FRESHMEN TAKE INTER-CLASS CROWN

Defeat Rival Sophomores in Final Game By A. Runaway Score of 27-10; Jrs. Beat Srs. 19-13.

FROTH STRONGEST IN ALL DEPTS.—SCORE 110 TO 52

By defeating the Sophomores in the last game of the series on Feb. 19th, the Freshmen went thru the entire list without a defeat thereby winning the championship of the classes. This game was supposed to be the best game of the series, but the Sops were completely outclassed so that the Freshmen had a walk-away.

It remained for the Junior-Senior contest to furnish all the thrills of the evening, for it was a battle royal from the first whistle to the last. It didn't matter which team got the roughest when it came to pushing, tripping, or hacking, but it did matter who won. After one period of real basket ball which ended 6-3 in favor of the Juniors, another half, and then three extra periods of five minutes each of anything but basket ball were played from which the Juniors finally emerged the victors by the score of 19-13.

Numerous stars were found in these games. The "Golden West" furnished Prigg and Edwards for the Freshmen. From Schuykill County came Henninger for the Sophomores. Harrisburg furnished Bower for the Juniors, while Carlisle sent its representative in the person of Lackey, for the Seniors. Wirt Gap and Allentown sent Jones and Kemmer respectively for the Preps. We could mention the other heroes but space will not permit.

The final standing of the teams is as follows:

	Won	Lost	%
Freshmen	4	0	1.000
Juniors	3	1	.750
Sophomores	2	2	.500
Seniors	1	3	.250
Preps	0	4	.000

The scores of the games played since the last issue of the Bulletin are:

Juniors	11	17	—28
Preps	11	3	—14
Sophomores	6	12	—18
Seniors	8	7	—15
Juniors	6	3	2	6—19
Seniors	3	6	2	0—13
Freshmen	17	10	—27
Sophomores	6	4	—10

The scoring strength of the teams are:

Freshmen	110	Opponents	52
Juniors	81	Opponents	64
Seniors	67	Opponents	76
Sophomores	57	Opponents	75
Preps	48	Opponents	96

SOPH GIRLS OPEN NEW SERIES BY 6-1 VICTORY

When the Sophomore Boys got the short end of the stick in the Inter-class basketball series, their feminine classmates were so depressed that they issued a challenge to the Freshman girls. The challenge was immediately accepted, and before the evening was over the Junior and Senior girls threw their hats in the ring. A real series was planned. Teams were chosen and practice started. The lassies practiced faithfully and even went into intensive training to their "cats". (The Juniors actually came out for breakfast and were in time for the meals.)

The first games were cancelled on account of the lack of training. When the next date arrived, so did the cold weather. Clark, our Gym-janitor, had difficulty in heating the gym, so he had to hang out the "cold weather" sign. The girls still kept

"SHORTY" MILLER SPEAKS IN CHAPEL

"The reason why students fail to see the clear view of the Christ's face is the attitude they take on prayer", was one of the significant remarks made by Secretary Miller, '20 in a chapel talk on February 23. Other thoughts of his talk were the continual perplexity in the student's mind concerning science and the Bible, and the true Christian's certain ability to see Christ as he really is.

Mr. Miller, best known as "Shorty" on the campus, is the traveling secretary of the Student Y. M. C. A. and often visits his Alma Mater, combining both official and friendly offices. Faculty and students always welcome him heartily, and are glad to see him back.

PROF. KELLER SPEAKS ON "MEN OF THE AGES"

Takes Occasion To Address Y. M. C. A. Upon Lives of Washington and Lincoln

Prof. I. C. Keller, Head of the English and Public Speaking Department, and a speaker of no mean repute, addressed a large assembly of the Christian Association men in the College Chapel last Tuesday evening on the subject, "Men of the Ages". He dwelt upon the lives of Washington and Lincoln in a very well organized talk, illustrating (1) what they were in their own lives, and (2) that which they accomplished grew out of what they were.

