PAPER WANTS FACTS ABOUT UNUSUAL JOBS

The Reading Eagle plans to run a feature story in a Sunday edition concerning unusual occupations employing Albright College students who are working their way through school. All Lions and Lionesses who are holding down jobs to pay part or all of their school expenses at Albright are asked to notify either Bob Gerhart managing editor of the ALBRIGHTIAN, or Jerry Kobrin, staff writer at the Reading Eagle. A card, a phone call, or personal contact will do the trick. Photographs will probably be taken of the students holding the most unusual jobs.

Night of Fun Held By Faculty

A fun-filled faculty party was held last Friday, in the dining hall. The merrymakers included: President and Mrs. Masters, Miss Norton, Dr. and Mrs. Zener, Miss Garlach, Prof. and Mrs. Smith, Dr. and Mrs. Horn, Miss Innis, Dr. Hamilton, Miss Esther Fenili, Mrs. Cook, Dr. and Mrs. Greth, Prof. and Mrs. Evans, Prof. George, Dr. and Mrs. Memming, Mrs. Douds, Dr. Geil, Prof. and Mrs. Speicher, Prof. Buckwalter, Prof. and Mrs. Green, Miss Elder, Mr. Robert Work, Mr. and Mrs. Danford, Mr. and Mrs. Dietz, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Nix, Rev. and Mrs. Breininger, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon, Dr. and Mrs. Glenn Deibert, Miss Ann Benninger, and Miss Marie Kleppinger.

A smorgas-bord opened the party. Distinctive dishes tastefully prepared by the faculty wives were abundant.

A comical radio quiz started the evening of merriment in the simply decorated room. Then the men shot

King, Queen Rule Over Mardi Gras In Dorm Tonight

Faculty, students, and friends, come to the Mardi Gras tonight at 7:30. Follow the crowds down the path leading to the girls' dormitory, check your coat at the first door inside the front entrance and then proceed upstairs where laughter, enthusiasm, and excitement are awaiting you.

As you wander through the building, stop along the way to try your luck at pitching pennies, let the sand artist sketch your profile; make a ringer pitching quoits; request the music of the current hit parade; gaze at the stars through Albright's most powerful telescope; see the Seven Wonders of Albright; have the secrets of your past revealed by the crystal gazer; and, if you're interested, allow the fortune tellers to unravel your future. If you're weary by this time, stop to see Dr. Totem Pole; if you're hungry, buy a piece of home-made cake fresh from the ovens, or eat a sticky apple; if you're yearning for something refreshing stop off at the Coffee and Doughnut Shoppe; or if you prefer the "pause that refreshes"—visit the punch bowl. Oh yes, don't fail to see the wonderous marionette show.

After you have seen the majority of the above things it will be ten o'clock, the time for the big event of the evening. The greatest show of all. Proceed to the dining hall where you will witness the crowning of the king and queen of the MARDI GRAS. The coronation ceremony will be followed by an entertainment in honor of their majesties.

Reporter Digs Up Facts About Albrightian's Past

Not so long ago, while rummaging through some very dusty files, a reporter came across a small pamphlet containing a history of the ALBRIGHTIAN.

It explained the why's and wherefore's of the origin of your favorite college newspaper's journalistic ancestor. The Excelsior Literary Gem, a "small pamphlet," published every six weeks from 1858 to 1863 at New Berlin. Then came the Civil War, which ended the Gem's literary career. Although Union Seminary resumed activities, the Gem appeared only on very special occasions; and it finally disappeared completely.

Union Seminary changed its name to Central Pennsylvania College in 1887, and the Central Pennsylvania Collegian was born, a 24-page magazine. Two campus publications had previously failed, and the Collegian was next. After four issues, it failed because of "financial trouble and poor student co-operation." The next year The Daily News appeared and lasted for the stated eleven days of commencement. An attempt to revive the Collegian failed in practically no time at all for exactly the same reasons as before.

