Dean's A List Awards Honor To Twenty-one

Twenty-one Albrightians were honored by being named to the Dean's A list for the first semester, Dean George W. Walton announced this week. Forty-two others received honorable mention in the announcement.

Those maintaining A Honor ratings (average above 1.80) include: Seniors, LeRoy Brendle, Kenneth Bright, Virginia Marick, Thomas Shultz, Ann Weik, Marilyn Yatron; Juniors, David Frankhouser and Richard Strauss; Sophomores, David Blecker, Sylvia Gruel, Sally Lanz, Edith Murray, Gene Schaeffer, Helen Schoener, Gerald Zaid; Freshmen, Kenneth Greenawald, Joel May, Jeanne Palm, Lowell Perry, Barbara Ross, Elizabeth Weilenmann.

Honored on the B plus list, those maintaining an average between 1.80 and 2.19 are: Seniors, Robert Barlett, John Bash, Barbara Farris, Mahlon Frankhouser, Phyllis Gruber, Annjeannette Innis, Andrew Janiszewski, Ivan Moyer, Eliot Percelay, Thomas Sultz, Ray Weitzel, Curtis Zillhardt, Jacqueline Zwayer; Juniors—Gordon Anke, Robert Beane, Edmond Ettinger, Duane Goldman, Hiram Neilson, Clyde Underkoffler, Patricia Weiherer.

Glee Club Returns From Recent Tour

The Albright College Glee Club conducted a tour of southeast Pennsylvania earlier this week, beginning their trip on Sunday, February 14, and returning on Tuesday evening, February 16.

Scheduled concerts for February 14 included sacred concerts at Baltzell Memorial EUB Church, Pottstown; Grace EUB Church, Telford; and St. Paul's EUB Church, Hellertown.

The program for February 15 consisted of two secular concerts, one presented at Wilson Borough High School, Easton, and the other at Lansdale Joint Jr.-Sr. High School, Lansdale, and also a sacred concert at Crescentville EUB Church, Philadelphia.

Two concerts were given on Tuesday. A secular program was presented to the Springfield Township High School, Chestnut Hill, and a sacred program was given at the Bethany EUB Church, Norristown.

A special program for the sacred concerts included the following selections: "All People That on Earth Do Dwell," Tallis; "God Is a Spirit," Brahms-Duane; "To Thee We Sing," Tkach; "If Thou But Suffer God to Guide Thee," Thompson; "Jacob's Ladder," Wil-

Recent Visitor

Rabbi Samuel Penner, who represented the Jewish Chautauqua Society on the Albright campus last week, discusses some of the leading religious and philosophical questions of the day with Rev. Eugene H. Barth. Rabbi Penner was a guest speaker in many classes and in chapel during his two day visit.—(Gil-Fox)

Campus Hears Rabbi In Brotherhood Week Service; Group Gives Operetta

Rabbi Samuel Penner of the Temple Beth Israel in Philadelphia was a guest on the Albright campus last Wednesday and Thursday, February 10 and 11. Rabbi Penner represented the Jewish Chautauqua Society, which sends Jewish leaders to various colleges all over the United States. The visit, which was part of the annual Brotherhood Week of the National Association of Christians and Jews, was arranged by student council. In addition to speaking to several classes in sociology, religion and history, Rabbi Penner also delivered the address in the chapel service.

"Christian Vocations" was the topic of the address on Tuesday, February 16. Yesterday morning Alpha Pi Omega fraternity presented an operetta in another of the series of student council sponsored programs.

On Tuesday, February 23, Dr. C. E. Kachel, District Superintendent of the Eastern Pennsylvania Conference of the E. U. B. church, will be guest speaker.

WUS Week Opens Mon.; Programs Feature Drive

Monday, February 22 will open Albright's World University Service Fund Drive under the sponsorship of Student Council. The campaign, designed to raise funds for the aid of foreign students and universities in India, will last throughout the week. WUS has set as their main objective of the drive to exceed the goal of $400.00.

Special programs have been planned for the week of the drive including a guest speaker in chapel Thursday, Feb. 25. Mr. David Levering, who is the director of WUS from Philadelphia, will speak to the combined "Y's" Tuesday, Feb. 23 at 7:30 p. m. in the Lower Social room. He will explain the purpose of the drive.

