Curriculum Change Approved; New Required Courses Added

Five new required courses will be added to the curriculum and four others modified when the proposals of the special faculty committee on curriculum study go into effect within the next few years. The new courses will be Fine Arts, History of Non-Western Civilization, Living Issues in Political Philosophy, Philosophy and Religion in Life and Social Science Fundamentals. Modifications of present courses are English Composition and Public Speaking, Literature in Life, Living Issues in Religion and Principles of Human Behavior.

In addition to its specific curriculum recommendations, the committee urged that a more appropriate distinction be made between the Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science degrees. It suggested that all students except those majoring in the natural sciences be awarded the A.B. degree, and that the present language requirement distinction between the two degrees be abolished. Consequently the degree will be based on content material. Dean Walton indicated that this change may be made in 1952. The question of what degrees should be awarded to home economics and business administration students will be studied further.

Dean George W. Walton explained to The Albrightian that the recommendations of the special faculty committee were presented to the Board of Trustees for approval. The new courses will be introduced gradually, he said, adding that the problem is complicated by the national emergency.

The ideal number of semester hours of "general education" courses recommended by the committee for all students is 63. However, because of the substitution of specialized courses in at least one area by most students, this number will likely be reduced to 57. The minimum number of required hours which every student, including business administration and home economics majors, must carry will likely be 46.

Dean Walton stressed the point that the requirements will be flexible enough to permit students with a large number of specialized courses in their field of major interest to schedule them without difficulty.

The 63 hours on the ideal list of required "general education" courses includes those following. Although these courses should ideally be taken in the years listed, the actual time will be determined by the required sequence of courses in the department of major concentration.

Freshman year: Hygiene, 1 hour; Orientation, 1 hour; English Composition and Public Speaking, 8 hours; History of Western Civilization, 6 hours (or sophomore year); Natural Science Fundamentals, 6 hours; Old Testament Literature, 2 hours; Philosophy and Religion in Life, 2 hours; and Social Science Fundamentals, 6 hours.

Sophomore year: Literature in Life, 6 hours; New Testament Literature, 2 hours; and Principles of Human Behavior, 3 hours.

Junior year: Fine Arts, 6 hours. Junior or senior year: General Ethics, 3 hours; History of Non-Western Civilization, 3 hours; and His-

Albrightians Try For Editorships

The trial editorship period for The Albrightian began with this issue.

Those trying out for positions are William A. Heck, editor-in-chief; William Wahl, sports editor; Barbara Farris, assistant news editor; Marie Kaputo, copy editor; and Howard Platzker, business manager. Jessie Nucci and Dorothy DeLaney have also tried out for positions.

The Albrightian will hold their annual dinner on Friday, April 13 at 6 o'clock. Barbara Miller and Phoebe Hunter are making arrangements for the event. Jay Kyle will be in charge of entertainment.

Support of Foreign Student Is Vetoed By Campus Council

Albright College will not support a student from one of the foreign areas of the Evangelical United Brethren Church. This decision highlighted the meeting of Student Council held last Tuesday. In other action Council disapproved of the separation of "steady" couples in the dining hall and approved several bylaws of the proposed constitution.

The suggestion that Albright "adopt" a foreign student for one year was made in January by Dr. Carl Heinmiller, general secretary of the department of world missions of the denomination. Local students would be responsible for room, board, books and incidental expenses of the foreigner.

Lack of Funds Cited

A similar proposal was submitted to the other colleges and seminaries sponsored by the E.U.B. Church. Chief reason for Council's disapproval of the plan was the fear that sufficient funds could not be secured at this time.

Council passed a resolution, introduced by Vincent Gentile, that it favors permitting couples which are engaged or "going steady" to sit together during the evening meal in the dining hall. No opposition was voiced to the resolution.

After passing several of the bylaws of the proposed constitution, Council bogged down in a discussion of the publication of complete all-campus election tabulations in The Albrightian. The majority seemed to favor the publication of these figures. In answer to the opposition Prof. Clyde Harding pointed out that college students should be as realistic in college as they will have to be after graduation. Complete election results, he said, are always released in local, state and national elections.

Ma Pwa Lin and Mrs. Emlen Present Need for World Student Service Fund

Miss Ma Pwa Lin, of Burma, who has taught at the University of Rangoon and Mrs. Betty Emlen, director of the World Student Service Fund in the Middle Atlantic Region, spoke to the college students in Y meeting on Tuesday, February 14 to open the WSSF drive here.

The World Student Service Fund drive will begin at the Albright campus on Tuesday, February 20. The goal this year will be $1,000, announced Jay Shenk, chairman of the drive. Personal solicitation will be the first feature on the schedule of events. Several special events will be held throughout February and March. The faculty members have been approached concerning participation in a faculty talent show. A hoe-down will be held some week-end and the proceeds from the Sports Carnival will go to the drive.