By way of introduction, Prof. Keller mentioned the romantic experiences in the early lives of these men, thereby showing the human side of those whose names have become immortal.

The speaker reviewed the various honorific titles that have been bestowed upon Washington and Lincoln, emphasizing especially Secretary of War Stanton's tribute at the bier of Lincoln,—"He now belongs to the ages". Washington, the "Father" of his country whose "Savior" Lincoln is called, belongs, to no less extent, to the ages.

Prof. Keller answered the ques-

"LEADERSHIP" IS REV. HERSHEY'S SUBJECT

On the evening of February 20th Rev. Hershey of the U. B. Church spoke to the Cleric and the "Y" Associations on the subject of "Leadership".

Rev. Hershey limited his discussion to the qualifications of good leadership. One of the first things for consideration is the proper preparation. A good leader should obtain a fine cultural training, a complete technical training to be the master in his field, and be a keen observer of Man and his activities. Some of the requisites for leadership are (1) a single motive. Life is complex, but there is always a dominant purpose which controls every personality. (2) An inviolate resolution. We do too much wishing instead of willing. We should surmount all difficulties and also learn where to follow. No man can lead who has not first learned to obey. (3) A strong character which makes for honesty and thus inspires confidence in the other man. Above all, we must indulge in lofty and pure thoughts.

SAY SOMETHING

That was what the young woman thought when her lover was tongued in her awesome presence. In these days she would probably say it herself.

Surprised I surely was when asked to write something for the Albright Bulletin, and of course I felt honored. What could I say that would do anybody any good. I had never been doing anything at Albright but helping to grease the wheels and keep traffic going on the main street of each individual, that is, Gastronomic Avenue.

I said, "I'll put my sub-conscious mind to work." Old Sub-Con works while you sleep. He was rather faithful this time and brought around to the front door of my mind crowds of former students, "sweet girl graduates with golden hair" (before bobbing set in), youths to appreciate these maidens and help carry on "prolonged" conversations behind the big trees, interesting scenes in the kitchen, Ala Baba and the forty—nocturnal transfers when the steward was locked in the arms of Morpheus, the steward's bicycle doing a movie stunt at the top of the flag-staff, the dining-room chairs, if not the dining room itself or the conduct of its habitue's elevated to

EAST PENN. CONFERENCE CONVENES AT MT. CARMEL

"The conference at Mount Carmel, holding its session from Feb. 22nd to 26th, was one of unusual interest and certainly distinguished for the fine spirit manifested", says a student who attended. The Rev. Kistler deserves much commendation for his extreme care in providing the best accommodations for the members who attended. The conference members frankly and enthusiastically admit that the entertainment and attention they received thru the efforts of Rev. Kistler and the obliging members of his church were the best ever.

Dr. Bowman and Rev. Heck were present during the entire session and performed various services. On Saturday, Dr. Bowman, in a fine speech,

I. N. A. MEMBERS WILL MEET HERE MARCH 10

Saturday, March 10th, is the day set for the sectional conference of the Inter-collegiate Newspaper Association, to be held here on our own campus. The original date was Saturday, February 24th, but the various members found it inconvenient to be represented that day.

The sectional conferences are a new feature and are merely being tried out. This will be the first for the district in which Albright is situated. There are five colleges in this district: Gettysburg, Franklin and Marshall, Bucknell, Susquehanna and Albright. A full representation and a successful meeting are anticipated.

SOPHOMORES HOLD VALENTINE PARTY

Prof. And Mrs. H. A. Kiess Hosts To '25 Class In One of Best Social Events of Year

St. Valentine's Day did not pass unnoticed by the Sops, for on the night of the 15th a rousing Valentine Party was held at the home of Prof. and Mrs. H. A. Kiess. Of all the class events of the past year, this, perhaps, was the most interesting and most enjoyed.

Hasty preparations and arrangements were made by willing hands, for all seemed in the spirit for a real class party.

