League and the Court and also United States relation to the Court.

At the present time fifty-five nations are members of the Court and only eight nations do not belong to it.

The President and the Senate in 1926 expressed a desire to belong to Court, but they extended five reservations. All of these have been accepted with the exception of one and this reservation will be accepted under certain procedure.

Senator Borah is going to bring the matter before the present session of Congress and it is hoped that the United States will accept membership in the Court.

The next meeting of the Club will be January 26. Attorney Richardson will speak on "Russia."

Reports That Youth Drink More Now Are Branded as Slander

Canadian Correspondent Tells Chapel Group Beer Would Increase Demand for Liquor

The Canadian systems of liquor control are far from being as successful as the "wet" metropolitan press would have us believe, according to Mr. Ben H. Spence, native Canadian and at present newspaper correspondent in Washington, who addressed the chapel service Thursday morning under the auspices of the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association.

There are, Mr. Spence said, nine different systems of liquor control in Canada, each province having its own method of dealing with the problem. Only one province, Prince Edward Island, has prohibition, while all the others have some form of government control. He presented Canadian government statistics showing that since introduction of these systems such concomitant evils of the liquor traffic as fatal automobile and industrial accidents, deaths from alcoholism, and others have increased steadily at an alarming rate.

According to the speaker, the legalizing of beer in the United States would hardly diminish the demand for hard liquor, since the increased consumption of beer in Canada had just the opposite effect there. In fact, he said, were the Canadian systems in effect in this country today, the amount of liquor consumed would be proportionately greater than in the days of license.

Since alcohol is a poison no matter in what small amount it is present, he said, the test of any system of liquor control is the degree of availability which it allows. Judged by this test the American system is far superior to the Canadian, despite the faulty enforcement and observance of the former.

"TO THE PUMPS"

About this time every term the undergraduate "feels the pressure." During the half year that has flown he has maintained a philosophic indifference often tinged with genial cynicism toward the ponderous masses of facts that have been pushed over on him. Indeed this attitude is vital if he is to keep his sanity. But the exam schedule staring at him with a fishy eye, reminds him once more that he is the creature of an inexorable system. Aside with carefree attitudes—he gets down the books and crams.

This is of course one of the most trying and disagreeable periods in college life, this pre-exam term. Our sympathies are all with the victim. It is our humble opinion also that it is more disagreeable than it need be. For one thing it is unnecessarily crowded. It is naturally a time for reviews in all subjects, yet it is cluttered up with reports, late laboratory and class notes that are to be turned in at term's end, research problems and what not. More often than not the professor helps to mess things up. He has dwalled where he should have hurried or out of enthusiasm for his subject he has led his helpless flock into fields too wide for it. As the end looms up he becomes as nervous as some of his students and piles on the work at an abnormal rate, so that he may reach a predetermined goal.

A suggestion or two is in order. If the prof feels that he can't make the spot at the normal speed of the class term's end is no time to step things up. Reports on a certain number of collateral readings might be assigned to fixed dates thruout the semester. If the report for October fifteenth was not in by that date for example, a failure would be given for the report. Laboratory notes and class notes need not be required at all. It is absurd that a device intended as a personal aid to the student has become itself a matter of formal preparation. If the prof must see them let him call for them after exams. In this way the undergraduate would be protected from his very natural habits of procrastination and the prof would look a lot less harried.

LIVES AND LETTERS

By Rudolf Shook

A novel which I should have mentioned before is Finch's Fortune, the third of Mazo de la Roche's Whiteoaks of Jinla series, and the story of one of the most fascinating members of that fascinating family, young Finch. It is a good, well-told, readable story, interesting even to those who have not read The Whiteoaks of Jinla. There is a delightful quality about the Whiteoaks—a homeliness, a quaint sophistication, and a charm all their own. Finch in this volume, inherits and disposes of his long-awaited legacy, falling in love during the process. His love-story is odd and beautiful and a little sad. There is about this novel a quality which, for lack of a better name, I can only call Englishness. It has that sort of aristocratic poise, fineness of expression and genuine love of sport which we have come to associate with that country. I liked it very much. Incidentally, Forayte Sagas and Jolna series seem as popular today as when they circulated novels on penny instalment sheets each week. I know quite a number of people who discuss the Whiteoaks, as one discusses some fascinating family among one's friends.