A British college student, Pip Egerton, who visited Greece writes of the dreadful conditions. "The dormitory was stuffy and drab—it was almost like a coal hole would be in America." The rooms had one door for ventilation, the floors were of stone and they slept with boards under a mat—some were lucky, they had a blanket or two. Meals were ghastly. Beans were cheap so they had beans three times a day. "Meat was impossible to get, but sometimes they got bones—cat bones, dog bones, horse bones—and cooked them up with the soup." The diet left the visitor tired and irritable. When he left Greece, he told the director that he would send

College to Observe Brotherhood Week

Rabbi Nathan Kaber, associated with the Temple Beth Israel in Altoona, Pa., will be the speaker for the Chapel programs on Tuesday and Thursday, February 27 and March 1 and also for the combined Y meeting on Tuesday, February 27. Rabbi Kaber will be sent here by the Chautauqua society to observe Brotherhood Week here on campus.

Sandra Pelus and Michelina Cacciola will participate in the Chapel program and Judith Goodman will be the Rabbi's hostess in the dining hall during his three day stay at Albright. Edward Yarnell will act as his host.

The program which is Student Council sponsored is in charge of Kathleen M. Guenther, chairman of the Chapel program committee.

Masters Suggests Ways to Increase College Income

Four recommendations for increasing the income of Albright College were outlined in the annual report which Pres. Harry V. Masters presented to the Board of Trustees on Wednesday. They are more endowment, additional support by the Evangelical United Brethren Church, an increase in tuition and fees and an increase in special gifts.

"For whatever consolation it may give, Albright is in a better situation than many other colleges for several reasons," Doctor Masters declared. "We did not 'overexpand' our operations since 1945; we are free of indebtedness and we have a small but most helpful operating surplus which has been carefully and somewhat painfully built up in recent years. . . . We must put ourselves to the task of facing our problem realistically and formulating the best procedures possible to meet it adequately."

Doctor Masters noted that Albright charges lower tuition than most other similar institutions of this area. He said that there is little or no foundation for the "propaganda" that many young people of high scholastic ability have been deprived of a college education because of the expense involved. "The question is . . . what deserving students and their families consider most important in life—a day at the races or a month in college, a new car or a new personality," the president declared.

An increase in the assets of the college during the past 12 years from $1,651,511 to $3,056,020 was noted. Doctor Masters pointed out that the Christian liberal arts college with its emphasis on the Christian way of life, freedom in political and economic life and the many other ideals to which it is committed is needed, and that Albright will be adequate to meet the test.

Five new trustees-at-large were elected to the board. They are Mrs. Ferdinand K. Thun, W. Richard Eshelman, Frank R. Palmer, Ray F. Borda and Glenn K. Morris. Re-elected trustees at annual conferences of the E.U.B. Church were the Rev. John T. Boepfle, the Rev. Dr. Norman L. Hummel, Luke A. Lutz and Norman W. Hoffman.

Miss Gardiner, a native of Haddon Heights, New Jersey, is vice-president of the Phi Beta Mu sorority, a member of Sigma Tau Delta, Domino Club, Future Teachers of America and was co-captain of the girls' hockey team this past season. Marge is an English major.

Reading Resident

Miss Kitzmiller, a Reading resident, is recording secretary of the Pi Alpha Tau sorority, and a member of Future Teachers of America and the Home Economics Club. Virginia is a Home Economics major.

Miss Hoff is recording secretary of the Phi Beta Mu sorority, a member of HEO Club, Future Teachers of America and Student Council. Louise, a native of Reading, is secretary-treasurer of the Women's Student Senate and is a Home Economics major.

Miss Winner is president of the Women's Student Senate, publicity chairman of Future Teachers of America, a pledge to Phi Delta Sigma, the honorary alumnae sorority, and a member of Sigma Tau Delta, the Albright band and orchestra and the Phi Beta Mu sorority. Charlotte, a native of Clayton, N. J., was co-captain of the girls' hockey team with Miss Gardiner this year. She is an English major.

Miss Bailey, a resident of Reading, is a member of German Club, Future Teachers of America, the women's Glee Club and Delta Phi Alpha, the honorary German fraternity. Faye is a German major.

Queen Chosen Earlier

Ruth Tyson and Eleanor Spring were elected last week to be May Queen and Maid-of-Honor respectively. The participants for the May Day Court are selected by vote of the entire student body. Approximately 45 percent of the student body voted in the election held this week. Nan Heckman and Kathleen Guenther were in charge of the elections. The dances done for the festivities this year will be in charge of Miss Heckman, who has done them for the past two years.

The program will consist of the procession of the Queen, Maid-of-Honor, the Court of Honor, the senior women, and the dancers. The traditional May Pole will be performed by the junior women according to annual tradition.

Albright Debaters To Meet Feb. 19

The Albright debating squad will hold a debate on the national question with Dickinson and Lehigh on Monday, February 19. Each college will debate both the negative and the affirmative sides. Russell F. Weigley and Michael Lafferty will debate the affirmative side and Jack Rhoads and William Collier will debate the negative. There will be three debates before dinner and three after dinner. The debates will be held in the Administration Building.

