

Dedication Inaugurates Chapel Activity

New Chapel Is Officially Consecrated

Bishop Hermann W. Kaebnick presented the sermon, "The Vaster Knowledge," for Sunday's dedication of the Merner-Pfeiffer-Klein Memorial Chapel Auditorium. Kaebnick is the bishop of the eastern area of the EUB Church.

President of the college, Dr. Harry V. Masters, declared the purposes for the building. Reading the Old and New Testament scripture selections were the Rev. Mr. Ronald R. Cocroft, instructor in religion, and the Rev. Mr. Eugene H. Barth, head of the religion department.

Presentation of the keys to the chapel auditorium to Bishop Kaebnick was made by Luke A. Lutz, chairman of the building committee. The bishop then presented an opening statement of dedication.

Statements of purpose were spoken by Rev. Barth for the Holy ministry of education; Willard M. Stitzell, '60, president of student council, for student spiritual growth; Prof. Ellery B. Haskell, chairman of the faculty cultural committee, for the cultural life of the college, and the Rev. Mr. Robert S. Smethers, Jr., director of church relations, for the strengthening of the church. Continuing the statements were Dorothy Seigel, '60, president of the campus YWCA, for the training of Christian leadership, and Dr. Masters for the honor of faithful friends.

WSA To Hold The "Manhattan Make-Believe"

Albrightians will enter "Manhattan Make-Believe" by way of the Holland Tunnel tonight at eight o'clock in Krause Hall.

Washington Square will be the center of attraction at this "girl ask boy" dance. The hall will be decorated to give the illusion of New York City with its famous street corners. The affair is being presented on behalf of the Women's Student Association.

Mary Jane Foreman, '61, and Beverly Yanick, '61, co-chairmen of the affair, have planned intermission entertainment with an appropriate New York flavor. Music will be provided by Willie Wollenhaupt and his combo.

Refreshments are to be served by Sara Croner, '62, and her committee. Linda Hershberger, '61, and Nancy Keeley, '60, assisted the co-chairmen with publicity.

In Appreciation:

The members of the Chapel dedication committee extend sincerest thanks to the Albright student body for their co-operation in making last Sunday's ceremonies most colorful and significant.

Albrightian Has Revamped Its Editorial Staff

The Albrightian staff of 1959-60 term has begun the second semester with a revamped staff due to the departure of the editor-in-chief, Mervyn Hutchins, who graduated in January. Her position is being filled by Craig Leffler, '61, who had previously been the sports editor. Now heading the sports department is Jim Adam, '62, formerly the assistant and a reporter on the sports staff.

New Position

Remaining in the same capacity in which they were the first semester are Rachel Hinman, '60, business manager; Claire Vogel, '60, advertising manager; and April Pogosaew, '63, circulation manager.

Charles Kerschner, '63, will remain as the staff photographer. Among the news reporters are Nancy Heilman, '60; Nancy Ratajezak, '60; Michael Dolfman, '63; Len Seltzer, '63; Ron Mendelson, '63; Carol Flanagan, '61; and Carol Mueller, '62.

The sports reporters are Patricia Brobst, '63, and Barbara Miller, '63. The office staff includes Carol Sirken, '63; Jo Oberlander, '63; and Joan Farr, '63. Louise Powell, '63, will assist in the work of the circulation department.

The location of the Albrightian office has been moved from the basement of the Administration Building to the front right wing section of Krause Hall.

Union Building Is Discussed

A committee comprised of faculty members, administrative officials, and student representatives met in room 202 of the Administration Building, Monday, February 8, to discuss plans for the use of Krause Hall during the second semester of this term and thereafter. It has been proposed that the building be used in the capacity of a college union building.

Dean of Men, John W. Kopp, who presided over the discussion, raised three main points as issues for discussion: (1). What are the appropriate activities that could be held in the building?; (2). What are the limitations of these activities?; (3). What are the future possibilities? The bookstore and lunchroom in the basement will remain intact for some time, as well as the new publications offices and music equipment room upstairs. Thus, most of the discussion centered around the use of the big room or auditorium on the main floor and the balcony.

A Letter From Dean Hellerich

Tuesday Student Council received, from Dean of the College, Mahlon H. Hellerich, an answer to its inquiry into the present policy of the college toward "cuts". The letter was read, in its entirety, to the assembled Council representatives by president Willard Stitzell '60. The following four statements are the principles upon which the college attitude is based, as stated in the Dean's letter.

The letter urged that students file an explanation of absence in the Dean's office in order to avoid a conflict or misunderstanding when absences are tabulated. The filing of an explanation may be the difference in whether or not a student is placed on "cut" probation.

