Four Speakers Slated For Impending Chapel And Assembly Program

Assembly programs have been announced for the next two weeks in the Merner-Pfeiffer-Klein Memorial Chapel-Auditorium.

October 4, Ernest Campbell of the First Presbyterian Church in York, Pa., will be guest speaker at the general assembly chapel program.

On October 6, the program will include a lecture titled "The Undiscovered Power of the Mind", a presentation of the Psychology Department by Dr. D. K. Ernst. Dr. Ernst has "played" in the field of hypnotism since the age of 12. He has lived in the Reading area for the last 21 years. He resides in Stony Creek Mills. Dr. Ernst has removed upon request such things as hidden fears, stuttering, smoking, nail-biting, and other common habits through the use of hypnotism.

The chapel program for Tuesday, October 11, will be a worship service conducted by Reverend Mr. William Marlow, instructor in religion and chaplain.

October 13 there will be an assembly program concentrating on current political affairs. The program is called "Politics 1960: Part 2." The speaker will be Mr. James Mantis, Republican candidate for Congress in this district. His speech marks the second in the series which presents both parties running for this office. Mr. George Rhoads, the Democratic incumbent, spoke at a previous assembly. All assembly programs will start at the usual time of 11:10 A.M.

Club Convenes To Plan Fall Meetings

International Relations Club recently held a meeting at which tentative plans for the year were discussed. IRC vice president, Ernest Giese, '61, discussed plans for a political parties club.

The October 19 meeting will feature a faculty panel discussion of the major issue of the current campaign. Plans will be made at a future meeting for the Berks County Model United Nations General Assembly which will be held in December.

The political parties club is tentative at this time, but plans are being made for writing a charter. The club will be in existence up to and including the day of the election. The culmination of the club's activities will be an election night watch. Definite plans will be released in the future.

Y To Retreat Oct. 8, 9 To Blue Mountain Camp

"Understanding Yourself" is the theme of the Y Retreat planned for October 8 and 9. The retreat will be held at the Blue Mountain YWCA Camp, which is about twelve miles outside of Reading, near Hamburg, Pennsylvania.

The guest speaker will be Dr. Mark Shedran, the Executive Director of the Department of Pastoral Services of the National Council of Churches.

Committees

A great deal of planning is being done by the various committees whose chairmen are Paul Duhamel, '61, head of the program committee; Carl Schneider, '63, head of the recreation committee; Carol Conway, '62, and Audrey Schropp, '62,

The two office typists this year are Bonita Hackman, '62, and Joanna Oberlander, '63.

Fourteen reporters compose the news staff. They are as follows: Virginia Aschenbach, '64, Harold Bankes, '61, Mitchell Gordon, '63, Steven Gurland, '63, Phyllis Kasen, '64, Leonard Magaree, '63, Carolyn Much, '63, Steven Newman, '63, Linda Romig, '62, Lawrence Santoro, '64, Eleanor Schlenker, '63, Douglas Steffy, '64, Jennifer Talley, '64, and David Walton, '64.

Measure of Man, by Joseph Wood Krutch, is the Book of the Semester. The book was selected by Dr. James D. Reppert, assistant professor of English, and the appointed student committee.

Approximately 100 copies of the paperback edition have been ordered and will be on sale in the bookstore in two weeks. This book appears on major college booklists.

The purpose of the Book of the Semester program is to "give students a common intellectual fare for students in an effort to provide a united inquiry."

Members of the selection committee include Carl Schneider, '63, Cell Caliendo, '61, Carol Flanagan, '61, Sara Blouch, '61, and Bonnie Burns, '62.

Y Introduces Seminar Series For First Time Next Tuesday

Pictured are Linda Hershberger, '61, Dr. Eugene H. Barth, religion department head, and Charles Schleifer, '62. Dr. Barth will be a guest lecturer in the Y seminar series. Miss Hershberger and Schleifer are co-chairmen of the series.

Y Offers Three Talks For Program

Albright's YMCA-YWCA opens its first seminar series next Tuesday. Featured lecturers from the college faculty are Dr. Eugene H. Barth, head of the religion department, Dr. James D. Reppert, associate professor of English, Ellery B. Haskell, associate professor of religion, and Marcus H. Green, associate professor of biology.

Programs

The Tuesday evening programs will be held October 4, 11 and 18, in three classrooms of the Merner-Pfeiffer-Klein Memorial Chapel-Auditorium. Times will be 7:30 p.m.