On Thursday, February 22 Albright will debate Elizabethtown here. Virginia Seems and Cynthia Reinhart will take the affirmative side and Francis Carney and Rhoads will debate the negative side of the national question.

Love Triumphs Again

Love has triumphed again!

Perhaps it was the breath of spring which touched the City of Reading last Tuesday. Perhaps, as Freud would say, it was a strange outlet of long-repressed desires. Perhaps it was merely further evidence of the fact known since the dawn of history that love will find a way. But on the other hand, it might have been that Student Council was tired of worrying about foreign students, government clinics, faculty evaluations and proposed constitutions and merely wanted a little diversion.

Council unanimously passed a resolution that "engaged" and "steady" couples be allowed to sit together for the evening meal in the dining hall.

Paradoxically enough, this new triumph of love raises some perplexing problems. It isn't really that way with solutions to anything. It isn't really too difficult, we suppose, to determine who is and who is not engaged. Diamond rings appearing on the third finger of the left hand of Albright women—as indeed of most women—are symbolic of a certain promise.

On the other hand, this problem of "steady" couples is really quite intriguing. What, we are tempted to ask, is the criterion of steadiness? Surely we would not dare to deprive couples who had gone together for more than a month the privilege of eating together. But dare we prohibit the more recent "steadies" from enjoying the same rare privilege? How about those who have gone together only two weeks, or one—or a day?

Moreover, how "steady" must the steadiness be? What about those who go "steady" with campus friends and at the same time with old pals from their home towns? What about those who go "steady" with one lucky person this week and another the next? Privileges must certainly be distributed equitably.

But why worry about the problems? Nothing really matters except this one glorious truth—love has triumphed again!

The 'Cue' Question

Will there be a Cue next year?

Ordinarily such a question would be unnecessary. The answer would be an obvious "of course," for yearbooks have become traditional annual affairs in practically all colleges. But this year the situation is different.

Several points stand out at this time in spite of the general uncertainty of almost everything. The most obvious of these is that the publication of a yearbook next year will place a heavy financial burden upon the present junior class. The chances are good that the enrollment at Albright in 1951-52 will be less than it now is. The chances are also good that production costs will go up considerably. Making up the deficit for this year's Cue has taxed the resources of the Class of 1951 and the energies of the staff. This problem will certainly be accentuated next year.

We hope that it will be possible for there to be a Cue in 1952. We also hope that other campus organizations will follow the lead of the juniors and courageously face the problems which confront all of us.

When the May Day ceremony is presented, this week's Dandy, Eleanor Spring, will be present in the role of Maid of Honor. An attractive girl with beautiful dimples, Eleanor hailed from Trenton, N. J. and is a senior this year. It's not long until graduation, fellows, so work fast!

During her four years at Albright, Eleanor has been quite a busy coed. She has been a cheerleader ever since her freshman year, her presence during those cold football games helping many a fan to brave the elements. Also for four years, Ellie has been an active publicity chairman for the Domino Club, having ably handled all of the publicity for the "Life With Father" production last year. And talk about sports, Ellie has played on the girls' hockey, softball, and tennis teams for four years and on the girls' basketball team for three years. In line with this, she worked as a life-guard in one of Trenton's city pools during the past three vacations. I know what you're thinking, fellows, but the pool was only for children under sixteen. A member of the Pi Alpha Tau sorority for four years, Ellie is corresponding secretary of this group this year. Other achievements include one year in the Spanish Club, two years as a member of The Albrightian staff, and she is girls' sports editor for this year's Cue. Ellie also attends the Future Teachers of America meetings.

With a psychology major and a sociology minor, Ellie's plans for the future embrace either personnel work or graduate work specializing towards elementary teaching. When asked about men, her eyes twinkle and she infers that "perhaps there is someone special." Ellie's interests are many and varied, but swimming, ice skating, and dancing are her favorite pastimes.

Of Albright, her fondest memories are of pleasant student associations, pep rallies, dances, and especially dorm life. Remember how you always ran so as to not be late from a 12:00, Ellie? And the four years have flown by, haven't they!

Have a good life, Ellie, we'll miss you.

This Is Ridiculous

"I love you madly! Madly!" she screamed shrilly as she pulled out a knife and monogrammed my arm. We were hanging by our feet, upside down, on one of the uppermost limbs of a tall eucalyptus tree, 100 feet in the air. The blood from my cut, splashing lazily into the alligator-infested water below us, had an amazing effect upon the famished beasts who waited expectantly for my toe-hold to slip. I calmly lit a hashish cigar with my left foot, while my companion restored make-up upon her sagging features. She was a beautiful girl. I had married her not for love, not for money, but because she had three pimples on her face that formed a perfect isosceles triangle. (I liked the isosceles triangle.) And I was a math major at Tangible Tech. I looked deeply into her eyes . . .