Promptly at a set time the Sops gathered on Faculty Heights and the party took life. Life it was, for no idle moment found room in that gathering. Games, contests, songs, wit and humor, all combined to make the Valentine party the best ever. Everyone found his or her heart and some even lost theirs. The appetizing refreshments, served by two class cousins, seemed to crown the evening's delight. Time, care and worry had been forgotten in the progress of the evening's pleasure, but Time claimed her own and at a late hour, reluctantly the party came to a close.

NEO'S MEETING OF FEB. 23, ONE OF THE BEST

One of the best meetings of the year was held in "Neo" Hall on the above date. There was a good attendance and much interest manifested in the program. "Shorty" Miller, an Alumni member of the Society and at present State Student "Y" Secretary, gave a very interesting talk. He referred to the past history of the society, stating that Abraham Lincoln, Jefferson Davis and several notable men were honorary members of the society.

The Society unanimously voted to accept Hon. Mr. Schoener '23, member of the State Legislature, as an honorary member. Mr. Schoener responded with a brief humorous and appropriate speech.

Mr. Weiss spoke for five minutes on "The Greatness of George Washington" and Mr. Peter gave an impromptu on "Teaching as a Stepping Stone to Another Profession". The two musical numbers by Mr. Yost and Mr. Sechrist were greatly enjoyed as was evidenced by the prolonged applause which followed each. Mr. Yost sang "The Barefoot Trail" and as an encore "O, Solo Mio". Mr. Sechrist rendered a cello solo, and as an encore played two selections, accompanied by Davis with his saw.

Goodhart: "In France the girls are just fighting for men."
Raffy: "Don't you wish that you had stayed over?"

ALBRIGHT WINS AT MUHLENBURG

Our Red And White Passers Take Muhlenburg's "Best In Years" Into Camp In Hard-fought 29-17 Game

TEAM THEN HAS REVERSE AND LOSES TO P. M. C. 16-31

On February 17 Albright's rather diminutive basketball team invaded Allentown and on the High school floor of that place took the measure of Muhlenburg's big team, "the best in year", by a 29-17 score. The game was one of the fastest, roughest, hardest-played seen there for some time and was characterized by the wonderful way in which our Red and White passers turned what looked for the first fifteen minutes like a sure defeat into a great victory. With five minutes of the first half left to play and Muhlenburg apparently safe with a 9-3 lead, our fellows awoke and before Muhlenburg knew what it was all about had tossed in five baskets, the half ending 13-9.

The play tightened again in the second half. After a few minutes the score was brought close again at 17-15, Albright leading. Here our fellows' wonderful condition told and Muhlenburg seemed unable to keep up the pace, Albright again raining baskets. Dech was put out of the game on personals and Miller moved to forward, Hollenbaugh taking Miller's place. When Muhlenburg saw they were defeated they started to rough things up and as a result got the worst of it. Two of their players were put out of the game, while Albright seemed to get better all the time. During the game every one of the Red and White basketballers scored at least once, Capt. Kline and Miller leading with three apiece. "Raffy" played a fine game and was good from the foul line. Zellers, also held to a single field goal, put up one of the best games of his career. At center, he invariably got the jump on Campbell, who is inches taller than he. Huddy, Muhlenburg's scoring ace, was held scoreless by the Albright guards.

Albright	Muhlenburg
Dech	F. Johnson
Raffensperger	F. Holstrom
Zellers	C. Campbell
Miller	G. Lewis
Kline	G. Loughridge

Substitutions: Miller for Dech, Hollenbaugh for Miller; Huddy for Johnson, Schang for Loughridge, Neubling for Schang.

Field Goals: Holstrom 4, Neubling 1, Dech 2, Miller 3, Raffensperger 2, Zellers 1, Kline 3, Hollenbaugh 1.