During the week each student will be asked to contribute to the project by a WUS solicitor.

Additions Named To Administration

Thelma F. Degler, daughter of Mrs. Marjorie M. Degler, 1607 Mineral Spring Road, has been named assistant to the dean of the college and to the registrar of Albright College, effective immediately, President Harry V. Masters announced.

For the past four years Miss Degler has been an assistant in the dean's office. A graduate of Reading High School in 1945, she received her B.S. degree from Albright in 1949.

As a student Miss Degler was active in the college YWCA, the daywomen's organization, the German club, and was a member of the yearbook staff.

Also named to the administrative staff at Albright is Mrs. Dorothy Slapikas, 1612 N. 11th St., who becomes manager of the book store and canteen.

Mrs. Slapikas has been for the past five years assistant to Eugene F. Pierce, who now devotes full time to the supervision of the Albright College buildings.

Guest Night For LVC

"L. V. C. Guest Night" will be observed Sunday, Feb. 21 when students from Lebanon Valley college will be our guests for a vesper service and fellowship hour. The affair is being held in observance of Universal Day of Prayer for Students.

A vesper service will begin at 7:45 p. m. in the Seminary Chapel with Rev. Paul Price as the speaker. Students participating in the service are Virginia Marick, Theodore Tietge and Charles Moyer.

During the fellowship hour Dorothea Lang, Hisako Umemura and Ehrhardt Lang will give informal talks on student life in Japan. Hostesses for the evening are Cynthia Winner, Mary Wolf and Rachel Kaebnick.

All students and faculty are invited to attend. Sponsors of the affair are the YW-YMCA.

Ten Campus Groups Slated To Compete In Sports Night

Contest Is Scheduled Next Friday Evening

The annual Sports Night events are scheduled to take place next Friday night, February 26, in the Albright College gymnasium. The affair, which is sponsored each year by the Student Christian Association, will begin at 7:30 and will be participated in by six campus men's organizations and four women's organizations.

James Croke and Edward McNeill are co-chairmen for the men's events. The following groups will participate in the program, which includes ping-pong, horse and rider, tug of war, high jump, Indian leg wrestle, boxing and wrestling: Pi Tau Beta, Freshmen, Kappa Upsilon Phi, Daymen, Zeta Omega Epsilon, and Alpha Pi Omega.

Tryka, Dirmitt Are Heads

Serving as co-chairmen for the women's events are Stella Tryka and Jean Dirmitt. The program includes volley ball, badminton, ping-pong and hop, skip and jump. Those organizations participating in the women's events are Daywomen, Phi Beta Mu, Dormitory women and Pi Alpha Tau.

The men's events are scheduled as follows: ping-pong—Pi Tau vs. Freshmen, Kappas vs. Daymen, Zeta vs. APO; horse and rider—Freshmen vs. Daymen, Kappa vs. Zeta, Pi Tau vs. APO; tug of war—Zeta vs. Pi Tau, Freshmen vs. Daymen, Kappa vs. APO; high jump—APO vs. Daymen, Kappa vs. Zeta, Pi Tau vs. Freshmen; Indian leg wrestle—APO vs. Pi Tau, Kappa vs. Daymen, Zeta vs. Freshmen.

Also, boxing—Kappa vs. APO, Zeta vs. Freshmen, Pi Tau vs. Daymen; wrestling—Pi Tau vs. Kappa, Zeta vs. Daymen, APO vs. Freshmen. In the event of a tie, the winning team will be decided by a four man relay around the gymnasium floor.

Women's Events Posted

The program for the women will see: Daywomen vs. Mus, Dorm vs. Pat—volley ball; Dorm vs. Mus, Daywomen vs. Pat—badminton; Mus vs. Dorm, PAT vs. Daywomen—ping-pong; PAT vs. Mus, Daywomen vs. Dorm—hop, skip and jump. All four teams will participate in a relay race to prevent the formation of a tie. Any member of any team may participate in the relay providing she has entered only one of the other contests.