"You know what people say?" I said.

"Yes," she said.

"You do?" I cried!

"Yes," she lied.

"I didn't think you'd understand. Do you?"

"Yes" she implied as she sighed. "It's excess spelled backwards."

"Doctor Freud, take a letter." I laughed hysterically at my own wit.

We stopped talking, drinking in abstractions and watching tsetse flies tsetse in the languid air.

"Have you read Elliot?" I asked.

"T.S." she said.

Infuriated by her frivolity, I whipped out a fatchet and cut off her part of the limb.

"Look homeward, angel," I yelled as she arched into a graceful swan dive into the waiting ivory of Nucleus, our most self-centered, egotistical 'gator. His gate-like jaws clamped shut on her, and he immediately died from ptomaine poisoning.

I was overcome with remorse. Nucleus was dead, and I was responsible. Realizing that I must somehow do penance, I left the land of my forefathers, returned to civilization, sold all of my possessions, and gave my entire fortune to the S.P.C.A. This done, I hopped a freighter to New York, got a room in Greenwich Village and lived a novel, having no material possessions left except those to which I attached sentimental value—a genuine 'gator suitcase, a genuine 'gator wallet, a genuine 'gator belt, and a genuine 'gator pair of shoes. J.K.

Time Flies

Tick-Tock . . . Tick-Tock—Hear the passing minute. Use the minute to the maximum. "Many people do not use their money wisely until they have too little, so it is with time". Too many people come to the end of their days only to discover that instead of having lived, they have spent all of life merely preparing to live. I sense a feeling of waiting hovering over the college. Tick-Tock. Wait until I get out of school. Tick Tock . . . Wait until I get the job I am preparing for. Tick-Tock . . . then you shall see me put my life to good use. Too many students seem to be waiting . . . waiting for something that is so vague it may be called a dream. Life is too short to live one minute in the future. We must utilize to its fullest capacity the day, the hour, the minute, the very second if we are to gain something worthy from our life. Do not wait for that "tomorrow" to put all your energies into life. Do all those things today that should be done tomorrow. That all important minute, do not let it slip by unnoticed without filling it with sixty seconds of vital life. (Already you have wasted 45 seconds of your too short life reading this article. Go and put your time to some "good" use). We can not halt the sun as Joshua did, but perhaps we can make it run. M.L.

A Universal Friend

I want you to meet a friend of mine. He can really be a friend of yours too if you give him half a chance. I should like to describe him in careful detail to you. First, he makes a very good impression on you when you first meet him. He is always dressed meticulously and invariably has something to offer you. He is well acquainted with the world of today or yesterday. In fact, he knows more about everything or anything than anyone I have ever met. His great reserves of knowledge are open to you anytime you think that you might have need of them. He is very good-natured and sometimes people take advantage of this good nature. But he never says anything and just goes on about his way. Many people have tried to injure or mar him but he takes their injuries without uttering a cry or even so much as a murmur. His life span, I imagine, would be as long if not longer than ours if some thoughtless people would stop trying to ruin him. But there is another nature to this fellow that I would like to bring out.

And that nature is patience. My friend has been endowed with a patience found very rarely in our civilization today. If one comes to him in quest of knowledge and is sincere, my friend will welcome him with "open arms". Should his pupil be slow to learn, as are many who come to him, he has never been known to scold them but only to wait for them to acquire all of the knowledge that they may want from him, no matter how long it takes. One might say that after close association with my friend you'll know him from "cover to cover". There is a great deal of truth in this statement because my friend is nothing more nor nothing less than ANY GREAT BOOK! R.B.

Potpourri

Women's Student Senate (alias W.S.S.) was reminiscing about a series of skits which used to be put on by the faculty. The idea of a "Faculty at Home" might be fun at that. Besides, W.S.S. just might be able to make some money. What do you think of the idea?

We have heard of leading with your chin but that line in last week's editorial about, "... if 'The Albrightian' means more to students than a handy paper with which to cover textbooks ..." was the classic example. Anyone can tell you the paper won't even keep your books dry.

Congratulations to R.M. who wrote "The Ivory Tower". We have heard of three and a half suicides (the last one's lingering for a week) since publication. That "abstract" you spoke of drinking must have been powerful stuff.

Aside to R.B. in regard to your gripe in "Wild Day in Reading": sorry the Chamber of Commerce wasn't notified of your arrival. They might have arranged a few murders or some similar excitement so that you'd have felt as if you were back in Philadelphia.

Did you know there are only thirty-three days 'till the spring equinox? What does that mean? Well, it sounded good at first. Just the same all the magazines tell us it's time to peak at our new spring wardrobe. The secret in hats this year seems to be to don your chapeau, board the most crowded bus you can find, and then wait until someone brings his elbow crashing down on your head. The angle at which your hat tilts will be spoken of as "jaunty" and if it falls forward—just an eighth of an inch above the eye-brows—it's tres chic. The latest color in shoes is a washed-off yellow poetically tagged, "Wild Oats", so the name more accurately matches the price.