Not that Greta Garbo has played (superbly) Mata Hari, whom Marlene Dietrich played anonymously, we have the opportunity of comparing the Garbo with the chief of her imitators. To my mind she comes through the ordeal with flying colors. In the first place there is something about Garbo which Dietrich does not have, and I think it is outwardly visible in her mouth and eyes. I cannot explain what it is, but anyone who compares the eyes of these two actresses will feel the difference in their connotations. As for the eyes, even the most careless of observer can see that the droop of Garbo's lashes is natural, while Dietrich's is imitative. In press photographs, Marlene's eyes are puffy, a condition one cannot help but feel is due to the unnatural half-closing. She is lovely, but one feels she is deliberately trying to appear inscrutable. Her face lacks that alluring suggestiveness of Garbo's. As for their acting, I think anyone will agree that the chief difference is that between natural, while Dietrich's is imitative. Has learned Garbo's facial tricks, but they somehow seem stale when she uses them. Her anonymous Mata Hari is a clever and beautiful woman, Garbo's a fascinatingly human goddess. Garbo's greatest triumph is the fascinating legend that has grown up about her, that she is still the woman of mystery, though all the world knows that she takes a Turkish bath once a week and at least two showers daily, wears size seven (7) shoes, smokes nicotineless cigarettes, hates button-hose, abhors small talk, dentists and stockings, and eats chipped beef three times a week. . . . Whoops! Here I go again! My only consolation for my unrequited adoration is the doubtful one that there are several million other boobs in the same sad state. If I keep this up I'll be a prize candidate for the psychopathic ward.

Bulletin from the pay-half-the-date front.

Entire Faculty Is Entertained at a Delightful Affair

Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Oberlaender, Dr. and Mrs. J. Warren Hosts to Professors and Wives

A delightful social affair was enjoyed by the faculty of Albright, Thursday afternoon and evening.

In the afternoon the faculty was received by Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Oberlaender at their home, Go-Al-Do Manor, Wyomissing Park, and escorted through the private museum recently opened on the Oberlaender estate. Later the faculty proceeded to the home of Rev. and Mrs. J. Warren Klein, on Orchard Road, Wyomissing Park, where a buffet supper was served, and where Mr. and Mrs. Oberlaender were the guests of honor. After the supper Mr. Oberlaender showed interesting motion pictures of Athens and the recent excavations in Greece.

The List of Guests

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Oberlaender, Rev. and Mrs. J. Warren Klein, Rev. and Mrs. Warren F. Teel, Prof. and Mrs. George W. Walton, Prof. W. I. Miller, and Elizabeth Miller, Ruth C. Shaffer, Prof. and Mrs. V. C. Zener, Elsie Garlach, Prof. and Mrs. H. William Voigt, Prof. and Mrs. Lewis E. Smith, Prof. and Mrs. J. Wilbur Gingrich, Prof. and Mrs. George W. Taylor, Prof. and Mrs. Clarence A. Horn, Florence V. Innis, Prof. and Mrs. Milton W. Hamilton, Prof. and Mrs. Paul Speicher, Prof. and Mrs. Raphael Fenili, Prof. and Mrs. Graham Cook, Prof. and Mrs. Theodore Hunt, Prof. and Mrs. Morris Greth, Prof. Raymond A. Houk, Prof. and Mrs. Marcus H. Green, Prof. and Mrs. John S. Smith, Prof. and Mrs. Alexander G. F. Gode Von Aesch, Prof. and Mrs. Joseph S. Knapper, Professor Henry G. Buckwalter, Mrs. Nettie B. Currier, Margaret Gerberich, Prof. Daniel C. Lubold, Frank D. White, Anne M. Kulps.

Many Albrightians Attend the Haage Operatic Offerings

An important event in the season for the music loving set at Albright was the presentation by the Cosmopolitan Grand Opera Company of three operas on Saturday afternoon and evening. All who were privileged to enjoy the treat declared it a most successful evening.

Three Operas Given

The trio of operas, "Hansel and Gretel," by Endelbert Humperdink, and Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci" in the afternoon and "Carmen," was presented under the auspices of George D. Haage.

While the afternoon's performance of the former two was well met, the evening's triumph in "Carmen" held the audience enthralled. None of the potency of the Spanish strains was lost in the portrayal of the role by Dreda Aves, ably directed by Maestro Jacques Samossoud, under whose baton the orchestra and company presented the entire bill.