"The first principle of the Albright program is clearly stated in the catalog, 'regular and punctual attendance at all classes is expected of all students'. I accept and interpret this statement literally. It is worthy of note that the verb which is employed is 'expected' rather than 'required'. I am certain that this term was chosen deliberately in order to make it clear that the responsibility for class attendance rests upon the student and not upon his instructor or the dean.

"The second principle is that students are expected to be able to justify their absences to the dean. I interpret this principle to mean that we expect students to be absent from class on occasion, but that we expect the student to be able to justify his absence not only to himself but also to the Dean of the College. I also interpret this to mean that we are not drawing a distinction between a so-called excused absence and an unexcused absence. Indeed, properly speaking there is no place in this system for the unexcused absence; there is only room for the absence which the student can justify to the dean.

"The third principle of this system of class attendance is that a relevant relationship may exist between class attendance and academic achievement. Consequently, both the record of a student's class attendance and the record of his academic achievement are to be studied by the dean when making decisions as to the imposition of penalties for excessive absences. I must admit that I am inclined to interpret this principle conservatively. By this I mean that I regard academic achievement as involving not only regular attendance at class, but also active participation in the work of every class meeting. Consequently, I have used and will continue to use the following guide line in determining the status of a student—namely that a student should not have more than 20 non-justified absences from class in a particular semester in order to remain free of cut probation.

"The fourth principle of our system is that the faculty through the dean reserves the right to impose a penalty upon students who are known to have absented themselves too frequently from class. The penalty is known as being placed upon cut probation. This is a grievous penalty. It should not be treated lightly. When on cut probation a student may not take a non-justified absence. He can absent himself only for "real emergencies".

The penalties for taking an unjustified absence are severe (see page 36 of the 1958-59 Catalog).

The letter also made mention of the fact that students may be placed on "cut" probation in a single class if an excessive number of unexcused absences are taken. The reference made to late arrivals follows: "One final word—instructors are to note instances of late arrival, as well as absences from class. Our system provides that three tardinesses are equivalent to one non-justified absence.

Any further questions or requests to see the full context of Dean Hellerich's letter should be made to Student Council, or the Office of the Dean.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

There has been considerable interest on campus lately regarding the matter of cheating. This letter is just one man's stand on the subject, and that is all it is meant to be. I'm too cynical to try to start a crusade for an honor system at this college, of all places, and I'm not out to win friends. I am out to protect myself. This is my last semester at Albright, and I have absolutely nothing to lose by setting myself apart in this matter. I am not a fraternity man who can be ostracized by his brothers, nor a member of any club or other social organization which will be able to censure me. I am just one person stating his own mind in his own interests.

Highly Ironic

This morning I took a final exam in White Chapel. The exam was not adequately proctored . . . in the last analysis this fact is irrelevant anyway. I noticed several people using notes. (It is highly ironic to realize that many questions on this exam concerned the God-given freedom of man to choose among good and evil values.) A person may cheat himself; this I don't care about. But when he cheats in a class of mine he is also cheating me. This I care about. Why should he have an advantage that I don't? Is he paying higher tuition that gives him this privilege? Is he paying off the professor? If he is, I'd like to know about that, too.

This conflict between my interests and the interests of the student who cheats can easily be resolved, the latter will quickly point out, by my "not sweating it," by my cheating too. Then we all have the same advantage, right? Yes, but with the additional fact that we are all fooling ourselves as well; if we all don't cheat, then we still all have the same advantage and are honest at the same time; which is preferable? You may take your pick.

But here is my warning: if you are in any of my classes and you intend to cheat, don't let me see you do it. Don't sit near me. I for one, will tolerate it no longer. I've had enough. One student's cheating makes my grade, honestly earned, meaningless. For better or for worse, the American education system leans heavily on the importance of grades; consequently the practice of cheating to obtain high grades is inherent in the system. I can't change the system of grades, but I don't have to tolerate the practice of cheating which degrades my efforts, either.

Anyone who wishes may now attribute all manner of motives to me for making this declaration and call me all sort of names. My attitude will remain the same, however. You protect yourself in your way, I'll protect myself in my way.

Sincerely,

Minot Tillson

Chapel Programs Highlights

By JANET BLUMBERG

A variety of cultural assemblies and chapel programs has been scheduled for the second semester of Albright College's 1959-60 term. Kenneth Spencer, Robert St. John, and the Pennsylvania Singing Boys will come to the Albright campus during the second semester, forming the cultural section of the Thursday educational programs. Mr. Spencer, an American basso, has performed all over Europe and the United States on television, radio, and the stage. In addition, he has recorded for the German Columbia Recording Company. This star of London's presentation of "Emperor Jones" will present to the students a program "I Hear America Singing," which includes readings, sea chanteys, miners' chants, and Negro spirituals.