"I've gone back to radio" says this T.V. viewer after last Sunday's Spike Jones opus. What was once delightful slapstick was drawn out into an hour for what can best be described as a cross between Berle and Jack Carson scene-stealing from each other.

Speaking of T.V., why don't we observe a holiday so we can all take notes on "The University of the Air" series? Well, I tried.

If you want to hear the best lines from "The Madwoman of Chaillot" sit in on one of the rehearsals B.C. (before censorship) and, incidentally, don't miss the play. You'll laugh, for sure, but once you think it over there's quite a thought behind this masterpiece of satire.

Well, it's 12:30 A. M. One must be in good shape for a rousing game of ping-pong at nine. Pleasant dreams to readers of this column—the heck with the rest! J.Z.

Gee! I knew I'd MAKE the Dean's List

Intramural basketball started the second half of its season last Monday night on the Northeast floor, and differed from the start of the first half in that the leagues switched courts and also that the teams were much improved. A few familiar faces were gone while in turn new stars had arisen.

Charlie Klinger canned 31 points for the KTX quintet, the night's highest single effort, but he lacked support; and the Joy Boys, who backed Tony D'Apollito's twenty-four counters, won, 61-41. Pete Sperryak contributed twelve dunks to the winning cause, and Jerry Cocchiarella and Leroy Wool ten each.

Kappas "A" Team Wins

Chauncy Krout and Bill Krohst shared honors for the Kappas "A" team, as all the team members scored at least twice to down the Zetas, 48-22. Hal Siebert led the losers with seven counters. Classy Norm Dettra was missing from the fray because of another engagement.

Kenny Kohl accounted for fourteen markers to lead the Pi Taus to a 40-20 victory over the APO's to keep their record unblemished in an incomplete game. Paul Muller snared ten counters for the losers in a fray which saw the APO's walk off the floor in the last half because of objection to the referee's calling too many technical fouls for disputing his decisions. Bill Heffner scored eleven tallies in addition to Kohl's fourteen.

The "B" League's action started off on an unprofitable scale as neither the Spades nor the Stars could field a full team in a battle that was to decide possession of last place.

Andy Hydock's fourteen points led the way, as the Kappas' "B" squad downed the Frosh House, 35-20, and narrowed down the lead to two teams having a hold on first place.

The last game of the evening saw the Racketeers emerge victorious for the fifth straight time, this time at the expense of the Pi Taus' "B" team. Bruce Elchoff led the victors with twenty points, supported by Art Warner's twelve and Ernie Zelenak's and Jim Rutter's ten apiece.

Hoopsters Tounce Indian Five, 78-59 In Saturday Fray

Potts Leads Victors With 17, Kittens Lose

Coach Eddie Gulian's hoopsters mauled Coach Arnold Greene's Indians, 78-59, for the Lion's fourteenth victory in sixteen starts against the Juniata quintet last Saturday night on the Northwest court. In the preliminary contest, the Reading VVV's out-scored the Baby Lions, 48-23, to halt the latter's victory spree.

Gerry Potts led the victorious varsity Lions with seventeen counters on six two pointers and five charity tosses. Tom Green took top evening honors and led the victors with eighteen tallies on six deuces and six aces. Five Lion netmen swished the cords for double figures. Beside Potts' eighteen; Danny Bieber had fourteen; Lee Cappel, thirteen; Bobby Ruoff, eleven and Connie Detting, ten.

Lions Shout Into Lead

After trailing most of the first frame, the Lions shot into the lead on Cappel's lay-up that ended scoring in the period to give the Cats a one-point advantage, 15-14. Again Cappel opened the second quarter with a two pointer to aid the Lion cause and boost their margin to 17-14. Cappel, backed by able substitutes Lefty Leitham, Al Pollack, Dick Witman and Detting, hiked the score to 30-30 at halftime.

Leading 56-45 going into the final chapter, the Lions hit from all angles to boost their lead to the 78-59 ultimate winning margin. Potts tossed three deuces through the hoop during the final two minutes on a wild scoring surge.

Park Held to 13

Sharp-eyed Karl Park, Indian's top scoring ace who sported a 17.7 average before last Saturday's fray, was held to thirteen counters. Doc Greene, who is a practicing dentist in Huntingdon, used his "HAZ" defense against the Lions with little success.

Dale Baker and Jim Bachman led the Albright JV's with six counters each in their losing cause in the preliminary fray. The Baby Lions now have recorded ten wins against five set-backs for a .667 average.

Gulian to Attend Annual Grid Clinic

Outstanding Mentors Plan to Participate

Coach Eddie Gulian will attend the fourth annual football clinic held at Coatesville on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week. Nearly two hundred coaches from South Jersey and Pennsylvania will attend the clinic which will be highlighted by speeches and demonstrations by outstanding mentors.