Brilliant Cast

The mezzo-soprano "Carmen" filled the title role with all the fire and dash with which Bizet must have been inspired when he composed the now familiar strains. All the color of the Spanish settings was enhanced with the familiar Toreador song, the famous march and the love song—integral parts of the Carmen score. Don Jose, that love-stricken caballero who ultimately takes the life of Carmen, was portrayed by Alex Kurganoff, a fine tenor.

Fraternity Notes

KAPPA UPSILON PHI

Frater Nev. Hollinger, '31 spent the week-end in Reading and visited the fraternity. He is doing graduate work. The fraternity wishes Frater Fred Howard a very speedy recovery from his illness.

Alumni members in recent commemoration with the fraternity are: Kindt, Neff, Heilmann, Hollinger, Howard, Roth Slinghoff, Grim, Frock, Eitner, Wray, Bowman and Purnell.

ALPHA PI OMEGA

Fraters John Kleingenna and Charles Wolfe visited the fraternity within the past week. The former is attending the Reformed Theology School at Lancaster and the latter is attending the Temple Dental School at Philadelphia.

ZETA OMEGA EPSILON

Reports have been received that the parents of Roland Shannon, who figured in an automobile accident, are on the road to recovery.

The members of the fraternity, pledges, and guests are journeying to Sharpsville this evening where they will partake of some chicken and waffles.

Frater Ed. Binckley was a visitor of the fraternity during the past week.

The fraternity wishes to congratulate Wilfred Jones, Peter Paul Masionas and Charles Karlowitch, who have been admitted into active membership.

Mr. John ("Kicker") Davis spent the week-end visiting his parents.

Mr. F. B. Johnstone was a week-end visitor in Philadelphia.

On Friday afternoon, the quarters of the fraternity were thrown into a den of bedlam—for Wenrich upon receiving word that the better half had arrived in the metropolis of Auburn, Pa. could not find the overcoat which Jones had previously consented to put away. "Gregg" Sturzenegger finally succeeded in getting Luke on his way.

BETA DELTA SIGMA

Y. M. C. A. services held in the college chapel last Tuesday were in charge of the fraternity. Those who took part were: Bud Sheetz, Bob Castetter, Lisle Barthemew and Ace Wolbert.

Beta suffered its first basketball defeat Thursday afternoon at the hands of P. T. B. fraternity.

Professor Buckwalter spent the week-end in New York City.

Recent guests at the Beta home were: Dr. Houk, Sidney Hoffman, Frater and Mrs. Stahlnecker, and Elmer Miller of Phila.

A dance is planned for the first Saturday of next month.

Joe Betz must have been thinking of the new rules when he said, "Please don't conjugate in the halls."

There was much excitement in Selwyn Hall when Mary Bowman received a phone call all the way from Illinois.

Eather Fenili is cross. She says it is bad enough to have freckles in the summer time but it's awful to have them in the middle of January.

Many of the Seniors were given to shouting on Friday, Practice Teaching is over. Many other Seniors are eagerly looking forward to it. (?)

Believe it or not, Rene Fray bid a grand slam just to get the bid.

Who was the person who said he had a wonderful time during social hour?

SPORT LIGHTS

(By Russell N. Bonney, '33)

The Gettysburg Bullets now hold first place in the Eastern Pennsylvania Basketball Conference. Their only game resulted in a victory over our own Lions. F. and M. dropped their third game to Lebanon Valley after winning two contests so they now hold second place. Only two league games are scheduled this week. They are: January 20, Lebanon Valley vs. Gettysburg; January 23, Drexel vs. Lebanon Valley. Complete standing is as follows:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Gettysburg	1	1	1.000
F. and M.	2	1	.667
Ursinus	1	1	.500
Drexel	1	1	.500
Lebanon Valley	1	1	.500
ALBRIGHT	1	2	.333
Muhlenberg	0	1	.000

The championship chances of the Lions received a striking reverse as a result of the two defeats in the past week. Each team plays 12 league contests which leaves the Lions with 9 league contests to be played. As we see it the Lions cannot easily afford to lose any of the remaining contests if they expect to finish in the money.