Trophies will be awarded to the winning team in both the men's and women's events. Last year the trophies were won by the Zeta Omega Epsilon fraternity and the Phi Beta Mu sorority.

Former Students, New Albrightians Enroll In Classes

Six former Albrightians and twelve new students have enrolled for the coming semester. Eight of the new students are transfer students while the remaining four are entering as first semester freshmen.

Students who have returned to complete studies are John Burnish, Adolph Butkys, Venedi Heinrich, Sonia Phipps Miller, Nicholas Pasayotis, and Lee Snyder.

New students include Lee Garigan, Reading; William Grest, Reading; Clarence Hall, Shillington; Brooks Holtzclaw, Freeland; Oscar Jensen, Baltimore, Md.; James Kirkpatrick, West Lawn; Robert Knouse, Reading; Bruce McLeod, Bennettsville, S. C.; Richard H. Miller, West Reading; Roger Mogel, Bernville; Ronald Rogers, Reading; William West, Philadelphia.

Council Holds Social Hours

At a meeting of the student council held on Tuesday, February 10, it was announced that council would sponsor a social hour, to be held in the lower social room of Selwyn Hall each evening from 6:30 to 7:00. Ping-pong and dancing are offered at this time, Monday through Thursday evenings.

James Hall announced that there will be a Friday night council dance, during Lent. The next scheduled council dance is tonight. Theodore Tietge, chairman of the WUS drive, made a motion that council this year donate money to the drive. The motion was carried. The drive, which will be held the last week of February, will feature a guest speaker during the Thursday chapel program.

Exam Problem Considered

During the first semester a committee was appointed to investigate the possibility of having the administration limit the number of one-hour exams in one day to two. Donald Van Lieu announced that the faculty had requested that representatives meet with them in the near future to discuss this. It was also requested at the meeting that council ask the registrar's office to tell the students the number of chapel cuts they have when they are asked.

Social Calendar Criticized

It was also decided at the meeting that student council committee for the social calendar should be more active, and that the committee be consulted when calendar conflicts occur.

Since the chapel committee has delegated campus organizations to present programs this year during the Thursday hour, Mrs. Douds announced that any organization that needs help in presenting its program should contact her and the faculty will try to offer assistance.

Council voted to change the type of freshman caps for the 1954 orientation period. It was also announced at the meeting that the Coca-Cola machine will be put back into the daymen's lounge, but the proceeds will now go to the bookstore.

Fellowship Through WUS

At least 5,000 students in Japan have advanced stages of TB. In Greece, thousands of students fall ill from malnutrition. There are overcrowded housing conditions in Israel. Students in India need clothes on their backs. Everywhere student dormitories are overcrowded.

When we give to World University Service, we help to fill a real need. Throughout the world, students lack the basic necessities of life. WUS means that we can share in the building of a better tomorrow by sharing this burden with students not as fortunate as we. Again, there is a call to members of the collegiate and university world to help invest in our own future by aiding other students in their search for an education. This is not charity but an investment in the world of tomorrow in which we will live. Countries such as India, Korea, Japan, Greece, Yugoslavia, Israel, Egypt, Burma, Turkey, France, East Africa will need well-trained leaders, doctors, nurses, teachers, scientists who can be trained and educated today.

We must not forget that we are helping people to help themselves. This is even more than an investment of financial concern, it is an investment of human concern among people.

... What did you say? This is only another money raising campaign. Who has any money left to contribute after heart, polio, cancer and TB drives! All these drives are too burdensome...

In answer to you, all that can be said is that you are right, but ours is a small burden in comparison to these students in desperate need. Let these words bite: This generation has a great deal to accomplish and overcome, and it will not be easy. The trouble in the previous generation was that there were those who were in strategic positions wouldn't open their eyes to that need and closed the door to it. We, in this generation will not be able to afford such bigotry and neglect in the future.

You can think; you figure it out.

Tax Exemption Proposed

Having heard the plea of WUS for aid to foreign students, we now turn our attention to a plea closer to home. Recently The Albrightian received a letter from Abraham J. Multer, U. S. Congressman from the 14th District, New York, urging us to support a bill providing that expenses for college education should be tax deductible.