Such personalities as Frank Leahy, Lefty James, Carl Snively, Rip Engle, Jim Tatum and Bert Bell will attend the proceedings. Coaches from the mid-west include Charles (Bud) Wilkinson, Oklahoma; Ray Eliot, Illinois; Paul Bryant, Kentucky; Stuart Holcomb, Purdue and Sid Gilman from Cincinnati. Coach Gilman and his assistants will give demonstrations of football fundamentals.

George Munger, Penn.; Charles Caldwell, who was chosen "Coach of the Year"; and Frank (Doc) Kavanagh, head trainer at Cornell, will represent the east. Kavanagh will discuss training and conditioning of athletes.

The clinic will have blackboard sessions and demonstrations each morning and afternoon, and movies during the evening session. John (Ox) Da Giosa of the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission will be guest speaker at the opening banquet.

FourCatTrackmen To Enter IC4ARun In New York City

Faculty Manager of Athletics Eugene L. Shirk announced that four members of the Albright track team will participate in the IC4A indoor track and field championships held in Madison Square Garden in New York City on Saturday, February 24.

Howard Brenner will compete in the sixty yard dash and the broad jump. Last season Brenner jumped twenty-two feet several times before breaking an ankle in the Franklin and Marshall meet which sidelined him for the remainder of the season.

Tenley to Sprint

Bruce Tenley will make his first attempt at indoor sprinting when he competes in the sixty yard dash. Tenley placed second in the Inquirer meet held in Philadelphia on January 19.

Pete Alberts, who was undefeated in dual competition last season, will pole vault against stiff competition. Alberts cleared twelve feet against some of the best vaulters in the country in Philadelphia last month. Mr. Shirk said "with Pete's determination and hard work I think he will make a name for himself in Albright's annals."

Charlie Zellner will compete in the two mile event in the Garden. Zellner, who last fall led the Lion cross country team to victory, appears to be the best long distance runner at Albright.

February 24 will mark the first time an Albright team has competed in the IC4A indoor meet. Last year Al Harnley won the javelin crown the day after Albright was admitted to the oldest collegiate athletic association in America.

Ursinus Abandons Golf For Duration

Ursinus College in Collegeville has announced that it has decided to abandon golf for the duration of the present emergency. Last season the Lions rallied on Earl Langford's 67 to defeat the Bears, 7-2, on the Norristown green.

Lions Boast One Win Over Dutchmen; Seek Third From Moravian Wednesday

Two deciding league contests are on tap for the Albright Lions in the next five days. Tomorrow night they are scheduled to face the Dutchmen of Lebanon Valley on the local Northwest court, and the following Wednesday, February 21 are slated to battle the Moravian Greyhounds on the latter's home court at Liberty High School in Bethlehem. A victory over the second place Dutchmen at Northwest tomorrow night would give the Cats the league championship since the Greyhounds have already lost three league frays and the Royals from Scranton, four.

The Lions have faced the Lebanon Valley squad only once this year, since they did not have the privilege of battling them in the Lebanon Valley tourney during the holidays. In the contest at Annville on Saturday, December 9 the Red and White squad emerged victorious, 76-65, largely through the 14 point efforts of both Bob Ruoff and Gerry Potts.

Reserves Show Power

The first period of the heated contest ended in a 7-7 deadlock but the Lions' strong reserve power pulled them into a 41-31 lead by halftime. During the third period a scoring rampage by the Dutchmen's Richie Furda and Al Murawski brought them within six points of the Cats but a fourth quarter spree by the victors cinched the contest. High scorers for the Blue and White in this contest were Murawski with 21 points and Red Langstaff with 16.

Coach Ralph Mease will probably start the contest with forwards Larry Kinsella and Bill Tomlin; center, Murawski; and guards Red Langstaff and Richie Furda. All of the members of the starting quintet are over six feet in height. The tallest member of the squad is Tomlin, who scrapes the ozone at six feet, five inches, while both Langstaff and Murawski match the yardstick at six feet, three inches. The best individual scorer on the team this season for the Dutchmen has been Murawski, who last year in only ten games averaged 17 points for each contest and sports a 28.1 average thus far this season. The hook shot artist netted twenty-two points against West Chester State Teachers College last Saturday to help the Lebanon Valley cause. In the first meeting this season he led the Dutchmen with twenty-one counters in their losing cause.

Murawski, who hails from Elizabeth, New Jersey, joined the Dutchmen last February and netted 170 points in the ten games he played. Coach Eddie Gulian will apply the same tight defense against Murawski that stopped Lafayette's top scoring ace, George Davidson, at Easton on Wednesday, February 7.

Seek Third Win

The Red and White hoopsters will be seeking their third win over the Moravian Greyhounds this year when they battle them on their home court next Wednesday evening. In the first meeting at the Lebanon Valley tournament the Gulianmen emerged the victors by a 64-61 score and nudged the Greyhounds, 79-70, in their second meeting at Northwest on Saturday, January 13.