This season our five seems to be troubled with inconsistency. In the Gettysburg game they showed flashes of good form and gave the Bullets a lively evening even though Gettysburg played a much better brand of team basketball. Saturday's game with Drexel is hard to understand, everything went wrong and the Lions took a mean drubbing. Perhaps the Lions have only suffered the usual let-down which practically every team experiences. If our memory serves us correctly, Saturday's defeat was the worst since our college has been known as Greater Albright. During exams the team gets a rest as the next contest is the Drexel game on Jan. 30, when the Lions can secure revenge.

The Inter-Fraternity league got away to a good start in the past week. Interest abounds in these games and a good brand of basketball is being played. One suggestion has been advanced that the schedule be doubled. We heartily approve this idea provided a schedule could be arranged so that this number of games could be played.

Dribblers Lose to Drexel and G'burg in League Battles

Red & White Streak of Five Wins Ends with Two Hard Fought Losses to Bullets and Dragons

After securing victories in the first four battles the Albright Lions suffered their first set back at the hands of Gettysburg by a 39-36 count. The game was played at the Y. M. C. A. on Thursday night. It was Gettysburg's first league game and they are now at the top by virtue of their victory.

The Bullets started with a bang and at the outset it looked like a bad lacing for Albright. The Lions soon livened up a little and with the aid of good foul shooting they closed the gap in the score. In the closing minutes, Smythe's long shot evened the count, but two shots by Bouhl, the visiting center, provided the winning margin. The Lions were outplayed in floor-work but converted the many foul shots to stay in the running. The Bullets outscored the Lions from the floor 17 field goals to 9. The Lions tossed 18 successful foul tries while the visitors could gather but five.

For the visitors Capt. Seeley proved the best offensive threat gathering seven twin-pointers. He was closely followed by Dracha with 13 points.

Caput. Haines lead the Lion scorers with a total of 13 points. Oalsio, who played a hard-fighting game, dropped nine points thru the nets.

First Year Quintet Shows Style in Preliminary Contests

The Albright Frosh continued their winning ways with two victories in the past week. In the preliminary game Thursday night they defeated the St. Thomas Church team in a hot game 46-43. Shipe and McGovern led the Frosh scorers while Slack played a fast game at guard.

On Saturday night the Frosh played Drexel in the preliminary game and set a good example for the varsity by swamping the Drexel Frosh, 39-14. Shipe, Slack and Woljack played fine games for the Frosh.

TELEPHONE
Date with Home

WHAT'S THE USE of making a team—winning the election—passing a test—if Mother and Dad don't hear of it? Half the fun of college success is sharing it with home.

Here's where the telephone plays its part linking campus and home together!

Make it a habit to call up home each week. Mother and Dad will be thrilled to hear your voice—to share your news—to know all's well! Each week they'll be waiting with family news, cheery greetings, sound advice.

They're a lasting pleasure—these Telephone Dates with Home—inexpensive and easy to make.

FOR THE LOWEST COST AND GREATEST EASE

Set your "date" for after 8.30 P. M., and take advantage of the low Night Rates. (A dollar call is 60c at night; a 50c call is 35c.)

By making a date the folks will be at home. Thus you can make a Station to Station call rather than the more expensive Person to Person call.

Just give the operator your home telephone number. If you like, charges can be reversed.

THE CINEMA

ROSCOE AILS, BROADWAY HEAD-

LINER SEEN AT ASTOR THEATRE

Roscoe Ails, sensational Broadway personality, who has appeared in many of Broadway's most successful revues and is ably assisted by Miss Shirley Dahl in a gorgeous array of the latest dance and song hits. As an added attraction Ails presents his band in its version of the new 1932 modernized vaudeville presentation.

For the lovers of dance steps, Al and Ray Samuels very ably fill the bill. Marie DeComa, comedienne, offers her impression of foreign personalities. Joseph P. Stanley and company present a unique musical comedy vehicle, and Roff and His Roffians in "Canine Activities" conclude the ASTOR THEATRE'S stage show program.

PAUL LUKAS, IN "DISHONOR-

ABLE," NOW SHOWING AT ASTOR

One of the most delightful motion pictures to reach the local screen in many a day is "Strictly Dishonorable," a sophisticated comedy, at the Astor Theatre. All the action of "Strictly Dishonorable" takes place in a New York speakeasy on the apartments above it, and the picture follows the adventures of a Southern girl and an Italian opera singer whose intentions, as he admits to her, are "strictly dishonorable."