COLLEGE MAIDENS BOW TO CENTRAL HIGH

The Albright College Girls Basketball team struck a stone wall when they tried to beat the Central High School from Harrisburg on Feb. 20. The Capitol lassies won handily by the score of 23-1. At no time in the game did the Red and White Girls have a show. The passing, shooting and floor work of the visitors seemed to bewilder them at times. Baumgartner, the clever little forward, led in the scoring, getting three from the field, and shooting six out of eight foul tries. The fine guarding of the entire visiting team held Albright safe at all times. Ritter and King played well for Albright.

Albright	Central High
Misses	Misses
Hoffman	Baumgartner
King	Smith
Bicher	Graeff
Ritter	Toomey
Miller	Wilsback

Substitutions: Curry for Richer, Ewing for Ritter, Ludwig for Miller.

THE FLAG

We quote from the laws of the state of Pennsylvania:

"Section 629—All boards of education, all proprietors or principals of private schools, and all authorities in control of parochial schools or other educational institutions, shall display the United States national flag, not less than three feet in length, within all school buildings under their control during each day such schools are in session. In all public schools the board of school directors shall make all rules and necessary regulations for the care and keeping of such flags. The expense thereof shall be paid by the school district. (Amendment of May 20, 1921, P. L. 1011, Sec. 1.)"

This quotation should be sufficient to open our eyes to a need at Albright. In the first place, we should have a flag displayed on our campus. The old one is worn out and a new one should be replaced in its stead. It is not necessary to have a costly flag because of the continuous exposure which it is subject to. A cheap flag will amply serve the purpose.

In the second place, we should have a flag within our school building. There should be placed in our Chapel a silk flag. In most gathering halls one sees a beautiful flag on the platform. At the one side of the Chapel platform is a very appropriate place for a staff. With a beautiful silk flag in this position the entire tone of the room would be changed. The sense of beauty would be heightened to an appreciable degree. The very atmosphere would be affected with greater patriotic fervor.

The students are looking for a modification of this situation. We hope to see, in the near future, a large flag to float over our campus, and a smaller one to elevate the exquisiteness of our Chapel edifice.

Here is a need which a good friend of Albright might wish to supply.

THE MORAL PHASE OF COLLEGE SPIRIT

True college spirit is a moral asset to the college, for it supports and stimulates the moral forces that tend for good in school life. This moral influence places a restraint on things that occasion the degeneration of the best in college life. A few examples will verify this. For instance, college spirit considers it nothing short of cowardice for a party of six or more to "haze" one lone student. It recommends a more amicable settlement of class differences. Midnight kitchen raids to supplement three daily meals, it hands as being characteristic of burglary. It discourages domination of elections by fraternities, while it encourages the unbiased attitude in such matters. Courtesy and fairness are among its watchwords on the athletic field. Then, when a victory is won on the field, it does not believe the demolishing of parts of the electric light system to be a sane expression of that victory. It upholds and promotes the scholastic standards of the school, and, by so doing, takes an uncompromising attitude toward "cribbing." Finally, it considers the mock "amens" following the saying of grace in the college dining halls to be sacrilegious and contrary to its principles.

Prof. Dech: "I had intended to assign thirty lines. Beecher, (quickly): "Holy Moses!"

Campus Chatter

BY THE PARROT

Usually when there is nothing else to talk about, one picks on the weather as an ideal subject. Of course, we know that in general, this is frowned upon by polite society, but for the benefit of said society, polite or otherwise, let it be said, we don't give a fig for their frowns. There are times when even a parrot runs down on chatter.

To proceed on the suggested topic—Isn't this the worst weather? If it keeps on snowing there won't be any left for next winter; if it stays so cold, well, we haven't decided just what we shall do; and if people continue to be sick, there won't be any doctors practicing—they'll all have grown rich enough to retire. But it's the same old story of the ill wind that always blows—the coal dealer is getting his!

Mary Mohn and "Deb" Long inquired the other day whether we had noticed their silence (comparatively speaking). On replying that it hadn't been very strikingly noticeable, they volunteered the information that they are afraid to talk any more for fear of being victims of this column.