In the latter contest the Cats held a safe lead throughout most of the contest until the last stanza when the battling Greyhounds tallied fourteen consecutive counters to narrow the count at 68-67. A field goal by Danny Bieber at this point gave the Lions a start on the eleven straight insurance tallies which they racked up to ice the contest before the final buzzer.

Stengele High Scorer

High scorer for Coach Gil Gillespie's quintet in this fracas was guard Johnny Stengele with 18 tallies. Other high scorers for the Blue and Grey were record smashing Bill Werpehosi with 14 points and Jerry Labanz with 12. The two remaining starters in this contest were Dave Arner in the forward slot and Hank Wieder at center. The two men to watch in this contest for their high-powered scoring

Leinbach Chalks Up 19 Points in Initial Fray

The Albright Lionesses started the season with a 50-33 victory over the Alumnae last Friday night at the 13th and Union Streets grade school gymnasium. Judy Leinbach was high scorer for the Albright girls with nineteen points. The Lionesses grabbed the lead after the opening jump and kept it throughout the entire contest. Leading by an 18-9 margin at the end of the first period the Lionesses lost ground as Margie Zeock began sinking some of her hook shots from the side. The score board showed a 20-25 count in favor of the Albright side at the end of the half. Leinbach dropped shots from all angles to increase the varsity's lead to seven points at the end of the third frame and to give them their ultimate 17 point winning margin.

Playing forward for Coach Mosser's charges were Judy Leinbach, Nancy Stump, Dolores Bedding, Pat Miller, Carol Neuwissinger, Carol Krecker, Pris Cooper, and Ann Doughten. Guards were Bobbie Wresley, Jeanne Magee, Nancy Swartz and Pat Kennedy.

The Alumnae were well represented by Jean Schwartz, Jean Long, Grace Miller, Mrs. Fay Erb, Marge Zeock, Phyllis Carter, Janet Price, Flo De Damio, Mrs. Jean Simpson, Anona Serfass, Shirley Johnson, Betty Graves and Mary Eschwei.

Juniors Consider Publication of Cue; Dance Proposed

The advisability of publishing a Cue next year, a proposed change in the graduation date and the assessment of dues were discussed by the Class of 1952 at its monthly meeting on February 8.

William A. Heck was named chairman of a committee to consider the publication of a Cue. Other members are Howard Platzker, Eliot Sauertieg, Barbara Wisley, Russell F. Weigle, Richard Witmoyer and Eleanor Williams. This group will look for ways to reduce publication costs and raise extra money. In addition, it will make recommendations for the editor-in-chief and business manager of the Cue. The junior class will elect these people on Thursday, March 1. The possibility of including the Class of 1953 in the yearbook next year will also be considered. Special problems have been created by the national emergency.

The class voted to assess every member $2 for dues this year. Members of the dues collection committee are Miss Wisley, chairman; Dorothy Deam and Miss Williams.

In virtually unanimous action, the juniors voted to petition the Board of Trustees to change next year's graduation date from Monday morning to Sunday afternoon. Commencements were held on Sunday for many years until the change was made to Monday in 1950.

A combined dance of the three underclass groups has been proposed. Members of the committee of the junior class who will investigate this possibility are Jack Greenspan, Margery Mansfield, Doris Hill, Helen Hasselgren, Francis Carney and Ramona Latorre.

"Education must develop the whole person." This was the conclusion reached by a panel of three at the annual open meeting of the Philosophy Club, held Monday night in the Lower Social Room. Members of the panel were Pres. Harry V. Masters, Dr. Gerrit Memming and Dr. Thomas F. Merritt.

President Masters explained that literacy a "liberal" education permits one "to leave behind ignorance and achieve the freedom of the intellectually free." One of the basic questions which a student must answer, he said, is "What and whom do I hope for, love and serve?"

Comparing American and European education, Doctor Memming said that a more solid structure is sought by the latter system. He deplored the fact that not enough money is set aside in this country for education.

Doctor Merritt noted the value of extra-curricular activities, but said that each student must judge for himself how many to participate in.

Ralph Stutzman, president, presided at the meeting. Twenty-one students were present.

The Women's Student Senate will hold the first tea of the second semester today from 3 to 5 o'clock in Selwyn Parlor.

St. Joseph Nudges Gullianmen, 64-63

The St. Joseph Hawks evening the count last Wednesday evening with a close 64-63 victory over the Lions in a see-saw battle at the St. Joseph field house in Philadelphia. The Gullianmen in a previous meeting last month defeated the Hawks by an 81-74 count.

The Lions clawed their way into an early 18-12 first period lead, only to yield to a five point barrage by Johnny Hughes and a one point contribution by Mike Fallon to deadlock the fray at 18 all.