IAN KEITH, "THE DECEIVER,"

AT THE CAPITOL THEATRE

"The Deceiver," the Columbia picture featuring Ian Keith, Dorothy Sebastian and Lloyd Hughes at the Capitol Theatre this week, is the story of a great star who fancied himself as a great lover, played the game of hearts once too often and was killed. Adapted by Charles Logue from a story by Bella Muni and Abem Finkel, with dialogue by Jo Swerling, "The Deceiver" first shows Reginald Thorpe, the great star, in his dressing room making ready for a sudden and hasty exit from town for Hollywood and a movie contract.

"THIS RECKLESS AGE," FEATURE

AT THE EMBASSY THEATRE

"The Reckless Age," now playing at the Embassy with a star cast, including Buddy Rogers, Charles Ruggles, Peggy Shannon, Frances Dee, and those well-known stage celebrities, Richard Bennett and Frances Starr.

SCREEN, VAUDEVILLE, NEW

POLICY AT STATE THEATRE

Wilmer & Vincent's State Theatre inaugurates a new policy, starting Monday, January 18, to continue every day thereafter, presenting a continuous program of feature screen attractions, with big-time vaudeville. The program for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday includes another array of big-time acts, headed by Golden's Four Blondes, a unique stage entertainment. Tom Smith and Company, with Harry Newman and Peggy Heath, direct form big-time engagements, present their "varieties." The Five Salties, a quintet of gobs, offer a whirlwind act. Greenly and Rogers in "A Study in Brown," comedy and songs; O'Connor Family presents its comedy, "As You Like It," and the McDonald Trio presents an entertainment on wheels and cycles. On the screen, Jack Holt with Richard Cromwell, Joan Marsh in "Maker of Men," a story that sweeps from the dressing room of the college varsity to the gridiron, and back into the home, where a father battles for the love of his son.

MARIE DRESSLER IN "EMMA"

AT LOEW'S THEATRE

In "Emma," at Loew's, Marie Dressler gives to the screen another of those brilliant dramatic characterizations which first surprised filmgoers when she deserted comedy to play Martha in "Anna Christie," and which in "Min and Bill" won her the Academy award for the outstanding feminine performance.

Referee—Allan Boyer, F. and M.

On Saturday evening, the Lions journeyed to Philadelphia and sustained their second reverse of the week when the Drexel Dragons sent them tumbling into a 41-22 defeat. The game was a surprise to Albright followers who anticipated an easy victory. The Lions were completely outplayed and the loss was the worst sustained by a Lion basketball team in recent years. The loss was Albright's second league setback and the Lions are now in sixth place and will have to play sensational ball to get back in first place.

Coach Smith shifted Capt. Haines to center and latesta to forward as a starting combination but returned to the usual line-up and neither arrangement clicked. The Lions played a poor article of ball and seemed to have gone stale after the hard battle on Thursday. Each Lion player seemed to have an off night and the team play was listless.

Publitz, the Dragon center gave the Lions the most trouble by sinking 15 points. Johnson and Capt. Eckelmeyer also played a star game.

ence of the year. The work of the supporting cast leaves nothing to be desired. Richard Cromwell as the youngest son, who remains loyal to his step-mother, gives a performance which even outshines his effective work in "Tol'able David." Joan Hersholt, as the millionaire, is as usual sympathetic and convincing.

BILL AT ARCADIA

Monday and Tuesday, January 18 and 19—Jamestown Thomas in "The Devil Plays." Wednesday and Thursday, January 20 and 21—"William Collier, Jr. in "A Soul of the Slums." Friday and Saturday, January 22 and 23—Bob Steele in "South of Santa Fe." Monday and Tuesday of Next Week—Marion Marsh's first all starring picture, "Under 18." You can't go wrong on "Under 18" a picture every young man and woman must see.

MEET

Meet the most prominent and deservedly popular member of the Senior class. Whether the activity of the moment be the editing of the school annual or the leading of the literary society or the direction of the latest Domino hit, Bob is ever the hard and inspired worker. His activities are many and diverse. He has served two years in various capacities on the staffs of THE ALBRIGHTIAN; for three years he has been the mainstay of the Quill Club and has done much to encourage and inspire the group in creative writing; He has also figured in the Domino Club and in the Junior Class Play. His most important work while an undergraduate was the post of editor-in-chief of the "CUE." He is the president of the Sigma Tau Delta, honorary English Fraternity, and a member of the Kappas.