Speaking of Freshmen reminds us of Hick's speech in a debate one evening in Literary Society. Her comments on the probability of woman's reverting to the clinging vine state were decidedly refreshing. If women, Hick says, become clinging vines, soon there will be all that kind and no support.

If you are getting bored, perhaps you would care for some news? Well, let's see.

Bertha Hartman and Ethel Diffenderfer, after being absent several weeks because of illness, have returned and are gradually settling back to work.

Among week-end visitors of the 24th were: Mr. and Mrs. Leonard (Shorty) Miller, the former '20; Clarence Yount '21, now pursuing graduate work at Columbia; Emerson Hangen '22, enrolled at Princeton Seminary as a graduate student.

The Junior girls were very delightfully entertained by Esther Curry at a birthday party on February 22. Eats and sociability were the main features of the party.

If Winter comes,
Will I have my usual chills and my extra coal bills?
If Winter comes,
Will I be sneezing, wheezing, greasing and my Henry Ford be freezing?
If Winter comes.

Cheer up! Spring is just around the corner. It won't be long until married men will be making thirty-day notes to buy Easter finery and the janitor will be shutting off the heat about 8:30.

Speaking of Easter finery reminds us that if women's waists were shortened as much as their skirts, some people would be in danger of being choked to death.

Yes, there is still a remnant of the ancient American nation. They can be seen standing in the halls of A. C. in groups of two about ten minutes before meal time.

Those who saw both the last play of the Pellitier Players and the play of the Beta Literary of the High School will agree that the Pellitier Players should come to Myerstown High School for a course in dramatics.

Up in Sunbury the contest to decide who's the most beautiful girl in the city, is to be won by the girl who collects the most money for a fire company. They probably believe in the old axiom, "Handsome is as handsome does."

"Pas" Price says a critic is a person who has been a failure himself in the particular line he is criticising.

Around The Town

On Friday evening, Feb. 23, a pleasant evenings entertainment was furnished to the people of the community by the "Beta" Literary Society of the local High School. They presented the play, "Much Ado About Betty", to a record breaking crowd as the large High School auditorium was crowded to its capacity. The play was presented under the direction of Miss Brenner and the success of the play speaks well for the work of the society. An offering was taken to meet the expenses of the play and for the benefit of the year book, the "Imago."

The two concerts on Feb. 16th by Elsie Baker and her company and the Harp Vocal Ensemble on Feb. 22nd were decided successes. Elsie Baker captivated the audience with her pleasant personality and her rich contralto voice. Max Gagna, cellist, was an artist in every sense of the word. The music lovers of Myerstown and community who had been eagerly awaiting her coming certainly had no reason to feel disappointed in the high expectations they had for her and her party.

The Harp trio were greeted with a large, enthusiastic audience. Miss Zimmer is a master solo harpist and receives much praise wherever her company presents their program. Signor Capelli, Italian tenor, sang several selections from opera, popular and native Italian folk songs.

Another musical treat is in store for the music lovers on the fifteenth of March. Arthur Middleton, the famous baritone, will appear in a joint recital with Miss Mildred Dillings, nationally known Harpist from New York City. We are fortunate in having these great artists appear in our town and we urge our patrons to co-operate with Professor Davenport in making the concerts a permanent affair in Myerstown. Tickets can be secured at the office of the Local High School or by writing to Professor Davenport.

SCIENCE CLUB

Prof. Geo. W. Walton, Head of the Dept. of Biology, was the principal speaker at the last meeting of the Science Club. After a presentation of the Recent Scientific Events of Importance, by Miss Catherine McCurdy, Prof. Walton gave an interesting lecture on "The Winged Venation of Insects." Following are some of the salient facts of the lecture.

The classification of insects depends upon the nature of the venation of their wings. The first veins were tracheae. These became hardened and contained blood. As one goes up the scale of insects, one finds that the more complex ones are characterized by a decreasing number of veins. The importance of the venation of insects' wings is indicated by the fact that some college men are securing their degree of Ph. D. thru a study of this subject alone.