From 1890 until 1903, there was no student publication. Far more successful than its predecessors was The Albright Bulletin, published at Myerstown after the merger of Central Pennsylvania College with Albright. In magazine form, it developed from a 12-page to a 30-page publication, and continued in that form for 23 years, until 1926. In that year, it became a weekly, the first of its kind at Albright. In this form it came to Reading in 1929.

ALBRIGHT GRADUATE MAKES DISINFECTANT

The next time you buy a bottle of disinfectant at the corner drug store imagine it's the product of an Albright chemistry department graduate.

For Glenn Trout during his research work in chemistry, recently perfected a disinfectant placed on the market as "Veetresol." It is a derivative of varvacrol.

Trout graduated in 1938 with a B.S. degree. He was a member of the Pi Tau Beta Fraternity. At present, he is employed by the Whitmoyer Laboratories, Myers-town, Pa.

Senior Women, Pi Alpha Tau Lead Groups

A first semester honor roll including 61 students, and an honorable mention list of 58 more released this week by Dean George W. Walton.

According to the academic report, 28 per cent of the seniors, 15 per cent of the sophomores, 14 per cent of the juniors, and 10 per cent of the freshmen earned honor ratings of "A"; while an additional 23 per cent of the juniors, 15 per cent of the seniors, 13 per cent of the freshmen and 11 per cent of the sophomores earned honorable mention recognition by maintaining "B" ratings.

Students who earned honor rating were:

Seniors: Frederick Bertolet, Reading; William Brandenburg, Kearney, N. J.; Donald M. Burger, Allentown; William C. Butscher, Olney, Philadelphia; E. Jane Buttorff, Reading; Charles Buynoski, Wyoming; Mary A. Capallo, Wyomissing; Jane Dick, Shillington; A. Elizabeth Dietz, Bethlehem; Mary L. Dunlap, Haverford Twp. High; Martin Epstein, Trenton, N. GERMAN CLUB MEETS

The German Club met at eight o'clock on Tuesday in the lower social hall. After a short business meeting the group sang "Schnitzelbank" and played games. Dr. and Mrs. Memming taught German folk dances.

Students To Hit Gotham High Spots Over Weekend

The second Domino New York trip under the direction of Robert Work begins today.

They will go first to Macy's, then to lunch at the Russian Yar. After lunch, they will visit the N. Y. Public Library, Museum of Modern Art, and the Frick Gallery. An Italian restaurant, the Monte Rosa, will be the next stop. After dinner, they will see the N. Y. premiere of "The Dome", the third part of Ted Shawn's "Cycle of the Dances" at Carnegie Hall.

On Saturday, they will visit Columbia University, the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, and the John Hay Hall. That afternoon Eglise de Notre Dame before lunch they will see Paul Niuni in "Key Largo." After dinner at the Gripsholm, a Swedish restaurant, they will see "Pigs and Needles."

On Sunday they will attend Riverside Church then have dinner at the Neur de Lys. That afternoon, they will visit the Cloisters, the relief collection of the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Alumnae Sorority Pledges 5 Seniors

On Saturday, February 17, the Phi Delta Sigma Alumnae Sorority held pledge service for the following senior girls: Jane Buttorff, Mary Capallo, Jane Dick, Virginia Fessler, and Ada Gossler.

Following the service, dinner was served at the Thomas Jefferson Tea Room. In addition to the pledges, those present included: Mrs. Lena Bertolet Brumbach, president of the sorority; Mrs. Mary Yohn Springer, Mrs. Fred Luckenbill, Mrs. Mildred Rothermel Ice, Mrs. Betty Straub Ulrich, and the Misses Seta Schmidt, Madge Arnold, Jeanette Shelley, Dorothy Butler, Elvira Woerle, Thelma Kutch, Jeanette Henry, Emily Yocom, Helen Yohn, Esther Fenili.

On Senior Exams...

According to latest reports, the seniors have been given to understand they will not be granted one of the privileges given to last year's class, namely, exemption from second semester final examinations. After listening to some of the comments of the disgruntled seniors, it seems high time that some one bring into the open the question, "Why?"