Robert St. John is famous as a roving news correspondent whose "beat" is all over the world. He has traveled in all the fifty states of the United States and has tramped or ridden over fifty countries of the world. Nine books have been produced by Mr. St. John, including From the Land of the Silent People, Shalom Means Peace, and Ben Gurion, the Biography of an Extraordinary Man. This news correspondent and radio-broadcaster will speak on some major world situations which he has seen firsthand.

Cultural Climax

The climax of the cultural programs of Albright will be a performance on April 26 of the Pennsylvania Singing Boys, formerly the Warren Boy Choir. The twenty-six boys, ranging in age from 9 to 15, have appeared on television and radio with such personalities as Jan Peerce, Will Rogers, Jr., and Paul Whiteman. In 1956, they made their first Town Hall appearance in New York and followed it with concerts in Akron, Ohio and Madison Square Garden. Their repertoire includes religious numbers, show tunes, "pop" tunes, and music of the masters.

Series of Lectures

The various departments of Albright College will contribute to the educational programs with a series of six lectures. The English Department has presented Richard Eberhart, consultant in poetry to the United States Library of Congress, and the Spanish Department will present Dr. Floyd Zulli, Jr., associate professor of Romance Languages at New York University. Dr. Ben C. Limb, Korean ambassador to the United Nations, will be sponsored by the Political Science Department. Appearing under the auspices of the Science Department will be Dr. George Seidel, manager of the Education Section of the DuPont Company's Public Relations Department, and Dr. Moddie D. Taylor. A meteorology lecture will also be presented by this department.

Mantle Ceremony

Albright's Student Council will present their candidates for 1961 in one program and a mantle ceremony in another. The Glee Club and band concerts will be in May and March, respectively.

Highlighting the religious programs in the second semester will be talks by Dr. Henry Smith Leiper, Rabbi Herbert E. Drooz, Dr. Samuel DeWitt Proctor, and Dr. Carl Friedericks. Dr. Leiper, field secretary for the American Bible Society, has preached in England, Australia, New Zealand, Scotland, and in Paris. The Jewish Chautauqua Society of New York City will sponsor its representative, Rabbi Drooz, who is presently at the Temple Beth Emeth in Wilmington, Delaware. Speaking Tuesday and Thursday, February 23 and 25, his topics will be "What We Jews Believe" and "Our Common Religious Heritage." Dr. Samuel Proctor, prominent Negro Baptist minister and president of the Virginia Union University, will speak to the students on March 1.

Recipient of Albright's honorary doctor of humanities degree in the 1959 convocation. Dr. Carl Friedericks, New York surgeon and establishment of a hospital in Nepal, will visit the campus in March.

Other speakers include Dr. Newell Wert of the United Theological Seminary, Dayton, the Rev. Lewis Briner, secretary to the department of Vocation and In-Service Training in the Division of Higher Education of the United Presbyterian Church of the U. S. A., the Rev. Charles Sutton, rector of the Christ Episcopal Church, Reading, and the Rev. Richard Stroman, minister of the First Presbyterian Church, Reading.

Lions To Entertain St. Joseph's

Valley Tops Albright 18-16 In Wrestling

Last Saturday, February 6, Lebanon Valley College's wrestling team scored its first victory of the season by wiping out a sixteen to nothing lead for an eighteen to sixteen verdict over Gerry Barger's Lions in the Albright Field House. The Flying Dutchmen actually clinched the win with a forfeit triumph by Longenecker in the unlimited class.

Flying Start

Albright got off to a flying start with wins in the first four matches, thanks to Bob Melnick, 7-3, and Mike Morano, 13-4, followed by Ron Green and Ken Kistler with pin victories.

Previously the Lion Matmen had two straight victories. The first over Juniata on Wednesday, January 13, in the Albright Field House when Ron Green pinned Mike Martin, and Bob Melnick, Ken Kistler, and Jack Roessner posted the remaining wins for the Lions.

Poulos Victor

The second Lion victory was on January 16 when freshman John Poulos provided the highlights of the evening by registering a decision over Al Walton in the 177 pound class as Albright defeated Ursinus, 19-11. He scored a take-down midway in the first period, reversal after sixteen seconds of the second portion, and a predicament point after forty seconds of the third.