Prof. Walton illustrated his lecture by blackboard drawings—both hypothetical and modified—of different kinds of venation. This made it very interesting to all present.

At its next meeting Prof. Keller will address the club on "Striking a Fair Balance."

training and practicing so that on Saturday they were so accurate in their shooting that they broke one of the baskets which caused another postponement of the games.

Sophomores 6—Freshmen 1

Well, the date arrived at last and the Freshmen and Sophomores matched skill on the court. The Sophomores entered the fray a 97 to 86 favorite, and came out victors by the score of 6-1. Helm scored first when she shot a foul, Davis, after a short dash, hit the cords with a double decker which gave the Sophs a safe lead. Another field goal by Kinsinger and a foul by Helm raised their total to six, while the best the yearlings could do was to get a foul. The game ended with the ball in the Freshmen's possession near the center of the floor.

PROF. KELLER SPEAKS ON "MEN OF THE AGES"

tion, "Why have these men achieved this particular place of renown?" First, by a consideration of what they were in their own lives—their recognition of God, and second, because of what they were able, by virtue of what they were, to accomplish. The speeches, writings, and conduct of Washington and Lincoln all point to a deep recognition and reverence for God. They put God first in their lives. Lincoln did not care so much whether God was on his side as he was anxious to be on God's side.

After recounting a few of the struggles and activities of these our greatest men, Prof. Keller concluded by pointing out the fact that monuments of marble, and the "City of Washington" are not as great tributes to the memory of these "Men of the Ages" as the abiding monuments of Love, Reverence and Respect which we hold for them.

The size of the audience present could not be attributed to a desire to criticize—to see whether Prof. Keller "practices what he preaches" in oratory, as much as to an eagerness to hear this address of which we had heard.

the roof, the laugh on the College purveyor when the table furnishings were totally absent of a morning, but the laugh on the other side of the mouth when the absence of the morning meal was beginning to be felt and the dishes began to return about ten A. M.

And then appeared the kind acts of those students who eat to live, to whom a college is not a "place where knowledge is dispensed with," who know how to seize opportunity by the forelock and bear burdens in their youth, who have visions and aspiration and determination and courage. How their faces smile on me by human and heavenly radio!

And the others, too, have true values by this time and come around now and then to grasp me by the hand, and I am glad and we are as brothers. Even one or two who in the lang syne" invited me to proceed to a region where refrigerators are unknown are doing this.

I quote from Holmes—"Here's a fine young man who used to belong to the Bureau of Nocturnal Transference of College Costumes—just for fun. He's full of fun still, all clean, clear-grain fun now.

Now a stanza from "The Boys"—
You hear that boy laughing? You think he's all fun;
The angels laugh too at the good he has done;

The children laugh loud as they troop to his call.
And the poor man that knows him laughs loudest of all."

Remember, ah, remember,
"All the world's a stage, and the men and women merely players."

Act well your part, keep the body under, don't gourmandize, the world needs men and women of such as Albright has produced a number. Get ready for the Divine plaudit, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

ROBERT BOYLE'S

AIR - PUMP

The "PRACTICAL" Alchemist and "THEORETICAL" Robert Boyle

THE alchemists wrote vaguely of "fluids" and "principles." Copper was potentially silver. Rid it of its red color and the "principle" of silver would assert itself, so that silver would remain. With a certain amount of philosopher's stone (itself a mysterious "principle") a base metal could be converted into a quantity of gold a million times as great.

This all sounded so "practical" that Kings listened credulously, but the only tangible result was that they were enriched with much bogus gold.

Scientific theorists like Robert Boyle (1627-1691) proved more "practical" by testing matter, discovering its composition and then drawing scientific conclusions that could thereafter be usefully and honestly applied. Alchemists conjectured and died; he experimented and lived.

Using the air pump Boyle undertook a "theoretical" but scientific experimental study of the atmosphere and discovered that it had a "spring" in it, or in other words that it could expand. He also established the connection between the boiling point of water and atmospheric pressure, a very "theoretical" discovery in his day but one which every steam engineer now applies.