Since it seems far easier to get the seniors, and under-classesmen too, to tell us reasons why they should not take finals in the second semester of their final year, let's start with that. Here are some of the points most frequently brought up by students:

1. The last few weeks in one's school career are so overloaded with activities in preparation for commencement that examinations impose an extra burden on students, faculty, and administration and tend to further upset an already confused schedule.

2. If the seniors give as much time to study as the exams make necessary, they will not be able to do their best toward making Commencement Week the memorable occasion it should be in the tradition of college life and a credit to the college.

3. On the other hand, the seniors are even more likely to neglect preparation for their exams in favor of other graduation activities and so fail to do themselves justice in the blue-books, wasting the time and effort of themselves and of the professors.

4. After a student has attended a college for four years, the authorities should certainly have a better than fair idea of what grade of work he can do without the hastily scribbled booklet to convince them.

5. Since the tendency among the more progressive colleges today is toward less emphasis on examinations as criteria, these last minute affairs should be the first to go.

So much for the reasons against senior finals. Now to leap back to

The Snooper

By ANNE ONYMOUS

Is there anything in this Duke-Filbert affair we've been hearing about lately?

Bob Work did some neat casting of "twosomes" for "Family Portrait", didn't he?

Women are supposed to like a little crudity in men, but a little goes a long way!—Are you listening, Lubin?

Why did Funk appear two Sundays in succession at a local church? Was it the sermon or that Little Girl Who Wasn't There?

We hear that Bob's Starr is shining over Penn State.

Meadowbrook may have its Gene Krupa, but Albright has its Dundore!

Congratulations to Margaret Reed—she's been accepted at Med. School, you know.

Fern is looking rather lone and lorn these days. What's the matter, did your line break?

Welcome to Albright — Tom Matson.

Victor Katen—The man who comes around (to class late!!)

Wake up Don, Galinas' theme song isn't "Faithful Forever"!!

Vogt and Spangler are keeping Myrtle stepping these days.

We're glad that Jerry is really trying for something worth while this time.

More congratulations—to Ruth Gottlieb. If you want to be blinded, take a look at her left hand.

Have you noticed the "Ray" of light in Ginny's eye every time a certain Kappa goes by?

Emerson isn't taking any chances—he's already asked Evelyn to his frat dance.

Gerry seems to be traveling many "Rhodes" to romance.

We present Virginia Black as an aided attraction to the Girls' Dorm.

We do hope, Wiggy, that the job you're so sure of is coaching football instead of teaching English!

Hearts containing the picture of some notable persons were pinned on each one's back. After displaying his back to the group, each one asked questions at the microphone in order to learn the identity of the picture. Stuffed with delicacies and hoping that the night would not be their doom, all went home reluctantly.

Faculty Attends Conference

President Dr. Harry Masters left last evening for St. Louis to attend the American Educational Research Association Session. He will return March 1.

Lectures At Conference

Prof. John C. Evans attended the Eastern Area Mid-Winter Industrial Conference in Reading, February 17 and 18. He lectured to one of the work groups on "Harmony in Industry." The theme of the conference was "The Industrial Girl; Her Job and Her World."

Named Council Member

Dr. Milton Hamilton was elected to membership on the Board of Councilors of the Historical Society of Berks County. He was also selected as one of a sub-committee to choose a curator.

Gingrich To Speak

Dr. Wilbur Gingrich will speak this Sunday at A. A. Carmitchel's Church in Pensbrook, Pa. It will be Educational Day there.

Albright Students Conduct Services

Ebenezer Evangelical Church will have its service conducted by the pre-ministerial students of Albright College on Sunday evening.

The service, at 7:30 o'clock, will feature a talk by Chester Strohl, a seminary junior and an alumnus of the college. Music will be presented by the student male chorus. Paul H. Ackert will play a flute solo, accompanied by Janet Kitzmiller. Other participants include Dean Allen, Luke Rau, Rollin Reiner, and Elder Spangler.

Ackert Conducts Service

Last Sunday Paul Ackert spoke to the Bible Class on "Three Emphases of Lent—Credo, Ethic, and Dynamic." Art McKay was leader, and Roy Bloom played the organ. This week Louise Eastland is the leader.