Marano and Melnick

Mike Marano (130) and Bob Melnick (123) started the Lions off with the only pins for the Barger-men. Marano had two first period takedowns and, after riding his man throughout the middle stanza, notched the pin with just eight seconds left in the period. Melnick finished his man off with thirty-nine seconds left in the period.

Unbeaten Ron Green and captain Jack Roessner each earned an easy decision. Green got a near-fall award midway in the final period on his way to a seven to nothing trial, while Roessner rode his man for seven minutes in winning by five to nothing.

Trackmen Compete At Inquirer Meet

Albright's track team, cut in numbers for the winter season, made a good showing on West Point's indoor track where it met the West Point plebes and the Cornell frosh. The Albright feats included Walt Diehm's winning the 60-yard high hurdles and Jerry Polyasko's and Bruce Carlin's placing fifth and sixth in the finals. Paul Browne, Sammy Richardson, and Diehm finished first, second and third, respectively, in the broad jump. Bruce Birkholz and Diehm, broke through a close finish to place third.

Inquirer Meet

Today the team travels to Convention Hall in Philadelphia for the annual Inquirer meet. Diehm is taking part in the hop, skip, jump contest this afternoon and the relay team will run tonight. Albright's track coach, Eugene Shirk, is again officiating the high jump. High jump champion John Thomas is participating in the event and Shirk feels it highly probable that he may break his own world record of seven feet, one and a half inches.

IN THE LION'S DEN

By JIM ADAM

It has been said of some people that they go around in circles. It seems to me that the history of sports at a given school can be said to go around in cycles.

The overwhelming evidence of this phenomenon has appeared within the last decade at a number of so-called big-time schools, and now in these latter days has presented itself here at Albright College. Anyone who has not been hiding his head in some sort of hole in the ground, academic or otherwise, can bear witness to this strange fact which has bewildered coaches, embarrassed athletes, stunned the alumni, overjoyed arch rivals, and disappointed the student body.

Cycle of Sports

This undulating cycle, resembling the wall of air raid sirens as drawn on the many civil defense public information presentations, can be seen operating over many athletic endeavors in the past. A glaring example which comes immediately to mind is the case of the football picture at Oklahoma. A few years ago the Sooners rolled over opposition as though they were enjoying a practice scrimmage with their third string gridders; they were almost inevitable occupants of first place position in the national ratings each Monday morning. This past pigskin season surprisingly little was heard of Bud Wilkinson's men.

Other examples can be found in Army and Notre Dame, Army now riding on the upswing after the cribbing scandal in the early 1950's. On the opposite end of the cycle, and much closer to home, is Temple University's football fortunes. That Philadelphia school is mired in the most unfortunate winless swamp it has ever passed through.

And so it goes—up and then down and up again. Indeed there is a cycle, although the length from crest to trough varies. This past fall Coach John Patskan's football team won seven games. The last time an Albright team won seven was in 1937, an undefeated year.

Basketball As Well

So far I have dwelt on football, but the cage sport is not to be ignored. If the basketball team LOSES all the remaining games it has to play this year, one would have to go back to the 53-54 season to find a better record. It was ten years ago that a Red and White basketball team lost less than ten games.

What then, are we to sit back and enjoy what is rightfully ours, according to this strange phenomenon? By no means! For this rise in athletic prominence of which we have been partaking has not come without blood, sweat, and tears. In point of fact, it takes a heck of a lot of plain, old-fashioned work by many people to field the exceptional athletic squads which have now appeared at Albright. The upward swing of the cycle is not, therefore, a fortuity; on the contrary, it is a state of affairs to be achieved.

So let it be said here, in my first attempt to interpret the sports scene at Albright, that I have great admiration for those men who have labored courageously under untold hardships to put Albright athletics on the upswing.

Women's Court Action Begins

The woman's intramural basketball program started Monday, February 8, at 9 P.M. The six competing teams; Mu's, Pat's, Day's, Dorm, Freshman 1, and Freshmen 2 will each play 10 games—5 in each half. The contests occur with two games per team every Monday and Thursday, 9 to 10 P.M. until February 25 when playoffs will take place if necessary, and two Tuesday afternoons—February 9 and 23 at 4:15.

Court Officials

Officiating will be Beverly Yanich, Linda Bohl, Bonnie Betz, and Mrs. Ramsey. Each team has the liberty of choosing its own manager, captain, scorekeeper, timekeeper and days they prefer to practice. The gymnasium will be open to the women every day from 3 to 4 P.M. and on Monday and Thursday 9 to 10 P.M. so that they may perfect plays.

Coming up on the agenda are three playdays. The first is basketball at Moravian to be held February 20. Next the women will travel to Kutztown for another recreational gathering on March 6 and then the five participating colleges will come to Albright for volleyball play day, February 20.