"A Look At Existential Philosophy" is Haskell's topic. He will present a simplified analysis of existential philosophy.

Professors

Dr. Barth and Green will discuss the "Philosophy of Modern Day Science." Major areas of this topic are the nature of the physical world from a scientific point of view, and the nature of man and his relationship to the biological world. Special emphasis will be given to the philosophical questions raised herein. This series of lectures will terminate with the second one, unless students request another.

"An Ethical Look At Twentieth Century Literature" is Dr. Reppert's title. He will concentrate on the modern novel. He will develop his theme upon the "radical shift in the narrative point of view which literature has taken since 1920."

Committees

This fall seminar series is the first such series which has been sponsored by the campus Y. If student interest merits another series, the Y cabinet will schedule another.

Linda Hershberger, '61, and Charles Schleifer, '62, are co-chairmen of the program. Other committee members are Agnes Oaks, '61, YWCA president, Ernest Giese, '61, YMCA president, and Edith Koch, '61.

Women Hostess At First Tea

A tea will be held this afternoon from 3 to 5 p.m. in Selwyn Hall Lounge. Members of the women's student body, the faculty, the administration, and the staff are cordially invited. Punch and cookies will be served. A background of piano music will be offered by some of the students.

The chairman of the tea is Reneé Guiney, '62. The tea was planned by Judy Miller, '61, president of the Women's Student Association; Dorothy Werner, '61, president of the Daywomen's organization; and Susan Mock, '61, president of the Women's Dormitory Association.

In December there will be another tea at which time the guests will be invited to view the Christmas door decorations in the Selwyn area. This date will be announced later.

Vincent Price To Lecture

Albright College, the Wyomissing Institute of Fine Arts, and the Reading Community Players invite the citizens of Reading and Berks County to the first community fall lecture. The lecture will be given Saturday, October 22, 1960, at 8 p.m. in Albright College's chapel-auditorium.

The featured speaker is Vincent Price, who is well known to motion picture and stage audiences as a distinguished actor who can play both romantic and sinister roles with equal facility. Price has also revealed himself as one of the top one-man performers of the day. He will perform "Three American Voices," in which he presents a dramatic entertainment about three giants of literature, art, and drama: Walt Whitman, James A. McNeill Whistler, and Tennessee Williams.

Speaking Tours

During the 1959-60 season, Price undertook one of the most heavily booked cross-country tours in years, appearing in some 56 cities in 60 days. Only a man with his enthusiasm for interesting others in the enjoyment and appreciation of art could accomplish such a backbreaking tour. The critics and public alike reacted with wholehearted acclaim for his masterful platform performances. When he appears here, we will be able to share something of the excitement and enthusiasm this talented man feels for the arts.

The tickets for the lecture, which are two dollars, can be purchased in the public relations office through October 17.

Pepleaders Chosen During Tryouts

The cheerleading squad for the 1960-1961 season was announced Monday, September 26. The candidates were judged by Stephen Lipkins, '61, Student Council president; Mrs. Beatrice Ramsey, instructor in physical education, and Cell Caliendo, '61, and Barbara Davis, '62, co-captains of the squad.

Miss Caliendo is an English major from Long Branch, N. J. Miss

Corps Calls For Students

The United States Department of State will hold its next Foreign Service Officer Examination, Dec. 10, 1960. The department is seeking to interest undergraduate and graduate students who have studied in such fields as economics, public and business administration, language and area studies, history and political science.

To be eligible to take this examination, candidates must be at least 21 and under 31 years of age as of Oct. 24, 1960. Persons 20 years of age may also apply if a college graduate or a senior in college. They must be American citizens of at least nine years' standing. Although a candidate's spouse need not be a citizen on the date of the examination, citizenship must have been obtained prior to the date of appointment.

Appointments

Candidates who are successful in the one-day written examination which tests their facility in English expression, general ability and background, will be given oral examinations within nine months by panels which will meet in regional centers throughout the United States. Fluency in a language, while not an examination requirement, must be attained before an officer can advance in the service. Those candidates who pass the oral test will then be given a physical examination and a background investigation.

If found qualified in all respects, candidates will be placed on register and appointments will be made therefrom as needed in order of examination scores. The names of candidates failing to receive appointments within 30 months from the date of the written examination will be removed from the register. Upon appointment the candidate will receive three commissions from the President as Foreign Service Officer Class Eight, as Secretary in the Diplomatic Service, and as Vice Consul of Career.