The ding-dong battle changed hands many times before finding the Hawks holding a 38-33 half-time lead. Mid-way in the third chapter the Albright quintet caught their rivals at 42 all and again stalemated the contest at 46-46 before the Hawks flapped their wings again to take a 54-48 advantage as the period ended.

In the final quarter Coach Eddie Gullian's charges bounced back to within three points before Fallon and Tony Papaneri wished the nets for deuces and Hughes added an ace to raise the hosts' advantage to 63-56, with but two minutes remaining.

Danny Bieber and Gerry Potts cannot deuce to pull the Lions within a striking margin of the victors. Hughes led the game with a charity toss which proved the ultimate winning margin before Danny Bieber sank the final two-pointer for Albright.

Potts lead the Albright netmen with thirteen counters followed by Lee Cappel with twelve and Pat and Danny Bieber with ten each, as four of the five starting Gullianmen scored in double figures in the losing cause. The Lions' weakness proved to be at free line where they converted only 25 out of 41 attempts for a poor .609 average.

Required Courses Added by College

History of Religions, 2 hours. Senior year: Living Issues in Political Philosophy, 3 hours and Living Issues in Religion, 3 hours.

The course in English Composition and Public Speaking will consist of ten hours of classroom and laboratory work. It will stress the tools of communication. Certain students will substitute creative writing for the composition part of the course.

The Fine Arts course will include both appreciation and laboratory work in painting, drawing, sculpture and music. To fulfill the requirement in non-western history, courses in the history of Russia, China and India will be offered. Living Issues in Political Philosophy will include an examination of competing philosophies of the social order. It will provide students with a background in American history as well.

The course in Philosophy and Religion in Life will help to prepare freshmen for the other religion courses by showing them the place of religious thought and literature in modern life. Social Science Fundamentals will include the principles of economics, sociology and political science. Principles of Human Behavior will integrate psychological data with biology, the social sciences and ethics.

Foreign languages will be scheduled by some students after consultation with their advisers. It is believed that this arrangement will make languages more meaningful to those who schedule them.

Various groupings of required courses have been recommended by the committee for students whose specialized curricula will not permit them to schedule all of them. In some cases basic courses in the specialized area may be substituted for general required courses. For example, natural science majors will not be expected to take Natural Science Fundamentals and psychology majors will substitute General Psychology for Principles of Human Behavior.

Dean Walton explained that the recommendations of the committee are the outcome of three years of study. As part of the study the curricula of other colleges in the same class as Albright were analyzed. The plan was approved on February 5.

Burmese Speaker Describes Present Education System

Miss Ma Pwa Lin, a student and teacher from the University of Rangoon, Burma, was the speaker at the regular weekly Y meeting on Tuesday, February 13. Miss Lin is now studying at Temple University in Philadelphia. She spoke in behalf of the World Student Service Fund drive which will start on campus next week.

Ma Pwa Lin stated that the Burmese people are in a strategic position in Asia. The Burmese have come to realize that "anything honest is not to be ashamed of." That is the students in Burma are no longer looked upon as select, but the people now realize the value of an education. The Burmese people definitely need help, but it is not so much the question of help but "how much we (Burma) can trust the help." These people in Asia are cagey about accepting help because so many times this aid has proved to be a hindrance rather than an assistance.

The money raised last year by Albright students was used for $15.00 a month scholarships for refugee Burmese students who are cut off from their families by civil war.

Mrs. Betty Emlen, who accompanied Miss Lin to the campus, stated in an interview that the $1,000 which is the goal this year here, would significantly help in meeting any of the following needs: 1. refugee students from eastern Europe in Paris or Greece for whom $150 yearly grant would make possible the continuation of their education—it would pay the university fees, 2. in India it would help a single cooperative student house in Assam for student refugees from the earthquake in which 3 million people were killed, 3. in Burma it would provide scholarships or a cooperative house for refugee students, 4. in Japan it would provide drugs for T.B. students for 8 percent have the disease.

The Christian Faith and Heritage commission will hold their next meeting on Monday, February 19 at Jay Shenk's house. Prof. Ellery Haskell will speak on "Contrasting Views of the Nature of God in Christianity."

Honorary Sorority Pledges Seven Girls

The Phi Delta Sigma, honorary alumnae sorority, will pledge seven Albright seniors on Saturday, February 17 at 4:30 P. M. in the Thomas Jefferson Tea Room, announced Mrs. Charlotte C. Price, president of the sorority. A dinner is to follow the ceremony. The pledges are the following: Barbara Miller, Nan Heckman, Ruth Tyson, Jean Magee, Charlotte Winery, Kathleen M. Guenther and Marilyn Himmelstein.

William A. Heck, chairman of the student activities committee, told Council that several questions will likely be placed on the all-campus ballot in April in addition to the candidates for various campus offices. One of these, he said, will be the advisability of abolishing Saturday classes. In addition, it is hoped that the proposed constitution can be voted upon by the entire student body.

Several communications were received. The treasurer reported a balance of $588.01.