Sending their children away to college costs parents at least $2500 a year, generally, but the tax exemption amounts to only $600 a year. Multer has argued that this bill, if enacted, would provide more opportunity in secondary education for all and would also aid declining enrollment in some of our colleges. The House Ways and Means Committee has tentatively decided to recommend a $600 exemption for children beyond the age of 18, if they are attending school or college, but Mr. Multer is aiming towards allowance and for full reasonable expenses for a college education.

The National Student Organization is backing the movement, which should certainly find much support among parents and students. The implications of the bill would indicate a good-sized increase in enrollments if it were passed, which wouldn't be an evil. Certainly, a college education should not have to be a sign of parents with money. We believe this bill will open new educational opportunities to many and lighten the burden for all.

Brain Vs. Brawn

There is the "brain" and the "brawn," but seldom both. The former is the fellow who travels about campus with his head in a fog, and if not there, in some thick volume of Homer. Here he is referred to as the "bookworm" and carries upon his brain the burdens of the world. The latter is the all-muscled and mighty-physiquest Atlas who carries on his back the world minus its burdens. His gray matter is rarely exercised sufficiently to employ his brute strength intelligently.

Who is this coming out of the science building? Why, it's Mr. Knowitall, the absent-minded professor. Oh, oh, here comes MacTough from the gymnasium, the "brawn" of the campus who fears nothing (except grades). Now, as you can see, Mr. Knowitall and MacTough are as removed from each other as possible and, as can be expected, their personalities "clash" just a "wee bit." What Mac cannot accomplish mentally (and that's a lot), he strives at physically; likewise, Knowitall does mentally that which would overwork his physical powers. There always exists that constant rivalry between "brains" and "brawns" on college campuses; intelligence versus strength. We cannot help but admit that both are fundamental essentials, but how often are they correctly proportioned in a single individual?

Immediately the haughty and arrogant expression which before adorned Knowitall's face disappeared and was replaced with frantic fright as he later spied Mac exhibiting his monstrous biceps in the gymnasium. Mac's physique and grand stature shriveled, however, when Knowitall achieved a low 99.44% on an organic quiz, and Mac tugged furiously to obtain a high 47%. Knowitall can hardly stoop so low as to understand Mac's slang, where Mac cannot climb high enough to comprehend Knowitall's vocabulary, which constantly passes over his head. If Mac would only attend some artist series and teas, and Knowitall would visit the gym a bit more frequently. But, no, when Mr. Knowitall thinks, Mac moans; when Mac performs, Knowitall groans. So is the constant rivalry between "brain" and "brawn."

What Professor Said Which?

"Who Said That?"

1. I know this better than I know my own name.
2. You talk dumb, boy. You're like a poor child, wandering in the wilderness. This next test will separate the sheep from the goats!
3. You can call me anything as long as you don't call me late for breakfast... when we all eat pie in the sky bye and bye.
4. You see.
5. Let's not be facetious. I say this advisedly.
6. But at any rate... as much as we hate to make announcements in Tuesday chapel...
7. A little quiz to shock the troops.
8. First rate! Capital! Ruddy! Now we shall see how Hector got her A.
9. And for the neophytes...
10. Would you like to write that up in a report.
11. Go to it!
12. Because Mr. White could not locate this place, we will have it in the next map test.
13. Snattlelake!
14. Sure! Yeah!
15. If you don't get anything else out of gym, at least take a shower.

From Abroad

From West Chester's Quad Angles:

"A"—A grade given to a student who agrees with his prof.

Bias-n. — An expression most commonly used by women, such as: "Bias this; bias that."

Confidence-n. — That which the foolish thinks he has and the wise wishes he had.

Corroborate-v.t. — To support another's statement as true—for a price.

Egotist-n. — One who pretends to be what he is ashamed he isn't.

Integrity-n.—That insight which protects one from getting caught cheating.

Lover-n.—One who trifles with emotion and shrinks from reason.

Mediator-n. — A person whose prejudices are unknown.

Old Age-n. — That period of time in which a person analyzes his life and draws the wrong conclusions.

Optimist-n.—A lying cynic or a blind fool.

Pessimist-n.—One who too often draws correct conclusions.

Positive-adj.—Pertaining to that state of mind into which one's egotism leads him.