Salary

A newly appointed Foreign Service Officer may serve his first tour of duty either in the department's headquarters in Washington, D. C., or in one of the 289 American Embassies, Legations and Consulates abroad. The new officer may be assigned to several functions to give him varied training and experience in consular work, in administrative assignments, including ones in the accounting and management fields, and in political, economic, international finance and commercial reporting.

The starting salary for the newly appointed Foreign Service Officer ranges from $5,625 to $6,345 per year, depending upon qualifications, experience, marital status, and age at the time of appointment. Also, certain allowances, plus insurance, medical, educational and retirement benefits are granted, as well as annual and sick leave.

Application forms may be obtained immediately from the Board of Examiners for the Foreign Service, Department of State, Washington 25, D. C. The closing date for filing the application is Oct. 24, 1960.

Club Plans Discussions For Term

The Physics-Math-Science Club is designed for those students majoring in Math. Topics relating to new theories are explained by outside speakers and discussed by the students. The first meeting will have as its guest Mr. Frank X. Ratajczak, Chief Engineer at Gilbert Associates.

The club makes several field trips during the year to places of interest. Last year a trip was taken to RCA and this year a visit to the Bell Telephone Company is planned.

All interested students are invited to attend the first meeting which will be held Oct. 5.

Frosh To Be At First Game In One Group

Frosh customs for this weekend will feature an all-campus pre-game pep rally and bonfire tomorrow night at 7 p.m. on Kelchner Field. Barry Parney, '62, Customs chairman, announced that all freshmen will meet in the Krause Hall parking lot at 6:45 p.m. Immediately following roll call the frosh will participate in the bonfire ceremonies. Cheerleaders and band members will be on hand to lead the festivities.

After the pep rally the freshmen will march into the stadium to form a welcoming line for the Albright football team. At half-time of the game a greased pig chase will highlight the activities. The frosh who catches the animal will have the privilege of becoming an honorary upperclassman.

Kangaroo Court convened last Wednesday afternoon in Sylvan Chapel for its first "hearing" of frosh violation cases. The court passed sentence on several freshmen and designated various stunts to be performed at tomorrow's football game. Kangaroo Court judges are Carol Sirken, '63, Barbara Davis, '62, Frances Geigle, '63, Mary Ann Richards, '62, Myron Rodos, '62, Clark Hughes, '63, Walter Hanzen, '63, and John S. Weaver, '61.

Daywomen Hold Picnic At Park

"Welcome Day-Frosh" is the theme for tonight's combined Daywomen's and Daymen's picnic at Schlegel Park from 5 until 9 p.m. A doggie roast and an evening of volleyball and baseball is planned in honor of the day-freshmen.

The daywomen are providing the picnic lunch. Members of the daymen's organization have charge of the sports events. Nancy Trumbauer, '61, and Paul Scheider, '61, are co-chairmen. Chaperones for the affair are Mary E. Harding, dean of women; Dr. Charles Kistler, professor of history; Ronald E. Cocroft, instructor in religion; and William Hummel, assistant professor of history.

Your Band

Last Saturday the Albright Lions defeated the Muhlenberg Mules 31-7, in a well-played opener for the season. Enthusiastic students, faculty and parents arrived in a Student Council-sponsored bus and in private cars. Albright's cheerleaders led in cheering the team to victory.

The Muhlenberg audience was equally as ready to cheer their team, except, they had a band.

The Albright band wanted to play at that football game, but the members were afraid they would get lost on the field. After all, thirty instruments do not make nearly enough music to fill a football stadium, especially when only two of those instruments are trumpets, the basis of marching bands. Yes, there are only two trumpet players in the band. There are nine clarinet players, too. A few drummers also. Put them all together and there is a group which has quality—dance band quality. Dance bands aren't supposed to march on football fields.

When the band issued the call to try out this year, 19 out of 60 probable candidates in the freshman class responded. You urbane upperclassmen who consider bands "highschoolish" decided that this band wasn't "good enough" for you anyway, so why lower yourselves.

You may consider yourselves too good or too sophisticated, but when it comes right down to the question you are just too lazy to attend three practices a week.

Those of you who scoff and want to write off the band as "just another campus group that does a lot of nothing," please read the rest of this editorial. Maybe you had better go to your room and read this in private so you won't be ashamed of your laziness.

First and foremost, the band has become associated with the football team as part of the team by most observers. We have a champion football team. What can be said for the band, except, where is everybody? If the football team gauged student support by the size of the band, they would give up the sport in disgust.