Dr. Hamilton IRC Members To Sit At Round Table

Dr. Milton Hamilton and several I. R. C. members will represent Albright at the first Round Table on International Affairs Saturday, March 2, 10:15 a. m. to 8 p. m., sponsored by the Philadelphia Branch of the Foreign Policy Association and Lehigh University, Bethlehem. About thirty-five Pennsylvania and New Jersey colleges are sending delegates.

Mrs. Vera Micheles Dean, director of the research department of Foreign Policy Association (a non-partisan organization started in 1919) will discuss "Why Europe Went to War." In the afternoon James Frederick Green, F. Wilhelm Soltman, member of the German Reichstag 1920-33, and a speaker from a Scandinavian country will discuss the "Problems of Belligerents and Neutrals."

At the dinner meeting The Countess of Listowel, London correspondent for two leading Hungarian newspapers, will discuss "War and Democracy."

Two round table sessions, led by experts on international affairs, at 11:45 and 3:15 will enable students to exchange their views on current problems. There will also be a screen showing of films on the European crisis 5:00 to 5:30.

Down Melody Lane

By Seymour Mendelsohn

What is the purpose of this column? I would not be surprised if you had already asked this question. Therefore, this query will be answered so as to make clear the aims and objectives of these articles.

To create a greater interest in music, to foster musical activities, to acquaint students with the scope of the musical art, to discuss questions relative to music, and to broaden an understanding and appreciation of good music—these are the aims of your author through the medium of this column.

In my opinion (which I have often found does not amount to much), the necessity of a musical feature is justified in that much plays an important part in our life and that many of us lack an appreciation of it. We recognize music but seldom do we attach any value to it in relation to increased pleasure and enjoyment. The violinist in the orchestra, the conductor with the baton, the music-lovers on the first floor, the students up in the "peanut" gallery—all give some relative value to music. The important fact is that they value music for what it contributes to their life.

A person must understand music in order to get the maximum enjoyment from hearing it. Probably some students do not care for classical and symphonic music. Perhaps, they are interested in swing and hot jazz (and the hotter the better). A symphony concert bores them. A recital is on the taboo list. Beautiful operas have no appeal to them. No doubt when they heard that the chamber music trio was to appear in chapel, they wanted to cut. They didn't because they wanted to save their cuts for the springtime.

There is a group that can not understand how any one can listen to non-jazz music. To them, an overture or concerto is just a jumble of notes. There is no steady, bass rhythm, no hot trumpets, no sax team, and (would you believe it?) no Gene Krupa. The problem of this group is one of adjustment and concentration. The listener must acquire the technique of translating the jumble of notes into an intelligible order. From the discord there will come harmony and melody, all woven into a beautiful pattern of musical majesty.

With this new understanding, there will come a deeper sense of enjoyment. Good music will now bring the listener a new sensation—a sensation never before experienced, a sensation which cannot be acquired in any other way. The resultant feeling is unexplainable. Words cannot express the experiences gained from playing and hearing the best music that the world has to offer. Music has always been with us, but we, too often, have not been in time with the music!

Debaters Meet Virginia Union

The Albright debating squad will be host to Virginia Union University in the chapel today at 4:30 p. m. William Bottonari and Donald Blackmore will uphold the affirmative side of the question, Resolved, That the basic blame for the present European war rests with the Allied Powers.

College athletic officials expect the all-time basketball attendance record to be shattered tomorrow night when Albright and Franklin and Marshall clash on the spacious Northwest court. The Lancaster institution's large local following which includes alumni, (Prof. Henry Buckwalter and even Coach Neil Harris) students and friendly supporters, are expected to fill the gymnasium for the titanic struggle.