Shambles-n.—A state of being referring to the dorms.

Wrong-adj. — Refers to one whose ideas are not in accord with one's own opinion.

Duffy

Did you know that there are only two kinds of people in the world? Well, according to Joanne Duffy there are the ones that are Irish and the ones that aren't.

Joanne is a local lass who gets a thrill out of studying a test tube. By that you can gather that she's a science major and loves it. After graduation in June she plans to further her studies at Drexel.

Along with being a conscientious student, Duffy manages to contribute her share to campus activities. Among her activities are the Daywomen's Club, of which she is president, student council, and Phi Beta Mu sorority.

While in college, she has spent her summer working for Wilson Products and travelling. Her travels have taken her all over the United States and of course to Ireland. It's quite obvious to all who know her that while she was in Ireland, she kissed the Blarney Stone. Joanne's special sense of humor and her color hair further enhance the Irish glint in her eyes. Incidentally, she's partial to green.

During her spare time, small as it is, she delights in taking care of Laddie, her pet collie. Also to be attributed to Duffy's spare time are the strange innovations in the daywomen's lounge.

Anyone interested in learning about the brighter side of life should consult with Joanne during her "office hours" in the lounge.

Much Ado About Nothing

"To err is human; to forgive, divine" . . . "That means if some character steps on your new white buckers on purpose, he's being human; if you don't slug him, that's divine! . . .

"In words as fashions, the same rule will hold, Alike fantastic if too new or old, Be not the first by whom the new are tried, Nor yet the last to lay the old aside."

"Don't be the last to run down to Johnny Mazzo's for a fire engine red, six button suit."

—And so Alexander Pope turned over his own and all the graves for miles around as this high school English class took off on a study of the eighteenth century satirist. The above gems were garnered from our student teaching friends who charged out of the gate of death and exams into the jaws of you-know-where last week to get started on those two hundred hours of work in the public schools. While the rest of you were sleeping, traveling, sleeping, reading Spillane, sleeping and living it up between semester some of us had a rude awakening. Going back to high school was like looking into a magic mirror which whirled us back four years . . . Leather collars have replaced the mile-long knotted string of pearls . . . knee length socks are part of the teenage gal's uniform . . . "Gee, dad, that's chill," has replaced "Man, you're cool" . . . but the tunnel to the gym still leaks, the daily schedule is still undergoing slight changes as shifting the first period to the third, having Friday's fourth on Thursday's third and doing away with Wednesday altogether; and the kids still smuggle candy from lunchtime into assembly . . . it's all so new and yet so old . . . they put new paint on the desks; but when it wears off, the initials scratched in them remain.

"Tempus fugit . . . but not fast enough" department.

After trying to rationalize that if we wait 'til Tuesday, Monday's lesson plans will be due yesterday and it'll be too late to do them for tomorrow, we got scared and decided to do them anyway.

It's about a fifteen minute walk from Reading High to Albright—that is, on fair days when the wind's blowing east northeast at ten miles an hour and when there's no snow around with which to be pelted by the little urchins eager to get rid of all that motivation they've received from a nearby institution of learning. It takes longer on damp, dismal days, report our student-teaching friends.

Speaking of student teachers, Jim Barrett and Joe Czutno have inspired a sort of feminine fan club at the Castle on the Hill. (Aside to all the unappreciated males of the opposite sex at Albright: Go east on thirteenth street, young man, go east! These high school gals go wild over college men!)

And then there was the girl in English 4 who asked if the hero's name were Mack Beth?

Bopping the "Q" Question

The "Cue" staff wishes to convey publicly best wishes for nuptial bliss to the editor, Margaret Israel, who will become the bride of former Albrightian Billy Locher at an afternoon ceremony in York tomorrow. As a gift, we shall "ex-cue" (ouch!) her of her duties for that honeymoon in Florida.

Adieu to Customary Customs

If Student Council is sold on the idea of adopting the conventional "dink" (as they're referred to in collegiate circles), one of the frosh's best line of defense will have gone the way of all tradition. By turning down the brim of the old hat Southwester style and slinking around the corners, a freshman could go unidentified during the hazing daze. But, as Alfred, Lord T. once said, "The old order changeth, yielding place to the new," and this column closeth to make room for something better.