Second, in addition to the majorettes and color guard, a flag twirling group has organized to march also in front of the band. These three groups outnumber the band in size, not to mention enthusiasm.

Still scoffing? Don't be too embarrassed next spring when an executive of the Pennsylvania Bandmaster's Association asks Albright's band to host its annual spring music festival at Albright.

Now what executive would know that Albright has a band? And why would Albright want to participate in such a waste of time anyway?

Last year two seniors from Albright's band participated with 136 others in the music festival in Philadelphia. Also last year Lester R. Yeager, professor of music and band director at Albright College, Reading, Pennsylvania, was elected vice president of the Pennsylvania bandmasters. Last year also, the Albright Band offered to host this year's festival.

Albright will compare very well to other colleges its size at the spring festival. Very well. Like a hole in the ground. Nobody from Albright will be there.

Don't be insulted or embarrassed by anything you've read here. You know, "Sticks and stones will break your bones, but words will never hurt you!" Just crush your Albrightian, throw it in your wastebasket, and go somewhere and sell that instrument. It's only gathering dust. Someone might as well get some use from it.

the dining hall lounge when Krause Hall was in use for Friday night activities.

Also, Homecoming Queen nominations will be accepted at the Oct. 18 meeting of Council. Any student may nominate a candidate at this meeting. Lipkins reported that the bus for the Muhlenberg game was a successful venture.

The new budget for 1960-1961 was approved by Council members. Tentative plans were drafted for an all-campus spring dinner-dance by Council.

Falsehood And Truth

In recent days, news media have carried headlines of aggression, colonialism, imperialism, revolution, missile launchings, campaign speeches, political charges and counter charges ad infinitum. The situation in the Congo awaits a practical solution. In the midst of this particular difficulty is a United Nations force strung out over the country like an overstretched rubber band. Even this instrument of peace is not without political troubles. The Ghana contingent shows leftist Lumumba leanings and has been talking defection.

Discontent

The Congolese people are hungry, unemployed and discontent. Factories are closed, food is scarce, unemployment is up to 95% and even the beer halls are closed. People are roaming the streets confused and wondering what will come next. One question is: every Congolese mind. When will the United States send us help? The Congolese have come a long way since Independence Day when the future seemed bright with their new freedom.

Far from Africa, the nations of the world have convened at United Nations headquarters in New York to discuss the Congo and 89 other issues ranging from East Germany to Fidel Castro's hotel bill. The United Nations Steering Committee will have completed the formal agenda by the time this column is printed. Every major international issue of our time will be aired before an anxious world.

Perhaps this will be one of the greatest and most fruitful debates in the history of mankind, provided the Communists do not go home. What an appropriate Christmas present it would be to the free world from the Communist world—turn the United Nations into another Paris. But the Communists would never consider such an outrageous thing. They are men of goodwill! Did not Khrushchev say that he came to New York with the avowed and noble intention of seeking peace? From a shabby pier on New York's waterfront, Khrushchev said Russia will disarm if only others would follow.

The Truth

Obviously you and I know the truth. Khrushchev is not a man of goodwill nor is any Communist in the world. He and his atheistic, materialistic followers seek nothing but their own selfish ends. A man of goodwill is a man who seeks truth, justice and mercy. How many instances can you remember when a Russian Communist diplomat spouted falsehoods? Indeed, the list is long and weary to recount. How many times has a Communist leader violated the laws of God and man? And suppose we ask Janos Kadar of Hungary to speak to us for four hours on his interpretation of mercy.

The great struggle in New York will be one between two age old enemies—falsehood and truth. The leaders of the world must choose. Our great hope is with the reason of men's minds, the force of justice and the compassion of the human heart. Did not Christ give us final assurance with the words, "seek truth, have faith, and thine enemies will be defeated"?

Samuel C. Gundy, Director of the Reading Public Museum and Art Gallery, announced the 33rd annual Regional Exhibition of the Artists of Reading and vicinity. The exhibition will be held October 9 to November 27.

Three original works may be submitted. Oils, watercolors, pastels, prints, and sculpture never exhibited publicly before in this area may be presented for judging.

A new and attractive chemistry exhibit, leaning heavily on basic and theoretical aspects of the science, will be unveiled early in October at the Franklin Institute Science Museum in Philadelphia as a part of the institute's dedicated program to interest school children and students in pursuing a science career.

Featuring the elements as the building blocks of the universe, the exhibit, constructed at a cost of nearly $100,000, donated by sponsors, is designed to stress the importance of chemistry in business and industrial economy, social structure, national defense and security, as well as our private and public health.