Johnny DeBold's six points against Muhlenberg, Wednesday night, in a sensational overtime tilt won by Franklin and Marshall, 44-41, gave the giant pivot-man eighth place in the league scoring with 71 markers. This total is just 3 points behind Bill McKinney, Albright's top man, who has 74 points to his credit in the same amount of games, eight. Hal Wagner, F. and M.'s flashy forward, who racked up 16 counters in Wednesday's game, jumped into 10th place in league scoring with 66 points thus dropping Henry Czaikoski into 12th position with his 62 markers.

On Monday night, the Lions travel to Kutztown to engage the Teachers in a postponed game. The Red and White was victorious in the initial contest 41-30 on the Northwest court on December 16.

A vital league contest takes place tomorrow night at Gettysburg when Ursinus and Gettysburg tangle for the league leadership. The two teams are currently tied for the top rung with 6 wins and 3 defeats. Bob Keehn, flashy little Ursinus guard, now second in league scoring with 100 points, is expected to lead his experienced team to victory over the Bullets. The Hashagenmen have yet to be defeated in a league game on their home court.

If Big Bill McKinney continues his current pace in league contest, he will be mighty dangerous in Saturday's contest with Franklin and Marshall. The Reading giant has scored 39 points in the last league games to skyrocket himself into the league scoring championship. Even though Bill was ejected early in the last quarter of the Ursinus tiff, he was high man for the Lions by dropping 11 markers through the hoop.

Kappa's Crash Win Column With 46-17 Conquest

Kappa hoopsters, defending champions finally broke into the win column of Inter-Frat loop Wednesday by trouncing the Theology dorm 46-17. The game, closely played during the first half, became a rout in the last quarter, during which the Kappas racked up about twenty points. Rozanski and Gigli were high scorers for the Kappas with thirteen points apiece, while Salup was the Theolog point-getter with nine chalk marks.

The Zeta-Pi Tau game boosted the Zetas a step nearer the play-offs. Their 46-23 win over the Pi Taus places them in a first-place tie with the A. P. O.'s. Frank Bertino surprised by registering fifteen points to top-scoring Zeta. "Bones" Boyer was the leading Pi Tau threat with ten tallies.

our usual conservative position in time to hear the faculty saying, "But we must have final exams. Otherwise the seniors will loaf through the whole last semester." There are plenty of ways to keep seniors, or any other students, from loafing.

However, as long as the marking system, a system which many educators agree is obsolete and completely inadequate, continues, we must have some sort of examination to use as a measuring stick. And that marking system will have to continue until an adequate substitute is found, an event which seems to be still far in the future. So we've been talking all this time, and we're back at the beginning again. Or are we? We should like to offer at this time a substitute for senior finals, perhaps eventually for all finals. Some of the faculty have already put it into use. We are referring to the idea of having periodical examinations throughout a course, thorough tests on all units at fairly regular intervals. Under this system, the final exam is nothing more than a test on the last unit. If there is careful correlation between the units, there will be no need for a general view of the course at the end.

All this has been anti-final and from a senior's viewpoint. Realizing that there are two or more sides to every discussion, we hereby extend an invitation to anyone who has other views on the subject to put them on paper and send them in to us.

The Lions Den

By ALAN R. DUKE

Have you ever stopped to think how little interest is shown in winter sports on the Albright campus? By "winter sports" I mean ice skating, skiing and all other sports which depend on the amount of ice and snow we have. This winter, with its long cold spells, has been a banner season for skating, but how many students took advantage of the many facilities for indulging in the sport of the silver blades? In Reading and vicinity there are a number of artificial and natural ponds which were frozen to a depth of many inches and it was even possible to skate on the rivers. These opportunities enticed few, if any, of the students to renew their skill on skates.

There was less chance for skiing than there was for skating this winter; but even so, the sight of gently falling snow flakes did not arouse a restless feeling in many students at Albright. True, a few responded to the call and broke out the "hickories" for a few "schusses" but as far as we know, this happened but once during the winter; hence we offer a salute to the girl and fellow who were pioneers in the field.

We don't even have the good old-fashioned snowball fights we used to have two or three years ago. There was a time when the members of every dorm on the campus indulged in wonderful "battle royals" which resulted in fun for all. These contests seem to have "gone with the wind" and all that is seen now is an occasional very lonely and disinterested snowball falling on the head of an equally disinterested student.