—J. F. Z.

Debatable P. S.

Imagine "our" embarrassment when a certain high school requested a chance to debate Albright College some Tuesday afternoon. Anyone willing to help us save face contact this column sometime before some Tuesday in the near future.

Albright Travels To Meet F&M Tomorrow Night

By Jack Lewis

Squeakers

The fighting Lions have provided fans from a number of cities with some very exciting basketball of late. Since the double extra-period game with Lebanon Valley in early January, nearly every game has been of the "squeaker" variety. On the recent Red and White road trip, the Albright Five split even in games with Gettysburg and Juniata. Oddly enough, the outcomes were just the reverse of those expected. One point separated the teams in both games, with Albright beating the favored Gettysburg Bullets, while losing to the underdog, Juniata Indians. Jake Handzelak, one of the country's leading scorers in small schools, was held to only 18 points in the game against Juniata—still quite a few points, but 20 under his average. The Bullets, who beat Lebanon Valley in a pre-season benefit game, were given the nod by the professional odd makers, but the Lions, still bearing the thorn of the loss to Juniata in their foot, proceeded to upset the odds, and nose out the host Bullets.

Red Devils

In the rematch with the Dickinson Red Devils, the host Lions moved from a very slow start into complete control of the ball game. The big story was in the rebounds. The G-Men grabbed one rebound after another and slowly began to make the ensuing plays pay off. The fans got a rare treat in the closing minutes of the game, when the very highly publicized Joseph Katchik made his initial appearance. This was the boy that Grantland Rice picked as one of the most outstanding freshman football players in the country while he was at Notre Dame. He proved to be very popular with the fans, who took his appearance a little too lightly. If he had been used a little more, the outcome could have been altered slightly—in Dickinson's favor.

F&M

Tomorrow night, the now roaring Lions will travel to Lancaster, where they hope to recoup some of the laurels which they relinquished to the Diplomats last season. The Lancasterians still have big Gus Lovett, one of the nation's leading rebounders. But optimism still prevails, the Lions have been losing too many games that I feel should have been victories. They are bound to come to life and prove to all pessimistic viewers that they could boast a record where the victories easily doubling the defeats. You may take this prediction with a grain of salt—Albright by seven.

Gettysburg, Pa. . . The Gettysburg basketball team was dealt a serious blow when it was revealed that they would lose the services of co-captain, John Habeeb. This closes the college career of one of the highest scorers in Gettysburg history. Thus far this season, he boasted a 40% field goal average, and a per game total of 220 points.

Dips Have One Of Country's Top Boardmen

Lovett Again High On List of Rebounders

Albright College's basketball squad travels to Lancaster tomorrow night to meet Franklin and Marshall College for the first game between the two teams this year. The Diplomats will appear in the Albright gym for the closing game on the Lion schedule on Saturday, March 6.

Eddie Gulian will try to have the Roaring Lions in top form to gain revenge for the two losses suffered at the hands of the Dips last year by scores of 92-70 and 99-80. However, the Diplomats will have a veteran lineup ready for Albright, with four returning starters from last year's squad as well as several substitute lettermen.

Conrad Passes 300

George Conrad already passed the 300 mark in scoring by collecting 17 points in Albright's 80-65 win over Dickinson last week, and Mike DePaul was a cinch to do likewise against St. Joseph on Wednesday for his 24 points against Dickinson gave him 297 for the season. Freshmen Bruce Riddell and Jim Foreman collected 211 and 145 points respectively. The Lions' captain Jim Croke surpassed the 100 mark with four points against The Red Devils.

Franklin and Marshall will pit one of the East's highest scorers against the Lions tomorrow night. Carson "Gus" Lovett is the big gun for the Diplomats. Last year he scored 24 points against the Lions at Lancaster and for good measure he came to the Albright gym and dumped in 29 markers. Mike DePaul hit the baskets for 26 points in the home game to rival Lovett's effort, and at Lancaster DePaul and Conrad divided 40 points.