Largest Crowd Of Court Season Is Expected Here

Albright College will play host to the visiting St. Joseph's College Hawks tomorrow night at 8:30 in a contest that promises to be the high spot of the Lions' 1959-60 home basketball schedule. A preliminary scuffle between the Red and White junior varsity and the St. Joseph's Frosh beginning at 6:45 in the Albright Fieldhouse will precede the main tilt.

West Point Wins, 66-65

The military once more took command, February 3, as the Army maneuvered its way to a 66-65 victory over the Albright squadmen. Had it not been for a field goal by West Point's Alan Degardin in the last fifteen seconds of play the Lions could have roared victoriously. The Cadets and Lions ran neck and neck as they tied the score three times in the first half and seven times in the second. Army's Stewart Sherard led the court with 27 points while Albright's Tom Pearsall collected 22. Sherard, Crane, Pearsall, Charlie Smith, Ken VanDine and Sam Preston were the leading combatants, each reaching the two-figure mark. The deciding factor for the Cadets was their scoring 18 of 28 foul tries to the Lion's 11 for 17.

Juniata Clipped

Saturday, February 6, Albright snuffed out a belated spark ignited by the Juniata quintet in the last minutes of play to bring them a 71 to 67 victory. Pearsall, Smith, VanDine, and Kaminski led Albright's scoring with 20, 16, 19, and 10 points, respectively, while Juniata's Don Burnick, Jack Heading, and Bucky Brumbaugh, each tallied. After trailing 16-14, the Lions surged ahead 17-16, never to relinquish their lead.

Swarthmore Mauled

January 13, the Lions strutted proudly as they tallied 60 points in the second half to maul Swarthmore, 106 to 65, with five men running in double figures. The tables were turned, however, when the Red and White traveled to Staten Island where they suffered their fourth seasonal defeat at the claws of the Wagner Seahawks. In a later encounter, the Lions, under the inspiration of charging Charley Smith, downed Seton Hall, 79 to 68. This was followed by an easy 79-59 victory over the Moravian Greyhounds. Albright now has a record of 13 wins and five losses.

Last Tuesday the men's intramural basketball season entered into its second half of league activity with games scheduled every Monday and Thursday evening. First half play terminated January 11 with the Zetas finishing on top. The most outstanding contest up to date was the 50-34 victory of the Zetas over APO in which the Zeta's Gary Chapman and Gary Sheeler split a 24-point drive to counterbalance Jim Ream's 18-point splurge for APO.

Zetas On Top

In surmounting their rival, APO, the Zetas ascended to the top position from which spot they witnessed the close of the first half play. All teams are looking forward to a highly competitive second half.

Tickets for tomorrow night's affair in the Lions' Den became scarce as long ago as the evening of the Seton Hall game on January 23. By far the largest crowd of the season will seek to witness the clash between two teams which, up to last week end, lost only five games all season. Albright has won 13, and St. Joseph's 12. The expected throng may necessitate the erection of temporary bleachers along the south wall of the Albright gym, a practice which has usually been reserved for high school basketball play-off games in the spring.

Common Opponents

During the course of the season, the two teams have met five common opponents. Albright defeated each of them in turn, but the Hawks took four and dropped a close 89-88 decision to Seton Hall. The Lions took the measure of the Pirates, 79-68.

Among the other teams played by both squads was Gettysburg, which yielded both to St. Joe's, 74-56, and to the Red and White, 84-68, in Albright's opening game of the season. The Hawks romped over Elizabethtown, 93-69, in a game on their home court while the visiting Renkemen squeaked by the Blue Jays with a slim, three-point, 83-80 victory.

St. Joseph's downed Muhlenberg, 85-71, in the Little Palestra in Allentown; Albright stopped the Muhls by a 77-51 count.

The Hawks have met some of the toughest court aggregations in America this season, dropping an excusable 123-79 decision to Cincinnati and the "Big O" in a contest in the Ohio city. A later tussle saw Cincinnati restrained to take an 86-77 victory from the Improved Hawks at the Holiday Basketball Festival at Madison Square Garden in New York City. Cincinnati went on to win first-place honors while St. Joe's finished third after defeating both Manhattan, 84-70, and New York University, 78-65.

Next Week

Next week's basketball card is heavy on the week end, as the Lions take on Franklin and Marshall in Lancaster a week from today. Next Saturday night Coach Will Renken's cagers will entertain Lebanon Valley College, which sustained a 56-46 beating at the hands of Albright last December. In the beginning of February the Lions topped F&M, 83-70, at home.