Albright Smashes Muhlenberg, 31-7

The intramural football season is already in full swing. The first game was played Wednesday between the Alpha Pi Omega social fraternity and the Daymen. This year a new innovation has been introduced, according to Coach Renken the circuit will consist of eight teams rather than the five or six teams that participated previously.

Expanded League

In order to expand the league, Coach Renken has proposed a freshman daymen's team and an upper-class daymen's team. Also the dorm's team will be split into freshmen and upperclassmen teams thus adding two new teams to the league.

The intramural contests will be played on the Science Hall Field at 4 p.m. weekday afternoons.

The APOs will be seeking to extend their consecutive championship skein to six years. Last year in the championship game the APOs defeated the Zeta Omega Epsilon social fraternity, 12-7.

Harriers Lift Lid Tomorrow

The 1960 edition of the Albright College cross country squad will put its running ability on the line for the first time this season tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 p.m. when they will oppose Haverford College on the local course.

The cross-country team began its formal season last week. Even though most of the candidates for the team have been running since the beginning of school, the formal practices did not begin until a meeting with Coach Eugene Shirk was held on Monday, September 26. At the meeting Shirk explained the customary rules and regulations, gave an orientation of the four and one-half mile course, and then timed the harriers over the course. The turn-out for the team was good, but anyone else interested in joining should contact Shirk.

Returning lettermen from last year's squad are John Grove, Walt Diehm, and Paul Hensel. Other experienced runners from a year ago are Bob Cotter, Hank Tornell, Dan Snyder, Stan Rockett, and Jim Parks. The most inspired runner, according to Coach Shirk, is Rockett, who should do well this season if he keeps improving.

Ten-Meet Schedule

This fall the harriers have a ten-meet schedule with their toughest opponents most probably being Lafayette, Dickinson, and Juniata. The team will be working hard to equal or better last year's record of four wins and seven defeats. The home meets during the week are at 4:15 p.m. and on Saturday at 2:30 p.m.

Lions Take Opener As Pitts Goes 90

Catching fire after first having been scored upon, the Albright College football team smashed Muhlenberg College, 31-7, last Saturday afternoon at Allentown as freshman Al Pitts went 90 yards to score the first time he ever got his hands on a college football.

The surprising freshman started a crowd of 3500 opening-season fans on the Muhlenberg campus when he gathered in the kickoff following the Muhl touchdown and scampered to paydirt from his own ten to tie the score seconds after Muhlenberg assumed the initial lead.

It was all Albright after this as the Lions scored once again before the half. The Allentown squad never again regained its footing in the face of two Albright touchdowns from end Claude Lynch and one from halfback Mike Matto.

Superior Line

The far superior Albright line contained the Muhl ground attack, limiting their runners to a total of 55 yards net rushing, contrasting with Albright's total of 225 yards. Both teams felt each other out for a quarter and a half until the Muhls began to hammer the left side of Albright's defensive wall until they got to the Lion forty. A pass interference call against Albright put Muhlenberg twenty-five yards from the goal, and Charley Kuntzleman took the ball to the ten. Five plays later he scored.

After Pitts' electrifying run quarterback Gary Chapman intercepted an enemy pass and ran it back to the Muhlenberg twenty-nine. Albright worked the ball to the fifteen and then Chapman threw to Lynch. Jack DeLorenzo added the conversion, as he did to the previous touchdown, and the Potsklammen took a 14-7 half-time lead.

Albright received the second half kickoff and controlled the ball for the first seven minutes of the period during which the Red and White marched eighty yards to score. The last thirteen yards of the distance were covered by fullback Matto, who went over on his seventh consecutive carry. DeLorenzo again converted, and Albright led, 21-7.

Touchdown Lateral

Early in the final frame Chapman threw to Gary Sheeler from the Muhls' twenty-seven yard line. The end got tied up around the fifteen and lateraled the ball to teammate Lynch, who went the rest of the way for a six-pointer. DeLorenzo converted.

Albright bogged down later on in the contest on the Muhls' ten yard stripe, and Pitts kicked a field goal on fourth down, ending Albright's scoring for the afternoon.

Tomorrow night Albright will open its home schedule against Thiel in the Lions' Den. Game time is 8 p.m.

IN THE LION'S DEN

Albright Team Of 1912 Reviewed By A Contemporary

The day after the last issue of the Albrightian was published I found on my desk a page from a copy of the November 3, 1912, issue of the North American, a now defunct newspaper published in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. The page that was ripped out of the periodical contained a number of sports feature stories, the lead story being about Pop Kelchner and the Albright football team.