Dips List Returnees

Coach Woody Sponaugle has other good shots in Dick Dunn and Carl Yoder, forwards, and Dale Ritter and Lee Pitcock, guards. The Dips lost their captain, Walt Lenz, of last year's team through graduation. Dunn scored 18 points against the Lions at F & M last year. Yoder and Pitcock also reached the double figures.

Despite a rather successful season this year, Sponaugle's men were drubbed by Navy 98-68, and they had a close game with Dickinson, winning 62-61. Albright defeated the Red Devils of Carlisle twice this year.

Lions On Road

The Lions continue to play away from home next week against Scranton on Monday and Lebanon Valley on Thursday, but the Red and White returns home next Saturday night to meet Moravian for the second time this year. All games next week are conference games in the Middle Atlantic States Conference. Albright has two wins in the league over Moravian 70-66 and Scranton 79-68, but they acquired a loss at the hands of Lebanon Valley 75-71.

THE 'OLD PRO' IN ACTION

Captain Jim Croke presents a good study of grim determination in last Friday's game with Dickinson. The Lions won the contest, 80-65. The other Lion is Bruce Riddell, who netted 18 points to aid the local's cause. The lone Red Devil is Johe. —(Gil-Fox Photo)

Lions Crush Carlisle Five

Meeting the Dickinson College's Red Devils for the second time this season, Albright's hardwood gems emerged on the long end of an 80-65 count. Four Lions, George Conrad, Mike DePaul, Bruce Riddell, and Jim Foreman, scored in double figures, DePaul heading the list with twenty-four markers. Dick Dudas, a five foot, eight inch junior, spearheaded Dickinson with twenty-two points, hitting on eight of eleven shots from the floor.

Albright scored first on a jump shot by George Conrad, and continued to a 15-12 lead at the end of the period. In the second stanza the Red Devils poured it on, and the lead changed hands several times. Sid Kline's set shot tied it up at sixteen all, and from then on the lead seasawed back and forth.

The third period started out the same way, but Jim Foreman's driving shot put the Lions in front for good, 42-40. The Red and White gradually increased the margin, leading 60-49 at the end of the stanza.

Dickinson's Joe Katchik, a six foot, nine inch transfer from Notre Dame, might have made a large difference in the game. On the outs with the coach, he was only allowed to play the last five minutes of a then-hopeless cause, even then scoring nine points.

In the preliminary encounter, the Lion Cubs bested the Baby Devils by a 77-58 count, thus raising their season mark to six wins and ten setbacks. Mickey Harbach led the victors with twenty-three points.

The Zetas defeated the Stags 35-29 in a playoff game. The Zeta fraternity maintained their mastery in intramural sports by successfully defending its basketball championship in the first half of the split season 1953-54 schedule. The Zetas took the top spot in both the "A" and "B" leagues which earned sure positions for the two squads in the playoffs if they should lose out in the second half. The Stags held the lead for most of the time during the first half, but a spurt by the Zetas at the end of the half earned for them the right to play the Stags in a playoff tussle.

In that playoff game between the Stags and the Zeta "B" it again was an uphill battle for the Zetas, but the sharp shooting of Joe Kierstead iced the game with six points in the last few minutes, enabling his team to win 35-29. Jim Croke's Zeta "A" squad found the season much easier going as they finished their third undefeated season in intramural basketball. Last year Jim Croke coached the Zetas in that undefeated season.

The APO "A" team strengthened their hold on third place by edging the Kappas 43-39 which dropped the losers into a fourth place tie with the Gayblades who won a forfeit over the Pi Taus. In the "B" loop the Stags gained their fifth win by a forfeit over Pi Taus.

Lions Split Pair On Road

Albright College's hardwood stalwarts split a pair of games of their first overnight stand of the season, losing to Juniata 72-71, and downing Gettysburg, 64-63.

In the first encounter the Lions took an early lead on Mike DePaul's one-hander, and increased their lead to 15-0 with four minutes left in the opening period. Then big Walt Vanderbush dropped in a jump shot to break the scoring ice for the Braves. The Lions held on to the lead until late in the last stanza, when a set shot by Joe Boulton put the Braves in front, 68-67. George Conrad's jump shot put the Lions back in front, 69-68, but Bill Oriss' driving layup put the Red and White behind with thirty seconds to go. With fifteen seconds remaining, Conrad converted two foul shots to advance the Lions in the lead once again. Jake Handzelak's set shot fell short, but Vanderbush's tap cut the cords cleanly and Juniata led, 72-71. Albright could not score in the remaining six seconds.