He was the first to use the term "analysis" in the modern chemical sense, the first to define an element as a body which cannot be subdivided and from which compounds can be reconstituted.

Boyle's work has not ended. Today in the Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company it is being continued. Much light has there been shed on the chemical reactions that occur in a vessel in which a nearly perfect vacuum has been produced. One practical result of this work is the vacuum tube which plays an essential part in radio work and roentgenology.

This was a little denominational college, so to speak, whose influence was far more reaching and whose impression upon the life of the world was more profound than that of any college or university that has had an existence upon the face of the earth since that day, irrespective of its splendid equipment or the magnificent endowment which it may have possessed.

But of late years we have been emphasizing more and more the log or the material equipment of our higher institutions of learning, until it looms so large that we almost lose sight of faculty and student body and have come to think that the magnificent plant, the material equipment, and the generous endowment constitute the most essential factor in the greatness of a college or university. Of course, we recognize the fact that commodious and comfortable buildings are necessary to house the student body; that there must be proper recitation room facilities and laboratories with adequate equipment to pursue most efficiently the various courses in organic science.

We certainly would not think of teaching courses in physics or chemistry without properly equipped laboratories for experimental work; nor would we think of teaching botany or zoology and their related subjects without properly equipped laboratories for practical work. But it seems to me there is a tendency at present to put undue emphasis upon the laboratory. It seems recently there is a tendency to put everything into the laboratory crucible before it can be regarded as a finished product. The idea seems to prevail that the political and social sciences can no longer be properly taught without ample laboratory facilities; even psychology can no longer be taught without the laboratory method. Just recently technical psychology, which can only be taught by means of elaborately equipped laboratories, has been introduced into the Carnegie Technical School of Pittsburgh. It is easy to conceive that even courses in the various languages will become technical subjects and can only be taught by means of elaborately equipped laboratories. We are placing more and more emphasis upon the material phase of higher education and are in danger of losing sight of its more essential elements.

Of course, if the test of the value and greatness of an institution is to be measured by its costly buildings and magnificent equipment, the small denominational college suffers woefully by comparison; however, we must not lose sight of the fact that the small denominational college is not a professional or technical institute which necessitates elaborate equipment to carry on its work successfully, nor a university which also requires elaborate laboratory facilities to pursue research work with any degree of success.

tes elaborate equipment to carry on its work successfully, nor a university which also requires elaborate laboratory facilities to pursue research work with any degree of success.

The denominational college is simply what its name indicates, a college to give students a thorough training in the fundamental subjects of science and art. This training is designed to prepare the student for a successful career in life or to lay a broad and deep foundation for subsequent technical or university work. It is true the denominational college in many instances has suffered sadly in the past by lack of adequate equipment, but more recently this need has become more and more recognized until at present its equipment compares very favorably with the character of the work which it aims to accomplish.

When I was a student in one of our leading universities, I told one of the professors that I was connected with a small denominational college in the eastern part of Pa. known as Albright College. I asked him whether he thought there was still a need or a place for the denominational college of the present day in view of the centralization of higher education in state institutions and universities. The following was his reply which I shall amplify somewhat to suit the purpose of this article. "Most emphatically," he said, "the denominational college has still its distinctive function to perform in higher education today. If I had a son to be educated, as I have not, I would send him to a small institution like your Albright College for his undergraduate work rather than have him take that work here in the university." I was very anxious to know what his reasons were and this is substantially what he said:

ALBRIGHT 16—P. M. C. 31

The Red and White were defeated by the Cadets in their annual fray at Chester by the score of 31—16. Albright's inability to get started on the slippery floor was the chief cause of her downfall. The out-of-bound floor was also a handicap. Although they were able to get the ball up the floor repeatedly the forwards were unable to locate the basket. Buono, P. M. C.'s left forward, led in the scoring, getting 8 double deckers during the fray.