In the wake of favorable comment about the subject of last week's "Lion's Den" I thought some readers might enjoy sharing this bit of antiquity with me. So, from here on I will turn this space over to George M. Graham, sportswriter, whose by-line appears under the headline "From the Football Camps: Latest Details of Preparations for Big Games, With Albright Story as Feature."

Football has been undergoing a resurrection here at Albright College. Not since 1905 has the gridiron game been played at Albright until this year, and now it owes its rehabilitation largely to the energy and ability of Prof. Charles Kelchner, who in addition to being a member of the faculty is also the head coach.

It was in 1905 that the students of Albright abandoned football because they felt that under the system of mass play then existing they could not get heavy enough men to make up teams able to cope with the kind of rivals they wanted to meet.

In the intervening years there was no football, until with the adoption of the new rules, the student body began to be pervaded with a sentiment that under the changed regulations Albright would have a chance, to make a meritorious showing.

The idea was accepted with enthusiasm, and with the restoration of the game, Professor Kelchner was persuaded to take charge, and teach the boys how to play.

Kelchner faced a most unusual situation. He had no veteran material for the reason that there had been no football for so long that only a few candidates who had played on school teams had any knowledge whatever. It is an actual fact that some of the line candidates had never taken part in any football game whatever until they reported on the field to make a try for the Albright eleven.

Kelchner An Able Coach

Professor Kelchner essayed his task with characteristic energy and enthusiasm. One fortunate circumstance favored him. On the strong baseball nine were a number of men who were also good football players, and with the use of these he was able to weld a powerful backfield, which includes two or three men good enough for any eleven.

These were called on to help, linemen were sent out to learn how to play the center, guard and tackle position and Albright was on the field with a team.

Under these most unusual conditions, Coach Kelchner deserves hearty congratulations for the excellent showing he has made.

Albright has met strong teams like the Indians, Ursinus, F. and M. and Lehigh. Against the Indians, the eleven, then playing its first game, managed to score a most creditable touchdown. Ursinus was able to beat Albright by one touchdown only and to make this the Collegeville team had to rush in Galt about whose eligibility there is distinct doubt, for he is one of the coaches of the team. Fracker and Marshall was able to win only by a score of 13-7, and Lebanon Valley won by 10-7 in a game which ended in a fight and which will probably result in a return meeting at Myerstown. All things considered this is a most worthy showing.

Versatile Coach

Coach Kelchner is one of the most versatile men. Lafayette is his alma mater, from which he graduated in 1898. He played on the baseball team in 1896 and 1898 doing the catching and playing the outfield.

The club of 1898 was a famous combination. He was also a member of the football squad, but did not get much chance to play for that was in the golden age of football at the Easton institution, when men like Barclay, Walbridge, Rhinehart, etc., were members of the team. Kelchner was first tackle and end substitute for two years, but was not often able to get into the action.

After graduating from Lafayette, he came to Myerstown to assume the place of professor in Latin and French.

With his assumption of a collegiate chair, his interest in athletics did not die, and he was manager and proprietor of one of the original teams in the Tri-State League, having the franchise at Lebanon. He caught for the team and developed many noted players. He also took charge of athletics.

Plays Much Baseball

During the years that have intervened, he has continued to keep in close touch with baseball. In 1905 he managed the Milton team, in 1906 he was at Wildwood, in 1907 he had the Kane team in the Interstate League, in 1908 he was at Bridgeton. During the last half of the season of 1909 he was captain of the Harrisburg Tristate club. In 1910 and 1911 he had the Clearfield team, and last year he accepted a place as scout for the St. Louis American League club.

This varied experience has given Professor Kelchner a splendid understanding of athletics and of the handling of men, and in spite of the fact that he is becoming something of a veteran he has lost none of his vigor and drive.

To see him driving the athletes, either on diamond or gridiron or in the gymnasium, is to see genuine, intelligent leadership, and to a man the members of the team pull for him and give him the best they have.

On Albright's team one man stands out as a dazzling star, and there are six more who rank very high.

Captain Benfer is the big hero, and it is no exaggeration to say that right today he could make a place on almost any backfield. That he sticks to Albright in spite of strong efforts that have been made to get him elsewhere is proof of the genuineness of his devotion to his alma mater.

Benfer is a baseball and basketball player in addition to being a football star. He is a magnificent football player, ideally built.