The winter sports are certainly inexpensive pastimes. The initial cost of one's equipment is the only investment necessary, since nature provides the rest.

It is rather late in the winter to attempt to restore the romance of skating, skiing, etc., but it can be done in the future by having certain groups on the campus sponsor skating parties, snow parties and other affairs that take advantage of nature's winter gifts. When it is possible to make good use of the snow and ice, they become less of a bother and a hindrance and more of a blessing.

Valley Trims Lionesses 27-21

The Albright Girls' Basketball team entertained the Lebanon Valley Girls at dinner, Tuesday evening, and then were defeated, 27-21 on the basketball court by their guests in a hard-fought game.

Margaret Savidge was high scorer for Albright with four field goals and four fouls for a total of twelve points. Miss Saylor of the visitors was high with five field goals and one foul shot for a total of eleven points.

The line-up:

ALBRIGHT	LEBANON VALLEY
Savidge	F. Saylor
Hain	F. Herr
Levan	F. Wise
Sippel	G. Geyer
Geib	G. Reath
Hastings	G. Shotts
Whitehead	G.

Lancaster Squad Favored To Repeat 46-29 Triumph

A record-breaking crowd is expected Saturday night at Northwest when the cellar dwelling Albright Lions challenge the popular Franklin and Marshall Diplomats in a league contest. A victory for the Dips would give them undisputed possession of second place in the Eastern Pennsylvania Collegiate Basketball League. The preliminary features a clash between Albright's slick freshman congregation seeking their seventh straight win, and the Franklin and Marshall first-year men.

The Lancaster school is favored to repeat their 46-29 triumph over the Harrismen, who dropped a tough 39-34 decision to the Ursinus Bears last Saturday night. Big Bill McKinney led the locals with 11 counters, which placed him in a sixth place tie in league scoring with 74 markers in eight games.

The Diplomats are at the crossroads of the current campaign. A victory over the unpredictable Red and White will enable them to take runner-up spot in the league and afford them a chance to slip into a first-place tie with Bucknell. A defeat will drop them a full game behind the league leader and practically kill their chances of capturing the league won by Gettysburg last season.

Coach Neil Harris has his charges primed to stop the high-scoring Johnny DeBold, former Reading High and Regar star, who has given every club in the circuit much trouble. In the initial clash at Lancaster, on January 9, the big junior center rolled up 17 points to outscore his opponent, the Bill McKinney, who had but 4 counters. The Albright megalomaniac however, promises a different story tomorrow as Blondie Bill has steadily improved with each succeeding game and is now ready to match the experienced DeBold. If McKinney fails to find the range, Henry Czaikoski and Pat Petrucka will take charge of the offensive. Zeb came through with 12 counters in the first struggle and will be depended upon to duplicate as the husky forward seems to show his best in Franklin and Marshall games. Captain Jake Hydock and Ray McCrann round out the starting combination which has remained in tact nearly all season.

The fast stepping yearlings, who are still giving the coaches of opposition teams plenty of headaches with their sensational playing, are expected to romp to an easy victory over the weak F. and M. frosh team in the preliminary. The Lion babes, after a 48-40 victory over the Ursinus Cubs, have found the Lancaster freshmen their easiest victims this year.

The probable lineups:

ALBRIGHT	F. and M.
Czaikoski	F. Wagner
Petrucka	F. Emerson
McKinney	C. DeBold
McCrann	G. Hamscher
Hydock	G. Fox

its first publication in 1904, in the form of a monthly magazine called The Narrator. This continued until 1923, when Schuylkill Seminary became Schuylkill College. The result of this was the Schuylkill News, and the name was changed to The Albrightian. So ends the history of the Albrightian, dated 1931.

Since that time the Albrightian has undergone several changes in size and in frequency of publication, but its name has remained the same. For many years it was a four-column paper, then it had six columns, then five columns. During the greater part of the last ten years it was a bi-weekly publication. This year it is back to its former state of a four-column paper published weekly.