Captain Jim Croke, until forced to withdraw late in the game due to a back injury, played a sterling defensive game. Handzelak, Juniata's candidate for Little All-America honors, was held to 18 points, a far cry from his 27-point average.

Lions Edge Bullets

At Gettysburg the following night, the Lions looked like anything but a tired team, as they beat Gettysburg, the same team that trounced Wagner by sixteen points, 79-63.

The Bullets scored first on Joe Lang's set shot, but Bernie Seaman tied it up a minute later with a jump shot. The lead seasawed back and forth until the third stanza, when Jack Keller's foul shot put the Bullets ahead, 34-33. The Lions trailed by seven going into the final period, when a desperate drive, spearheaded by Mike DePaul, drew the Lions up to within two points, 60-58. A minute later DePaul's jump shot knotted the count. Bill Snyder's foul put the Bullets ahead momentarily, but a minute later Bruce Riddell converted two free throws to put Albright in front, 62-61. Don Pryor, playing great ball in relief of the injured Jim Croke, dropped in two more free throws. Keller made another driving layup to make the score 63-62. Albright froze the ball for the remaining ten seconds.

Snyder led the losing cause with sixteen points, trailed by Lang with 15. Mike DePaul led the Lions with nineteen markers, followed by Conrad with eleven and Pryor with ten.

Coach Eddie Gulian started his second team of Pryor, Seaman, Bill Spaide, John Schiavo and Bernie Krick. They performed like veterans, holding Gettysburg to a 13-11 lead at the end of the initial stanza.

In the preliminary game, the Lion Cubs lost to the Junior Bullets, 65-58.

and the Zetas acquired their fifth win by mauling the Jacksons 45-29. The Warriors "B" gained a third place tie with APO "B" by defeating the Kappas 49-29.

Twenty Seniors Begin Teaching In Local Schools

Twenty Albright seniors will practice their student teaching in the schools of Reading and Berks County during the second semester, Dean Levan P. Smith, head of the education department, announced. The student teachers have begun observation in their respective classes and many have started actual teaching.

Assigned to Reading High School in English are Nancy Lou Walker, York, and Jacqueline Zwayer, Reading; in history and social studies, James Barrett, Washington, D. C., and Joseph Czutno, West Hazleton; in German, Phyllis Gruber, Robesonia; in French, Marilyn Yatron, Reading; and in mathematics, Alan Schlegel, Reading.

Eleanor Dick, Reading, will go to Northwest Jr. High School and Margaret Israel, York, and Joan Lafferty, Reading, to Northeast Jr. High School to teach English. Mrs. Marina Ashton, Reading, will teach English in Southern Jr. High School.

Jean Hook, Pottstown, and James O'Connell, Reading, will do their student teaching at Wilson High School, West Lawn, while Edward Serfass, Reading, joins the staff of Ontelaunee Area Joint High School. Miriam Worley, Shillington, will teach social studies at West Reading High School.

In the special field of home economics, Emma Seifrit, Reading; Victoria Zampella, Birdsboro, and Arlene Kuhlmann, Reading, will teach in the junior high schools of the city. Patricia Eisenbise, Shillington, has been assigned to Wyomissing High School and Evelyn Weida, Reading, goes to Muhlenberg Township High School.

These twenty student teachers represent approximately 18 percent of the graduating class. Over the past few years, approximately 17 to 20 percent of the student enrollment has indicated an intention to teach.

Instructor To Receive Master of Science Degree

Warren E. Reese, instructor in mathematics and physics at Albright College, will receive the master of science at the mid-year graduation exercises of the University of Pennsylvania, February 13.

Reese joined the Albright faculty last September in connection with the new program in cooperative engineering. He had previously done research in solid state physics and optics and electronics at the Philco Corporation.

His thesis, in connection with the master's degree, involves the clearing of background in Nuclear Research Emulsions.

Reese resides with his wife and three children at 622 N. Third St.
